Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity Is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative Tonic

MR. O. P. MILLER.

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily-digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan, and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative-tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. O. P. Miller, Baroda, Mich., who writes: "I am 80 years old and have been constipated for many years. Since receiving your sample bottle I have procured two 50c bottles and find that it is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for it to the very letter. I can not recommend it too highly."

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty-cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits, they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Miss Ruby: An easily applied lotion that will clear your skin of sallowness can be made for a few cents by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint of hot water (or witch-hazel) and adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. It will whiten and beautify your skin and do away with that "muddy" look. It is better than face powder, as it does not show on the skin and will not rub off easily. The spurmax lotion will give to any oily skin a pinkish appearance. It is fine for pimples, cold sores, freckles and as a protection to the face against harsh winds.

Frances: Your pimply complexion and loss of energy are due to lack of exercise and eating too much solid food. You need a system-tonic and blood purifier. Try this. Dissolve an ounce of lifer. Try this. Dissolve an ounce of kardene in a half-pint of alcohol (not whiskey), adding one-half cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and in a short time you will feel like a new person, for it makes rich, red blood, fills you with energy and puts color and the look of health into your face.

Naomi: I have often warned against soap for shampooing. The "free" alkali in soap is injurious to the hair and, in time, causes it to split at the ends. A really good shampoo is simply made at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. This shampoo lathers abundantly, removes all dandruff and excess oil and leaves your hair soft and fluffy. It dries quickly and makes you imagine you have twice as much hair as you ever had before. After shampooing, an application of a quinzoin hair-tonic (see answer to Mrs. G.) will prove very invigorating to your scalp.

Kate: Yes, you can reduce your weight without heavy exercises and dieting. The following formula has worked where other remedies have failed. Put four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints hot water. When cold, strain out the sediment and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. It is a harmless remedy and leaves the flesh firm and the skin free from flabbiness.

Mrs. T.: You cannot afford to neglect your eyes, as so many do. If you want clear, beautiful eyes that will be much admired, get an ounce of crystos at any drug store and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put two or three drops of this tonic in each eye daily. It will strengthen your weak, tired eyes and make them strong, healthy, sparkling and beautiful.

Mrs. G.: Your hair needs a good, stimulating quinine tonic. Get one-half pint alcohol (not whiskey) and one ounce quinzoin and mix it with one-half pint water and you will have a better tonic than any of those ready-prepared tonics you have bought. Twice a week apply this tonic to the scalp, rubbing it in gently and you will find it does wonders for your lifeless, falling hair by curing dandruff and putting your scalp into a healthy condition. This tonic softens the hair, making it silky and lustrous. Keep the scalp clean by frequent canthrox shampoos, and you will have no further trouble.

Stella: Get from your druggist a small, original package of delatone and with water mix enough into a paste to cover the hairs not wanted. Apply and in two or three minutes remove and wash the skin. Seldom is it necessary to use the second application of delatone to remove even a stubborn growth of hair. This is painless and leaves the skin soft and smooth.

C. M. B.: Apply pyroxin to eyebrows with forefinger a few times each week and they will grow thick and lustrous. Short, straight eyelashes will grow long and curly merely by applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Use caution and don't get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

WALTER WILLOUGHBY arrived here late yesterday afternoon and last evening took a hard workout at the Catholic Athletic club. The athlete that the town of Mellen, Wis., is willing to go broke backing, and this goes also for the many little villages down in that part of the state, is supremely confident that he is going to take the measure of Mike Yokel, truly one of the greatest grapplers produced since the palmy days of Dan McLeod and Ed Adamson.

E. J. Gilloughly, one of the prominent lumbermen of the little Wisconsin village, yesterday over the long distance telephone declared that Willoughby is in the best condition of his career.

"What Walter did to Tommy Russell Saturday evening was quite sufficient to convince us of his wonderful condition," declared the Mellenite. "He tore at Russell and took the heart out of him in the first five minutes of wrestling. Willoughby could have beaten the Minneapolis heavyweight after the first five minutes of wrestling.

"Say for me and the people of Mellen that if Yokel defeats Willoughby we will take off our hats to him and declare the Salt Lake City man the greatest wrestler of his weight in the world. Our man is absolutely right and the weight, Walter declares, just suits him. Mellen believes that it has the greatest middleweight wrestler in the world, and in the event Mike Yokel can convince us otherwise we will take the defeat like good sports."

Willoughby looks in the finest of condition. The tall and lithe Wisconsin athlete has not a superfluous pound on his frame. His eyes fairly snap and his cheeks have the glow of health. The Badger has little to say, but he is confident of winning, and this, too, after realizing that he is going against one of the real demons of the mat game, the first middleweight in the world to pin the shoulders of Henry Gehring to the canvas.

AFTER hearing some of the fighters in the all-star combination inform him that he was all the desert, after going through the disheartening act of losing the soft money he might have made by the defeat of Bombardier Wells, Luther McCarty has come to the conclusion that he wants to fight, and this badly.

Several contests have been signed up for the man generally looked upon as the heavyweight champion of the world. Jim Flynn should be like finding it over the six round route, and Frank Moran shouldn't give the big fellow a great deal of trouble. That brings us up to the doorstep of Tommy Burns.

Time there was, which is a poetical quotation containing grave truth at the present juncture, when this stubby Canuck might have been the fly in the ointment of Luther McCarty. Whether one can combine the business of running a haberdashery store and keeping his hand in the running of the strenuous ring game, is a question that the fracas with Tommy may serve to answer better than some of the scribes care to attempt at the present time.

The lute of Luther promises to be ample after the gate has been counted in the forthcoming quarrels, and when he has completed the barnstorming business there may be some real opponent in sight for the man who has played the role of usurper to the dying hopes of the incarcerated cinder.

WILLOUGHBY IS IN GREAT SHAPE

Mellen Wrestler Right on Edge for Battle With the Bear-Like Mike Yokel---Mayor McCuen Asked to Introduce the Wrestlers.

Mayor J. A. McCuen will be asked to introduce Mike Yokel, world's champion middleweight champion, and Walter Willoughby to the public on Friday evening at the Duluth Auditorium when these two great athletes prepare for what is generally believed is to prove the greatest wrestling contest ever held in the city of Duluth or in the Northwest.

Mayor Flynn of Mellen as well as most of the citizens of that thriving little city are expected up to this contest, and it occurred to the promoters that it would be entirely in keeping with the importance of the occasion to have the genial doctor introduce two of the most famous wrestlers in the world.

Immediately upon his arrival here Willoughby requested that wrestlers be provided so that he could go to work. Last evening he worked with Petroff, the stocky Bulgarian wrestler of Duluth, who is rapidly becoming known as one of the toughest middleweights in the business, and Carl Hanson, the Terrible Swede.

Taller and more slender than his mighty opponent of next Friday evening, Willoughby is a panther in action. He moved with the agility of a big cat and withal he possesses a wiry strength in his cleancut physique that is wonderful and which accounts for the wonderful mat record established by the Mellen man.

The man who lost the world's championship to Henry Gehring a year and a half ago after one of the greatest matches ever wrestled in the Forest City, is not as heavy through the shoulders or body as Yokel, the bear. In fact, the contest promises to be a battle between a bear and a panther.

His physique, built along beautiful lines, indicating immense speed along with sinewy strength and reserve power, Willoughby looks and acts in every detail the great athlete that his illustrious record on the pad proves him to be.

If a man was ever in earnest, it is this same Willoughby. For the past eighteen months the regaining of the title he formedly held has been a mania with him. Willoughby has tried every way possible to secure a return match with Gehring and has failed. No inducements could bring the Cleveland man to the point of consent.

Then the Mellen man turned his efforts in the direction of Yokel. Earlier in the season Willoughby put his case in the hands of the Duluth promoters and pleaded with them to do their utmost to bring about a contest. Therefore the match of next Friday evening is the fruit of months of labor upon the part of Willoughby and a season's negotiation upon the part of the officials of the Greater Duluth Athletic club.

"I am well within the weight making at the present time," said Willoughby at the St. Louis last evening. "My $200 forfeit for coming on the mat at 162 is ready and just as soon as a similar forfeit is posted for Yokel my money will go into the hands of the man selected as stakeholder. It was Yokel who first made the suggestion regarding the posting of forfeit for weight and I shall insist that he abide by the same conditions that he has suggested for me."

According to the announcement from Tom Scanlon, Yokel, the famous silent Mike from the Jackson Hole country, will reach here tomorrow. Scanlon says the postmaster is in the condition of his life. Yokel has wrestled in three contests since he wrestled Miller here, his latest victory being over Turner at Salt Lake City, Friday evening, the bear cat of the Rocky mountains winning the contest in straight falls.

According to some authorities Mike Yokel has never been put on his back by any man except Frank A. Gotch. According to the story Gotch downed the silent one in an exhibition match and holds the honor of being the first and only man to accomplish the trick.

Yokel wrestled two three-hour contests with Henry Gehring before he accomplished the downfall of the great Cleveland mat star. Duluth fans well remember the recent victory over Gehring, as it occurred just before Yokel started across the continent to meet Walter Miller here.

Despite the wonderful reputation of the Salt Lake City man, Willoughby maintains that he will prove the master of the Mormon state inhabitant and in this opinion he is upheld by hundreds of followers down through the Mellen district.

SWIMMING MEET PROVES A SUCCESS

First of Y. M. C. A. Athletic Contests Is Staged at Association Gym.

The first of a series of three athletic events was held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening when the annual swimming events were pulled off in the large pool of the association gymnasium.

Thomas Hoover was the winner of the meet with a point record of 84. Voss came second with 75.7, while Thomas has 75.1 points to his credit. Medals were awarded to the winners of the first three prize winners in the competition.

The 20-yard swim, the 20-yard back stroke, plunge for distance, 40-yard breast stroke, under water swim for distance, fancy diving and 100-yard swim were the events of the program.

The indoor track and field sports will be on the cards for tomorrow evening.

WALTER MILLER BACK.

Walter Miller returned last evening from St. Paul, where he showed the citizens of the Saintly City some real wrestling through the quick and decisive defeat of George Whipps.

The little wrestler has the entertainment at the Catholic Athletic club in charge and will line up all the large list of athletes who are to appear on the program. The entertainment is to raise funds for the purchase of equipment of the club gymnasium and some of the most prominent athletes of Duluth have volunteered their services.

The program is to be pulled off in the gymnasium of the Catholic club gymnasium in the Cathedral school on Thursday evening.

BASEBALL RESULTS

At Charlottesville, Va.—Holy Cross, 4; University of Virginia, 1.

At Louisville, Ky.—Philadelphia Americans, 4; Louisville, 0, six innings.

At Washington, D. C.—Princeton, 4; Georgetown, 0.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 25.—Home runs by Yerkes and Henriksen in the second inning of yesterday's game gave Boston 5 runs and a victory over Pittsburg, of the National league. Score, 7 to 4.

YOKEL BEATS TURNER.

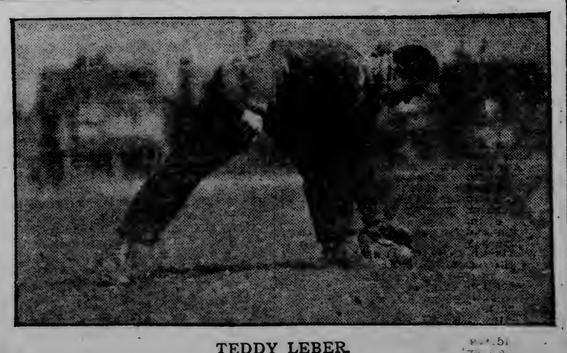
Salt Lake City, Utah, March 25.—Mike Yokel is claiming the middleweight championship of the world for the wrestling mat, as a result of defeating Joe Turner of Washington, D. C., in two straight falls at the Salt Lake theater, last Friday night. Followers of the game declare that the Mormon City has never witnessed a more closely contested match than the one which Turner and Yokel engaged in.

It is the unanimous opinion here that Turner is the cleverest man who ever faced Yokel, not excepting Gehring or any other who has shown here. The first fall came after fifty-five minutes of hard work, and the second down required but six minutes. It was evident that Turner was affected by the high altitude, for after forty-five minutes of wrestling the Washingtonian seemed almost helpless. Forty-five minutes is considered an extremely long time for an athlete unused to the high climate to stick to the mat, and for his endurance Turner made a lasting impression on the Western fans.

NEW YORKERS WILL NOT GIVE LIPTON CHANCE.

New York, March 25.—The New York Yacht club is unwilling to meet Sir Thomas Lipton in a match for the America's cup so long as Sir Thomas insists on limiting the size of the defending yacht to that of the challenger. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Secretary Cormack of the club.



STAFF OF UMPIRES IS NOW COMPLETE.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—William Carney, a pitcher for the Minneapolis baseball team of the American association way back in the championship days of 1896, last night signed a contract to umpire in the new Northern league. The umpiring staff of the new league is complete now, President George Barton announced this morning, with the following members: Claude Elliott, "Sharkey" Nelson, Jack Dunleavy and Carney.

RUBE WADDELL TO PLAY IN THE NORTHERN LEAGUE

Cantillon Announces That Famous Southpaw Will Play in Smaller Circuit.

Jack Schmirler to Play With Virginia; Training Grounds Have Been Selected.

Joe Cantillon, manager of the Minneapolis baseball team, has definitely announced that Rube Waddell is coming to the Northern league the present season.

One of the greatest pitchers who ever toed the rubber and perhaps the greatest southpaw in the history of the game, this eccentric character still retains much of the effectiveness that made him the peer of all the portside flingers in the two majors during the years the rube was under the guiding hand of Connie Mack.

Joe Cantillon is one of the shrewdest men in baseball and this fact is borne out by his decision to send the reuben to the Northern league. There is not the least doubt in the world but that Waddell will prove the greatest attraction that could possibly be secured for the new organization.

Around the American association the great southpaw has been the greatest box office asset of any of the players in the Chivington circuit. It is a conservative estimate to freely predict that during the time the rube is advertised to pitch that the attendance at all of the parks around the new circuit will be increased by hundreds over the normal attendance.

Schmirler Will Sign.

Jack Schmirler, the former twirler of the White Sox team of Duluth and who secured a trial with the Comiskey White Sox several years ago, going up from the local team, will be given a trial with the Virginia team.

Jack announced today that he had virtually agreed to the terms of Spike Shannon and that he would sign the papers within the next few days.

"The old souper feels better this year than it has for a number of seasons," said the big fellow. "I wouldn't take a chance, for I have a good job at the present time, were it not for the fact that I feel that I am going to have a great year. Last season the old whip was dead and there was no action in it. I have tried my arm as far as one can determine with indoor exercise, and it feels very good. I think that I am due for a great year."

It was rumored around the baseball office yesterday that Hargrove and Bob Worman would not be with the team during the present season. While it is understood that both of these players have signed contracts, it is also a rumored fact that the two veterans are to figure in trades.

As far as is known at the present time the White Sox are to start the training season at the Toledo American association grounds, as was announced in The Herald yesterday. The Winnipeg Maroons are to prepare at Excelsior Springs, Mo., the same spot where the St. Paul team of the American association is collecting the effervescent stuff for summer use.

According to one of those rumor things regarding which there is exceeding gossip and occasional scandal, the Grand Forks team, under the direction of Sam Foster, is to prepare pennantwards at Red Wing, this state, where naughty little boys are chastened and sometimes, alas, chased.

Minneapolis is to utilize its own concrete-inclosed ball yard for the early spring knot untying, according to the statement issued from thence yesterday, and it may be taken for granted that the little Saints will do their training at a spot not so many miles from the city.

Superior is to gambol merrily and recover the trusty batting eye at Sterling, Ill., according to rumor that was unleashed earlier in the year. If Will Sommer's Southern California real estate deals have not turned out disastrously it is popularly supposed that this program will be gone through with.

Winona has not definitely decided upon the locale of the spot where the accumulated ails of winter will be battled with, and when his royal spikelets, Shannon, was in our fair little city he had not the remotest idea where the grooming of the Virginia team would be carried on.

In connection with the signing of players it might be of passing interest to state that Secretary J. H. Farrell of the League of Professional Baseball clubs has announced the expulsion of an entire league, something quite without precedent, and by this sort of fell swoop act 100 players of more or less promise have been thrown upon the market in the independent role of little free agents. Managers, please notice.

ALEC SMITH NOT COMING TO THE NORTHLAND CLUB

Alec Smith is not to be the golf instructor of the Northland Country club. This news came today via the underground wireless by way of Palm Beach. The famous professional player is going back to one of the Eastern clubs, his contract having been renewed, and thus is dispelled the last lingering doubt as to whether one of the greatest players in the world was coming htre to take charge of the Duluth club.

It is generally believed that Willie Leith, one of the most promising young professionals in the country today, will be back as the instructor of the Northland club. During his employment here the young player has established an enviable record both as a player and as a golf instructor.

T. F. Cole and several of the most prominent of the Duluth golf players are in various parts of the Southland at the present time. It was Mr. Cole who carried on the negotiations with Alex Smith, the president of the Northland club making every possible effort to land him.

MICHIGAN WOULD FORM A COLLEGIATE BIG 10

Chicago, March 25.—That the University of Michigan's first step toward readmission to the Western conference taken by the Wolverine athletic board Saturday will result in the formation of a "Big Ten" before the end of this year was the prophecy made yesterday by John D. Hibbard, Chicago alumni member of the board, on his return from Ann Arbor.

The "grad" explained in detail the Wolverine motives in asking the regents to grant Michigan faculty control of athletics in order to prepare the way for conference membership and in demanding the repeal of the Big Nine boycott against Michigan in the matter of dates. He showed that the latter request was not superfluous, as it had seemed to outsiders, since Michigan wants the boycott repealed whether or not it returns to the conference.

Penty of Work.

The Michigan position, as outlined by the alumnus, will furnish the conference experts with plenty of mental labor. The Big Nine professors will be called upon to consider the moral standing of a boycott and also to ruminate upon what does and what does not constitute complete faculty control of athletics. They will not have to start defining, however, until the board's recommendations have been considered by the Michigan regents.

"The conference rule against having athletic relations with Michigan after it left the Big Nine has always been distasteful to us," said Mr. Hibbard. "We went on record against it because we disapprove of it, in or out of the conference. In my opinion, it is un-American and cannot be defended.

"In my opinion the conference boycotted Michigan as a matter of self-preservation, to prevent us from playing football with Minnesota and baseball with Illinois, for instance. The conference could not have continued without it. Of course, if we return to the conference, as I think we shall, the recommendation will not cut any figure. Nevertheless, we wished to express our opinion concerning it.

"Now there are many 'ifs' connected with Michigan's situation. In the first place, all depends on what the regents do with our recommendations. The board has requested the regents to reorganize the board so as to give Michigan faculty control of athletics. What constitutes faculty control is a mooted point. The board has recommended that it be brought about by giving the faculty members a voting majority and giving the veto power to President Hutchins.

"The Michigan board at present consists of three students, three alumni, four faculty members and the athletic director. We did not advise the regents how to bring about a voting majority of faculty members, but I suppose it would mean increasing the number of faculty men. That is, nothing was said as to removing any of the other members of the board.

Question of Control.

"If this is done, and if President Hutchins says that in his opinion this constitutes faculty control of athletics, I have no doubt but that the conference members will agree with him. Certainly if I had a voting majority on a board of directors in a business proposition, I should feel that I was in control.

"The fact is that no two of the conference boards are alike. The regents of any state university, or the persons in the same capacity, should act in athletic matters at any time of they wished to do so. It would be within their rights to have as much control as the regents have at Michigan. This applies to Minnesota and Illinois and any of the other states institutions.

MIDDLEWEIGHTS FIGHT TEN ROUNDS TO DRAW.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25.—Bob Moha of Milwaukee and Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, fought a fast and furious ten-round draw here last night. They weighed in at 160 pounds.

Bob proved the better on infighting and short jabs while Eddie was superior on long range fighting and scored by far the largest number of clean blows. Both men went at each other hammer and tongs. Moha boring in at all times, but was frequently driven back when McGoorty let loose a series of vicious jabs to the jaw.

McGoorty had the better of the battle in the early rounds, but he was unable to fight his best because of the rushing and covering on the part of the Milwaukee man.

Beer Is The Greatest Beverage Made By Man

WHY IS IT that beer remains the world's greatest manufactured beverage in spite of the endeavors of science and vast appropriations of money to produce "soft" and other drinks to take its place? There is only one reason—Beer is the purest, most healthful and satisfying beverage for all occasions.

Fitger's Beer

30 Years the Choice.

The real goodness of beer is demonstrated in Fitger's. It combines all the valuable qualities of other good beers with a peculiarly delicious flavor produced only by the Fitger process. Try a case in your home. That's the best test.

OLD COUNCIL WILL WIND UP THINGS

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old village council hold its last meeting tonight with Mayor Weirick presiding. It is expected a lot of routine business will be cleared up and affairs placed in shape for the new council, which will take hold April 1.

An important matter that may be decided tonight will be the widening of First avenue, a matter that has been agitated for a long time. The thoroughfare has long needed bettering and the plan is to get the consent of the mining companies and property owners to make the improvements.

"Laying" for Mayor-Elect.

It is said that a number of aspirants for office are literally "laying" for Mayor-Elect Power, who is recuperating at West Baden, Ind., but is expected home the latter part of the week. It is said that candidates for different jobs have gone as far as Chicago to intercept him on his return and lay their claims before him. A large delegation is expected to meet him at Duluth and accompany him home. So far as known he has told no one whom he will appoint chief of police, fire chief or to any of the other jobs if he contemplates making any changes.

HIBBING YOUNG MATRON CLAIMED

Mrs. Alec Janiski Dies Suddenly Following an Operation.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stricken with appendicitis last Thursday, taken to a local hospital and operated on, Mrs. Alec Janiski, 204 Sommers street, wife of a blacksmith at the Oliver Iron Mining company's local shops, died about 10 o'clock last night shortly after the operation was performed. Mrs. Janiski was 28 years old and besides her husband, is survived by four children, the oldest being 9. She was a native of Wakefield, Mich., where the body will be taken for burial following funeral services here. She was a very popular young matron and her death caused a great shock.

BIWABIK WATER CHARGE REBATED

Mining Company Official Gives Village Council Some Good News.

Hibbing, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. S. Lutes, superintendent of the Biwabik mine, made a welcome announcement to the village council last night when he informed that body that the company would rebate the charge for village water of $100 for water furnished the village this month. This was done because during last month the supply was not always available because of improvements being made in the service and there was some complaint against paying the claim. The council, besides hearing Mr. Lutes, transacted routine business, allowing bills, etc.

SCHOOLS REOPEN.

Tower-Soudan Schools Are Again Giving Instruction.

Tower, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Tower-Soudan public schools reopened Monday for the spring term. The usual teaching force were all on hand, consequently there were no vacancies to be arranged for. The enrollment at the Tower buildings is about 325, and the same at the Soudan buildings. The schools are doing good work under the superintendency of Prof. B. F. McComb.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—With all of the towns in the new Range Trolley Baseball league represented here yesterday afternoon an enthusiastic meeting of range baseball fans was held and plans set afoot for some good ball next summer. Judge Thomas F. Brady of Hibbing, an enthusiastic fan, was chosen president; E. L. Trask of Chisholm, secretary; and M. Grabowski of the Virginia Mohamis, treasurer. Dwight Booth of Hibbing, James Leighty of Chisholm and M. Grabowski of Virginia, were appointed a committee to draw up a schedule for the new league. It will be prepared at once and the season will open early in May.

TO FURNISH SITES FOR INDUSTRIES

Virginia Commercial Club Plans Encouraging Concerns to Come.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club is devising a plan for the acquirement of from one to four forties, to be owned by the club, which will be incorporated, for the purpose of guaranteeing manufacturing sites at nominal or actual cost to manufacturers who may desire or may be induced to locate here. The plan also includes the idea of furnishing building lots near the factory sites practically at cost. It is said that land is available for these purposes in the vicinity of Rainy Junction on the Canadian Northern, two miles from the downtown section of the city, in the direction of Wolf. These tracts are also on the Missabe road, which would give the very best railroad shipping facilities. Members of the club who are interested are obtaining information that will be valuable from other cities as to what they do in the way of giving inducements to factories to locate.

VIRGINIA BUS INTO THE DITCH

Upsets When It Is Heavily Loaded and Inmates Have Close Calls.

Virginia, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty passengers in Eddy's bus, most of them women, narrowly escaped serious injury last night when the vehicle was capsized in the ditch just at the top of the big hill near the Iron Range depot.

None of the passengers was sufficiently injured to be taken to the hospital so that the exact extent of the damage is not known, but it is said that three of the women were unconscious when they were picked up.

Woman Breaks Glass.

Miss Hazel Hoeft, a local sales woman, smashed her hand through the glass panel of the overturned bus and opened the door to let the other women out.

It is claimed that the bus was heavily overloaded and that several of the passengers protested before the start was made. It is said that driving too close to the edge of the road and the blinding snowstorm was the cause of the accident.

MAKI GOES TO JAIL.

Participant in Chisholm Duel Sent Up for Wife-Beating.

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Maki, a Finn living at the South end location, got a straight sixty-day sentence in the county jail yesterday for wife beating. Maki has been before the public the past year or more through having a duel with Gust Mattala, a single man, who made his headquarters at the Maki home whenever he dropped into town. About a year ago Mattala drove Maki from his own house and ever after the trouble between them continued. Several months ago a pistol duel took place at which both participants were shot and both were thrown into jail. Mattala was convicted and sent to Stillwater and Maki was acquitted.

Maki came back home and agreed to go to work and take care of his family, but things did not run smoothly at the Maki home and Saturday night last one of the special officers, patrolling quarantine beat, heard the trouble going on and entered and found that Maki had been beating his wife. Officer Charles Beek appeared against Maki.

LITTLE ONE IS FATALLY BURNED

Chisholm, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Briski, living in the Hayes & Hackett addition, who was burned to death at its home, was held here this morning, interment being in the Catholic cemetery.

The child, with its 4-year-old brother, got hold of a can of gasolene during the absence of the parents and applied matches with the result that that the younger child was burned all over its body and before help could reach was fatally burned.

Fortunately the building in which the children were playing did not catch on fire or the accident would have meant the death of both children, as they are both too young to realize the danger.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

The mercury was down to 8 deg. this morning and there were no signs of spring in the air. Neither are there any in the weather forecast, which promises snow and colder weather for tonight and tomorrow. Verily the lowly lamb will have to hustle if he is to command the exit of March.

Gray, cold weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:01 and it will set at 6:27 this evening, giving twelve hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Disturbances centered over the Ohio valley and Southwestern states caused rain or snow in the Lake region, Rocky mountains and the far West during Monday or last night. Heavy rains fell over Eastern Missouri, Ohio and Western New York. Much colder weather prevails in the Lake region, the Ohio, upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and Southwestern states. Zero temperatures occurred this morning in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. Indications favor continued cold weather in St. Louis and Duluth counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 25.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Minnesota—Local snows and colder tonight; Wednesday probably fair.

Wisconsin—Local snows tonight; colder in south portion; Wednesday cloudy.

South Dakota—Generally cloudy with local snows tonight or Wednesday; colder tonight in east portion.

North Dakota—Local snow tonight or Wednesday.

Montana—Local snows tonight or Wednesday; except fair in northeast portion.

EASTER PARTY HAS ENDING IN COURT

Ely Trio Drink Freely, One Shooting Off Gun; All Fined.

Ely, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver and the city police were instrumental in breaking up a little Easter celebration on Sunday night. A party of three had secured some liquid refreshments, and become disorderly. One did some shooting. The celebration was broken up by the appearance of the police when Joe Bruden, Matt Bruden and John Gasperlich were arrested.

When arraigned yesterday in municipal court, Matt Bruden and John Gasperlich each were fined $5 and costs, a total of $8.62 for disorderly conduct, and Joe Bruden paid a fine of $18 and costs for discharging fire arms within the city limits. Bruden admitted he carried a revolver most of the time "for company."

DUNDAS ELECTED TOWN CHAIRMAN

Biwabik Township Board Organizes for the Year's Work.

Biwabik, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new township board met in the city hall last evening and formally organized for the ensuing year. N. P. Riley and Charles Sippola, the newly elected town supervisors for terms of three and two years, respectively, and Albert Nori, the newly elected town clerk, took the oath of office and were seated. Don C. Anderson, the retiring clerk, acted for this meeting, after which he will turn over the books to Mr. Nori.

W. G. Dundas of McKinley, the holdover member, was elected chairman for the ensuing year, the new members expressing the belief that as an old member of the board Mr. Dundas would naturally make the most efficient chairman.

Dr. Bray Health Officer.

Dr. C. W. Bray was chosen health officer and the First National bank was named as the town depository. It was decided to continue holding monthly meetings the first Saturday of each month. In a general way the road improvements were discussed, but no formal decision was reached as to the work that is to be done this year.

Homes for Employes.

Buhl, Minn., March 25.—Twenty new houses for the convenience of employes will be built by the Oglebay-Norton company, operating the Woodbridge mine at the location of that name near Buhl. They will be started within a short time. All will be of modern construction. Each is located on a lot 100 by 150 feet.

BIWABIK DIPHTHERIA.

Son of Judge Salmon Latest Victim of Disease.

Biwabik, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Additional cases of diphtheria are reported. Miles, the young son of Judge and Mrs. H. H. Salmon is sick with the disease. Frank Guimont who is sick with it at the detention hospital is doing nicely. It is expected he will be out in a few days.

Biwabik Easter Ball.

Biwabik, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik Orchestra club gave an Easter Monday ball in the Finn hall last evening. The first of a series of dances to be given by the orchestra culb.

A large crowd was present. A number of out of town people being present, several driving in from the near by location.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. T. Mopson of Ely conducted services at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The Vermilion hotel served dinner Sunday to an unusually large number. The Vermilion lodge A. F. A. M. of Tower attended the Easter service at the Soudan Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning at the invitation of Rev. J. Schenck, pastor. The choir of St. James Presbyterian church of Tower was invited to take part in the musical program.

TOWER HUNTERS ARE ARRESTED

Three Pot Hunters Before Biwabik Judge, Two Getting Fines.

Biwabik, Minn., March 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George E. Wood, game warden of Hibbing, arrived here Monday from Tower with Magnus Manguson, Joe Kasky and Richard Hendrickson.

Magnus Manguson was arrested for having partridge in his possession and was poisoning the meat with strychnine and using it for bait to kill wild animals. He was brought before Judge Salmon and fined $10 and costs or fifteen days in the county jail.

Joseph Kosky was under arrest for killing deer out of season. He drew a fine of $25 and costs or sixty days in the county jail.

Rearrested For Selling Moose.

He was immediately rearrested on another warrent for selling moose meat out of season and awaits trial.

Richard Hendrickson pleaded guilty for having partridge in his possession, and is in jail here, awaiting trial.

Mr. Moore has been doing some more fine work in rounding up this gang of pot hunters who have been working in the vicinity of Tower for some time past.

Visiting at Gilbert.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 25.—Mrs. T. Flannigan and her daughter, Miss Katherine, have gone to Gilbert, Minn., on a visit to her son, Thomas Flannigan, who is in charge of the Republic Iron & Steel company's mines on the range.

CHANGE IN SYSTEM IS ADVOCATED

counties this morning reported out the Healy-Knapp county division bill, which has been delayed until reappportionment and other matters of prime interest to Northern Minnesota are out of the way. The bill now goes on general orders for early consideration. The Boyle senate bill is now on the calendar and will be voted upon by the senate this afternoon or tomorrow.

Apportionment Changes.

The house this morning passed under suspension of the rules two new bills proposed by the reapportionment committee, amending the reapportionment law passed recently. One changes the Forty-fourth and Fifty-fifth districts, according to the compromise agreement made by the senators and representatives from these districts, which agreement it was that made a conference between the two houses on the reapportionment bill unnecessary. The new bill adds Sherburne county to Anoka and Isanti counties in one district, with a senator and two representatives and leaves Mille Lacs and Kanabec counties in another senatorial district with one representative.

The other amendment rearranges several senatorial districts in the western part of the state so as to leave the counties grouped as follows: Kandiyohi and Meeker, two representatives; Swift and Big Stone, two representatives; Grant, Traverse and Stevens, three representatives. This leaves the districts as they were in the house bill.

The house temperance committee recommended for passage this morning a bill prohibiting saloons to have blinds or screens, partitions, seats or card tables.

The house killed a bill by Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin, requiring the publication of the reports of school district treasurers.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, croup, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully. A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"CASCARETS" MAKE YOU FEEL GREAT

Gently Cleanse Your Liver and Sluggish Bowels While You Sleep.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oils and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

DISASTROUS FLOODS IN OHIO AND INDIANA

V. Leas, twenty citizens of Delaware were drowned. Details are lacking because wire communications have been cut off.

LEVEE BREAKS AT COLUMBUS, O.

Residents All Warned Early and Seek Places of Safety.

Columbus, Ohio, March 25.—With a great roar the levee at the foot of Broad street broke shortly before 11 o'clock today. Several small buildings collapsed.

The police at 10:40 o'clock ordered all persons in the lowlands to leave their homes. All fire and police apparatus assisted in the work. The residents were told not to stop for clothes or valuables. No loss of life has yet been reported.

Bridges connecting the West side with the eastern portion of Columbus were swept away at State and Broad streets this afternoon. Dozens of smaller bridges already had gone out. Hundreds of men are marooned in factories on the West side and police and National Guard troops made rescues in boats where it is possible. All street car traffic was abandoned. Fifteen hundred homes have been flooded.

DAYTON OFFICIALS APPEAL FOR HELP.

Columbus, Ohio, March 25.—Adjt. Gen. Wood has received information from Dayton officials that the flood had submerged a large part of the city. An appeal is made for help. Tents and hospital supplies are being packed preparatory to being sent by special train.

An appeal for help also came from La Rue, Marion county, which is practically inundated.

The railroads at 1:40 a. m. cancelled all trains to Dayton because of flood conditions. Efforts to reach Dayton from Richmond, Ind., by automobile, interurban or train were futile.

The washing out of several bridges across the Scioto river in and near Columbus resulted in almost total paralysis of railroad traffic out of Columbus shortly after 10 o'clock today.

The West side levee has overflowed a large area in the western part of the city and hundreds of persons were driven from their homes.

DEATH TOLL TAKEN BY THE TORNADOES

Latest Figures of Dead and Injured in Various Localities.

Chicago, March 25.—Totals of the dead and injured in the track of Sunday's storm are as follows, according to reports received:

The greatest damage was in and around Omaha through which a tornado swept Sunday evening, throwing down many substantial buildings, ripping off roofs and sidings of hundreds of houses and slaying men, women and children by the score.

The storm kept its work a secret from the rest of the world for hours by breaking down all wire communication. Messengers with news stories had to go by train to Lincoln, the state capital, to give out the first definite tidings of the disaster.

In the early hours of the night, uninjured citizens worked desperately to remove persons who had been caught beneath razed buildings. The debris caught fire in many places, and many persons were painfully burned before they could be extricated from broken timbers.

No great number was killed in any one place. The wind swept along taking its toll here and there. The tornado even jumped over portions of the city in its path, swooped down again and dashed obstructions to earth. The gale left Omaha only to swoop onto towns in Iowa in the same destructive manner.

TREATY HAS PRECEDENCE

No Order of War Department Can Violate It, Says Judge.

Important Decision in Minnesota Canal & Power Company Case.

A highly important decision in which the right of the secretary of war to issue a permit authorizing the construction of a dam which would divert certain boundary waters between the United States and Canada, and in which the Webster-Ashburton treaty of 1842 is given precedence over an order of the war department, was handed down by District Judge W. A. Cant today, when he denied the Minnesota Canal & Power company the right to divert the waters which connect Basswood lake and Birch lake.

The case is one which was tried in Lake county a few months ago. The court acted on the petition of the Minnesota Canal & Power company for the right to proceed and its application for a commission to condemn what lands would necessarily have to be taken and to assess whatever damages would be sustained.

The treaty referred to prohibits diversion of the waters, and Judge Cant holds that no permit from the war department has precedence. He contends that the treaty's terms must be observed as long as the treaty is binding and that they cannot be changed except by congressional action.

The court further holds that the improvement suggested in the petition of the Minnesota Canal & Power company would interfere with the present and future navigability of the waterways in question and would deprive the citizens of both countries the rights assured them in the treaty.

The respondents in the action number about 100. Heading the list is the Fall Lake Boom company, Marian A. Spellman, the Missabe Electric company, and a number of lumber companies and other interests. At the hearing in November 1911 at Two Harbors, a brilliant array of attorneys was represented.

The case will probably be taken to the supreme court, owing to the question of treaty rights which is made an issue.

Completes His Case.
Andrew Ekola, who is plaintiff in a damage suit against the Northern Pacific railroad, now on trial in district court before Judge Ensign and a jury, rested his case this morning and the defense started putting in its evidence. The case will probably go to the jury tomorrow. Ekola claims that a brakeman, James W. Ross, invited him to ride, and that after he accepted the invitation and his host had found that no money was forthcoming, he was kicked off the train and severely injured.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— NORTHERN CONCRETING COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That, we, the undersigned, whose names are hereto subscribed, do hereby associate ourselves together and agree to be and become a corporation under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota of 1905, and the several acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and to that end and for that purpose, we do hereby agree to, adopt and sign the following Certificate of Incorporation, that is to say:

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be NORTHERN CONCRETING COMPANY.

ARTICLE II.

The general nature of the business of the corporation, and the objects and purposes for which it is formed, are and shall be as follows:

To manufacture, buy, sell, import and export, install, erect and deal in concrete material and ingredients, to manufacture concrete and to erect, construct and build any nature, kind or description of building or buildings of concrete or other materials;

To conduct and carry on the business of builders and contractors, in all its branches, for the purpose of building, erecting, altering, repairing or doing any other work in connection with any and all classes of buildings and improvements of any kind and nature, whatsoever, including the building, rebuilding, alteration, repairing or improvement of houses, factories, buildings, works or erections of every kind and description, whatsoever, including the locating, laying out and constructing of public and private roads, streets, highways, railroads, street railroads, bridges, abutments, wells, walls, arches, canals, sewers, viaducts, docks, slips, wharves, piers, coffer-dams, pile-driving, dredging, submarine work, power plants, and the grading, paving, curbing and macadamizing of streets, roads and highways, and to do other construction work of a similar character, and to furnish labor and materials in the performance of all such work; and, generally, to engage in all classes of building operations, erections and construction work, both public and private, and generally to do and perform any and all work as builders and contractors, and, with that end in view, to solicit, obtain, make, perform and carry out contracts covering the building and contracting business in all its branches and the work connected therewith;

To manufacture, buy, sell, trade and deal in all and every kind of material, product, manufactured or unmanufactured, iron, steel, wood, brick, cement, granite, stone and other products and materials, including the quarrying of stone, to buy, acquire, hold, use, employ, mortgage, convey, lease and dispose of patent rights, letters patent, processes, devices, inventions, trademarks, formulas, good will and other rights;

To purchase, lease, or otherwise acquire, hold, own, use and improve, sell and convey, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of, and generally to deal and traffic in, real and personal property of every kind and description, either within or without the state of Minnesota.

The business of the corporation is and shall be, from time to time, to do any one or more or all of the acts and things hereinbefore set forth; and, in furtherance of, and without in any particular limiting any of, its objects, purposes and powers, the corporation shall have the power to borrow moneys, and to issue bonds or other obligations therefor or in payment for any or all property purchased or acquired by it or for any other objects or purposes in or about its business, and to mortgage or pledge any or all property, which may be acquired by it, to secure any bonds or other obligations by it issued and incurred.

The principal place of transacting the business of the corporation shall be in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, but the corporation may have offices and transact business in such other states of the United States as its Board of Directors shall, from time to time, designate.

ARTICLE II.

The time of the commencement of the corporation shall be the 27th day of March, A. D. 1913, and the period of its continuance and duration shall be thirty years, and the corporation may be renewed from time to time for further periods each of thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming the corporation are as follows:

Edward J. Maney, Duluth, Minnesota.
John W. Neukom, Duluth, Minnesota.
E. A. Maney, Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of the corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of three Directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation.

The members of the Board of Directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, or at any adjournment thereof, for the period of one year and until their successors are elected and qualified.

The first Board of Directors of the corporation shall consists of Edward J. Maney, John W. Neukom and E. A. Maney, and they shall hold office until the first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation as provided in this Article and until their successors are elected and qualified.

The first meeting of the incorporators and of the Board of Directors shall be held, without any notice thereof, at 1400 Alworth Building, in Duluth, Minnesota, on the 29th day of March, 1913, at ten o'clock in the forenoon thereof.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held, without any notice thereof, at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on Tuesday, Jan. 20, 1914, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon.

Thereafter, without requirement of further notice than is hereln given, the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the third Tuesday in January in each year, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon.

The Board of Directors shall hold, without any notice thereof, its first meeting for the year immediately after the election of the Directors at said annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof. At said meeting, the Board of Directors shall elect from its own number a President and a Vice President, and shall also elect a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Board of Directors, all of whom shall constitute the officers of the corporation and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and qualified.

The offices of President and of Treasurer, or of Secretary and of Treasurer, may be held by the same person.

Any vacancies in the Board of Directors or in any of said offices may be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

The Board of Directors is invested with complete and unrestricted authority in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and is authorized to exercise for such purpose, as the general agent of the corporation, its entire corporate authority.

Until the first election of officers by the Board of Directors immediately following the first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation to be held in January, 1914, the officers of the corporation shall be as follows: Edward J. Maney shall be the President and the Treasurer; John W. Neukom shall be the Vice President, and E. A. Maney shall be the Secretary.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of the corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00), which shall be divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each. Said capital stock shall be paid in from time to time as called for by the Board of Directors, and such stock, or any part thereof, may be paid for in cash at par or by services or property of the actual value of not less than the par value of the stock so paid for.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall at any time be subject shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the undersigned, have hereunto set our hands and seals, in triplicate, at Duluth, Minnesota, this 20th day of March, A. D. 1913.

SUPPLY BIG; DEMAND SLOW

Duluth Elevators Are Full and Wheat Offers Are Turned Away.

Such Conditions Over Country at Large Send Wheat Value Down.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 25.—The large supplies of wheat over the country at large, combined with a very slack demand are being more and more felt, and the bearish effect on the markets is inevitable. At Duluth and Superior the elevator space is about full. Offers of wheat from the country are being turned away rather than to have it come here and stay on the sidetracks. The ice is still thick on the bay and it is considered too expensive to break the ice for the movement of the boats to relieve the elevators. At a natural consequence sales of cash wheat on the Duluth market have been greatly diminished and sales of to arrive wheat are almost at the zero point. Thee samee thing is to a large extent true of flaxseed.

Duluth May wheat today closed ⅝c lower. Cash wheat closed 1½c to 2c under May. Durum closed ⅜c off, oats ½c off, rye unchanged and barley 4c off to unchanged. Duluth May and July flaxseed today closed 1¼c off.

Notwithstanding the fact that large decreases were eported the past week in the American and the world's supply of wheat, there was quite a bearish movement on the markets of North America this morning. Such decreases are looked for at this time of the year. The receipts on the American markets from the country elevators as reported today were still vastly in excess of the receipts of a year ago. The winter wheat crop reports were exceedingly favorable.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 86⅞c asked, opened today at 86⅞c bid, and at noon was quoted at 86⅝c asked. The wheat markets were quite weak also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat at noon today was 1c higher than at the close Thursday, when the last previous session was held. The market was bulled by the strength of the Buenos Ayres market yesterday, the decrease in the European visible supply, the firmer American offers of yesterday and the improved demand for Plata cargoes.

Flax Is Weak.

Flax took a down turn on the Duluth market this morning. The demand was very slack and there was some improvement in the offers. The Minneapolis demand was still very slack. At noon today the Minneapolis cash price was quoted at $1.24⅞, being 2½c below the Duluth May quotations. Some of the Minneapolis crushing mills are still tied up by strike conditions. Duluth May flax at noon today was 5c lower and July was 1c off. Winnipeg May seed at noon today was ⅝c off at $1.11⅝ asked, being 15¾c under Duluth May price. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed 1⅛c up at $1.23½. London-Calcutta March seed today closed unchanged at $1.56⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Some of the members of the Duluth board of trade this morning received word from a Buffalo correspondent to the effect that there was a vast quantity of grain in store there and the probability was that there would be a great deal of interference with traffic in consequence after the opening of navigation. It was said that there was so much grain at Buffalo that it would take until about the first of June to move it. The reports caused considerable talk on the Duluth board. One member expressed the opinion that from what he had been told he judged that boats bringing grain to Buffalo this spring might be delayed as much as three weeks in getting rid of their cargoes.

It happened that C. H. Williamson, manager of the grain forwarding branch for Lunham & Moore at Buffalo, was on the Duluth exchange this morning. Mr. Williamson was told about the reports of congestion at Buffalo. He said these reports did not represent actual conditions correctly at all.

"We do not wish to have it thought that Buffalo is in bad shape to handle grain," he said, "because that is not true. It is a fact that we have not a great amount of storage room and the grain must move. Those who think they are going to store a vast quantity of grain at Buffalo will be disappointed because they cannot be accommodated to that extent. But there is nothing in the situation to cause any apprehension at all. During the past winter the boats in the harbor at Buffalo have taken care of about 16,000,000 bu of grain, but at present these boats have only about 2,500,000 bu left, consisting mostly of wheat and flax, and nearly if not absolutely all belonging to Buffalo milling companies and intended for local consumption. I have little doubt that this will be removed from the boats entirely by the first of April.

"All the grain in store at Buffalo in boats, lake elevators and car elevators, cannot amount to much more than 6,000,000 bu. The elevator capacity of Buffalo is 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 bu. When cars are handy, we can ship out of Buffalo 600,000 to 800,000 bu a day. I know of no reason to expect that there will be any shortage of cars. Some of the railroads with whom we are accustomed to deal told me not long ago that there would probably be a good supply of cars on hand.

"It is likely that the Chicago fleet of grain boats will come first this spring, as it usually does. I think the grain will be entirely cleared out of this fleet before the arrivals of either the Duluth or the Fort William fleet."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Excellent Growing Weather in Winter Crop Belt Sends Wheat Down.

Chicago, March 25.—Excellent growing weather in the winter crop belt sent wheat down today. The favorable conditions at home offset a higher market in Liverpool and the downward trend was helped along by selling on the part of leading houses. The market opened a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher with May a shade to ⅛c higher at 90⅜c to 90½@90⅝c, that option declining later to 89⅞c.

Some buying on the decrease in the visible supply caused a little firmer feeling for a time but pit traders hammered the market and prices eased off. The close was steady with May at 89½@89⅝c, the low point of the day and a net loss of ⅝@¾c.

Covering by shorts sent corn off after a strong opening. May began a shade to ⅛c higher at 53¾@53¾c to 53⅞c and went down to 53⅝@53¾c after touching 53⅞@54c.

Increased corn stocks here and lack of demand from the East kept the market on the down grade. The close was a trifle firmer with May ¾@⅞c net lower at 53c.

Oats eased off with other grains, May opening a shade lower to a shade higher at 33¾@33⅞c and declining to 33½c.

Provisions sold up on light hog receipts. Pork was under pressure and sold off but the remainder of the list advanced. Opening prices were 12½@15c lower to 2½@5c higher, with May figures: Pork, $20.75; lard, $11.17½@11.20, and ribs, $11.22½.

COPPER STOCKS VERY BULLISH

There was a big upward movement in the copper stock market today. News from the Eastern markets was still rather meager, but enough was received to show that the bulls had the bears on the run. The general stock market of New York was quite strong, and at the close showed gains all along the line. Calumet & Arizona, Amalgamated, Butte & Superior and North Butte have all made large gains during the past two days, during which it has been so hard to get quotations from Boston, owing to the demoralization of the telegraphic service by the recent storms. These gains run from $1 to $2.50. One of the features of the Boston curb market today was the activity and strength of Cactus, which yesterday closed at 6c to 9c, and today was sold at 10c and 12c. The Duluth curb market had quite a feature today in the trading of Red Warrior. The strength and activity of that stock was largely due to the fact that certain Duluth capitalists had bought 25,000 shares at $1 a share, the money to be used in future developments.

News was received today at the office of the Red Warrior Mining company from the superintendent of the mine at Milford, Utah, stating the north drift on the 600-foot level showed a face of ore eight feet wide with the foot wall not yet in sight. The ore is a very heavy silver lead carbonate and has widened from four feet to eight feet since it was first encountered. The importance of this strike, it is said, cannot be overestimated at the present time.

SENTIMENT CHEERFUL

Speculative Operations on the Long Side of Stock Market.

Good Business Conditions and Easier Money Cause Bullish Tone.

New York, March 25.—Speculative operations were on the long side of the market during the morning. Reports of good business conditions, large railroad earnings and the easier tendency in money tended to make sentiment more cheerful. Representative stocks were pushed up 1 to 2 points during the forenoon with some large advances.

Bonds were firm.

There was a good demand for the leading stocks in the early trading today. Changes were small but most of the speculative favorites moved upward. Rumely reacted sharply after its long slump, gaining 6 points on a single transaction. Mexican Petroleum rose 1¾ and Beet Sugar and Can preferred 1.

LOOTERS SAID TO BE SHOOTING PEOPLE

Foreigners Fleeing From Dayton Tell Startling Stories.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25.—The Western Union operator at Dodson, Ohio, says the office is filled with foreigners who have fled from Dayton, Ohio. Looters are shooting people down in the streets of Dayton, according to these refugees.

The Fifth street bridge at Dayton was washed down against the railroad bridge and arrangements are being made to dynamite both structures.

The operator says the water is fifteen feet deep in Main street of Dayton and seven feet deep in the Union station.

The foreigners who sought refuge in the Dodson telegraph office are panic-stricken and tell wild stories of the flood, saying nearly every part of the town is under water and the condition rapidly becoming serious.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS.

NOTICE!!
NOTICE!!
NOTICE!!

Your coal bill was about $80; you paid $30, more or less, for an overcoat. How many days were you laid up with a cold, grippe, or pneumonia? Were you able to get a car home during that pleasant little spring blizzard of a few days ago?

THIS IS SPRING.

When are you going to plant your garden? It's rather tiresome, isn't it, this northern winter and spring weather? Do you know that in the course of ten years you have needlessly spent at least $1,000 that would have been saved if you were living in Southern Florida, with every money-making advantage of the North, the climate thrown in? Would you like to know more about this land of low expenses, the state with the wonderful climate? Are you interested in learning about the money-making possibilities of Southern Florida? As one enthusiast said: "I would not trade my ten-acre tract on the Florida East Coast (they cost only $250, on $10 payments) for the best 80 acres in Northern Minnesota if I had to live there."
Land in the Palm Beach fruit and vegetable section is earning from $150 to $1,000 per acre. When you move down there you will meet old friends—300 satisfied buyers from Duluth and vicinity. You should know more about these lands. Write or call for free maps and interesting literature.

G. L. McLAUGHLIN,
412 Lyceum Bldg.,
Duluth, Minn.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN CANADIAN LANDS?

If so, please bear in mind that Canada is 3,000 miles wide and in some respects much larger than the United States. It is of the utmost importance to you whether or not you buy land and settle in the right location. Among the half million people who are going to Canada in the year 1913, thousands will make the mistake of their lives in locating where conditions are unfavorable.
IT WILL COST YOU ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to inquire of the undersigned where good lands, markets, much more favorable and warmer climate than here, prices, and rainfall exist. Literature, guaranteed field notes of land, information about new towns, business opportunities, the effect for and against of the different sections by the PANAMA CANAL—all yours for the asking.

LATEST ADVICES FROM DAYTON MAKE LOSS OF LIFE BY TERRIBLE FLOOD 1,000---TWO HUNDRED BODIES FOUND

OMAHA BURIES ITS DEAD AND BEGINS PLANS FOR AIDING UNFORTUNATES

Tornado Stricken District Will Be Rebuilt By Business Men.

Homes to Be Provided in Way to Assist Those Who Lost All.

Funerals Held in All Parts of City Attended By Great Throngs.

Omaha, Neb., March 26.—Burying the dead and work of reconstruction occupied tornado-stricken Omaha today. Paying last rites occupied the time of thousands of persons during the day. Funerals were held in all parts of the city. Many of the bodies recovered from wreckage of Sunday's storm were cared for at undertaking establishments, and a great number of the funerals were held from these places. Whenever possible friends of stricken families took care of bodies and had them prepared for burial.

In many instances churches were demolished in the districts covered by the storm; others were so badly wrecked as to prevent them being used for burial purposes. Nearly 100 funerals were held today. Many bodies have been sent to out-of-town relatives.

During the night the work of rescue continued. Only one body was reported recovered, that of another negro buried in the Idlewild pool hall debris.

To Prevent Raising Rents.

The real estate exchange has taken steps to prevent the raising of rents. Already cases of attempted extortion have been reported, some by members of the exchange itself. Executives of that body decided to deal harshly with any owners taking advantage of those forced to secure new homes on account of the tornado.

Hundreds of persons from all parts of the country, unable to hear from relatives, have come to the city seeking news of their safety. Many persons known to have been in the vicinity of that portion of the city ridden by the storm, have been reported missing and everything possible is being done to locate them.

Plans for Rebuilding.

Plans for the immediate rebuilding of the tornado-stricken district are being worked out by a big company of Omaha business men. A corporation is

COMMUNICATION WITH CIRCLEVILLE CUT OFF.

Circleville, Ohio, March 26.—This city was cut off from railroad communication today, all trains on roads entering Circleville being annulled. The flood has wrought damage to several hundred thousands of dollars extent, all bridges are washed away, and the Scioto river stands three feet higher than ever before. Another rise is predicted ever before. There has been no loss of life here.

MILITIA CALLED OUT AT McCONNELLSVILLE.

McConnellsville, Ohio, March 26.—Flood conditions here became serious early today and the national guard troops have been called out. The Muskingum river has overflowed its banks and stretches over a wide area. There are no reports of fatalities so far.

CRITICISMS OF METHODS ARE SEVERE

Revolutionary Change in Fish and Game Department Suggested.

House Committee Recommends That Commission Be Abolished.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A revolutionary change in the management of the fish and game department of the state, coupled with severe criticisms of the methods in vogue under the present system, is proposed in a report of the house committee on public accounts and expenditures made to the house today.

The committee recommends that the game and fish commission, as constituted at present, be abolished; that the work of that commission be absorbed into the state forestry bureau; that the law providing for seining lakes of "rough fish" be repealed, and that hereafter the forestry board do this work, sharing the net proceeds equally between the state and the

HOSTILITIES BEGIN AGAIN AT CANANEA

Peace Negotiations Fail Through Disagreement Over Conditions.

Naco, Ariz., March 26.—Hostilities were resumed at Cananea at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and furious fighting continued long after nightfall. Peace negotiations failed through a disagreement over conditions. Col. Moreno notified the state troops of his final refusal to surrender. Each side announced that no quarter would be given.

The state forces, reinforced by groups from the Naco district, number nearly 3,000, are attacking the 350 Federals of the garrison from all sides. The fire is reported as terrific, over wires which late tonight were put in operation. The afternoon's loss was not stated, but it was said that the number of killed greatly exceeded that of yesterday.

LOSS OF LIFE BY FLOODS IS INDEFINITE

From Latest Reports Figures Are Placed at Minimum of 1,300.

Believed Hundreds May Have Perished in Country Districts.

Early Rumors Found to Have Been Somewhat Exaggerated.

Chicago, March 26.—Definite figures as to the loss of life in the great floods which swept Indiana and Ohio yesterday were not available, but latest estimates, based on reports from the scenes of the disaster or from points as near them as possible did not diminish the earlier minimum of practically 1,300. It is more than likely scores and even hundreds of persons not counted among the dead perished in some of the country districts.

Near Cincinnati, 260.
Dayton, 1,000 to 1,500.
Piqua, 500 to 540.
Delaware, 50 to 100.
Middletown, 50 to 100.
Sidney, 25 to 50.
Hamilton, 12.
Tippecanoe, 3.
Scattering in Ohio, 50 to 200.
Peru, 20 to 50.
Newcastle, 3.
Lafayette, 2.
Indianapolis, 100 to 200.
Noblesville, 2.
Scattering in Indiana, 3 to 25.

First Ray of Comfort.

The first ray of comfort from Dayton came with the reports of refugees arriving at Xenia that the death list, which had been estimated as high as 5,000 drowned, would range from 500 to 1,000. A similar reduction in the number of victims was reported by telephone from Peru to South Bend, Ind., the earlier figures from 200 to 560 drowned, dwindling to sixty, although a report from Warsaw, Ind., still estimated that 250 persons had lost their lives.

In contrast to the slight hope held out of a possibly reduced death list in the cities named, the possibility that other places not yet mentioned as having been visited by disaster had suffered, was indicated in early reports. Miamisburg, a town of 4,000, twelve miles below Dayton, was reported to have been washed away, but no news as to the casualties among the inhabitants had been received. At daybreak, increased anxiety in Indiana centered about Brookville and Connersville, from which frantic appeals

FORTY PEOPLE CAUGHT IN CONFLUX OF RIVERS IN INDIANA AND PERISH

Attempts Made to Escape By the Light of Lanterns.

People Bowed Down By Calamity and Holding Religious Services.

Connersville, Ind., March 26.—Probably forty people were drowned at Brookville, Franklin county, last night, when they were caught in the conflux of the east and west forks of White Water river, which meet in that town. Survivors tell of attempts of men, women and children to escape by the light of lanterns after the electric light plant had been swamped. Cross-currents carrying along streets and alleys carried them down to a united stream a mile wide just south of the town.

Five children, all of one family, were seen clinging to posts of an old fashioned wooden bed, when they were swept into the main stream and lost.

Five large wagon bridges, the Big Four railroad bridge, depot and a paper mill utterly were destroyed. Five summer houses on White Water river south of Brookville are gone, foundations and all. People are bowed down by the great calamity and are gathering in churches where religious services are being held. None of the bodies have been recovered.

VACCINATING BEE AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, March 26.—Everybody at the White House including President Wilson, members of his family, servants and domestics, about 150 in all, are to be vaccinated as a precaution against smallpox. House physicians began the work yesterday by vaccinating Mrs. Wilson and the three daughters and the president and Secretary Tumulty are to submit to the operation. It became known today that the parents of a domestic employed at the White House had become afflicted with the disease. Dr. Cary Garrison immediately began an investigation and by nightfall most of the people living in and about the White House had been inoculated.

DEATHS MAY REACH 2,000

Governor Cox Receives Telegram From His Private Secretary.

Columbus, Ohio, March 26.—Governor Cox at 1:30 p. m. received the following telegram from his secretary, George F. Burba, who went to Dayton last night:

"Deaths may run as high as 2,000. Property loss, $10,000,000. River four miles wide. Cannot get anywhere near center of city. Water up to second story of Philips house. Worst calamity in the country since Galveston."

Dayton Devastated.

Dayton, Ohio, March 26, via Lebanon, Ohio.—Dayton is devastated. No one can even estimate whether beneath the yellow sea that is seething through the city there may sleep 10,000 drowned or only 1,000.

MOST OF DEAD RESIDENTS OF NORTH TOWN

Had No Warning of Flood and Caught Like Rats in Trap.

Fires Do Some Damage But Are Soon Brought Under Control.

Hundreds of Homeless People Are Being Cared for By Citizens.

Wolf Creek, Ohio, March 26.—(Two miles west of Dayton)—According to reports that have reached here, at least one thousand persons lost their lives in the Dayton food. Most of the victims were residents of North Dayton, who were caught like rats in a trap and had no warning. Today the city is under fifteen feet of water, and although the flood is receding the rain is beginning and the chances are that the flood will remain at the present level until the rain ceases.

Some damage has been done by fire, according to reports that have reached the Western Union here, but all conflagrations are believed to have been brought under control. The Dayton fire department worked from boats and dynamited the upper stories of several buildings in successful efforts to halt the flames.

There are hundreds of homeless people in the city, but most of them are being cared for by citizens whose homes were above the water level.

Excepting a railroad bridge or two, all such structures leading into the city have been washed away.

The water extends from River street on the north, Summit street on the west, and High street on the east, down past the southern borders of the city. This covers the main part of the town and the most thickly populated section.

Reports received here had it that a woman has been marooned on top of a moving van in the middle of Broadway since 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Among the concerns reported destroyed by fire is the Rike-Kumler drygoods store.

ADRIANOPLE FORTRESS IS CAPTURED BY BULGARIANS

Turkish City Taken After Fighting of Most Terrible Character.

Shukri Pasha, Commander-in-Chief, Commits Suicide as City Falls.

Mustapha, Pasha, March 26.—The fortress of Adrianople was taken by storm by the Bulgarians this morning after fighting of the most terrible character since Monday. Flames are devastating the city.

At an early hour this morning fires were raging in various sections of the besieged city. The maddened population whose nerves had been shattered by the almost incessant bombardment for a period of more than five months, was fleeing about the streets from one point to another, not knowing where to find shelter.

The great military arsenal in the city was burning and the barracks lying between the hospital and the northern forts were in flames.

The Bulgarians in strong force gradually advanced their lines encircling the city, and by short rushes the infantry approached near enough to prepare for the final dash.

Attack on all Sides.

The Bulgarian infantry had reached within 300 yards of the main forts at 5 o'clock last evening. They remained there while ammunition and provisions were brought up from the rear and preparations were made for the final assault.

The entire line of fortresses defending the eastern side of the city was captured by the Bulgarian after a spectacular assault at the point of the bayonet by long lines of infantry which were strengthened rapidly by the second or reserve lines. The eastern forts soon fell into their hands and Bulgarian batteries were immediately placed in position to concentrate their fire on the other works. The way was thus cleared for a direct assault on the city itself.

Commander Ends Life.

London, March 26.—Shukri Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief of Adrianople, committed suicide after the capture of the city, according to a news agency dispatch from Sofia.

RAILROADS ARE BADLY CRIPPLED

No Prospect for Immediate Relief in Unsettled Districts.

Chicago, March 26.—The floods practically tied up railroad transportation on Eastern lines running through Indiana and Ohio today, the condition being considerably worse than yesterday, with no prospects for immediate relief.

The Big Four, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pan Handle and Monon announced their train schedules annulled until further notice.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern was the only Eastern line the roadbed of which escaped serious damage in Ohio. That company's trains from the East, however, were all from two to eight hours late. Railroad officials declare that the situation was the most serious in twenty years, and were unable to say when train service would be restored.

Hundreds of trains were reported stalled in the flooded districts, with no immediate outlook for relief.

St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—No through tickets over the direct lines from St. Louis to New York could be purchased here today. The Big Four train for New York, due to leave here at 8:44 a. m, was cancelled. The Pennsylvania train for New York departed but tickets were sold only as far as Indianapolis. The Baltimore & Ohio accepted passengers for points only as far as Lawrenceburg, Ind.

MARIETTA RESIDENTS BECOMING ALARMED.

Marietta, Ohio, March 26.—With the Ohio river rising rapidly and all surrounding streams hurling a large volume of water into it, residents of this section are alarmed over the prospects of a flood. Reports this morning indicated that the Ohio river would continue to rise at least throughout the day. The Muskingum river also is reported to be rising rapidly at headwaters.

The towns of Stockport, Beverly, McConnellsville and Pleasant City are under water and wire and railroad communications have been cut off. Extent of the damage done by the flood in these places is not known.

NO RESERVED SEATS FOR HOUSE MEMBERS

First Come, First Served to Be Rule for New Benches.

Washington, March 26.—Seats in the house, hereafter, will fall to those representatives who appear early on the floor. Since the benches were placed in the historic chamber it had been decided that the biennial lottery by which members drew for their locations would be dispensed with. Hereafter it will be a case of "first come, first served."

It is not doubted that the younger members will give way to the leaders in the section of seats, for otherwise public business might be impeded. Minority Leader Mann and his opponent, Majority Leader Underwood, it is conceded, will have commanding places close up to the speaker's rostrum and well in the middle of the chamber. As for the remainder of the national legislature, members will be entitled to pre-empt whatever vacant place their fancy may dictate.

DEAD AT DELAWARE WILL REACH 40 OR 50.

Delaware, Ohio, March 26.—Rescue work continued this morning in the flooded districts and the list of those believed to be dead was changed from time to time. Several reported dead were found after daylight and others believed saved were reported dead. However, the list of dead probably will reach forty or fifty.

Because of meager reports from the main business section of Delaware the exact number is still unknown.

Sheriff at Peru Says Not More Than Twenty People Are Dead.

South Bend, Ind., March 26.—An official report received by Mayor Goetz of South Bend at 10:45 a. m. today was that 300 people were drowned at Peru, Ind., that no bodies had been recovered and that there was less than one block of the entire city that was not under water.

Sheriff Says Twenty Dead.

South Bend, Ind., March 26.—Charles Bolte, chief of police at Wabash, Ind., stated over the long distance telephone at 9:15 a. m. today that he had just talked to Sheriff Hosstater at Peru.

"Sheriff Hosstater told me that not more than twenty people were dead at Peru," said Chief Bolte. "He said the belief that scores of people were drowned arose from the fact that a few bodies were seen floating down the streets."

"The sheriff," continued Bolte, "said he could not account for the sending out of an appeal for several hundred coffins. While hundreds of frame dwellings were washed away, he could the people had ample warning and only those drowned who delayed their escape or attempted to save their possessions.

Talks to 400 Carpenters at Open Meeting of Union.

Municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant, the obtaining of street railway extensions a little ahead of growth and the equalization of taxation so as to place the proper burden on outlying vacant land were declared to be the principal questions at issue in the campaign by W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at a meeting at Moose hall, 224 West First street, last evening.

The gathering was an open meeting of the Carpenters' union with about 400 present. Besides Mr. McEwen, Alex Kennedy, Bert Wheeler and J. W. Cumming, candidates for the short term, and Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant municipal judge, made short talks.

"The street railway company should be made to understand that it has a valuable franchise, that is unusually liberal, and that in return it owes a duty to the community to further growth and progress," said Mr. McEwen. "Instead of waiting for growth until each extension will be self-sustaining of itself, the company should promote growth by building extensions to cheap property on which working men may build their homes. That method has been followed in Minneapolis, and much of the growth of that city is due to that fact."

Mr. McEwen again touched on the equalization of taxation so as to put the proper burden on the vacant land within the city limits, and declared that the municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant is the most important issue in the campaign.

Garbage Collection.

Speaking of the municipal collection of garbage, he said that he had advocated the system when he was in the council and still advocates it.

"The city should collect, without charge to the property owners, everything burnable and use the incinerator plant to capacity," he said. "We should install boilers at the incinerator and generate steam to operate a quarry at the point of rocks. The crushed rock may be used on the streets, so we will get a direct return for the money expended in garbage collection."

Mr. McEwen advocated a municipal repair shop and constant attention to prevent the deterioration of city property. He said that the Lake avenue viaduct had deteriorated beyond repair a few years ago because a few cents of paint a year were not applied to it. He advocated a municipal research bureau, so that the city may take no step without having complete knowledge of the experience of other cities. He made a plea for public docks and the control of terminals.

"The problem of giving free access to the docks by water and by rail is a most important one," he said. "We need a fighter to deal with it, not a timid soul. I am not afraid to take that problem up with Jim Hill and fight it out. When I was labor commissioner of this state I forced the Great Northern railroad to return to 7,000 Greek laborers' fees illegally obtained from them, and I am ready to take up with the railroad any other problem with which I am confronted in public office."

Touching on social subjects, Mr. McEwen said:

"There has been much talk of economy in this campaign, and the proper handling of the taxpayers' money is of primary importance. However it is the function of government not only to attend to the business affairs of the city, but to promote the health and happiness of the people. The government must do everything possible to promote the social welfare of the city and men with strong heart interest in their fellow men are needed on this commission to deal with the great social problems that are demanding solution."

Mr. McEwen will speak tonight at Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street; tomorrow night at Dormedy hall, west Duluth; Friday night at the Park Point mission and Moose hall, Saturday night at the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street, and Monday night at the Armory.

WEATHER—Generally fair weather tonight and Thursday; lowest temperature tonight close to zero at Duluth-Superior and zero to slightly below on the iron ranges; warmer Thursday; moderate west winds.

MASS MEETING OF DULUTH BOYS

The biggest boys' meeting ever held in Duluth will take place Sunday afternoon at the Norwegian-Danish church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, when John L. Alexander of Chicago, one of the experts at the state Sunday school convention will give an address.

Mr. Alexander has the reputation of being the best speaker to boys in this country and the meetings he addresses mean packed houses. The doors of the church will open at 3:15 and there will be a song service of songs that boys like to sing, including the popular "Stille" song. John R. Batchelor will lead the singing and Fred Campbell will be the pianist. The meeting will commence promptly at 3:30, and in addition to Mr. Alexander's talk there will be the following program: Tromlongo solo, Frank Huse; violin solo, Gustave Jackson, and vocal solo, J. R. Batchelor. The big meeting is open to every boy in Duluth over 14 years of age.

NEW COMMISSION WILL FACE AN IMMENSE TASK

City Attorney Carmichael Says No Member Will Have a Snap.

Submits Tentative Division of Duties in Talk to Endion Men's Club.

H. A. CARMICHAEL, City Attorney.

F. A. COKEFAIR, President Men's Club, Endion M. E. Church.

TENTATIVE DIVISION OF CITY AFFAIRS.

Duties of mayor as chief executive—Approve bonds, sign contracts, sign orders, sign council proceedings, accept service on summons.

Division of public affairs—Library, public welfare work, parks, public markets, building inspector in this or finance division, elevator inspector, plumbing inspector, inspector weights and measures, harbor master, inspector of meters, enforcement of housing ordinance, care of city property and probably emergency hospital, contagious hospital, garbage collection and incinerator plant, which may go into division of public safety.

Division of finance—Making yearly budget, sale of bonds, payment of bills and claims, treasurer, details of making assessments, collection of wheelage and dog taxes, issuance of licenses, condemnation of building lines, parks, easements, etc.

Division of public utilities—Water and light department, engineering, electric lighting matters, street lighting, telephone matters, street railway company.

Division of public safety—Fire department and appointments, police department and appointments, health department, meat, bakery and milk inspection, milk depots, supervision of dairies.

The immensity of the task with which the commissioners will be confronted on taking office April 14 was impressed on the Men's club of the Endion M. E. church last evening by City Attorney H. A. Carmichael.

Mr. Carmichael and G. W. C. Ross were the speakers at a meeting of the club at the church, Nineteenth avenue east and First street, last evening. Mr. Ross spoke on the preferential system of voting and Mr. Carmichael on "Problems of the New Commission."

Mr. Carmichael said that he is now drawing up a tentative set of administrative ordinances, based on a study of administrative methods in other cities under commisison government.

"Some such ordinances will be needed by the new commisisoners when they take office and I am drawing them up as rapidly as I can," said Mr. Carmichael. "Whether I am to be city attorney under the new administration or not, I believe my duty as city attorney now requires that I prepare for the coming of the commission."

Mr. Carmichael said that a study of the situation and of the problems that will face the commission has convinced him that the job of commissioner is not one for a "one-idea" man.

No Snap for Anybody.

"No man can take any of the five jobs and expect a snap," he said. "The varied duties, the large amount of money to be expended and the varied methods of expending it will furnish problems enough to keep each commissioner busy many hours a day. A man active in mind and body is needed for each place. We need men of wide experience, though not necessarily experts in any particular lines, if they have common sense and a little more than ordinary capacity for work.

"I have tried to show you the magnitude of the work that will fall on each man. The men must be above the ordinary or the work will not be done. If we do not get the right men, the new form of government may fail, but it will not be the fault of the system, but of the lack of men who measure up to the standard required by the system."

Mr. Carmichael, in submitting his tentative division of duties, emphasized the fact that it can only be tentative and that under the charter the commission has the right to classify the departments as they see fit and assign the divisions as they see fit.

One of the first duties of the commission will be to appoint the officers provided for by the charter, a clerk, an auditor, an assessor, a city attorney and a city engineer.

The state Constitution and the charter require of the mayor certain duties as chief executive of the city aside from his position as a member of the commission, Mr. Carmichael said. Those duties, such as approving bonds, signing contracts, signing orders, signing council proceedings and accepting service on summons in civil actions against the city are purely formal and include no discretionary powers.

"The mayor is one-fifth of the commission and very little more," he said.

Division of Public Affairs.

The work now performed by the library board, board of public welfare and park board will naturally fall into the division of public affairs, he said. The boards may be re-established at the discretion of the commission, or the work may be thrown on the commissioner of public affairs direct, he said.

"Public markets will come under the division of public affairs," said Mr. Carmichael. "They were just established last year and are not yet on a systematic basis. No provisions have been made for the renting of stalls, but the markets are conducted on a go-as-you-please basis. The commissioner will have to work out a rental basis, so that stalls may be let for the season and the farmer will know that his stall is there for him whether he wants to use it or not.

"There is some question as to whether the building inspector should go into the division of public affairs, into a division with the assessor, or into the public safety division with the health department that they may work together in the enforcement of the housing ordinance. That is a question that will have to be settled by the commission.

"The elevator inspector, plumbing inspector and sealer of weights and measures will naturally fall into the division of public affairs, as will the harbor master. The latter position will grow of greater importance as we go along. Thomas Burke, the present harbor master, and I have obtained copies of the harbor ordinances of other cities and are now endeavoring to work out an adequate ordinance for Duluth. Thousands of dollars are lost yearly by delays in the harbor, and they could be avoided with a proper ordinance.

"The inspector of water, gas and electric meters may fall in the division of public affairs or the division of public utilities.

"The enforcement of the housing ordinances will give rise to serious questions. The ordinance must be complied with by Dec. 2 of this year. There will be much detailed work and the commissioner will have to evolve a plan of handling it.

"The care of the city hall and other city property will fall into the department of public affairs.

"The emergency hospital, contagious hospital, garbage collection and incinerator plant are now under the health department. The only reason I have tentatively put them in the division of public affairs is that the division of public safety will have so much that those matters may be put into the division of public affairs to relieve the burden of the division of safety."

Division of Finance.

Taking up the division of finance, Mr. Carmichael said that the drawing of the yearly budget will be one of the most important matters. It will be no easy matter, especially in the first year. He said the amount of money needed for the departments will be in doubt and the commissioners will be anxious to hold down expenses.

"I imagine the first budget will be unsatisfactory to the commissioners and the heads of departments and there will be much robbing of Peter to pay Paul, but it will be unavoidable," he said.

Mr. Carmichael said that the sale of bonds will provide many problems for the commissioner of finance, and he cited two instances since the new charter went into effect by which money was saved to the city by careful handling of bond issues. The same problems will arrive several times a year, he said.

The payment of claims and the payment of bills will naturally fall on the commissioner of finance and the speaker said he has no doubt but that the appointment of a treasurer will also fall to that official. The building inspector may also go in the finance division, if the assessor works under the finance commissioner.

The immense amount of detailed work connected with the levying of assessments will also go to the commissioner of finance, he said. At present three sets of clerks are employed in the work, and the commissioner will be called upon to devise a plan under which the work can be done by one set.

The collection of the wheelage tax may be delegated to a clerk, who will necessarily be a good "bluffer," said Mr. Carmichael. The collection of dog taxes and the issuance of licenses of all kinds will go into the finance division.

The condemnation of property and easements will fall into the same division.

"The engineer is to be appointed by the commission as a whole, and the chances are he will be placed in charge of all the engineering work of the city," said Mr. Carmichael. "At present we have two engineering forces, one at the city hall and one at the water and light department. Both are efficient, but there is no excuse for the two. The commission will undoubtedly combine them."

Division of Public Works.

"Of all the city departments, the board of public works gets kicked around the most and the commissioner of public works will probably succeed to that position. Important street work must be done, and it cannot be done without dissatisfaction to some people," Mr. Carmichael continued. "The commissioner will also have charge of sidewalks and the sprinkling of streets. Street sprinkling is also a fruitful source of trouble for the department having it in charge. One man wants water by his door, another calcium chloride and another oil. The commissioner will have to pacify all of them.

"The city should have an architect. The city has never had one and has been paying 5 per cent on the cost of all work requiring the services of an architect. A man in the division of public works competent to look after that work would save the city much money and give better satisfaction.

"The laying of all pipe lines now laid by the water and light department and the building of reservoirs should be placed with the commissioner of public works, and then there would be no doubt of the pipes all being laid before the pavements are put down. The complaints of the tearing up of streets for the laying of pipes have been serious. The work might rightfully fall into the division of public utilities, but the commission may place it where it will.

Division of Public Utilities.

"It is not true that the water and light department is all the commissioner of public utilities will have under his charge. There is much more and the commissioner will have a large load to carry. The commission may reestablish the water and light department, or may leave it all to the commissioner of public utilities. For a time, at least, he will need an assistant with a good knowledge of the department.

"Unless the city takes over the electric lighting system, the commissioner will need to look after it as now, and if the system is taken over, he will have charge of that. At any rate, he will have charge of street lighting.

"There are some problems to be worked out with the telephone companies. The commissioner should work with the traffic commission of the Commercial club and as a representative of the whole city endeavor to obtain a proper adjustment of telephone tolls to outside points.

"Negotiations with the street railway company on extensions of lines and other matters will fall on the commissioner of public utilities.

Division of Public Safety.

"The general impression that the division of public safety will naturally go to the mayor is a mistaken one. The mayor may be commissioner of public safety or he may be the commissioner of any other division.

"The commissioner of public safety will have plenty of work. He will have charge of the fire department, the appointment of the chief and the appointment of sub-employes subject to civil service rules. There is no question but that many parts of the city need fire halls and the commissioner will have to study that subject out.

"The police department, and appointment of the chief and the appointment of other employes subject to the civil service rules will also go into the division of public safety. So will the health department, with its varied inspectors of foodstuffs. The commissioner of public safety will have a real job on his hands."

Mayor Not Whole Thing.

"For all practical purposes, the mayor is simply one of the five commissioners," said G. W. C. Ross in opening his talk on the preferential ballot. "Each commissioner is of fully as much importance as the mayor. We cannot elect any one commissioner for any one office. The charter doesn't even classify the departments, so the commission will have power not only to assign the divisions to the members of the commission, but to assign the department to the divisions. They may change the divisions or departments around at will, so the voters cannot govern that.

"The theory of that is that the voters should select not men with special qualifications for specific divisions, but men of good character and common sense."

Mr. Ross explained the ballot and answered questions.

F. A. Cokefair, president of the club, presided at the meeting, which was attended by about thirty-five men. The Spalding trio furnished music.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

New Cases of Smallpox and Diphtheria Have Developed.

Health Department Wants Citizens to Promptly Treat Sore Throats.

Several new cases of diphtheria and smallpox have developed in the city in the last few days.

One death resulted because the services of a physician were not secured in time to allay the ravages of diphtheria until it was too late. The patient was the 4-year-old son of a poor family residing in the West end, and three other cases have appeared in the same building, a frame structure over a store occupied by a number of families. The mother is also afflicted with tuberculosis. The boy died in the city contagious hospital and the other cases will be taken there today.

The health department officials advise all who have sore throats or fever to consult a physician. The disease should be taken early and if this is done practically all danger can be eliminated. It will also enable the department to isolate the patients and prevent a spread of the disease, which might develop into an epidemic.

Those who have no funds with which to pay a doctor are advised to go to the health department. There they will be examined free of charge. If a physician is not present those who apply will be sent to the office of a physician who will diagnose their cases.

Huron, S. D., Fire.

Huron, S. D., March 26.—Fire early Monday destroyed a two-story brick block belonging to A. G. Eberhardt, with a loss of $8,000, covered by insurance; a building occupied by Sam Myers as a restaurant, whose loss is about $4,000. The Pierce-Bunt building, occupied by Jesse Brandt, was damaged to the extent of $7,000 by a falling wall.

For Summer Outings—Here Are White Linens That Will Not Muss

Wrinkle-less Linens are Properly Named.

You like linens for costumes, but perhaps you have objected because of its mussing and wrinkling rather quickly. We have succeeded in securing a non-shrinkable linen which has been treated by a new and secret process which practically makes it wrinkle-less. It is really the most important advance in finishing which has come to our notice. Prices range 50c to $1.25 a yard.

French Linens Are Also in High Favor

For suits and dresses we offer some particularly attractive qualities in 36-inch and 45-inch widths in various weights selling here at 39c to $1.00 the yard.

Basket weaves are also to be very fashionable for suits and tailored skirts; a splendid weight, 36 inches wide, is here at 75c the yard.

White Grosgrain for Skirts and Dresses

This is an entirely new idea; the weave of the grosgrain silk has a beautiful silk finish; 36 inches wide; 50c a yard.

Here Are Ratines With a New Hard Finish

These will not muss or soil easily because of their improved finish. Prices range, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.39.

We are always delighted to show these beautiful white fabrics. All the weaves you read about in fashion news are here, and of course as experience has taught you—you find many things here not to be found elsewhere.

We might mention the embroidered Voiles and Ratines and the Bulgarian effects referred to in last night's Herald. You will see them here and enjoy the visit.

It will give you good ideas for your summer wardrobe.

NO PARADE WILL BE HELD

One Feature of Midsummer's Day Celebration to Be Eliminated.

Swedish-American National League Prepares for Annual Observance.

There will be no parade in connection with the third annual Midsummer's day festival to be held on June 24, under the auspices of the Swedish-American National League of Duluth. The decision was made at the regular monthly meeting of the league last evening at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

It has been the custom of the local league to hold a parade early in the afternoon of June 24, as the opening feature of the celebration. The parade the past two years started at the Armory and ended at Lincoln park, where the celebration proper was held.

The celebration this year will be held at the Lincoln park, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The committee to take active charge of this celebration will be appointed by Louis Levin, president of the league, at the meeting to be held on Monday evening, April 14. The various subcommittees will also be appointed at that time.

At the meeting last night the complete delegations from all the lodges in the league were present. The two new lodges admitted to membership this year, the Zenith City band and the Gosta lodge of West Duluth, No. 243, Vasa Order, also had delegations present for the first time. The latter two are:

Gosta lodge—Martin Wedin, Carl Ocklind, Fred Anderson, and Axel Strom.

Zenith City band—Reinhold Johnson, John Hanson, Ernest Mandelholm, H. E. Magnuson and Ben Gefferd.

The other lodges in the league are: Vasa Order, Swedish United Sons, No. 170; S. H. & E. F.; Fridjem lodge, No. 43, Independent Order of Svithold; Svea Glee club Orpheus Singing society, and North Star lodge, No. 11, I. O. G. T.

Employers Who Fail to Pay Living Wage Prey on Somebody.

University Extension Lecturer Talks on Wages and Vice.

In his lectures to the classes in social economics held at the Y. M. C. A. last night, Dr. Raymond H. Phelan, who is in charge of the university extension course here, discussed the minimum wage for women workers and the relation of wages and vice.

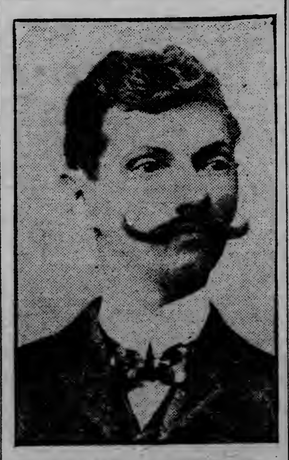
"Our statistics are inadequate," he said, "but it may safely be said that from one to nine-tenths of our women workers receive less than $10 a week. One authoritative statement indicates that 50 per cent receive less than $8 a week."

Discussing the causes for low wages paid to women and girls, he gave the following as probably contributing to this condition: First, women often lack a serious attitude towards their work; second, they lack special training; third, they are over-docile; fourth, as a rule, they lack organization; fifth, they suffer from the old conservative attitude towards themselves as workers and as human beings, and sixth, they are subject to the influence upon their wages of the unholy attitude of many men towards working women.

"The minimum wage idea is based upon the principle that when ordinary bargaining fails to secure for a worker the minimum wage essential to individual justice and social wellbeing, the state should effect the payment of such a minimum.

"The increased wage enforced by the minimum law may come from the following sources: Increased efficiency in better paid workers; improved organization of business; higher prices, or out of excessive profits.

"The industry that fails to pay all of its workers sufficient wages to maintain a sufficient standard of living is a parasite preying either upon the employe's father or other relative; upon women workers through ill health, inefficiency and unhappiness for her and often for her future children, or upon private charities, or upon the state."



Dr. Phelan discussed at some length the Massachusetts minimum wage law, which provides publicity as a penalty for its violation, and the Victorian and British laws, the latter two of which, he said, are giving decidedly satisfactory results. The Minnesota bill now pending before the legislature was also discussed.

By analogy with the ten-hour basis in the Oklahoma bank deposits case, Dr. Phelan came to the conclusion that in all probability the minimum wage law would be sustained as constitutional.

In discussing the effect upon the employer, the worker and society, he emphasized greatly the educational value of the investigations incident to the enforcement of the minimum wage law, pointing out that the worker and the employer will, as the result of such investigation, come to have more intelligent knowledge of one another's situation and the consumer will be afforded stimulation and accurate information that will result in exerting more influence than is now the case upon the conditions under which the products that they buy are manufactured and sold.

For Summer Outings—Here Are White Linens That Will Not Muss

Wrinkle-less Linens are Properly Named.

You like linens for costumes, but perhaps you have objected because of its mussing and wrinkling rather quickly. We have succeeded in securing a non-crinkable linen which has been created by a new and secret process which practically makes it wrinkleless. It is really the most important advance in linens which has come to our notice. Prices range 50c to $1.25 a yard.

French Linens Are Also in High Favor

For suits and dresses we offer some particularly attractive qualities in 36-inch and 45-inch widths in various weights selling here at 25c to $1.00 the yard.

Basket weaves are also to be very fashionable for suits and tailored skirts; a splendid weight, 36 inches wide, is here at 75c the yard.

White Grosgrain for Skirts and Dresses

This is an entirely new idea; the weave of the grosgrain silk has a beautiful silk finish; 36 inches wide; 50c a yard.

Here Are Ratines With a New Hard Finish

These will not muss or soil easily because of their improved finish. Prices range, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.39.

We are always delighted to show these beautiful white fabrics. All the weaves you read about in fashion news are here, and of course as experience has taught you—you find many things here not to be found elsewhere.

We might mention the embroidered Voiles and Ratines and the Bulgarian effects referred to in last night's Herald. You will see them here and enjoy the visit.

It will give you good ideas for your summer wardrobe.

New Spring Models in Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

In Choosing a Corset What Points Do You Consider?

NO PARADE WILL BE HELD

One Feature of Midsummer's Day Celebration to Be Eliminated.

Swedish-American National League Prepares for Annual Observance.

There will be no parade in connection with the third annual Midsummer's day festival to be held on June 24, under the auspices of the Swedish-American National League of Duluth. The decision was made at the regular monthly meeting of the league last evening at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

It has been the custom of the local league to hold a parade early in the afternoon of June 24, as the opening feature of the celebration. The parade the past two years started at the Armory and ended at Lincoln park, where the celebration proper was held.

The celebration this year will be held at the Lincoln park, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The committee to take active charge of this celebration will be appointed by Louis Levin, president of the league, at the meeting to be held on Monday evening, April 14. The various sub-committees will also be appointed at that time.

At the meeting last night the complete delegations from all the lodges in the league were present. The two new lodges admitted to membership this year, the Zenith City band and the Gesta lodge of West Duluth, No. 243, Vasa Order, also had delegations present for the first time. The latter two are:

Gesta lodge—Martin Wedin, Carl Ocklind, Fred Andersen, and Axel Strom.

Zenith City band—Reinhold Johnson, John Hanson, Ernest Mandelholm, H. E. Magnuson and Ben Gefferd.

The other lodges in the league are: Vasa Order, Swedish United Sons, No. 170; S. H. & E. F.; Fridjem lodge, No. 43, Independent Order of Svithold; Svea Glee club Orpheus Singing society, and North Star lodge, No. 11, I. O. G. T.

Employers Who Fail to Pay Living Wage Prey on Somebody.

University Extension Lecturer Talks on Wages and Vice.

In his lectures to the classes in social economics held at the Y. M. C. A. last night, Dr. Raymond H. Phelan, who is in charge of the university extension course here, discussed the minimum wage for women workers and the relation of wages and vice.

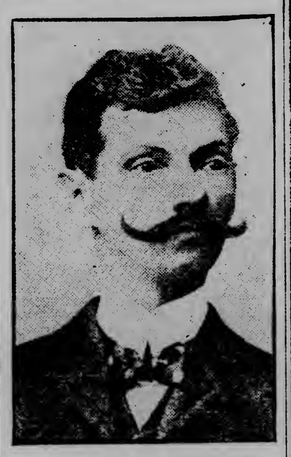
"Our statistics are inadequate," he said, "but it may safely be said that from one to nine-tenths of our women workers receive less than $10 a week. One authoritative statement indicates that 50 per cent receive less than $5 a week."

Discussing the causes for low wages paid to women and girls, he gave the following as probably contributing to this condition: First, women often lack a serious attitude towards their work; second, they lack special training; third, they are over-docile; fourth, as a rule, they lack organization; fifth, they suffer from the old conservative attitude towards themselves as workers and as human beings, and sixth, they are subject to the influence upon their wages of the unholy attitude of many men towards working women.

"The minimum wage idea is based upon the principle that when ordinary bargaining fails to secure for a worker the minimum wage essential to individual justice and social wellbeing, the state should effect the payment of such a minimum.

"The increased wage enforced by the minimum law may come from the following sources: Increased efficiency in better paid workers; improved organization of business; higher prices, or out of excessive profits.

"The industry that fails to pay all of its workers sufficient wages to maintain a sufficient standard of living is a parasite preying either upon the employe's father or other relative; upon women workers through ill health, inefficiency and unhappiness for her and often for her future children, or upon private charities, or upon the state."



Dr. Phelan discussed at some length the Massachusetts minimum wage law, which provides publicity as a penalty for its violation, and the Victorian and British laws, the latter two of which, he said, are giving decidedly satisfactory results. The Minnesota bill now pending before the legislature was also discussed.

By analogy with the ten-hour basis in the Oklahoma bank deposits case, Dr. Phelan came to the conclusion that in all probability the minimum wage law would be sustained as constitutional.

In discussing the effect upon the employer, the worker and society, he emphasized greatly the educational value of the investigations incident to the enforcement of the minimum wage law, pointing out that the worker and the employer will, as the result of such investigation, come to have more intelligent knowledge of one another's situation and the consumer will be afforded stimulation and accurate information that will result in exerting more influence than is now the case upon the conditions under which the products that they buy are manufactured and sold.

MEMBERSHIP IN BOARDS OF TRADE LIABLE FOR TAXES

Judge Dibell Files Decision Affecting Members of Duluth Board.

Appeal Will Probably Be Taken to Supreme Court in Test Case.

A decision of great importance to taxing officials of St. Louis and Hennepin counties and to grain men trading in Duluth and Minneapolis, was handed down in district court this afternoon, when Judge Dibell upheld the right of the county to place board of trade memberships on the assessment rolls as personal property.

The court's findings and order for judgment were filed in personal property tax proceedings against Sidney A. McPhail, a local grain man and a member of the Duluth board of trade. The case was a test suit which involved a much disputed question as to the right of taxing officials to assess memberships in a board of trade. It is probable an appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

On the decision depends the liability for taxation of 200 memberships in the Duluth board of trade, and 1,000 seats in the Minneapolis chamber of commerce. The court upholds the contention of the local taxing officials that board of trade memberships are a form of personal property and as such are properly taxable.

On May 1, 1911, for the first time in the history of Duluth, City Assessor J. A. Scott placed on the tax rolls the 200 memberships of the Duluth board of trade, assessing each at $500 or $100,000 for the whole. Heretofore, the taxing officials had left them off the rolls. The taxes on these assessments fell due and were paid under protest, except in one case—that of Mr. McPhail.

The board of trade in Duluth as a whole decided to have his case selected for the purposes of a friendly test suit. On April 1, 1912, the tax against his seat became delinquent and proceedings were started in the usual way to enforce collection. Francis W. Sullivan, attorney for the Duluth Board of Trade, filed an answer in which the right to assess the memberships was denied. Charles E. Adams, special counsel for the county, represented the taxing officials.

Similar Case in Hennepin.

The taxing officials of Hennepin county placed the 1,000 seats on the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce on the assessment rolls at the same time as did City Assessor Scott of this city and it is understood that a test case, involving substantially the same question, is now pending in the Hennepin county district court. The test case here was decided first.

The decision is deemed to be of great importance because prior to 1911, the values of memberships had never been taxed. The supreme court of the state has never ruled on the question in so far as it directly defines the right which has been assumed by the taxing officials.

It is not unlikely that the Duluth Board of Trade will appeal from the decision of Judge Dibell in order to secure a final determination of the question from the supreme court. The question is a new one and involves a considerable amount of taxable property in Duluth and Minneapolis.

Representative Spooner recently introduced in the house of the state legislature a bill which expressly provides for the taxation of board of trade memberships, which, it is understood, was done in order to remove any doubt as to liability of such property for taxes in the future. In the event that the courts should fail to sustain the stand which has been taken by the taxing officials. The bill is now pending and may be passed.

Judge's Findings.

In his decision, Judge Dibell finds that the Duluth Board of Trade is a duly organized corporation under the laws of Minnesota, without capital stock, organized to furnish trading privileges to its members; and that it owns land and a building valued at between $450,000 and $500,000 on which it pays taxes in proportion to which other property pays.

The court also finds that the market value of the 200 memberships on May 1, 1911, was between $3,000 and $3,500 each; that each membership was entitled to 1-200th part of the value of the tangible property and that the value of the membership above the value of its share in the tangible property amounted to between $500 and $750.

Judge Dibell declares that the city assessor was fair and within his rights when he assessed this intangible value at $500. The memberships on this basis, the court holds, are subject to assessment and taxation a any other property assessed in the manner that personal property is taxed. Judgment is ordered against Mr. McPhail in favor of the state for $15.97 the amount of the tax on a $500 assessed valuation.

The court attaches a memorandum to the decision in which it discusses the question at some length. Judge Dibell points out that the memberships in the Duluth Board of Trade are freely bought and sold, are carried on the books of the owners as asset of substantial value, that they pass by will or descent and by insolvency or bankruptcy; and that a few memberships represent a cash value of more than a life-time savings of the average citizen.

The court further holds that the state statute does not expressly exempt memberships from taxation and that the main question in the case is the proper construction to be given to that part of the state law which describes and defines personal property to be taxed.

Judge Dibell's closing paragraph in his memorandum sums up the proposition as follows:

"To put it short, a board of trade membership is personal property, properly the subject of taxation. The question is, whether the statute excludes it. I do not think that a proper construction requires a holding that it does. It is unfortunate indeed if at a time when the disclosure of personal property, and the payment of taxes on it, by large property owners, are no longer thought indicative of a loss of mental or moral fiber, personal property of the kind here involved is not permitted to share in the bearing of public burdens.

"The physical and tangible property of the board of trade pays taxes, and the members, who occupy somewhat the same position of stockholders, are not required to pay taxes on such property, and thus be submitted to double taxation. But the intangible value coming from the rights inhering in a membership, apart from the physical property of the corporation, amounting, perhaps, to something like $100,000 to $200,000 should help, as it easily may, carry the public burdens."

TO REDUCE SALOONS.

Bemidji Council Proposes to Cut Down the Number.

Bemidji, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has served notice on all saloon keepers that the number of saloons in Bemidji will be decreased either by means of the law being considered by the legislature or by the council's refusing to grant every license renewal asked for.

"This does not mean that all applications for liquor license will be denied," says the notice, "but, in granting any license, we will be governed by the character and standing of the applicant and his record for living up to the laws of the state of Minnesota and the ordinances of the city governing the sale of intoxicating liquors.

"In fairness and justice we are notifying you as above so that you can govern yourself accordingly. Yours very truly, R. F. Murphy, president of city council."

HOW TAILORS SEW ON BUTTONS.

National Magazine: Tailors double their thread used to sew on buttons and make a knot and hold the knot in the teeth while they twist the thread. Then they wax it, and that keeps it twisted. Then they put a pin across the button and after the buttons are sewed on they remove the pin and wind the thread around several times, making a kind of stem. This makes it more easy to button the garment. The buttons on children's waists should be sewed on this way so more than one garment can be buttoned on the same waist.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

A new development materialized in police court this morning in the examination of John Moody, the negro bootblack arrested last week on a charge of violating the white slave statutes of Minnesota by enticing women into a house of ill fame.

It came in the form of a statement from Elizabeth Luce that the colored man had asked her and Dorothy Torvund, the other witness of the state, to sign a book or sort of register which he kept at his shine stand in a downtown shoe store.

In this book it appears that one page and part of another were filled with names and addresses. The witness stated that she had glanced over the lists, but did not remember anw of the names written there. She did recollect that all the signatures were of girls or women. It is expected that the book will be brought into the courtroom this afternoon.

The new turn is interesting in that it corroborates previous declarations that the negro has tried to make dates with other young women. It substantiates the claim that the police did not send out the young women witnesses to set a trap for any who might fall, but to secure evidence in one of the few ways possible against a negro against whom other complaints had been made.

After the arrest, Elizabeth and Dorothy told Chief Troyer of advances made to them by the Chinese who were arrested in the St. James at 3 o'clock the next morning on white slavery charges. They kept the chief informed of developments and allowed the Chinese to make the date and go to the hotel to keep it.

and Kin Sue, the two involved, waived examination, after the trial of Henry Miller, clerk at the St. James, and were bound over to the grand jury. Their bail will be fixed in the district court. Miller was convicted yesterday afternoon of conducting a house of ill-fame and given a straight sintence of sixty days in the county jail. A stay of twenty days was granted in which to prepare an appeal. Miller's bail was fixed at $200.

George Kelly, colored, was arraigned this morning on a charge of having assaulted John Coan in the shoe shining shop at 10 North Fifth avenue west. The police state that the two men both claim to own the place, both having papers alleging to show that they purchased it from another man. The argument ended in a fight in which Kelly is alleged to have struck Coan. Kelly pleaded not guilty and will be tried later.

"Will you keep on going if I let you go?" asked Judge Cutting.

"Without stoppin' ter as much as wet me whistle," said Richard O'Brien.

"Suspend sentence," said the court.

The court cut short a fervid thankyou oration and Richard O'Brien beat it without further ceremony.

Features of Neal Institute Which Appeal to Busy Men.

If desired, a man may go to the Neal Institute, stay three days, during which time he may conquer the drink habit completely and perfectly and return to his business or home and no one except the physician in charge will know that he was there.

During his stay all his meals will be served in his room and he need not venture outside of it unless he so desires. He may come by night and go by night; in fact every possible effort has and will be made to protect patients from publicity.

Busy, prominent men in the public eye, who find that drinking interferes or is likely to interfere with their business or social connections, should take advantage of the Neal Treatment. It takes such a short time—just 72 hours—that your absence will not be noted.

Write for free booklet giving full information and it will be mailed to you under a plain, sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. Both 'phones. BOYS' DEPARTMENT NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the boys' department Y. M. C. A., cabinet met at the home of Dr. J. J. Eklund, Twenty-fourth avenue east last evening with the fololwing members present: Richard Cullum, presiding; Irving Moore, Ralph Dunning, Fred Campbell, Victor Eva, Charles Le Richeaux, Warren Moore, Charles Scriven, J. R. Batchelor, Duncan Frick of Hotchkiss school, former member of cabinet, William Eklund, University of Minnesota, former president of cabinet, and N. D. McLeod.

The cabinet planned a very attractive program for the month of April which will make the boys' department building a very active place. The report on the Hustler club was to the effect that it is the livest organization ever started in the club, 100 boys are now enrolled and are working hard for the honors. The medals that will be awarded the winners are on exhibition.

The committee last night decided to put on the minstrel show and play again on the night of Wednesday, April 9. The proceeds will go towards paying the balance on the moving picture machine and the purchase of boats for the summer camp. All the members of the cabinet who were not officially appointed from their Sunday schools to attend the boys' congress to be held Saturday and Sunday of this week, were appointed last night to represent the boys' department. A grand rally will be held at the boys' department Sunday, April 6, to formulate plans to put into action the results of the congress.

The date for the annual banquet for all the members of the club was set for Friday, May 9. Committees were appointed on decorating the club and securing speakers. On this occasion all the awards won by the Hustler club will be given.

The committee on Bible study has arranged for the following talks to be given around the table at the high school Bible study period Tuesday evenings: A talk on Yale college, Wisconsin, illustrated with stereopticon views, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Minnesota.

A course on first aid will begin next Tuesday at 8 o'clock. The course will last for six weeks, and will take up the things that boys who camp and boys who frequent the woods ought to know.

The camp and outing committee has arranged for the following "Seeing Duluth" trips: Saturday, April 5, Duluth Woolen mills; Saturday, April 12, Leithhead Drug company; Saturday, April 19, Rust-Parker-Martin company; Saturday, April 26, American Carbolite company. There will be a swim on the return from each trip.

The committee on the popular Friday nights will present the following programs:

Friday, April 4—Night of fun and contests for all members of the Hustler teams; refreshments and conference of teams.

Friday, April 11—Stunt night; entertainment to be given by members of Hustler club for points.

Friday, April 18—Second indoor field meet for medals, pins and emblems.

A Round Robin game tournament will begin Monday, April 14, and last for one week. There will be three divisions, high school, night class and intermediates. The champion in each game will receive five points in the Hustler club. Contests will be in the following games: Pool, cue roquet, ping pong, shuffle board, checkers, chess, caroms.

The Sunday club committee program will be: Sunday, April 6, rally of Duluth delegates to state convention; Sunday, April 13, B. A. Wade; Sunday, April 20, Dr. Hovis; Sunday, April 27, Watson S. Mcore. Musical programs will be arranged for each meeting.

The athletic committee will conduct an interscholastic field meet for the boys of the grade schools Saturday, June 7, and a baseball league will open as soon as the weather is favorable.

The spring schedule has started in the gymnasium and special attention is given to athletics and training for the summer outdoor work.

The cast for "The Upper Trail" will be selected and rehearsals will begin at once. The play has been specially written for the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., and will portray the club and camp life. It will be presented the early part of May and will be in charge of Dick Cullum.

The club's committee will close the Camera club with the following series of lectures, which will be given by Mr. Rohen of the Eclipse View company: April 2, "How to Make Lantern Slides;" April 9, "How to Take Flashlights;" April 16, "How to Take Portraits;" April 23, "How to Color Pictures;" April 30, banquet and exhibition of work done during the season. This course is free and open to all members of the club.

A QUESTION OF MILK.

CULLUM SAYS HE GAVE LAW ENFORCEMENT ORDERS

Referring to the quotations of Judge Windom's address last evening relative to law enforcement, Dr. M. B. Cullum, candidate for mayor, stated this morning that he thinks they bear out his statement relative to the difficulties.

Dr. Cullum said that he had given Chief Troyer orders to enforce the saloon laws during his administration and had given no other contradictory instructions; that a persistent campaign be waged against the social evil, starting in the residence and business sections, and that if any people were huddled together as a result, liquor, dancing and music be eliminated.

Walter Dacey, who was prosecuting city attorney under the administration of Dr. Cullum, corroborated the statement of Dr. Cullum. He pointed out that it was as a result of their failure to comply with the order to discontinue the liquor which resulted in the notorious Blaine woman serving sixty days in the county jail and another serving thirty days.

Chief Troyer stated that the statement of Dr. Cullum relative to the enforcement of the law and the elimination of the social evil was correct.

Orders to Troyer.

Speaking of those subjects in connection with Judge Windom's address, Dr. Cullum said:

"The first order given to Troyer during my last term was in these words: 'Mr. Troyer, it is said that you can enforce the saloon laws if you have the right orders. Now, I want those laws enforced to the very limit; and there will be no other orders given while I am mayor.' And I very frequently asked him why he was not more successful, and he gave reasons which I had to acknowledge were true.

"I complained of the social evil, and ordered that a persistent campaign be waged against it. I ordered him first to 'clean up the residence districts, the small business centers, then the avenues and rooming houses in the main business center; and when that was accomplished to let me know, and we would go further.' At no time could he report that this had been successfully done. At no time were they told where to go. At no time or from no man did they get the slightest intimation of protection. They were absolutely at the mercy of any individual who might complain.

"I called the chief in later, and ordered another move: 'Now, chief, if there are any places where those people are huddled together as a result of the cleaning up, progress I should like to have you cut out the liquor, the dancing and the music.' This whole program was a persistent attempt to see how far we could go towards complete elimination with the forces at our disposal; and I never in a single instance modified those orders; and I refer you to Mr. Troyer and Walter Dacey, as to the absolute truth of this statement."

Stops Tobacco Habit in One Day.

Sanitarium Publishes Free Book Showing How Tobacco Habit Can Be Banished in From One to Five Days at Home.

The Elders Sanitarium located at 1059 Main St., St. Joseph, Mo., has published a free book showing the deadly effect of the tobacco habit, and how it can be banished in from one to five days at home.

Men who have used tobacco for more than fifty years have tried this method and say it is entirely successful, and in addition to banishing the desire for tobacco has improved their health wonderfully. This method banishes the desire for tobacco, no matter whether it is smoking, chewing, cigarettes or snuff dipping.

As this book is being distributed free, anyone wanting a copy should send their name and address at once.

CONSTIPATION

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

CANDIDATES INVITED TO MASS MEETING.

The Men's League of the Bethany Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, has called a mass meeting for tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. at the church. All candidates are invited to attend and give brief talks on their position on municipal questions. Watson S. Moore will speak in behalf of Bert N. Wheeler's candidacy, and Frank Crasweller, president of the Municipal Ownership league, will explain the preferential system of voting.

DOWLING TO HAND OUT "PACKAGES"

Candidate for Mayor Promises Fireworks at Lyceum Meeting.

P. E. Dowling will deliver "packages and parcels," neatly done up and properly labeled, to the Commercial club, the Stirrup club and the Municipal Ownership league at the Lyceum tonight, according to his advertisements and personal statements.

Mr. Dowling says that he will handle questions affecting the city without gloves and that there will be fireworks to entertain all who attend.

Mr. Dowling is making an aggressive campaign and he says that he intends to carry it right up to election day, striking at what he believes to be the real evils in the life of the community.

Wheeler at Park Point.

"Who's Who Among Short-Term Candidates," is the subject for Bert N. Wheeler's talk at the Park Point mission Thursday night. Mr. Wheeler, who is a candidate for the short term, says that he will explain the preferential system of voting and urges all voters to use second and third choice columns to insure the election of desirable commissioners.

Prince Meetings.

W. I. Prince's campaign manager, O. J. Larson, is arranging a series of meetings for the closing days of the campaign, and Mr. Prince will make a number of appearances on the platform. In the meantime, the Prince organization is being perfected, and active personal work will be conducted in each precinct before election day.

Speeches at Lakeside.

Watson S. Moore and T. T. Hudson, prominent members of the Municipal Ownership league, will address a meeting called by the league at the Lakeside town hall tonight. They will explain the preferential system of voting and advocate the election of candidates committed to immediate municipal ownership of the electric lighting system.

STATE OWNS STEAMSHIPS.

London Telegraph: State-owned steamships are a dream in some parts of the world. In Western Australia they are a reality. There recently arrived at Wellington, New Zealand, from Bunbury, Western Australia, the Kwinana, one of four steamers owned by the last mentioned state. On board was W. D. Johnson, minister of public works for Western Australia, who explained that as this was the off-season in the cattle carrying trade, the Kwinana had just taken a cargo of jarrah wood to the dominion to fill up time.

According to Mr. Johnson, the station holders in the northwest of the state combined to get a monopoly of the shipping of stock to Fremantle, and the government of Western Australia was compelled to step in, in the interests of the small farmers, and provide state steamers. The government, it was added, was working on good terms with the shipping companies. The state ships, that is to say, had not "cut" freights or interfered with coastal rates, and at the same time had been able to get the price of meat down by 2d a pound and save Perth alone about $1,500 a day in its meat bill.

NEW TURN TO LITIGATION

Demurrer to Franchise Suit Filed By the Street Railway.

Merits of Controversy Will Be Brought Out April 2.

The litigation over the 1881 franchise of the Duluth Street Railway company took another turn yesterday when Henry F. Greene, attorney for the company, filed a demurrer and a motion to quash the writ of quo warranto issued by the district court on information.

The demurrer and motion are noticed for hearing April 2 and will probably come on for argument a few days after that date.

The papers were taken to City Attorney H. A. Carmichael for service, and Mr. Carmichael sent them on to Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith for acceptance of service, Mr. Smith being the attorney in the case, and Davis, Kellogg & Severance, Francis W. Sullivan and City Attorney Carmichael being of counsel.

It is thought likely that regardless of who is favored by the decision of the district court on the demurrer, the case will go to the supreme court. It is probable that the arguments on the demurrer will go to the merits of the controversy over the validity of the legislative franchise and the supreme court decision will have a definite bearing on the ultimate result of the action.

The agreement on the demurrer will be the first definite presentation of the action in district court and will be the start of legal battle that will probably not be halted until some definite decision as to the status of the franchise is obtained.

KILLED BY FALL DOWN STAIRS

Body of Dick Newman Is Found in Rear of Restaurant.

Dick Newman, 38 years old, was found dead at the bottom of the stairs in the rear of the Chinese restaurant at 508 West Superior street about 11:30 o'clock last night. Death was due to a broken neck believed to have been caused by a fall down the stairs. When found the body was lying at the Michigan street door, across from the Union station.

The police were notified and they in turn notified Coroner McComb. The body was taken to the morgue of J. L. Crawford, where it is being held pending efforts to locate his widow, supposed to be in New York.

Newman was employed by Gus Egdahl as a saloon porter and worked for him four months. He was a carpenter by trade.

being formed to handle the matter in systematic manner and assist the unfortunates who lost their homes and personal effects. This institution will begin at once the task of at least partially reconstructing many homes.

A public appeal sent out by the Commercial club says that 642 homes were totally wrecked, 1,669 were damaged and 3,179 persons made homeless. This census was taken by representatives of the club and the statement given officially.

Unusual Incident.

An unusual incident in connection with the storm was the receipt by Mayor Dahlman of a sympathetic telegram from the mayor of Dayton, Ohio. Today Mayor Dahlman telegraphed the Dayton executive a similar message in connection with the flood in the Ohio town.

The task of giving permanent relief to the sufferers in Omaha became almost herculean. Although a quarter of a million dollars already has been provided for this work the matter of systematically distributing relief has become a great problem. City officials have taken up the work temporarily but they are preparing to turn it over to some permanently organized body in order that relief may be extended in a businesslike manner.

city of Wabash was rapidly receding, it having dropped three inches since 1 a. m. He said 100 homes in Wabash were swamped, but no one had been drowned at Wabash.

At Logansport, on the Wabash river, to the west of Peru, all the railroad bridges were washed out today. The interurban station, in the heart of the city, was six feet under water, but, according to telephone massages received at 9:30 o'clock no one was drowned.

Despite the reports of Chief Bolte the telephone operator at Logansport stated that official messages had gone over the lines that the dead in Peru would number sixty or more.

Accurate Estimate Impossible.

Peru, Ind., March 26.—(Via Telephone to South Bend)—Estimates of the number of people drowned in the flood in Peru up to 6 o'clock this morning varied from 50 to 100.

It was impossible to make anything like an accurate estimate. Mayor Krutzer, who is marooned in his home, received a telephone report that the number probably would not exceed 50 or 60.

Persons who were isolated in downtown buildings and in portions of the residence sections and who saw bodies floating through the streets, stated that the list of fatalities might reach 100. Several small relief boats attempted to venture into the city but were forced back on account of the swift current.

Many people were seen still clinging to roofs. Several groups stood up on high places attempting to signal for help.

Daylight showed how great was the devastation wrought by the flood since last night when the Wabash river burst its banks. Houses, half submerged, were drifting away, other buildings appeared toppling over, bodies were recovered floating with the debris in the streets and only a spire indicated the location of a church.

South Dakota State Engineer.

Pierre, S. D., March 26.—Prof. J. M. Derr of Brookings has filed his bond as state engineer, and has taken charge of the department. S. H. Lea, the former engineer, has been in the East several weeks.

Glenwood City, Wis., Fire.

Glenwood City, Wis., March 26.—Fire Monday destroyed the large barn and silo of S. O. Emerson, near Connersville. The los sis estimated at $3,000, partially insured. The livestock was saved.

MANY DEAD AT COLUMBUS

At Last 150 Said to Have Been Drowned at Ohio Capital.

Scores of Bodies Are Seen Floating Down Stream With Debris.

Columbus, Ohio, March 26.—At least 150 persons were drowned in Columbus as a result of the flooded Scioto river, according to reports from the flooded West side section of the city this morning. These reports came as a result of a partial restoration of telephone communications with the West side.

Numerous persons who are considered conservative, assert that they saw scores of bodies float downstream and dozens of persons carried away in houses.

Reported dead:

WILLIAM A. SEXTON, probation officer.
EDWIN D. DANIEL.
ALBERT GORE, mail carrier.
MR. AND MRS. E. M. HAYES.
MRS. GEORGE COOK AND BABY.
MRS. L. H. MACK AND THREE CHILDREN.
MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ECKERT AND SEVEN CHILDREN.

Buildings Swept Away.

The flood in the Muskingum river at Zanesville has swept away a large number of buildings, a family consisting of seven persons is believed to have been drowned and great havoc is being wrought as the flood continues to rise. The Sixth street bridge and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad bridge were swept away this morning. A large woolen factory collapsed but employes already had fled to safety. At 10:30 o'clock the flood began entering the business district. National Guard soldiers are on duty.

Seven Drowned.

Sandusky, Ohio, March 26.—Seven persons were drowned at Fremont, Ohio, this morning, according to reliable word received here. Wires are down and buildings are collapsing in a big flood. An appeal for help has been sent here.

Ohio Rising.

Steubenville, Ohio, March 26.—The Ohio river at 9 o'clock this morning was at the 43.4 foot stage and rising at the rate of 7-10 of an inch an hour. The western part of the town is under water and twenty-five houses flooded. Many families were rescued by wagons. Five large manufacturing plants have been forced to close down, throwing 1,300 men out of work.

Trouble to Reach City.

Chicago, March 26.—Some idea of the difficulty in getting men into the flood districts in Indiana and Ohio may be obtained when it is stated that a staff man sent from the Chicago office of the Associated Press yesterday noon had not succeeded in reaching Indianapolis at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The best he could do after traveling all day yesterday and all night was to reach West Indianapolis. There he was halted with no immediate prospects of being able to get into the city.

LATEST ADVICES FROM DAYTON

from Dayton shortly before 11 o'clock today from John Bell, the Bell telephone operator, in which it was stated that 200 bodies had been found. The bodies were located by men who were in patrol boats. Bodies were found as far out as Wayne avenue, which is more than a mile from the river. At Fifth and Brown streets the water reached a height of ten feet. At least one of those drowned met death in the Algonquin hotel. The governor also established communication with the relief committee in Dayton and was told that the greatest need of the flood sufferers at present was water. The city water supply has been cut off.

A relief train has been made up at Springfield and is expected to leave that city for Dayton not later than noon today.

The governor also was told that there was no loss of life at Sidney.

The severe damage in Dayton is confined to the territory along the bends of the Miami river, west of the main business section of the city, according to Mr. Bell.

The most loss of life from the flood is said to have been done over an area of about fifty acres of ground.

Water Is Falling.

Phoneton, Ohio, March 26.—(Via telephone to Chicago)—A report from the flooded district of Dayton received here today says that on the west side of the city there were from 75 to 100 drowned. This is only an estimate as it is impossible to obtain accurate details.

The flood began to recede about midnight and has been falling slowly ever since. At 10:30 this morning the water depth had lessened about two feet.

All stores and factories in the main part of the town have been flooded to a depth of from 8 to 10 feet. Numerous residences and smaller buildings have collapsed but any estimate of the property loss is impossible.

Only a very meager report was received from Hamilton, Ohio, this morning. Outside of the fact that immense damage had been done and that there probably had been some loss of life, nothing could be learned. Attempts to get a wire into the city were without success.

Miamisburg Wiped Out.

A report reached here that Miamisburg was practically wiped out. No further details have come through as to Piqua and Troy. No telephone circuits are working to those towns. Two men penned up in the office are in intermittent communication with this station on one test set. The telephone company is attempting to get a man to Franklin, Ohio, from which point he may be able to work toward Dayton to ascertain conditions in that city.

A rumor was received from Troy yesterday that twenty-three bodies had been seen floating just past that town. There is no verification of this report.

Late news from Dayton said that St. Elizabeth's hospital probably was carried away, although the Dayton informant was unable to verify this report. It was stated, however, that the reported fire in the plant of the National Cash Register company did not take place nor did there seem to be any foundation for such a rumor. Dayton also was inclined to doubt the report that 400 school children had been drowned because the flood came hours before the children were due to go to school.

Facing Short Rations.

The 200 refugees in the Y. M. C. A. building at Dayton and in the Algonquin hotel were facing possible short rations this morning. Their food supplies were becoming limited and drinking water was at a premium.

Forty boats had been requisitioned by the city authorities and are patrolling the city in an effort to save life and property. These craft are manned by volunteers.

In front of the Central Union telephone office at Dayton the water is still running so swiftly that horses cannot go through it without swimming. The telephone employes in this building have fished chairs, drygoods boxes and a quantity of other floating property from the flood. The debris has been swept down the main business street with such force that every plate glass window has been smashed by floating debris.

Only one sizable building thus far has collapsed so far as the watchers in the telephone office can learn. This structure was a three story affair near Ludlow street, occupied by a harness manufacturing concern. The building was old and was thought to be in no condition to withstand the pressure of the raging torrents.

Rain Adds to Dismay.

Cloudy skies and a cold drizzle of rain added to the dismay of the city this morning. The temperature fell steadily all night and when daylight came the thermometer showed that it was only 43 degrees above freezing. This condition, however, was welcomed because a hard freeze will aid materially in holding back the innumerable tributaries of the flooded streams and will assist the earth in retaining the moisture that has been soaked into it steadily for the last five days.

At least 500 are known to have lost their lives in the district north of the river. Residents of that section had had no word from the south side, which is thickly populated and contains the business district of the town.

The relief committee had progressed less than two miles from Dayton when they met the telephone employes. They told him that any and all kinds of provisions were needed and could be distributed, but the relief must come soon if indescribable suffering is to be avoided.

Crest Passes at Midnight.

Dayton, Ohio, March 26.—The crest of the Dayton flood passed about midnight, but the next few hours showed no appreciable lowering in the water. Morning brought little hope of immediate relief to those who had spent the night in horror, however, and it is feared that the number of drowned had been greatly increased during the twelve hours of darkness.

The rescue work looked as hopeless as on yesterday, however. No one in the city attempted to sleep.

The only known dead are Anton Saetell, grocer, Vine and Main streets, killed in an explosion, his wife, drowned.

Unknown woman found nearby hanging on wires. The Bish family wiped out with the exception of a son, John Bish; his mother, aged 65; sister, Florence, 27; niece, Violet Bish, and Muriel, wife of John Bish, all being victims of the flood.

Save Those Near Edge.

It is not believed the rescuers will be able to make any advance into the flooded district today, but will have to content themselves with saving those who were marooned within a few doors of the water's edge.

More than 70,000 persons either were unable to reach their homes, or held in their waterlocked houses were unable to reach land.

The inundated district is estimated as more than fifteen square miles, most of which is under from 6 to 18 feet of water.

No communication could be established with those in the commercial district and any attempt to say whether any or all of them are drowned is merest conjecture.

It is thought that most of the fatalities occurred on the west and north sides of the river where the wall of water rushed in suddenly with the breaking of the levee.

Lower Than First Estimated.

The early breaking of the levee will keep the loss of life in the commercial section lower than first was estimated. By 8 o'clock yesterday morning the business streets were impassable and many of the employes in the stores and offices were prevented from reaching their places of employment.

Many were driven to the outskirts of the city far from their own homes, however, and were unable to communicate with friends.

The immediate pressing need today is for food and medical supplies. The great demand for food exhausted the emergency supplies in the outskirts of the city and survivors are now depending entirely on what may be brought in during the day. Fear is anticipated that typhoid may result from the use of river water. The breaking of Tarton reservoir immediately shut off the usual supply of filtered water.

One fact that brightened the outlook was that the torrential downpour which had continued for forty-eight hours had ceased.

Receiver For Co-operative Concern.

Pipestone, Minn., March 26.—W. M. Hay of Triumph has ben appointed receiver for the Triumph Co-operative company, because of a heavy judgment secured against the company by Fred Lintelman. The affairs of the company will be closed up as rapidly as possible; it is believed all creditors will be paid in full.

for aid were made last night to Governor Ralston, just before wire communication failed. It was reported to the governor that the White Water river levees had given way, flooding the valley and sweeping hundreds of people before it.

Piqua Rumor Uncontradicted.

The early rumor of a death list of 540 at Piqua, Ohio, was still uncontradicted at daylight, though no further confirmation of it had come to hand.

Throughout the night the most strenuous efforts at relief were in operation. The governor of Ohio had ordered out the entire state militia to aid in the work of rescuing and official appeals for help were sent to neighboring states. Preparations were made by the state legislature at Columbus to appropriate $250,000 for the relief of the sufferers. The governor estimates the homeless in Ohio at 250,000.

Efforts were being made to succor the victims at Peru and other Indiana cities. Supplies of every description for 5,000 persons were rushed to Peru from neighboring towns, but the problem of penetrating the flooded districts was only less perplexing than that at Dayton. At daylight it was seen that the main hope of reaching the city lay in motorboats. Ordinary small rowboats stood small chance of breasting the currents.

Thousands in Peril.

Greater, however, than the problem of rushing in supplies, both at Dayton and other places was the work of rescuing thousands of persons from positions of peril to which they had clung all night with faint hope of immediate help. In Dayton the office buildings in the business district sheltered in their upper stories crowds of residents who had rushed there from streets in which water raged to a depth of from 9 to 40 feet. At the National Cash Register plant on high ground, thousands were taken in and in outlying residence districts other thousands awaited in fear and anxiety to hear from relatives and friends who had been unable to leave the center of the city.

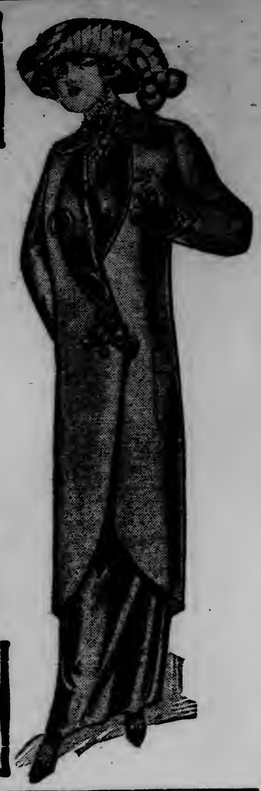
List May Be Increased.

In every city and throughout the outlying districts the fear at daybreak was that the death list had been increased during the night by the constant dropping of exhausted persons into the waters. The utter inability of ordinary boats to reach people clinging to dismantled houses, trees and surrounding objects, made the work of rescue everywhere practically impossible. There was hope, however, of a gradual subsidence of the fury of the flood, which had reached its crest at Dayton at midnight and began slowly to fall.

One pressing need at Dayton, next to the rescue of imperilled persons, was a supply of food, the stores being in the inundated district. The water supply for drinking purposes also had been cut off and physicians feared a possible typhoid epidemic from the use of the flood waters.

In both states the train service continued in demoralized condition but every effort was made by the authorities to reach the districts most in need of help. Individuals and relief trains striving to reach Dayton were unable, during the night, to penetrate the city which remained utterly isolated, save possibly from the north, where further efforts were made to enter at daybreak.

Motorman Given $7,000.



St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—Henry V. Swanson, motorman of the car which ran away in the Selby tunnel, Jan. 29, 1912, compromised his suit for $50,000 against the St. Paul City Railway company for $7,000. The jury in the case had been drawn when the attorneys in the case came to an agreement.

TWO HUNDRED DEAD AT INDIANAPOLIS

First Word Comes From the Western Part of City.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—First word from West Indianapolis, cut off from the city when the great West Washington street bridge went out last night, came this morning when an Associated Press correspondent marooned there said that it is generally estimated that at least 200 persons were drowned when the Morris street levee broke early last night.

An unverified rumor is that a large number of refugees sought shelter in Wolfe's hall until the crowded floor gave way and scores may have been killed or seriously injured.

MAY HAVE SENT INFERNAL MACHINE

New York City Employe Charged With Killing of Mrs. Grace Taylor.

New York, March 26.—The infernal machines which a year ago killed Mrs. Grace Taylor and wrecked the library of Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, were traced to the bedchamber arsenal of Henry J. Klotz, a young draftsman employed by the city. Klotz, who was mangled by a bomb he was constructing recently, was arrested on a charge of homicide in connection with the death of the Taylor woman.

The typewritten addresses on the boxes containing the bombs sent to Mrs. Taylor and Judge Rosalsky were pronounced by an expert as identical with the lettering of a typewriter in Klotz' office. In Klotz' bedroom the experts also found chemicals such as were used in these two bombs.

Klotz lived near Mrs. Madeline Herrera, who also was killed on Feb. 2, last, by a bomb.

The police are trying to ascertain if he had a hand in this outrage.

She gave a delightful interpretation of the opera, giving little illustrating musical snatches from its delightful music. She spoke of the old Grecian music and traced its influence down into the music of De Bussy, illustrating with two Gregorian chants, sung by ten boys of the choir of the Sacred Heart cathedral, who sang them sweetly and with delightful freshness.

She traced the various themes of which the opera is woven, bringing out their individual beauty and the exquisite workmanship of the composer in his building.

"There is no predominance," she said, "but the themes simply serve to heighten the effects produced by the action or mood of the characters."

After the lecture-recital the guests met Mrs. C. C. McCarthy of Grand Rapids, vice president of the Eighth district of Federation of Women's Clubs, who was a guest of honor at the meeting yesterday. Mrs. McCarthy made a short talk, speaking of the annual convention which will be held in Virginia in May and saying that the drama was to be featured in the program which will be given then. Tea was served during this social hour.

GOOD PROGRAM.

Irish-American Society Enjoys Meeting.

Mrs. John Murphy led a program of general interest at the meeting of the Irish-American Literary society held in the cathedral hall, last evening.

Rev. Father Lydon spoke of the Irish people and their appreciation for good music and literature and deplored the present day "rag-time" which has become so popular and of the intense patriotism of the Irish people and their love of freedom. Father McCarthy told of his visit to Ireland fifteen years ago and incidents of his trip.

Miss Rose Sullivan read an interesting paper on the "Fenian Movement in Ireland," in which she traced the oppressions of the Irish people and their forming in bands to punish the tyrants. A chapter of Irish history pertaining to Catholic schools and education was also read by Miss Haley.

One of the most interesting numbers of the evening was the appearance of the Glee club of thirty girls selected from the cathedral school who are under the training of Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker. They sang "Beautiful Moonlight," by Glover and "When I Dream of Old Erin," delightfully.

An Irish jig by Misses Frances and Winnifred McHale was much enjoyed and a Spanish dance and Highland fling were also prettily given.

Miss Elizabeth McGraw delighted the audience with a piano solo, "Neath Weeping Willows," which she followed with the encore, "Convent Bells," and Miss Mary Hubbard read an interesting little sketch, "St. Patrick's Cross" which was given artistically, and she responded with two encores.

TEMPERANCE.

Lester Park Club Hears Good Talks.

Temperance was the subject of the meeting of the Lester Park Literary society which was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. W. Palmer, 6001 East Superior street. Mrs. Harriet L. Carey was the leader and gave a fine talk on the subject urging temperance in speech as well as in drink, for a person, she pointed out, may be intemperate in more ways than one.

Mrs. Helen Stewart spoke of the fact that drunkenness causes tuberculosis which can, she said, be stamped out in two generations, but the effects of intemperance will hang on for a hundred years in a family.

Mrs. Alfred Jaques spoke of the efforts of the W. C. T. U. to secure in every state a law providing that the effects of alcohol and narcotics be taught in the public schools.

Mrs. W. H. Hancock read two pieces, "Conversion of the Rum Seller" and "A Knot of White Ribbon," both of which were well given.

VISITORS INVITED.

Woman's Relief Corps Will Meet.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Memorial hall in the courthouse and a cordial invitation is extended to all visitors in the city who are members of the order to attend this meeting.

MOTHERS' CLUB.

Women Invited to Meeting at School.

An open meeting of the Park Point Mothers' and Teachers' club will be held Friday afternoon of this week at the school building to which all women interested are cordially invited. The subject for the afternoon will be "What Makes a Home?" on which impromptu talks will be given and an informal discussion held.

Dr. John Henry Andres, one of the visiting physicians of the public schools will give a talk on "Medical Inspection in the Schools," and children in Miss Johnston's grade at the school will entertain with songs, recitations and folk dancing.

Sophomore Hop.

Sophomores of the Duluth Central high school will have their annual hop Friday evening at the school building. The class and school colors will decorate the corridors and La Brosse's orchestra ha been engaged for the evening. Member of the other classes and the alumni are invited to the party, which will be chaperoned by members of the faculty. The usual spread will not be given for the class preceding the dance as only a few of the members were interested.

MASQUERADE.

Elks' Give Costume Dancing Party.

Members of the Elks lodge were hosts last evening of a masquerade party at the lodge building on West First street which proved one of the jolliest affairs of the season. About 100 couples attended and fancy and comic costumes elaborately carried out were interesting and effective. The pretty ballroom which has recently been redecorated was unadorned and made a pretty background for the dancers among whom were colonial ladies and gentlemen in powdered wigs and fancy velvets and satins, men in military uniforms, clowns and darkies. La Brosse's orchestra played for the dancing and after the unmasking a supper was served at 11:30 in the dining room.

OPEN MEETING.

Century Club Plans Interesting Afternoon.

A general invitation is extended to all interested to hear the talks on "Pottery" which will be given by Miss Jessie Thomson and on Louisa Calvert Hall's book, "Hand Woven Coverlets" by Mrs. A. B. Hilton, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at an open meeting of the Twentieth Century club to be held in the library club room. Samples of pottery will be shown, and no admission will be charged.

A request is made that all who intend to go donate copies of books, magazines or children's literature for the reading room which the club is furnishing at the Bryant school social center, if they are interested in the plan.

BETHEL MEETING.

Miss Obert Will Speak to Women

Miss Cora E. Obert, matron of the Bethel Home, will be the speaker at the regular Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Bethel, Mesaba avenue and West First street. All women interested are cordially invited to attend this meeting. No admission is charged and following the talk a social half hour is enjoyed.

Annual Church Meetings.

The annual meeting of the Altar guild and the officers of St. John's Episcopal church at Lakeside will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church and the annual parish meeting of the same church will be held at the church Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Birthday Dinner.

Miss Regina Homicke was hostess at a dinner party last evening at her home at which Miss Kathryn Gram was the guest of honor, the day being her 20th birthday anniversary. Miss Grams received many pretty gifts from the following guests:

Misses—
Elizabeth Schultz, Angeline La Ducke.
Alice McDonahue,
Viviene Du Dea,

Messrs.—
George Henrickes, Glennon La Jamelee.
Vernon La Ferte, Leonard Rubinsteer.
James La Roeche,
Arnold La Pointe.

Last Meeting.

At the last meeting of the year of the class in Parliamentary law of the Twentieth Century club which was held yesterday at the library club room it was decided to continue the subject next year as this year's class has proven of great value to its members, but definite arrangements for the conducting of the class were left to be decided upon at the first meeting in the fall.

With Miss Thurston.

Mrs. H. S. Sawyer is in St. Paul this week with her daughter, Miss Adelaide Thurston, who is appearing in "The Love Affair" there and who will be seen here in that play next week. Miss Thurston will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank E. Parker, 1510 East Superior street during her stay in Duluth and a number of social affairs are being planned in her honor.

This is Miss Thurston's first homecoming in a professional way for four years and her many friends and admirers here are eagerly awaiting the chance to see her in her new role.

Miss Thurston spent a few weeks in Duluth last spring before going to Europe where she spent the summer studying and resting but as she was in mourning at that time over the death of her father her friends did not have a chance to entertain for her.

School Concert.

The entertainment by pupils of the Jackson school which was arranged for Friday evening, March 14, and which was postponed on account of the storm will be given on Friday evening of this week at the school building, Fifth avenue west and Third street at 8 o'clock. Folk dances, drills, recitations, songs and choruses will be given by the pupils assisted by Mrs. Jane Everington Scully and Miss Loretta O'Gorman both of whom will give vocal solos.

Bridge Party.

Mrs. Nathan Kris of 511 East Second street was hostess at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home in compliment to Mrs. F. Rizkin of Cloquet. The game was played at three tables the prize being won by Mrs. D. Davidson, and the guest prize by Mrs. Rizkin.

Bankers Hosts.

Members of the Duluth chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be hosts at a dancing party this evening at Coffin's academy. This is the third of a series which these young men have been giving this winter and which have proved most attractive parties.

Card Party.

The Sisters of the Sons of Herman will entertain at a card party for members and friends this evening at Kalamazoo hall.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. George C. Wagner of 3827 West Fifth street entertained at a birthday party yesterday afternoon for her little daughter, Bernice. The time was pleasantly spent in games and music after which a dainty luncheon was served to the following:

FOUND INTENDED HAD BEEN MARRIED

ELIZABETH WOOD.

Elizabeth M. Wood, a Los Angeles heiress, created a sensation on the Pacific coast recently by announcing the breaking of her engagement to Capt. James Campbell Besley, a member of the English polo team which has played at Los Angeles during the past season. On the team with Besley were Lord Tweedmouth and other distinguished Englishmen. Miss Wood became acquainted with the captain while he was in Los Angeles with the team. After a time rumors reached her and a firm of detectives was engaged to investigate them. These men reported that the captain had a wife living in San Francisco. She was a Miss Marjorie Bennett and she had married Besley in Alaska in 1901. In 1903 she had got a divorce from him but the final decree had never been entered. She gives Besley a bad character.

Vera, of 14 North Seventeenth avenue east returned yesterday from Sparta, Wis., where they visited relatives for a few weeks.

Mrs. C. E. Jondreau of 224 West Third street is expected home Friday from a week's visit in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Smith of 3001 Greysolon road returned last evening from a visit of several weeks to Southern California.

QUARTET HEARD AT Y. M. C. A. "POP"

The Eldorado mixed quartet was the main feature of the popular free entertainment given last evening in the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian association. After two Tuesdays had been allowed to go by without a Y. M. C. A. "pop," owing to confliction with other affairs, the public was all the more eager to enjoy this usual weekly treat. The quartet is composed of Mrs. Kelly Compton, soprano; Miss Marjorie Woodenly, contralto; H. A. Franchere, tenor, and Clyde Cordner, bass. Several highly appreciated selections were rendered, with accompaniment by Miss Violet Flaaten.

Miss Theresa Diehl gave two delightful readings of humorous selections. The violin duet selections, performed by the Lavick brothers, were received with evident delight.

During the latter part of the evening a basket ball game was played between the Giants and the Midgets. The Giants won by a score of 36 to 20.

NOT WIVES FOR US ALL

There Are 5,400,000 More Men in the World Than Women---Some Startling Figures.

New York American: If every woman in America was mated to a man there would still be left over more men than there are people in the entire state of Missouri.

In other words, there are more than 3,500,000 more men than women in America, according to statistics that have been compiled and re-examined within the last ten years, this being done by no less an authority than St. Gullschambarow.

And, according to this same authority, there are less than 5,500,000 more men than women in all the world. If this is the case, then, with 3,800,000 of the 5,400,000 extra men in the world in America, it is in the Old World for the most part where women predominate.

Excess of 5,000,000 Men.

The investigator, St. Gullschambarow, places the population of the world at 1,700,000,000. Of this number he found it possible to get facts concerning the sex of 662,000,000 of these, and so his figures really concern the 1,038,600,000 of the total of 1,700,000,000 people on earth.

Of this number concerning which facts are available there are 521,700,000 men and 516,300,000 women, making the difference of 5,400,000 extra men in the world.

Figured out on a ratio per thousand basis, there are 990 women for every 1,000 men in the world. Fifteen years ago the estimate was that the men exceeded the women in numbers in every part of the world except Europe. But the most recent figures show us that Europe is by no means alone in having an excess of women.

Women In Africa.

Africa has caught up in this respect, and has gone even further. For every 1,000 men in Africa there are 1,045 women, while in Europe the ratio is 1,027 women. For the rest of the world the women are still in the minority; in America there are 964, in Asia 961, and in Australia 937 for every 1,000 men.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE'S JEST.

New York Mail: Elizabeth Wilson, 5-year-old grandniece of the president, has received a big box of candy from Chief Justice White, sequel to an incident in the presidential stand at the inauguration.

Elizabeth, who was seated beside the chief justice while the parade was passing, gave him her proud opinion of the new president.

"Oh, no," said the chief justice with a smile, "that can't be."

"And why is that?" she asked.

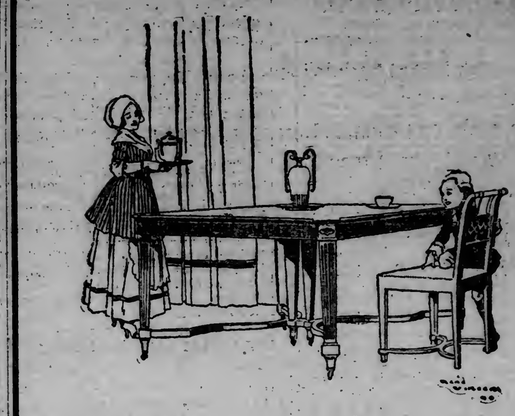
STAMP SAVES DOG'S LIFE.

New York Times: The parcel post saved the life of a fox terrier in Hackensack, N. J., yesterday. The dog wandered into the postoffice there, John Keenan, the special delivery carrier, who loves dogs, spied it. Seeing that the dog was without a license Keenan put a parcel post stamp on its collar to protect it. The carrier then started on his rounds and the dog trailed behind him.

At Main and Mercer streets Dog Catcher Joseph Dalla, who has a record of 662 dogs caught in the last year and a half, saw the dog. He started to pick it up, but Keenan said to him:

"Don't touch that dog. Don't you see that he is mail matter?"



The dog catcher did not touch the dog.

FURNITURE of refinement

When you buy a piece of Berkey & Gay furniture you make the same kind of an investment that you make when you buy a flawless diamond. You are getting something that you will be proud to show to your friends—something that will increase in value as the years go by. You are getting something that your children will have pride in when they inherit it. Don't get the idea that such furniture is beyond your means. It isn't.

A Berkey & Gay "Flanders" piece is the last word in oak furniture. It represents oak at its very best. It makes ordinary oak furniture look cheap and ridiculous.

Berkey & Gay solid mahogany is not merely mahogany on the outside. It is all mahogany. And it represents the highest development in the art of furniture-making. Step in and examine our line of Berkey & Gay products. We are the exclusive Berkey & Gay representatives here.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Nearly Everyone Talks "Shop," One Time or Another.

"Every word that falls from woman's tongue may be accepted as the truth, save on those occasions when they talk of clothes," declared an old English judge facetiously.

This is a roundabout way of proffering womankind a sugar-coated pill, for the inference is that women never talk about anything else. Of course, it is not strictly true to say that women's talk is all of clothes, but one who listens while their tongues wag on, when two or more of them are gathered together, can readily see some basis for the accusation.

But if women talk or clothes incessantly with other women, it is a common ground and does not bore the average female. It is a topic that the dullest and stupidest can discuss with more or less intelligence and animation, and, while the subject may be always clothes, it is, thanks to fleeting fashion, ever a changing one.

Even though women do talk shop—which, to the sex, is the subject of clothes—do not men do the same thing, in more or less degree? Nearly all of us have some hobby which we delight in discussing with others whenever we have the chance. If it is not shop, or business, it is something else. The subject of clothes lies nearest the average woman's heart—nearest of the superficial things, I mean. Consequently, they talk about it a great deal.

But if you get two or more men together, especially if they are engaged in the same or similar lines of business or work, they are pretty apt to discuss it. Others, in fact, nearly all men, especially at times of political stress and excitement, talk politics. If several couples are together for an evening, the women are pretty apt, in lieu of some form of entertainment common to all present, to group off and discuss clothes, while the men go off together to smoke and talk business.

I asked a man interested in sports the other day what I should write about for the next day. He mentioned a big sporting event about to come off, for a subject. It was a ridiculous suggestion, of course, but he thought it would have a side that interested the women. Another man, interested in art, suggested a subject in that connection. Each man immediately took hold of the subject that lay nearest his heart, and thought it was the subject that ought to interest everybody else.

Yes, we all talk shop more or less, and, if we would not be bores, should be careful not to imagine that it interests others quite so much as ourselves, unless we are sure of our auditors.

VISITORS INVITED.

Woman's Relief Corps Will Meet.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Memorial hall in the courthouse and a cordial invitation is extended to all visitors in the city who are members of the order to attend this meeting.

MOTHERS' CLUB.

Women Invited to Meeting at School.

An open meeting of the Park Point Mothers' and Teachers' club will be held Friday afternoon of this week at the school building to which all women interested are cordially invited. The subject for the afternoon will be "What Makes a Home?" on which impromptu talks will be given and an informal discussion held.

Dr. John Henry Andres, one of the visiting physicians of the public schools will give a talk on "Medical Inspection in the Schools," and children in Miss Johnston's grade at the school will entertain with songs, recitations and folk dancing.

Sophomore Hop.

Sophomores of the Duluth Central high school will have their annual hop Friday evening at the school building. The class and school colors will decorate the corridors and La Brosse's orchestra ha been engaged for the evening. Member of the other classes and the alumni are invited to the party, which will be chaperoned by members of the faculty. The usual spread will not be given for the class preceding the dance as only a few of the members were interested.

MASQUERADE.

Elks' Give Costume Dancing Party.

Members of the Elks lodge were hosts last evening of a masquerade party at the lodge building on West First street which proved one of the jolliest affairs of the season. About 100 couples attended and fancy and comic costumes elaborately carried out were interesting and effective. The pretty ballroom which has recently been redecorated was unadorned and made a pretty background for the dancers among whom were colonial ladies and gentlemen in powdered wigs and fancy velvets and satins, men in military uniforms, clowns and darkies. La Brosse's orchestra played for the dancing and after the unmasking a supper was served at 11:30 in the dining room.

OPEN MEETING.

Century Club Plans Interesting Afternoon.

A general invitation is extended to all interested to hear the talks on "Pottery" which will be given by Miss Jessie Thomson and on Louisa Carver Hall's book, "Hand Woven Coverlets" by Mrs. A. B. Illiton, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at an open meeting of the Twentieth Century club to be held in the library club room. Samples of pottery will be shown, and no admission will be charged.

A request is made that all who intend to go donate copies of books, magazines or children's literature for the reading room which the club is furnishing at the Bryant school social center, if they are interested in the plan.

BETHEL MEETING.

Miss Obert Will Speak to Women

Miss Cora E. Obert, matron of the Bethel Home, will be the speaker at the regular Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Bethel, Mesaba avenue and West First street. All women interested are cordially invited to attend this meeting. No admission is charged and following the talk a social half hour is enjoyed.

Annual Church Meetings.

The annual meeting of the Altar guild and the officers of St. John's Episcopal church at Lakeside will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church and the annual parish meeting of the same church will be held at the church Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Birthday Dinner.

Miss Regina Homicke was hostess at a dinner party last evening at her home at which Miss Kathryn Gram was the guest of honor, the day being her 20th birthday anniversary. Miss Grams received many pretty gifts from the following guests:

Misses—
Elizabeth Schultz, Angeline La Vercke.
Alice McDonahue, Pucke.
Viviene Du Bea,

Messrs.—
George Hendrickes. Glennon La Jamelse.
Vernon La Ferte. Leonard Rubinsteer.
James La Reeche,
Arnold La Pointe.

Last Meeting.

At the last meeting of the year of the class in Parliamentary law of the Twentieth Century club which was held yesterday at the library club room it was decided to continue the subject next year as this year's class has proven of great value to its members, but definite arrangements for the conducting of the class were left to be decided upon at the first meeting in the fall.

With Miss Thurston.

Mrs. H. S. Sawyer is in St. Paul this week with her daughter, Miss Adelaide Thurston, who is appearing in "The Love Affair" there and who will be seen here in that play next week. Miss Thurston will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank E. Parker, 1516 East Superior street during her stay in Duluth and a number of social affairs are being planned in her honor.

This is Miss Thurston's first homecoming in a professional way for four years and her many friends and admirers here are eagerly awaiting the chance to see her in her new role.

Miss Thurston spent a few weeks in Duluth last spring before going to Europe where she spent the summer studying and resting but as she was in mourning at that time over the death of her father her friends did not have a chance to entertain for her.

School Concert.

The entertainment by pupils of the Jackson school which was arranged for Friday evening, March 14, and which was postponed on account of the storm will be given on Friday evening of this week at the school building, Fifth avenue west and Third street at 8 o'clock. Folk dances, drills, recitations, songs and choruses will be given by the pupils assisted by Mrs. Jane Everlington Scully and Miss Loretta O'Gorman both of whom will give vocal solos.

Bridge Party.

Mrs. Nathan Kris of 511 East Second street was hostess at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home in compliment to Mrs. F. Rizkin of Cloquet. The game was played at three tables the prize being won by Mrs. D. Davidson, and the guest prize by Mrs. Rizkin.

Bankers Hosts.

Members of the Duluth chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be hosts at a dancing party this evening at Coffin's academy. This is the third of a series which these young men have been giving this winter and which have proved most attractive parties.

Card Party.

The Sisters of the Sons of Herman will entertain at a card party for members and friends this evening at Kalumazoo hall.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. George C. Wagner of 3827 West Fifth street entertained at a birthday party yesterday afternoon for her little daughter, Bernice. The time was pleasantly spent in games and music after which a dainty luncheon was served to the following:

Mesdames—
Fred Koepke, J. Johnson.

For Mrs. Nichols.

Mrs. A. E. Kirby of 1826 Woodland avenue entertained eight of her friends yesterday afternoon at an informal sewing party in compliment to Mrs. D. H. Nichols of Chicago, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. N. Whiting.

Mrs. Whiting has invited guests to a bridge party on Friday afternoon of this week at her home, 1530 East Superior street in honor of her daughter.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. J. A. Todd of 218 North Tenth avenue east was hostess today at a bridge luncheon at the Holland hotel. The luncheon was served at nine card tables at which the bridge was played following the luncheon.

Card Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Ehalen of 1906 East Fifth street entertained at cards last evening at their home. Five hundred was played at three tables.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. B. Hanson of 1621 East Third street is visiting her daughter, Miss Minnie Hanson at Bismarck, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. DeWitt of 15 North Fifteenth avenue east have returned from a visit in the East.

Miss Ethel Hodge will return Saturday from Menomonie, Wis., where she is taking a course in domestic science, to spend a week here with her mother, Mrs. Martha Hodge of Fifteenth avenue east and Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Smith of 3001 Greyscien road returned last evening from a visit of several weeks to Southern California.

FOUND INTENDED HAD BEEN MARRIED

ELIZABETH WOOD.

Elizabeth M. Wood, a Los Angeles heiress, created a sensation on the Pacific coast recently by announcing the breaking of her engagement to Capt. James Campbell Besley a member of the English polo team which has played at Los Angeles during the past season. On the team with Besley were Lord Tweedmouth and other distinguished Englishmen. Miss Wood became acquainted with the captain while he was in Los Angeles with the team. After a time rumors reached her and a firm of detectives was engaged to investigate them. These men reported that the captain had a wife living in San Francisco. She was a Miss Marjorie Bennett and she had married Besley in Alaska in 1901. In 1903 she had got a divorce from him but the final decree had never been entered. She gives Besley a bad character.

QUARTET HEARD AT Y. M. C. A. "POP"

The Eldorado mixed quartet was the main feature of the popular free entertainment given last evening in the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian association. After two Tuesdays had been allowed to go by without a Y. M. C. A. "pop," owing to confliction with other affairs, the public was all the more eager to enjoy this usual weekly treat. The quartet is composed of Miss Nelly Compton, soprano; Miss Marjorie Wonderly, contralto; H. A. Franchere, tenor, and Clyde Cordner, bass. Several highly appreciated selections were rendered with accompaniment by Miss Violet Flaaten.

Miss Theresa Diehl gave two delightful readings of humorous selections. The violin duet selections, performed by the Lavick brothers, were received with evident delight.

During the latter part of the evening a basket ball game was played between the Giants and the Midgets. The Giants won by a score of 36 to 20.

NOT WIVES FOR US ALL

There Are 5,400,000 More Men in the World Than Women---Some Startling Figures.

New York American: If every woman in America was mated to a man there would still be left over more men than there are people in the entire state of Missouri.

In other words, there are more than 2,500,000 more men than women in America, according to statistics that have been compiled and re-examined within the last few years. This being done by no less an authority than St. Gullschambarow.

And, according to this same authority, there are less than 5,500,000 more men than women in all the world. If this is the case, then, with 2,500,000 of the 5,400,000 extra men in the world in America, it is in the Old World for the most part where women predominate.

Excess of 5,000,000 Men.

The investigator, St. Gullschambarow, places the population of the world at 1,700,000,000. Of this number he found it possible to get facts concerning the sex of 662,000,000 of these, and so his figures really concern the 1,038,000,000 of the total of 1,700,000,000 people on earth.

Of this number concerning which facts are available there are 521,700,000 men and 516,300,000 women, making the difference of 5,400,000 extra men in the world.

Figured out on a ratio per thousand basis, there are 990 women for every 1,000 men in the world. Fifteen years ago the estimate was that the men exceeded the women in numbers in every part of the world except Europe. But the most recent figures show us that Europe is by no means alone in having an excess of women.

Women in Africa.

Africa has caught up in this respect, and has gone even further. For every 1,000 men in Africa there are 1,045 women, while in Europe the ratio is 1,027 women. For the rest of the world the women are still in the minority: In America there are 964, in Asia 961, and in Australia 937 for every 1,000 men.

In certain parts of Africa the preponderance of women is quite remarkable. Thus in Uganda there are 1,467 women for every 1,000 men. On the other hand, the West and the Northwest of the United States show a serious shortage of women. The condition is also acute in Canada and in the western part of Australia. In the mining regions of Alaska the proportion of women is only 589 to 1,000 men. THE HAVOC OF THE ELEMENTS.

Nothing is more appalling than the occurrence of such disasters and suffering as are reported from the states of Nebraska, Ohio and Indiana. The news service wires are being burdened with fearful stories of loss of life, not to mention terrible destruction of property. Homes that a few hours before were apparently secure have been swept away, taking with them the savings of years, and in many cases some or all the members of families have been swept to death.

In such times as these a vast wave of sympathy goes from all the other sections of the country to the people of the afflicted districts. We read of such disasters in foreign lands and the words move us but little. But in these instances now being reported the suffering and deprivation come nearer home, and we realize them with greater force and vividness.

It but adds to the horror of the thing that the tragedies of the storm are nothing that human foresight or ingenuity can prevent. Heavy rains that bring abnormal conditions in the streams, or high winds that overthrow the work of men that ordinarily would stand for years, come with little or no warning, and in the twinkling of an eye lives are snuffed out and hundreds or even thousands left destitute.

The most that other communities can do is to offer financial and other material aid to the destitute, and this is something which the American people are always ready to undertake. So in the face of the devastation in the central parts of the country, the sufferers can know that they not only have the sympathy of others more fortunate than they, but that as fast as their wants and needs may become known, substantial assistance will be forthcoming. The Herald feels safe in promising that if there is any means by which the people of Duluth can do anything to relieve the suffering in the stricken districts, there will be no hesitation or delay in forwarding that relief. And the least that we of the north can do is to extend our most sincere sympathy to those whose homes and hopes have been devastated by the elements.

As another example of the peculiarities of our language, it may be remarked that nightly expeditions are not necessarily knightly.

LIMIT THE LEGISLATURE.

Sometime—probably at the 1917 session, the first one after the next state census—the Minnesota legislature will be called on to make another reapportionment. If the comparative rate of growth in the different sections of the state continues as it has been in the last few years, that census will show the distribution of legislative members just completed to be entirely unjust at that time.

There is, therefore, all the more reason why preparation should be begun at once for that new reapportionment, and the best step that has been suggested is embraced in the constitutional amendment proposed in a bill offered by Representative G. W. Brown of Glencoe. This would restrict the membership in the Minnesota legislature to 50 senators and 100 representatives.

Fifty senators is a great plenty in any state legislature. There are at present only four states in the Union that have more than that number. These are: Alabama, 54; Illinois, 51; Minnesota, 67; and New York, 51. In the other states the number of senators ranges from 17 to 50. Even New Hampshire, which indulges itself to the extent of 405 members of the house (approximately one for every thousand of population) has but 20 senators, and many of the states limit their senatorial membership to 30 or 33.

Neither is there any particular reason why there should be more than 100 members in the house. Twenty-seven of the forty-eight states now have 100 or less members in that part of their legislatures, and among this number is Wisconsin, which has come to be recognized as a leader in legislative work. The only thing to look out for is that the representation be apportioned fairly, according to population.

As long as Minnesota remains under its present form of state government there is every advantage in making the application of that form as simple and reasonable as possible. A legislature of 150 members can do just as much for the state as one of 200 or more members, and Minnesota is drifting rapidly toward the 200-or-more class. Now is the time to get away from that tendency, and the way to do so is for the legislature to adopt Representative Brown's amendment and submit it to the people at the next election. If the amendment is adopted the state will save $47,000 outright on legislative salaries, and will be still further the gainer by having a more effective legislative body than it is at all certain of securing under the present system.

The line that marks the distinction between an honest man and a grafter lies right alongside the one that divides one man's opportunities from another man's necessities.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

Duluth has put on her brightest and best attire in honor of the coming of the Sunday school workers, and is glad to welcome today the delegates to the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association. All the snow-drifts were freshly dusted with snow-powder last night so as to appear in their most dazzling brilliancy, and the sun this morning fulfilled its part of the preparations by shining its brightest for the benefit of the visitors.

Duluthians who can possibly attend the discussions at the meetings that begin tonight will be missing something really beneficial if they fail to take advantage of this opportunity. The study of the Bible has been eliminated from the public schools, but it is none the less an important study, not only from the standpoint of religion, but from those of history and literature. In the meetings that will be held in Duluth for the remainder of the week, methods of Bible study will be discussed by men and women who have been conducting that line of work for years, and who will give here their experiences and conclusions.

And there will be singing—such singing as many do not often hear. It will be the kind of singing that gets into the heart and makes life seem more worth living and one's own part in life something that demands service for one's fellow men. It will be inspiring music, and there will be inspiring talks, and altogether this will be a series of meetings worth going to.

We are glad to welcome the Sunday school people. They have undertaken a great and invaluable work, and one in which they are entitled to encouragement and assistance.

Halley's comet is no longer on the job, but apparently there is another one hanging around somewhere.

FOR THE GOOD OF THE WHOLE STATE.

Although Northern Minnesota will receive the most direct benefit if the legislature passes the bill, already advanced to the senate calendar, providing for expenditures for road and fire-break construction in the north, the benefit from such action will extend to the whole state.

The bill calls for protection not only to settlers in the region designated, but for safeguarding of the state's immense timber areas. There have been many and fearful examples of the need of such protection. Lives have been lost and property worth millions of dollars has been destroyed in conflagrations that swept mercilessly over the northern timber regions. It is to give the state the means of checking any such outbreaks before they assume the proportions of real forest fires that this bill has been prepared and presented to the legislature.

But it will not only prevent the destruction of state property and furnish protection for the settlers already there. It will make it possible and practicable for the state to bring in other settlers. It is unreasonable to expect men to expose themselves and their families and their savings to the perils of forest conflagrations, and until protection is assured to prospective settlers the settlement of the rich acres of the state will be slow work. The faster this land is taken up by bona fide settlers, the better it will be for the state. So this bill is in fact only a step toward making the state land more marketable. In addition, there will be the publicity attendant upon the installation of the most approved methods of communication and protection in these areas, and this in itself will help to bring desirable settlers to Minnesota.

The bill before the senate is important to all Minnesota. It should meet with favorable action, and the proposed funds be made available as soon as possible.

Somebody forgot to get the weather an Easter lid.

Never mind. You'll have a chance yet to swat a few flies.

Take a good look at your lawn and then see if you can find it in your heart to curse the dandelions.

Don't just think you know about marking your ballot. Make sure of it before you enter the booth on April 1.

"Suffragines" More Harmonious.

London Globe: High place must be accorded the Women's Franchise League of Chaux-de-Fonds (Switzerland). They have adopted the name "suffragines"—a word which they say is more harmonious than suffragette.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 350 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CLAIMS THEY HAD A CONTRACT FOR HALL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In behalf of the Socialist candidates I desire to ask for some space to reply to Father Ciclek's arguments.

On what grounds do we lay claim to the use of the Polish hall?

We had made a contract for the hall and could have enforced it had we chosen to do so. We wanted the hall for a campaign meeting and were no more interested in the religion of the owners of the place than we are in yesterday's newspaper.

"We are well aware of the anti-Catholic work of the movement," says the father. We deny this. Our movement is a political movement and has nothing to do with religion. There are Catholics, Protestants, Jews and atheists among us. All we require of a Socialist is that he recognize the necessity of united action of the working class on the political and industrial field. Towne is a Protestant, Edes is a Methodist, Blackwood belongs to a Baptist church, Phillips is a disbeliever and Kaplan is a Theosophist.

We have engaged the Armory for next Sunday afternoon. We stand ready to debate on: "Is the Socialist party opposed to religion?" with any minister or priest who is willing to take the affirmative. We will pay all expenses. In fact, we have decided to speak on this subject if we can get no opponent. It is up to you, gentlemen.

MAX HOLDER,
Campaign Manager of the Socialist Candidates.
Duluth, March 25.

One Day's Work

Mary Champion in the London Express: You have a hard thing to do. So hard it is that your breath comes short when you think about it, and your heart sinks down and down a bottomless pit of despondency.

If you let it go on sinking down and down you are done for; so stop it! Climb up again and look around.

You underrate your own courage if you tell yourself you cannot accomplish this task which looms before you.

Men have done great things before now—things which make one gasp at the splendor and glory of human achievement. Do you think their hearts never failed them; that they never looked forward with utter weariness to the heights they must climb and the seas they must cross and the years they must wait before success crown them?

How did they manage it?

The secret is simple.

Through the eyes of imagination they pictured their distant goal as close to them; they saw it only one day ahead. Then they did one day's work—cheerfully, hopefully. And still the goal was one day distant—only one day; and, in fact, it had been brought one day nearer.

Sometimes through weariness or discouragement the goal vanished from sight, but the acquired habit of plodding on steadfastly, step by step, one day at a time, from hour to hour, brought them close to it in spite of themselves. And so, necessarily, at last, they "arrived."

"For tasks in hours of insight willed
Can be through hours of gloom fulfilled."

Never were truer words spoken.

Let us make the most of our "hours of insight," never thinking of the visions we see in them as delusive dreams and impossible ideals.

To dream great dreams and then shrink from the sacrifices and hard work that the effort to make them come true involves, is to act the part of a coward. More than this, it means misery.

You cannot be wholly unhappy while a beautiful Wish hovers near you on butterfly wings, and you are making wild efforts to grasp it. As long as the chase lasts you are happy—the joy of the sportsman is yours—the sportsman who plays the game for its own sake and not the prize he may win.

But once you give up and admit defeat there can be no more brightness for you, no more beauty and delight in the world. Your heart groans under a weight of unconfessed failure. And this burden must be carried all your life long—there is no shifting it; no friend's help makes the trouble endurable.

You are not going to be a failure, my reader! You will achieve the "glory of going on" at least, which is the best one can do in this world where success is not to be commanded by mortal.

You may think you cannot bear the trouble which has come upon you. It may seem impossible to live through the consequences of your mistake or your sin or the misdeeds of others.

The magnitude of the task laid upon your shoulders staggers and appalls you. Your duties are so monotonous that you do not know how to bear the continued dull round.

Well! I know all this. I know just that feeling of hopeless weakness. I know the length of the narrow, black tunnel you must traverse before you come out again into the light of day.

And I still say—go on!

You do not know your own strength or courage—you do not know what you can bear—you have not guessed the heights and depths of your character.

The depths you need not plumb—leave them beneath you. The heights must be scaled, and if you believe in yourself you will reach the summit.

You look forward now and sigh—"Impossible! I can never be brave enough to do that!"

Some day you will look back and smile. "Fancy doubting! Fancy fearing! Fancy hesitating to make the attempt! And here I am! Not on the heights, maybe, but some way up the steep hillside.

"There can be no more doubts or fears—I will go on in faith, one step at a time, from one day to the next, until the eternal dawn breaks upon the soul's Himalayas."

Deer Horns for Rheumatism.

Indianapolis News: A quantity of deer horn that had been shaved into thin layers, and which the Chinese value highly for curative qualities, passed through the Indianapolis customhouse today, consigned to a Chinese merchant.

A duty of 25 per cent of the value was assessed. Deer horn, the Chinese say, possesses curative properties for rheumatism and a great deal of it is said to be imported to this country by the Chinese for rheumatic people. The horn is shaved into such thin particles that it is possible to read a newspaper through a shaving. The Chinese make a tea from the shavings and drink it, believing that it will drive rheumatism from the blood.

Sunday School as Held in 1823

Mrs. Louisa G. Woodbury in The Springfield Republican.

I well remember when the first Sunday school was organized in the little town of Fairlee, Vt. I don't know how old I was, perhaps 5. We met in the village schoolhouse. There was a good deal of talking and that is all I can tell about it, except that a young lady came to me and heard me repeat a hymn I had been taught, and what do you think it was?

Hark from the tombs a doleful sound,
Mine ears attend the cry.
Ye living men come view the ground
Where you must shortly lie.

Princes, this clay must be your bed
In spite of all your towers,
The tall, the wise, the reverend head
Must lie as low as ours.

and so on.

Of course a superintendent was chosen and plans made, but I was too young to understand. The schools were held at noon, between the morning and afternoon service. The children were seated in the pews on each side of the broad aisle, the girls on one side and the boys on the other, and a teacher at the head of each pew. The school was opened with prayer by the superintendent or the minister, if he were present, and at the close we stood up and sang the Sicilian hymn, "Lord dismiss us," etc., or occasionally, Greenville's "Gently Lord," etc. At first we learned verses from the New Testament, as many as we chose; some would repeat whole chapters. We had some little tickets given us occasionally; as I remember them they were about two and a half inches long, and a little more than an inch wide, with a verse from the scripture printed on them, the paper slightly colored. As there was no means of warming the church in winter, no schools were held in the cold weather. It may have been the second year we had a little book, I think a sort of church history, with questions and answers. I remember I liked that. At one time they gave us certificates with a hymn printed on one side that we could learn if we chose.

One year the school were required to learn the Ten Commandments, and I was not a little proud when someone in Miss Sabin's class was called upon to repeat the fourth, which I was able to do, only the superintendent requested me to speak a little louder. I had no trouble in repeating it, but I doubt if I could be heard out of the pew. Later on a change was made and we were to learn fifteen verses (out of the New Testament of course) and each teacher had a class bill with the name of the pupil at top, and she or he kept a record. It was marked "Perfect," "Imperfect," "Bad," "Absent," and the number of verses was marked, and when the school closed in the autumn the name of each pupil was read by the superintendent before the school, I recollect one Sunday I repeated, I think, twelve and couldn't for the life of me think of the next, so rather than have fifteen imperfect, I stopped there.

I don't remember how long the schools had continued, when at the close of the term before the winter set in, each pupil was given a small silver piece, four pence half-penny so called (6¼ cents), and then we were invited to give that toward a Sunday school library. I think all gave their money, except one girl, Sally Curtis. I suppose she thought a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush. Her family were poor and I suppose the little silver piece was very attractive. I remember my mother made it in her way to pass along by the pew where I was sitting to see whether I was ready to give my money. She need have no fears for a book had far more attraction for me than a piece of money. In due time we got our library. Our minister was Rev. Sylvester Dana. He preached one-half the time in Fairlee, and one-half in Orford. It was only a little further for us to go to Orford, cross the bridge and go a little way.

There were some wealthy people in Orford who attended Mr. Dana's meeting—Capt. Wheeler's family, and the Brittons. The Willard's are descendants of the Wheelers. I write of this because they were church-going people and were workers in the Sunday school and contributed largely, no doubt for the library. Capt. Wheeler I remember as addressing the Sunday school and said to us in a rather pompous way "to come into the church still (stepping lightly he meant), as we gentlemen do." One son of Capt. Wheeler was John W., president of the Vermont university at Burlington, Vt., one, Everett, was a preacher in New York. I write of this to show how far-reaching a good influence is, and how much good money will do, rightly used. Mr. Dana had four children, Charles, Ann, Sylvester and Hannah. Charles became an Episcopal clergyman, Ann was a teacher in our Sunday school and always took the lowest seat and taught two little mulatto girls that lived in some families belonging to the church. Some months ago I saw a sketch of Sylvester Dana of Concord, N. H., a son of Rev. Sylvester Dana, and a lawyer by profession. He was a few months my senior and died in the fall of 1910."

More Than Seventh Daughter.

Philadelphia Record: Should it ever be necessary for the little daughter of David B. Glass of Marshallton to choose a lucky number there is no doubt that seven will be her choice. It already has played a prominent part in her life. The child was born on the seventh day of the week, the seventh day of the month and the seventh month of the year. She was seven months old on the seventh day of February and weighed seven pounds. She is the seventh child and the seventh grandchild. Her mother's age is five times seven, her father's age is six times seven, and her grandmother's is eight times seven. An only living sister is in her 17th year, and an only living brother is in his 7th year. There are just seven letters in the child's name.

Real Trouble.

Judge: The college professor who says that children are merely little imitators and possess no imagination should become acquainted with our little friends, Charles and John. One day John, aged 3, came running to his mother in deep distress. Upon inquiry, the mother learned the cause of his tears.

"Muvver," wailed John, "Charles drew a picture of I got drowned, and he wouldn't draw a picture of he help me out!"

The English Cream.

Washington Star: Stan. V. Henkels, an auctioneer, was talking about the wonderful Hale autographs which he sold last month.

"Benjamin Franklin's autographs," said Mr. Henkels, "showed him, as always, shrewd and witty. It was Franklin, you know, who, replying to a revolutionary letter, which said, 'The cream of the English army is now in the field,' answered:

"'I suppose you mean the whipped cream.'"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—People have the idea that Former Governor Vardaman, now senator from Mississippi, goes about blowing flames of phosphorus from his nostrils, flashing his eyes like twin spotlights, hating negroes and eternally in search of a fight.

But each of these particulars fails to coincide with the facts.

Says Senator Vardaman: "I keenly dislike a fight; yet my life has been just a series of fights. It seems as if no matter what cause I espouse, or what opinion I express, everybody else, immediately feels called upon to rise up and take the opposite view. I'll venture to say that if I went to a Sunday school convention and got up and read the decalogue, some fellow would promptly stand up and contradict it."

The man looks peaceable enough, for all the oddity of his hair, which is worn like that of the old-time musical composers, almost long enough in the back to braid. His face is ruddy, and there is a good-humored look about his light brown eyes that reminds one of the late Bob Taylor.

He wears a dark frock coat, white vest and white string tie. Place him on a horse and he will attract attention even in Washington, where one sees all kinds. Riding horseback is one of the best things that he does. He rode horseback all the way from Texas, where he was born, to the family's new home in Mississippi when he was 7 years old.

Another thing Vardaman does well is flowery talk. Even in every-day conversation it is difficult for him to stick to ordinary language. If he wished to ask a friend for a match he probably would refer to the light as a sulphur-tipped fragment of the mighty pine felled in one of God's sun-kissed forests, or something like that. He likes to discuss things that happened away back "in the morning of time" or "in the lap of the ages."

A number of years ago, when Vardaman was elected to the Mississippi legislature, he made up his mind that he would be speaker of the house, then governor, and finally United States senator. He did all these things, but not in brisk order, as he is always defeated for an office the first time he runs. He was defeated for the state legislature, and the next time got it without opposition. Then he was defeated for speaker of the house, and the next time was elected by unanimous vote. He ran twice for governor before he was finally elected, and John Sharp Williams beat him for the United States senatorship. Now that he and Williams are both here, the state of Mississippi can brag about having the most picturesque representation in the senate.

Postmaster General Burleson was the victim a few years ago of a newspaper error that cost him about $1,500. Naturally he was so mad that he earnestly desired to maim, cripple and kill somebody responsible. The fact that he and the erring newspaper man are now great friends shows that the new head of the postal system is first of all a man of human instincts who can forgive and let live.

When the government bought the old Pennsylvania railroad station property in Washington, the purchase included a high iron fence. Burleson, who was on the appropriations committee, bought the fence for private use, intending to send it down to Austin, Tex., and put it around some property he owned there.

The newspaper man referred to got the impression that Burleson was a philanthropist and was going to give the fence to a Texas town to go around its fine new courthouse. That was the story he sent out, and Burleson was obliged to make good on it. The cost of the fence, along with the freight, amounted to $1,500 or so, and naturally he didn't feel at all clubby toward the enterprising young correspondent. But the latter apologized with such humility that Burleson began to feel sorry for him and became his steadfast friend. Also, he came around to the view that the thing was a first-rate joke on him.

Even an automobilious mishap in the night season may have its sunny side tucked away somewhere. Take the case of Former Representative Sweet of Michigan, for example. As readers of this highly moral and instructive column may recall, Sweet and William C. Redfield, now secretary of commerce, were campaigning in Michigan last fall when the gasoline in their auto ran out and they found themselves stuck in the mud at midnight, several miles from the nearest white settlement. They walked until they found a farm house, but a dog barked at them and they dared not enter the gate. Sweet talked to the dog with much composure and in a clear, logical way that impressed Redfield.

When it came to recommending a man to be assistant secretary of commerce, here recently, Redfield at once thought of the midnight adventure with the dog, and recommended Sweet.

William Kettner, one of the new members of congress from California, is a highly enthusiastic lodge man. He is a thirty-third degree Mason and if they had any more degrees he would aim to be in on them, too; he is also an Odd Fellow, a Knight of Pythias and an Elk. Sometimes he'll wear one lodge emblem on his lapel, another for a watch charm, still another in his cuff buttons and one more for a scarf pin.

Perfect Woman.

She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight;
A lovely apparition, sent
To be a moment's ornament;
Her eyes as stars of twilight fair;
Like twilight's, too, her dusky hair!
But all things else about her drawn
From May-time and the cheerful dawn;
A dancing shape, an image gay,
To haunt, to startle and waylay.

I saw her upon nearer view,
A Spirit, yet a Woman, too!
Her household motions light and free,
And steps of virgin liberty;
A countenance in which did meet
Sweet records, promises as sweet;
A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food;
For transient sorrows, simple wiles,
Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears and smiles.

And now I see with eye serene
The very pulse of the machine;
A being breathing thoughtful breath,
A traveler betwixt life and death;
The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength and skill;
A perfect Woman; nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort and command;
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of angelic light.

—William Wordsworth.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Sentence Sermon.

Brainerd Tribune: Farmers who raise stock are better loan risks than those who do not, according to the bankers of the Northwest. There's a whole sermon in that sentence.

Changes in Politics.

Fergus Falls Free Press: George W. Norris, a Republican, was elected United States senator by a Democratic legislature in Nebraska, and Henry Lane, a Democrat, was elected senator by a Republican legislature in Oregon. The result in both cases was brought about by a law similar to the Keefe law now in force in Minnesota. Ten years ago anything like this would have seemed miraculous. Other changes equally remarkable have taken place in the politics of our country in recent years.

Middle West Recognized.

Little Falls Transcript: John Burke of North Dakota has been appointed by President Wilson as treasurer of the United States. This appointment will be highly pleasing to Democrats of the Middle West, a section of the United States which has received little presidential recognition, but which is fast demanding public notice.

What the Public Wants.

Crookston Times: The congressman or any other official elected to office owes but one political debt, and owes that to the whole people who elected him. The time has arrived when the masses are going to demand service to the commonwealth rather than the providing of soft jobs for individual boosters or ward heelers.

No Option.

Virginia Virginian: It may be difficult for a girl in a big city to be moral on $8 a week, but a man on such wages would just naturally be compelled to be moral.

The Remedy.

Stillwater Gazette: Jail for rowdies and votes for women would be about the proper thing, judging by the action of the mobs at Washington, D. C., the capital of this great big United States.

Times and Customs Change.

Winona Independent: Everything depends on the point of view. A few years ago a boy whose trousers reached only half way to his ankles was considered a jay. Now they roll them up that far and think it looks fine.

A Woman's Opinion.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Elizabeth Freeman may be a militant suffragette that throws bricks and other missiles calculated to raise bumps of knowledge on an English lawmaker's cranium, but she has some sensible ideas as to what woman's dress should be that are refreshing. She says that before women can expect to get full recognition as the equal of men they must untangle themselves from some of the fool fashions that surround them now.

Egg, Chicken and Rabbit.

Kansas City Times: The method by which Easter day is now determined is that of the first Sunday after the paschal full moon (fourteenth day of the calendar moon, or the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21). If the full moon happens on a Sunday then Easter day is the first Sunday following.

The symbolism about the never ending miracle of the rebirth of life runs strongly through all the religious and popular lore of the East. In the East it is understood, but in the West not, because its origin has been obscured. Just as each morning's rising sun typifies new light and life, so the re-awakening of Nature in spring after the death of winter took on a sacred meaning. The season of the vernal equinox thus came to be marked by special religious observances. The custom of presenting colored eggs to friends as symbols of the season became widespread.

This custom appears to have originated among the Persians, and it evidently bore reference to the mundane egg, for which Ormuzd and Ahriman were to contend till the consummation of all things. The egg was suggestive of recreation, for it contains the embryo of all that is to come after. The egg shows in a very simple way how life conceals itself and reveals itself. In the white stone life is concealed. A person knows that when the time comes a little chick will break the walls of his prison in the egg, that the shell will break off and the chick will come forth alive. So the egg becomes a simple type of resurrection from the tomb.

Nearly all over the world the hare is associated with the moon mythologically, and it is on this account that the rabbit has so much to do with Easter. There has been much dispute as to why the hare should have anything to do with the moon, but nobody has arrived at any satisfactory conclusion on the subject. It is evidently a folklore notion of extreme antiquity, which partly accounts for its wide distribution. The rabbit is nocturnal in habit, coming out at night to feed, and that may have started the idea. It is asserted by students of such matters that the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, killed in the dark of the moon, represents the last quarter of the moon, and on that account is lucky.

The Next Worse Life.

Seneca (Mo.) Dispatch: The preacher has a hard time. If his hair is gray, he is old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have, and isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming. If she don't, she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix enough with the people. If he is seen around on the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on some very poor family, he is playing to the grand stand. If he calls at the home of the rich, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, some one could have told him how to do better. He has a fine time living off donations which never come in, and promises that never mature. Next to being an editor, it is an awful life.

The First Umbrella in America.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The first umbrella seen in America was the property of a Baltimore man, who made his first appearance in public carrying the article March 5, 1770. The contrivance excited much comment and ridicule, and for years the use of the umbrella as a protection against rain was considered effeminate.

Amicable Alice.

Lippincott's: Alice—Papa, it's going to snow.

Papa (who is busy)—Well, let it snow.

Alice—I was going to, papa.

Proof Against Grafters.

Philadelphia Record: "Didn't I give you a half-dollar?" asked a customer in a Chestnut street cigar store the other day as the salesman handed him two 10-cent cigars and a nickel.

"I thought it was a quarter," said the salesman, "but I'll look."

He opened the drawer of the cash register again and picked up six coins that lay in the half-dollar compartment. He fingered each one for a moment, then threw them back into the drawer. When he came to the fourth he said:

"You're right. I did 'short-change' you. There's your half."

And he held the coin up. After the customer had received the twenty-five cents still due him, he asked:

"How could you tell which was my half, or even that I wasn't trying to trim you?"

"Easy," laughed the clerk. "You see, so many pikers do try to cheat us that I puzzled over a way to prevent them until I finally discovered a system that's as simple as A B C, and yet is almost infallible. When a man tells me he handed me a coin larger than what I thought it to be, I immediately go to the register and feel all the coins. The one just received will be warm from having lain in the customer's pocket, or being held in his hand, and I can tell in a second what he really gave me."

Must One Have Measles?

London Chronicle: Is there still the belief that children must have measles at some time or other? I remember looking with awe at a boy of 12 who had never had measles. For I, of 10, had been deliberately put to sleep with a measley relative of mine. I must "have measles and get them over." And really I enjoyed the experience of being treated with the consideration to which the boy of 10 was unaccustomed, for, on my soul, I don't believe I had measles at all! But I had all the raspberry vinegar I wanted!

THE HAVOC OF THE ELEMENTS.

Nothing is more appalling than the occurrence of such disasters and suffering as are reported from the states of Nebraska, Ohio and Indiana. The news service wires are being burdened with fearful stories of loss of life, not to mention terrible destruction of property. Homes that a few hours before were apparently secure have been swept away, taking with them the savings of years, and in many cases some or all the members of families have been swept to death.

In such times as these a vast wave of sympathy goes from all the other sections of the country to the people of the afflicted districts. We read of such disasters in foreign lands and the words move us but little. But in these instances now being reported the suffering and deprivation come nearer home, and we realize them with greater force and vividness.

It but adds to the horror of the thing that the tragedies of the storm are nothing that human foresight or ingenuity can prevent. Heavy rains that bring abnormal conditions in the streams, or high winds that overthrow the work of men that ordinarily would stand for years, come with little or no warning, and in the twinkling of an eye lives are snuffed out and hundreds or even thousands left destitute.

The most that other communities can do is to offer financial and other material aid to the destitute, and this is something which the American people are always ready to undertake. So in the face of the devastation in the central parts of the country, the sufferers can know that they not only have the sympathy of others more fortunate than they, but that as fast as their wants and needs may become known, substantial assistance will be forthcoming. The Herald feels safe in promising that if there is any means by which the people of Duluth can do anything to relieve the suffering in the stricken districts, there will be no hesitation or delay in forwarding that relief. And the least that we of the north can do is to extend our most sincere sympathy to those whose homes and hopes have been devastated by the elements.

As another example of the peculiarities of our language, It may be remarked that nightly expeditions are not necessarily knightly.

LIMIT THE LEGISLATURE.

Sometime—probably at the 1917 session, the first one after the next state census—the Minnesota legislature will be called on to make another reapportionment. If the comparative rate of growth in the different sections of the state continues as it has been in the last few years, that census will show the distribution of legislative members just completed to be entirely unjust at that time.

There is, therefore, all the more reason why preparation should be begun at once for that new reapportionment, and the best step that has been suggested is embraced in the constitutional amendment proposed in a bill offered by Representative G. W. Brown of Glencoe. This would restrict the membership in the Minnesota legislature to 50 senators and 100 representatives.

Fifty senators is a great plenty in any state legislature. There are at present only four states in the Union that have more than that number. These are: Alabama, 54; Illinois, 51; Minnesota, 67; and New York, 51. In the other states the number of senators ranges from 17 to 50. Even New Hampshire, which indulges itself to the extent of 405 members of the house (approximately one for every thousand of population) has but 20 senators, and many of the states limit their senatorial membership to 30 or 33.

Neither is there any particular reason why there should be more than 100 members in the house. Twenty-seven of the forty-eight states now have 100 or less members in that part of their legislatures, and among this number is Wisconsin, which has come to be recognized as a leader in legislative work. The only thing to look out for is that the representation be apportioned fairly, according to population.

As long as Minnesota remains under its present form of state government there is every advantage in making the application of that form as simple and reasonable as possible. A legislature of 150 members can do just as much for the state as one of 200 or more members, and Minnesota is drifting rapidly toward the 200-or-more class. Now is the time to get away from that tendency, and the way to do so is for the legislature to adopt Representative Brown's amendment and submit it to the people at the next election. If the amendment is adopted the state will save $47,000 outright on legislative salaries, and will be still further the gainer by having a more effective legislative body than it is at all certain of securing under the present system.

The line that marks the distinction between an honest man and a grafter lies right alongside the one that divides one man's opportunities from another man's necessities.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

Duluth has put on her brightest and best attire in honor of the coming of the Sunday school workers, and is glad to welcome today the delegates to the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Snuday School association. All the snow-drifts were freshly dusted with snow-powder last night so as to appear in their most dazzling brilliancy, and the sun this morning fulfilled its part of the preparations by shining its brightest for the benefit of the visitors.

Duluthians who can possibly attend the discussions at the meetings that begin tonight will be missing something really beneficial if they fail to take advantage of this opportunity. The study of the Bible has been eliminated from the public schools, but it is none the less an important study, not only from the standpoint of religion, but from those of history and literature. In the meetings that will be held in Duluth for the remainder of the week, methods of Bible study will be discussed by men and women who have been conducting that line of work for years, and who will give here their experiences and conclusions.

And there will be singing—such singing as many do not often hear. It will be the kind of singing that gets into the heart and makes life seem more worth living and one's own part in life something that demands service for one's fellow men. It will be inspiring music, and there will be inspiring talks, and altogether this will be a series of meetings worth going to.

We are glad to welcome the Sunday school people. They have undertaken a great and invaluable work, and one in which they are entitled to encouragement and assistance.

Halley's comet is no longer on the job, but apparently there is another one hanging around somewhere.

FOR THE GOOD OF THE WHOLE STATE.

Although Northern Minnesota will receive the most direct benefit if the legislature passes the bill, already advanced to the senate calendar, providing for expenditures for road and fire-break construction in the north, the benefit from such action will extend to the whole state.

The bill calls for protection not only to settlers in the region designated, but for safeguarding of the state's immense timber areas. There have been many and fearful examples of the need of such protection. Lives have been lost and property worth millions of dollars has been destroyed in conflagrations that swept mercilessly over the northern timber regions. It is to give the state the means of checking any such outbreaks before they assume the proportions of real forest fires that this bill has been prepared and presented to the legislature.

But it will not only prevent the destruction of state property and furnish protection for the settlers already there. It will make it possible and practicable for the state to bring in other settlers. It is unreasonable to expect men to expose themselves and their families and their savings to the perils of forest conflagrations, and until protection is assured to prospective settlers the settlement of the rich acres of the state will be slow work. The faster this land is taken up by bona fide settlers, the better it will be for the state. So this bill is in fact only a step toward making the state land more marketable. In addition, there will be the publicity attendant upon the installation of the most approved methods of communication and protection in these areas, and this in itself will help to bring desirable settlers to Minnesota.

The bill before the senate is important to all Minnesota. It should meet with favorable action, and the proposed funds be made available as soon as possible.

"Suffragines" More Harmonious.

London Globe: High place must be accorded the Women's Franchise League of Chaux-de-Fonds (Switzerland). They have adopted the name "suffragines"—a word which they say is more harmonious than suffragette.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 250 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CLAIMS THEY HAD A CONTRACT FOR HALL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In behalf of the Socialist candidates I desire to ask for some space to reply to Father Ieiek's arguments.

On what grounds do we lay claim to the use of the Polish hall?

We had made a contract for the hall and could have enforced it had we chosen to do so. We wanted the hall for a campaign meeting and were no more interested in the religion of the owners of the place than we are in yesterday's newspaper.

"We are well aware of the anti-Catholic work of the movement," says the father. We deny this. Our movement is a political movement and has nothing to do with religion. There are Catholics, Protestants, Jews and atheists among us. All we require of a Socialist is that he recognize the necessity of united action of the working class on the political and industrial field. Towne is a Protestant, Edes is a Methodist, Blackwood belongs to a Baptist church, Phillips is a disbeliever and Kaplan is a Theosophist.

We have engaged the Armory for next Sunday afternoon. We stand ready to debate on: "Is the Socialist party opposed to religion?" with any minister or priest who is willing to take the affirmative. We will pay all expenses. In fact, we have decided to speak on this subject if we can get no opponent. It is up to you, gentlemen.

MAX HOLLNER,
Campaign Manager of the Socialist Candidates.

One Day's Work

Mary Champion in the London Express: You have a hard thing to do. So hard it is that your breath comes short when you think about it, and your heart sinks down and down a bottomless pit of despondency.

If you let it go on sinking down and down you are done for: so stop it! Climb up again and look around.

You underrate your own courage if you tell yourself you cannot accomplish this task which looms before you.

Men have done great things before now—things which make one gasp at the splendor and glory of human achievement. Do you think their hearts never failed them; that they never looked forward with utter weariness to the heights they must climb and the seas they must cross and the years they must wait before success crown them?

How did they manage it?

The secret is simple.

Through the eyes of imagination they pictured their distant goal as close to them; they saw it only one day ahead. Then they did one day's work—cheerfully, hopefully. And still the goal was one day distant—only one day; and, in fact, it had been brought one day nearer.

Sometimes through weariness or discouragement the goal vanished from sight, but the acquired habit of plodding on steadfastly, step by step, one day at a time, from hour to hour, brought them close to it in spite of themselves. And so, necessarily, at last, they "arrived."

"For tasks in hours of insight willed
Can be through hours of gloom fulfilled."

Never were truer words spoken.

Let us make the most of our "hours of insight," never thinking of the visions we see in them as delusive dreams and impossible ideals.

To dream great dreams and then shrink from the sacrifices and hard work that the effort to make them come true involves, is to act the part of a coward. More than this, it means misery.

You cannot be wholly unhappy while a beautiful Wish hovers near you on butterfly wings, and you are making wild efforts to grasp it. As long as the chase lasts you are happy—the joy of the sportsman is yours—the sportsman who plays the game for its own sake and not the prize he may win.

But once you give up and admit defeat there can be no more brightness for you, no more beauty and delight in the world. Your heart groans under a weight of unconfessed failure. And this burden must be carried all your life long—there is no shifting it; no friend's help makes the trouble endurable.

You are not going to be a failure, my reader! You will achieve the "glory of going on" at least, which is the best one can do in this world where success is not to be commanded by mortal.

You may think you cannot bear the trouble which has come upon you. It may seem impossible to live through the consequences of your mistake or your sin or the misdeeds of others.

The magnitude of the task laid upon your shoulders staggers and appalls you. Your duties are so monotonous that you do not know how to bear the continued dull round.

Well! I know all this. I know just that feeling of hopeless weakness. I know the length of the narrow, black tunnel you must traverse before you come out again into the light of day.

And I still say—go on!

You do not know your own strength or courage—you do not know what you can bear—you have not guessed the heights and depths of your character.

The depths you need not plumb—leave them beneath you. The heights must be scaled, and if you believe in yourself you will reach the summit.

You look forward now and sigh—"Impossible! I can never be brave enough to do that!"

Some day you will look back and smile. "Fancy doubting! Fancy fearing! Fancy hesitating to make the attempt! And here I am! Not on the heights, maybe, but some way up the steep hillside.

"There can be no more doubts or fears—I will go on in faith, one step at a time, from one day to the next, until the eternal dawn breaks upon the soul's Himalayas."

Deer Horns for Rheumatism.

Indianapolis News: A quantity of deer horn that had been shaved into thin layers, and which the Chinese value highly for curative qualities, passed through the Indianapolis customhouse today, consigned to a Chinese merchant.

A duty of 25 per cent of the value was assessed. Deer horn, the Chinese say, possesses curative properties for rheumatism and a great deal of it is said to be imported to this country by the Chinese for rheumatic people. The horn is shaved into such thin particles that it is possible to read a newspaper through a shaving. The Chinese make a tea from the shavings and drink it, believing that it will drive rheumatism from the blood.

Sunday School as Held in 1823

Mrs. Louisa G. Woodbury in The Springfield Republican.

I well remember when the first Sunday school was organized in the little town of Fairlee, Vt. I don't know how old I was, perhaps 5. We met in the village schoolhouse. There was a good deal of talking and that is all I can tell about it, except that a young lady came to me and heard me repeat a hymn I had been taught, and what do you think it was?

Hark from the tombs a doleful sound,
Mine ears attend the cry.
Ye living men come view the ground
Where you must shortly lie.

Princes, this clay must be your bed
In spite of all your towers,
The tall, the wise, the reverend head
Must lie as low as ours.

Of course a superintendent was chosen and plans made, but I was too young to understand. The schools were held at noon, between the morning and afternoon service. The children were seated in the pews on each side of the broad aisle, the girls on one side and the boys on the other, and a teacher at the head of each pew. The school was opened with prayer by the superintendent or the minister, if he were present, and at the close we stood up and sang the Sicilian hymn, "Lord dismiss us," etc., or occasionally, Greenville's "Gently Lord," etc. At first we learned verses from the New Testament, as many as we chose; some would repeat whole chapters. We had some little tickets given us occasionally; as I remember them they were about two and a half inches long, and a little more than an inch wide, with a verse from the scripture printed on them, the paper slightly colored. As there was no means of warming the church in winter, no schools were held in the cold weather. It may have been the second year we had a little book, I think a sort of church history, with questions and answers. I remember I liked that. At one time they gave us certificates with a hymn printed on one side that we could learn if we chose.

One year the school were required to learn the Ten Commandments, and I was not a little proud when someone in Miss Sabin's class was called upon to repeat the fourth, which I was able to do, only the superintendent requested me to speak a little louder. I had no trouble in repeating it, but I doubt if I could be heard out of the pew. Later on a change was made and we were to learn fifteen verses (out of the New Testament of course) and each teacher had a class bill with the name of the pupil at top, and she or he kept a record. It was marked "Perfect," "Imperfect," "Bad," "Absent," and the number of verses was marked, and when the school closed in the autumn the name of each pupil was read by the superintendent before the school. I recollect one Sunday I repeated, I think, twelve and couldn't for the life of me think of the next, so rather than have fifteen imperfect, I stopped there.

I don't remember how long the schools had continued, when at the close of the term before the winter set in, each pupil was given a small silver piece, four pence half-penny so called (9½ cents), and then we were invited to give that toward a Sunday school library. I think all gave their money, except one girl, Sally Curtis. I suppose she thought a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush. Her family were poor and I suppose the little silver piece was very attractive. I remember my mother made it in her way to pass along by the pew where I was sitting to see whether I was ready to give my money. She need have no fears for a book had far more attraction for me than a piece of money. In due time we got our library. Our minister was Rev. Sylvester Dana. He preached one-half the time in Fairlee, and one-half in Orford. It was only a little further for us to go to Orford, cross the bridge and go a little way.

There were some wealthy people in Orford who attended Mr. Dana's meeting—Capt. Wheeler's family, and the Brittons. The Willard's are descendants of the Wheelers. I write of this because they were church-going people and were workers in the Sunday school and contributed largely, no doubt for the library. Capt. Wheeler I remember as addressing the Sunday school and said to us in a rather pompous way "to come into the church still (stepping lightly he meant), as we gentlemen do." One son of Capt. Wheeler was John W., president of the Vermont university at Burlington, Vt., one, Everett, was a preacher in New York. I write of this to show how far-reaching a good influence is, and how much good money will do, rightly used. Mr. Dana had four children, Charles, Ann, Sylvester and Hannah. Charles became an Episcopal clergyman. Ann was a teacher in our Sunday school and always took the lowest seat and taught two little mulatto girls that lived in some families belonging to the church. Some months ago I saw a sketch of Sylvester Dana of Concord, N. H., a son of Rev. Sylvester Dana, and a lawyer by profession. He was a few months my senior and died in the fall of 1910."

More Than Seventh Daughter.

Philadelphia Record: Should it ever be necessary for the little daughter of David B. Glass of Marshallton to choose a lucky number there is no doubt that seven will be her choice. It already has played a prominent part in her life. The child was born on the seventh day of the week, the seventh day of the month and the seventh month of the year. She was seven months old on the seventh day of February and weighed seven pounds. She is the seventh child and the seventh grandchild. Her mother's age is five times seven, her father's age is six times seven, and her grandmother's is eight times seven. An only living sister is in her 17th year, and an only living brother is in his 7th year. There are just seven letters in the child's name.

Real Trouble.

Judge: The college professor who says that children are merely little imitators and possess no imagination should become acquainted with our little friends, Charles and John. One day John, aged 3, came running to his mother in deep distress. Upon inquiry, the mother learned the cause of his tears.

"Muvver," wailed John, "Charles drew a picture of I got drowned, and he wouldn't draw a picture of he help me out!"

The English Cream.

Washington Star: Stan. V. Henkels, an auctioneer, was talking about the wonderful Hale autographs which he sold last month.

"Benjamin Franklin's autographs," said Mr. Henkels, "showed him, as always, shrewd and witty. It was Franklin, you know, who, replying to a revolutionary letter, which said, 'The cream of the English army is now in the field,' answered:

"'I suppose you mean the whipped cream.'"

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—People have the idea that Former Governor Vardaman, now senator from Mississippi, goes about blowing flames of phosphorus from his nostrils, flashing his eyes like twin spotlights, hating negroes and eternally in search of a fight.

But each of these particulars fails to coincide with the facts.

Says Senator Vardaman: "I keenly dislike a fight; yet my life has been just a series of fights. It seems as if no matter what cause I espouse, or what opinion I express, everybody else immediately feels called upon to rise up and take the opposite view. I'll venture to say that if I went to a Sunday school convention and got up and read the decalogue, some fellow would promptly stand up and contradict it."

He wears a dark frock coat, white vest and white string tie. Place him on a horse and he will attract attention even in Washington, where one sees all kinds. Riding horseback is one of the best things that he does. He rode horseback all the way from Texas, where he was born, to the family's new home in Mississippi when he was 7 years old.

Another thing Vardaman does well is flowery talk. Even in every-day conversation it is difficult for him to stick to ordinary language. If he wished to ask a friend for a match he probably would refer to the light as a sulphur-tipped fragment of the mighty pine felled in one of God's sun-kissed forests, or something like that. He likes to discuss things that happened away back "in the morning of time" or "in the lap of the ages."

A number of years ago, when Vardaman was elected to the Mississippi legislature, he made up his mind that he would be speaker of the house, then governor, and finally United States senator. He did all these things, but not in brisk order, as he is always defeated for an office the first time he runs. He was defeated for the state legislature, and the next time got it without opposition. Then he was defeated for speaker of the house, and the next time was elected by unanimous vote. He ran twice for governor before he was finally elected, and John Sharp Williams beat him for the United States senatorship. Now that he and Williams are both here, the state of Mississippi can brag about having the most picturesque representation in the senate.

Postmaster General Burleson was the victim a few years ago of a newspaper error that cost him about $1,500. Naturally he was so mad that he earnestly desired to maim, cripple and kill somebody responsible. The fact that he and the erring newspaper man are now great friends shows that the new head of the postal system is first of all a man of human instincts who can forgive and let live.

When the government bought the old Pennsylvania railroad station property in Washington, the purchase included a high iron fence. Burleson, who was on the appropriations committee, bought the fence for private use, intending to send it down to Austin, Tex., and put it around some property he owned there.

The newspaper man referred to got the impression that Burleson was a philanthropist and was going to give the fence to a Texas town to go around its fine new courthouse. That was the story he sent out, and Burleson was obliged to make good on it. The cost of the fence, along with the freight, amounted to $1,500 or so, and naturally he didn't feel at all clubby toward the enterprising young correspondent. But the latter apologized with such humility that Burleson began to feel sorry for him and became his steadfast friend. Also, he came around to the view that the thing was a first-rate joke on him.

Even an automobilious mishap in the night season may have its sunny side tucked away somewhere. Take the case of Former Representative Sweet of Michigan, for example. As readers of this highly moral and instructive column may recall, Sweet and William C. Redfield, now secretary of commerce, were campaigning in Michigan last fall when the gasoline in their auto ran out and they found themselves stuck in the mud at midnight, several miles from the nearest white settlement. They walked until they found a farm house, but a dog barked at them and they dared not enter the gate. Sweet talked to the dog with much composure and in a clear, logical way that impressed Redfield.

When it came to recommending a man to be assistant secretary of commerce, here recently, Redfield at once thought of the midnight adventure with the dog, and recommended Sweet.

William Kettner, one of the new members of congress from California, is a highly enthusiastic lodge man. He is a thirty-third degree Mason and if they had any more degrees he would aim to be in on them, too; he is also an Odd Fellow, a Knight of Pythias and an Elk. Sometimes he'll wear one lodge emblem on his lapel, another for a watch charm, still another in his cuff on the seventh day of February and weighed seven pounds. She is the seventh child and the seventh grandchild. Her mother's age is five times seven, her father's age is six times seven, and her grandmother's is eight times seven. An only living sister is in her 17th year, and an only living brother is in his 7th year. There are just seven letters in the child's name.

Perfect Woman.

She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight;
A lovely apparition, sent
To be a moment's ornament;
Her eyes as stars of twilight fair;
Like twilight's, too, her dusky hair;
But all things else about her drawn
From May-time and the cheerful dawn;
A dancing shape, an image gay,
To haunt, to startle and waylay.

I saw her upon nearer view,
A Spirit, yet a Woman, too!
Her household motions light and free,
And steps of virgin liberty;
A countenance in which did meet
Sweet records, promises as sweet;
A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food;
For transient sorrows, simple wiles,
Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears and smiles.

And now I see with eye serene
The very pulse of the machine;
A being breathing thoughtful breath,
A traveler betwixt life and death;
The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength and skill;
A perfect Woman; nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort and command;
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of angelic light.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Sentence Sermon.

Brainerd Tribune: Farmers who raise stock are better loan risks than those who do not, according to the bankers of the Northwest. There's a whole sermon in that sentence.

Changes in Politics.

Fergus Falls Free Press: George W. Norris, a Republican, was elected United States senator by a Democratic legislature in Nebraska, and Henry Lane, a Democrat, was elected senator by a Republican legislature in Oregon. The result in both cases was brought about by a law similar to the Keefe law now in force in Minnesota. Ten years ago anything like this would have seemed miraculous. Other changes equally remarkable have taken place in the politics of our country in recent years.

Middle West Recognized.

Little Falls Transcript: John Burke of North Dakota has been appointed by President Wilson as treasurer of the United States. This appointment will be highly pleasing to Democrats of the Middle West, a section of the United States which has received little presidential recognition, but which is fast demanding public notice.

What the Public Wants.

Crookston Times: The congressman or any other official elected to office owes but one political debt, and owes that to the whole people who elected him. The time has arrived when the masses are going to demand service to the commonwealth rather than the providing of soft jobs for individual boosters or ward heelers.

No Option.

Virginia Virginian: It may be difficult for a girl in a big city to be moral on $8 a week, but a man on such wages would just naturally be compelled to be moral.

The Remedy.

Stillwater Gazette: Jail for rowdies and votes for women would be about the proper thing, judging by the action of the mobs at Washington, D. C., the capital of this great big United States.

Times and Customs Change.

Winona Independent: Everything depends on the point of view. A few years ago a boy whose trousers reached only half way to his ankles was considered a jay. Now they roll them up that far and think it looks fine.

A Woman's Opinion.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Elizabeth Freeman may be a militant suffragette that "throws bricks and other missiles calculated to raise bumps of knowledge on an English lawmaker's cranium, but she has some sensible ideas as to what woman's dress should be that are refreshing. She says that before women can expect to get full recognition as the equal of men they must untangle themselves from some of the fool fashions that surround them now.

Egg, Chicken and Rabbit.

Kansas City Times: The method by which Easter day is now determined is that of the first Sunday after the paschal full moon (fourteenth day of the calendar moon, or the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21). If the full moon happens on a Sunday then Easter day is the first Sunday following.

The symbolism about the never ending miracle of the rebirth of life runs strongly through all the religious and popular lore of the East. In the East it is understood, but in the West not, because its origin has been obscured. Just as each morning's rising sun typifies new light and life, so the re-awakening of Nature in spring after the death of winter took on a sacred meaning. The season of the vernal equinox thus came to be marked by special religious observances. The custom of presenting colored eggs to friends as symbols of the season became widespread.

This custom appears to have originated among the Persians, and it evidently bore reference to the mundane egg, for which Ormuzd and Ahriman were to contend till the consummation of all things. The egg was suggestive of recreation, for it contains the embryo of all that is to come after. The egg shows in a very simple way how life conceals itself and reveals itself. In the white stone life is concealed. A person knows that when the time comes a little chick will break the walls of his prison in the egg, that the shell will break off and the chick will come forth alive. So the egg becomes a simple type of resurrection from the tomb.

Nearly all over the world the hare is associated with the moon mythologically, and it is on this account that the rabbit has so much to do with Easter. There has been much dispute as to why the hare should have anything to do with the moon, but nobody has arrived at any satisfactory conclusion on the subject. It is evidently a folklore notion of extreme antiquity, which partly accounts for its wide distribution. The rabbit is nocturnal in habit, coming out at night to feed, and that may have started the idea. It is asserted by students of such matters that the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, killed in the dark of the moon, represents the last quarter of the moon, and on that account is lucky.

The Next Worse Life.

Seneca (Mo.) Dispatch: The preacher has a hard time. If his hair is gray, he is old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have, and isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming. If she don't, she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix enough with the people. If he is seen around on the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on some very poor family, he is playing to the grand stand. If he calls at the home of the rich, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, some one could have told him how to do better. He has a fine time living off donations which never come in, and promises that never mature. Next to being an editor, it is an awful life.

The First Umbrella in America.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The first umbrella seen in America was the property of a Baltimore man, who made his first appearance in public carrying the article March 5, 1770. The contrivance excited much comment and ridicule, and for years the use of the umbrella as a protection against rain was considered effeminate.

Proof Against Grafters.

Philadelphia Record: "Didn't I give you a half-dollar?" asked a customer in a Chestnut street cigar store the other day as the salesman handed him two 10-cent cigars and a nickel.

"I thought it was a quarter," said the salesman, "but I'll look."

He opened the drawer of the cash register again and picked up six coins that lay in the half-dollar compartment. He fingered each one for a moment, then threw them back into the drawer. When he came to the fourth he said:

"You're right. I did 'short-change' you. There's your half."

And he held the coin up. After the customer had received the twenty-five cents still due him, he asked:

"How could you tell which was my half, or even that I wasn't trying to trim you?"

"Easy," laughed the clerk. "You see, so many pikers do try to cheat us that I puzzled over a way to prevent them until I finally discovered a system that's as simple as A B C, and yet is almost infallible. When a man tells me he handed me a coin larger than what I thought it to be, I immediately go to the register and feel all the coins. The one just received will be warm from having lain in the customer's pocket, or being held in his hand, and I can tell in a second what he really gave me."

Must One Have Measles?

London Chronicle: Is there still the belief that children must have measles at some time or other? I remember looking with awe at a boy of 12 who had never had measles. For I, of 10, had been deliberately put to sleep with a measley relative of mine. I must "have measles and get them over." And really I enjoyed the experience of being treated with the consideration to which the boy of 10 was unaccustomed, for, on my soul, I don't believe I had measles at all! But I had all the raspberry vinegar I wanted!

FUNERAL OF R. H. PENDERGAST

Aged Man Well Known in Duluth as a Horticulturist.

The funeral of Rowell H. Pendergast, 81 years of age, who died Monday evening at 7 o'clock of complications due to old age at his home, 4327 Laverne street, will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the family residence. Owing to the serious condition of Mrs. Pendergast the services will be private. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Pendergast lived in Duluth for sixteen years and was well known in the city. He was a horticulturist of exceptional ability and did an extensive business in that line, selling his plants and trees in all parts of the city. His many friends and acquaintances in Duluth were deeply grieved to learn of his death.

For many years Mr. Pendergast was the keeper of the lighthouse on Michigan island and had many friends among the men who follow the lakes.

In sixteen years conflagrations in Russia have destroyed 3,000,000 buildings worth more than $800,000,000.

"Bathing."

Everybody, nowadays, with the possible exception of the "hobo," bathes for the purpose of cleanliness; and not a few have begun to appreciate the value of the bath in both the curative and preventive treatment of disease. Ever since the days of Hipocrates and Galen, water in the form of baths has been recommended as a curative agent, and today we have a great variety of baths suggested, besides those of water. There are vapor baths, air and sun baths, mud, peat, medicated and electric baths, but they all depend largely for their virtue on one simple factor; that is, temperature.

Water being the most convenient vehicle for conveying heat, or absorbing it, rapidly, is, therefore, the most practical medium; and it is of the application of water that I speak today.

In a recent article in this column an attempt was made to explain the nervous function of the skin and how mental as well as physical activities may be modified or stimulated by various applications made to this great enveloping organ.

All effects from temperature are first evidenced by changes in the circulation, owing to the reflex action of centers in the spinal cord; and, where patients are too weak to react well to stimulation, the cold bath, which is always stimulating, must be interdicted. The warm bath, however, is soothing, and when used at proper temperatures will meet all requirements of hydrotherapy in cases of disease. It is in fevers that the cold bath has its greatest utility, aside from its use in health as a preventive measure; and there is no one, not seriously ill, who cannot train the spinal centers to react to the stimulus of a cold plunge, and thereby benefit by the use of cold water.

It has been conclusively proven by such authorities as Voit and Pflinger, that rapid cold baths hasten tissue changes in non-nitrogenous substances while hot baths affect not only these, but accelerate the conversion of albuminous substances into tissue. The elimination of waste products from the body is also increased by all kinds of bathing, so it can be readily understood how the general nutrition of the body may be improved by suitable methods, while the nervous system is easily toned, either up or down, by the use of cold, cool, or warm water. In general hygiene, after provision is made for plenty of pure air, bathing comes next in importance, i. e., ordinary bathing with soap and warm water; and some of our states have recognized this to the extent that it has been made mandatory for every city of over 50,000 population to supply public hot and cold baths free to its citizens.

The cold plunge and the hot bath, however, are used in the home for their special effect on the nervous system, and though it is on the general metabolism of the body. The practical points worth remembering are:

1—In bathing, aside from that done for cleanliness, temperature is of first importance.

2—Cold is stimulating, but reaction must always be secured, or it will fail to do good.

3—Hot baths are soothing to the nervous system, assist in elimination and increase tissue changes.

4—In all fevers, cold water bathing is the best and safest febrifuge.

5—Local applications to the skin of cold packs will reduce internal inflammation and any congestion of organs having a corresponding nerve supply; and a rapid cold bath, with the following reaction, will relieve congestion of all intestinal organs.

Finally, the temperature of a cold plunge should not be below 50 deg. Fahrenheit, and those beginning the practice had better start with temperatures of about 65 or 70, gradually decreasing it each morning, a degree or so at a time, until they are able to react well with temperature of water at 50.

Hot baths with the temperature higher than 80 deg. are rarely required, and they should never reach 100 deg.

Questions and Answers.

Open Window in Pneumonia.

W. L. B. writes: My child is down with pneumonia, and the physician has ordered him to be kept in a room with a wide open window. As this keeps the temperature about the freezing point all the time, I should think it was dangerous treatment. Please give me your opinion about it.

REPLY.

Your physician is doing exactly right, and with this method of treatment, the death rate from pneumonia has decreased very considerably. Cool, pure air to breathe is the first requisite in the treatment of this dangerous infection, and it has also been found that cold applications to the chest do much more good than the old fashioned hot poultices. The lower part of the body, legs and feet should, however, be kept warm by hot water bottles, or hot bricks, and covered with plenty of clothing.

After the crisis is passed and the fever is leaving, the temperature of the room may be raised, but plenty of fresh air must still be admitted, and some attention paid to relative humidity, whenever temperature goes above 65 deg.

This humidity should not be below 40 per cent and is better if about 50, when the air temperature is anywhere above 65.

At or Near the Dew Point.

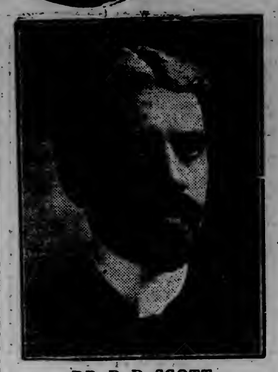
F. S. wants to know what relative humidity is necessary before the air feels perceptibly damp.

REPLY.

Whenever air temperature comes near the dew point, or is below this, it will feel damp. The dew point is that temperature where even one degree more of cold will cause water to precipitate in the form of rain, fog or dew.

It is the point where the air is carrying 100 per cent humidity—all the water which it can contain in vapor form.

Anemia and Weak Eyes.



F. A. writes: What is meant by anemia, and is it ever the cause of headache and weak eyes?

I have been troubled with frequent headaches and sore eyes for the last six months, and my physician says it is all due to anemia. What can be done for such a condition, aside from taking drugs?

REPLY.

Anemia is a blood condition where the hemoglobin, or oxygen carrying property, is much decreased in quantity, therefore there is less or more oxygen starvation of all the body's tissues. Headache is a frequent result, eye-strain may also result. The eye-strain, of itself, might cause the headache, however; but if there is anemia present, this, by all means, must be remedied.

The hygienic treatment of anemia is to correct constipation, eat plenty of eggs, rare beef, and drink milk; but on such a diet a person will become ill without lots of outdoor exercise. Besides articles just mentioned, add to your diet vegetables in plenty, especially green ones, such as spinach, and a little fruit every day. See that you are outdoors for a time every day, in all kinds of weather, and that you sleep with an open window. The outdoor exercise is the most important part of this advice, so don't omit it.

GRAIN CONCERN IN GOOD SHAPE

North Dakota Railroad Commission Finds Dakota Grain Company Is O. K.

Bismarck, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Stutsman of the board of railroad commissioners has returned from Edgeley, where he went upon a report that the Dakota Grain company was in financial trouble, the commission acting under the new law authorizing the commission to examine elevator books, either on its own initiative or upon request of stockholders.

Mr. Stutsman found the grain company in good financial shape and able to take care of all its outstanding tickets, the present trouble arising over an unavoidable delay in getting returns from grain shipped to cover outstanding checks, which, it is said, have since been taken up. The trouble was given undue publicity undoubtedly through the anxiety of some of the check holders who had not investigated the situation. A statement of grain held by this company shows it in position to fully meet all its obligations and that it is in good shape.

OPINION IS DIVIDED

On Merit of North Dakota Display at Norwegian Exposition.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That such exhibits as have been proposed by North Dakota at the centennial exposition in Norway, for which this state has already made an appropriation, are not wanted, is the contention of several prominent Norwegians of the state, and considerable discussion has resulted. When the matter was before the legislature a communication was received from the Norwegian ambassador advising against the appropriation. It was made, and as a result spirited discussion as to the merits of the appropriation has arisen.

WANT UNION OF FORCES

Petition Circulated Here Asks Two Temperance Societies to Join.

Sets Forth Claim That United Action Would Carry State.

Dr. Antranig Ishkanian, native of Turkey, who, as representative of the Crookston Ministerial association, has been carrying on a campaign for the union of the anti-liquor forces of the state, is now circulating a petition in Duluth, with this end in view, and already has hundreds of signatures. He is being assisted in the circulation of this petition by a local committee of anti-liquor enthusiasts.

The petition asks for a conference between the leaders of the state Prohibition party and those of the Anti-Saloon league with a view to the merger of these two organizations. Dr. Ishkanian has been in the city for several weeks working for this movement and expects to remain about two weeks longer. The petition reads as follows:

"We regret to see the continued control of the government of this state by the liquor interests and the steady increase in per capita consumption of liquor during the last ten years, especially when the temperance vote is in the majority. We believe the remedy lies with the people who support two political temperance organizations—the State Prohibition committee and the Anti-Saloon league. Though both having the same object, yet at election time each works for different candidates for the same office, from governor down, thus inviting defeat before the united vote of the liquor element, with their only one candidate for each office. The liquor element being well aware of this division in our ranks, have capitalized it to their advantage, hence, to leave the division as it is will mean continued waste of time and energy and unnecessary financial drain on the churches of the state and ultimate failure.

"Therefore, we, the undersigned citizens, heartily indorse the joint plan of the various towns of this state in asking W. G. Calderwood, chairman of the state Prohibition committee, and P. J. Youngdahl, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, to discuss conjointly the relative merits of their respective organizations in our town also, for our enlightenment; to show why it is necessary for this state to support two political temperance organizations; to show how they may be united, or which one is entitled to the field, that we may wisely instruct our delegate to a central conference to draw up a practical plan for the union of these two forces, that at the next general election we may be intelligently united on candidates and method to redeem this state from brewery control.

"There is a strong demand for such a union by the temperance people over the entire state, and they hold the key to the situation, for without their financial contributions neither of these two organizations can long survive, but before any action can be taken a thorough knowledge of the situation by means of open discussion is indispensable; hence, whichever organization shows a disinclination to face the truth in a frank, open discussion will not be entitled to our support.

"We await your favorable reply."

NOT ALLOWED TO PAY FINE

Clerk Who Rented Rooms for Immoral Purpose Gets Jail Sentence.

Henry Miller, clerk of the St. James hotel, was convicted in police court yesterday afternoon of conducting a house of ill fame on the premises, 213 West Superior street. Judge Cutting imposed a straight sentence of sixty days in the county jail, without the option of a fine.

Attorney B. M. Goldberg, appearing for Miller, was granted a stay of execution of twenty days in which to prepare an appeal to the district court. Miller's bail was fixed at $200.

Judge Cutting did not review the testimony in passing sentence, but stated that he had not the slightest doubt as to the guilt of the defendant.

Miller's conviction grew out of the evidence which was secured against Albert Q. Lee, manager of the Tuxedo chop suey, and Kin Sue, a waiter in the same establishment, who were arrested at 3 o'clock the morning of March 19, last, on charges of white slavery. The principal witnesses of the city were Elizabeth Lace and Dorothy Torvund, 20 years old. They proved to be among the best witnesses who have ever appeared in prosecutions of that nature and could not be confused or shaken by the most minute cross-examination. The prosecution was conducted for the city by Attorney James A. Wharton, special counsel of the city legal department.

The girls testified that they handed Miller a card bearing the name of Henry Miller and words similar to "a good room for the girls," signed by a name which they took to be that of Kin Sue. They stated that Miller took the card without a word and showed them to room 43, which connected with an adjoining room by a door which was left open. They said that Miller locked room 41 on the inside, leaving the key in the door and not closing the door between the two rooms. About 3 o'clock in the morning they testified that Miller conducted the two Chinese to Room 43 and showed them inside. The girls asserted that the Chinamen removed their overcoats and took four bottles of beer, two bottles of whisky and some cigarettes from their pockets. One of them was claimed to have been in the act of pouring a drink when the policeman who had been stationed in a room across the hall came into the room which was occupied by the girls and the Chinamen.

The two girls were also instrumental in securing the arrest of John Moody, a negro bootblack, upon white slave charges. His examination was started yesterday at the conclusion of Miller's trial. It is expected that this will be followed by the preliminary hearings of the Chinese. The pollee cannot fix bail for the offense charged against the negro and the Chinese and they are remaining in the county jail pending their examinations. If they are held to the grand jury their bonds will be fixed in the district court.

New Scranton Enterprise.

Scranton, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Scranton will get a new enterprise that will give regular employment to about fifty men in the establishment of the Scranton Brick & Tile works. It will have a capacity of 50,000 bricks per day. The capital stock is $100,000. The plant will be operated all the year and will soon be ready for business.

PLAIN GARDEN SAGE DARKENS GRAY HAIR AND IS HARMLESS

Says Sage Tea Mixed With Sulphur Restores Natural Color and Lustre.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what's the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at drug stores here for about 50 cents. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks becomes luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth, gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic. Max Wirth.

VIRGINIA HARNED SECRETLY WEDDED.

New York, March 26.—Miss Virginia Harned has been Mrs. William Courtenay for several months. The announcement was made Sunday night at a dinner in Miss Harned's home at Rye, N. Y. She was formerly Mrs. E. H. Sothern and for several years was Sothern's leading woman.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Courtenay refuse to say when they were married or who married them.

FRIEDMANN DENIES USE OF HYPNOTISM.

New York, March 26.—Dr. Friederich Franz Friedmann has made emphatic denial of the declaration of a local physician that the German specialist has resorted to hypnotism in treating tuberculosis patients with "turtle vaccine."

"I don't make any claim," said Dr. Friedmann, "that patients suffering from tuberculosis of the bone who have showed immediate improvement insofar as the movement of affected joints is concerned have been cured by my treatment. I make no claim whatever as to immediate cure.

"In no case so far as I am concerned has there been hypnotic treatment. There is no doubt that those patients who have been able to move diseased joints have been subjects of auto-hypnosis and hypnotic anaesthesia. On my part, however, there hasn't been even a suggestion to lead to this result."

Mining Man Ends Life.

New York, March 26.—John S. Elliott, a retired mining and civil engineer commited suicide by shooting last evening. Mrs. T. T. Gaff, Elliott's sister-in-law, said Elliott was a cousin of Mrs. Douglas Robinson, who is a sister of Theodore Roosevelt. The family declared Elliott determined to put an end to his suffering from a painful and incurable disease.

Minnesotans in 1911 paid $8,802,669.80 in premiums to old-line life insurance companies.

Dr. V. C. Burke, while preaching in Baltimore the other day, was compelled by hiccoughs to stop.

It means I am here hinting at a marvelous power or force which you can easily avail yourself of and which might mean for you all the difference between future years of health, strength and bubbling spirits, or future years of ill-health and debility. Please use the free coupon below.

In speaking to you of this great mysterious power I care not what your years may be, whether you are young, middle-aged or elderly; I care not what in the past may have caused your loss of strength and loss of reserve energy. I say in all seriousness, if by employing this new method I can quickly resupply your blood and organism with new nerve force, I should then make you strong again, put new courage and health into the flash of your eyes; make you feel young, capable, ambitious and keep you feeling young to a ripe, vigorous old age.

I have evolved a simple, drugless method for the self-treatment of lost strength, which is meeting with a marvelous demand all over the world. It is a QUICK and PERMANENT natural restorative.

Here is the simple modus operandi:

Apply the method tonight while you sleep.
Awaken tomorrow "feeling fine," all pains in back gone.
60 to 90 days, complete restoration of lost strength should result.

That is all there is to it: no drugs, no medicines, no stimulants to rub on, no rules for diet or exercise, no hardships of any kind. Absolutely nothing that is not perfectly easy for you to use and follow. One promise and one promise only I exact: you must lead a DECENT life during treatment and hereafter, otherwise your strength cannot be properly or permanently restored.

I can only afford to pay for enough space in this paper to hint at what my method is, but as soon as I receive the coupon below from you I will send my 86-page illustrated book which not only contains a lot of private information for men but tells the full story of my wonderful discovery, what it is, where you may get it and how it is to be used.

Thousands are taking advantage of this method today for the restoration of lost strength: Not only that, but when the method is applied in a certain way it is a specific treatment for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders and general ill health. It puts energy, snap and go into your whole body. Your eyes sparkle with new power.

Drop in at my office, if in or near this city, that I may give you a practical demonstration of what the method will do. You can test it yourself and see. Hours 9 to 6; Sundays 10 to 1. Please write or call today.

86-Page Man's Book Sent FREE To You

My 86-page beautifully illustrated book, giving much information of a personal nature (and fully explaining my new treatment), will be sent to you by mail, absolutely free of charge, in a plain, sealed envelope as soon as I receive the coupon below. There are several chapters of this book which ANY MAN, young or old, single or married, should read and can profit by to the end of his life. Please write today, or if living nearby, call in person and have a free demonstration of the treatment. Hours, 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

How to Make the Hair Grow Wonderfully

By Valeska Suratt the Famous, Self-Made Beauty-Actress

By Valeska Suratt.

THE power to win what we want! How refreshing this sounds to those who have had their wishes so often repressed! And what is more —the power to win beauty. Say what you will, wealth and station are more often parceled out to the enchanting. Beauty draws, they say, with a single hair. But that hair must not be a Chinaman's hair. The crowning glory of woman is a wealth of her own tresses. You who wish you had an abundance of it—listen a moment. I have run the gamut of nearly every hair remedy commonly sold. And after all my efforts, my hair was in worse condition afterward than before. In spite of all, my hair continued to fall. I began the study of hair, made it my business to know why hair did grow and why it didn't. I realized that the proper remedy was an expensive one, and that's why it is not sold as a hair remedy. In my tedious experiments later on I hit upon a formula which has brought me fame, if nothing else. As a result of its use, I am known today as the only woman on the American stage who does not wear puffs, switches, wool rolls, turbans or other hair makeshifts. It is all a result of this formula. Scores of my friends have obtained surprising results with it. Here it is: Mix half a pint of alcohol with half a pint of water. To this add one ounce of beta-quinol. Shake thoroughly, and then it will be ready to use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of the water and alcohol. The beta-quinol you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents. This formula should be applied very freely to the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the tonic thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

"You can quickly stop your hair from falling and make it grow several inches in a few weeks' time. Ordinary hair tonics will not do it. The life of the hair is delicate and it can be easily killed by the wrong treatment. Let me tell you how to grow your hair."

A shampoo is as necessary to the hair as a bath is to the individual. But soap should never be used. Eggol makes the best shampoo I have ever tried. It removes every vestige of greasy film and scurf from around the hair shafts and lets the hair breathe life. Eggol can be obtained at the drug store for twenty-five cents.

Developing the Bust.

This can certainly be done in spite of the cause of the lack or loss of development. Mechanical contrivances are failures. They are dangerous, to say the least. I have known mothers who had lost their development as a result of nursing to regain it completely in 8 or 9 weeks with this formula: In a half pint of cold water, dissolve two ounces ruetone and half a cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this, take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wineglass of water, after your meals. The ruetone will cost you one dollar at the drug store.

Superfluous Hair.

All hairs, light or heavy, on any part of the body, even on the tenderest skin, can be removed almost as by magic. Get one ounce of simple suit's solution. This you can get at the drug store for one dollar. Apply it with the finger tips to the superfluous hair, keeping the hair moist with it for two or three minutes until it has been dissolved. Then wipe it off with a damp cloth and wash the skin.

Sure Remover of Wrinkles.

Many women have thousands of little wrinkles and although such wrinkles may hardly be seen, nevertheless, the general appearance of the face is "agey." This formula rejuvenates the skin in a wonderful way, and all wrinkles, large or small, crow's feet, deep lines and sagging cheeks are corrected, making a difference of several years in your appearance. Pour half a pint of hot water in a bowl and place the bowl in a pan of water over a slow fire. To this add two ounces of eptol. Stir until it is dissolved and starts to cream. Then remove from the fire, slowly add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, and continue to stir until it is cold. Eptol may be obtained for no more than fifty cents at any good drug store. This cream should be applied very liberally and thoroughly rubbed into the skin until it has disappeared. The cream will not grow hair on the face. Keep the cream in an air-tight jar or bottle.

How to Get Rid of Pimples.

This is not an ordinary blood tonic, but a wonderfully effective blood cleanser. Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one-half pint of water, add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together thoroughly, then add more water to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

For a Spotless Complexion.

I never heard of or found anything which could remove all blemishes without exception, at the same time, such as red spots, liver spots, freckles. This formula does it all and more quickly than anything I know of. It leaves the face, arms and hands enchantingly pearly and spotless. Let half a pint of water come almost to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine. Keep stirring while adding one ounce of zintone, until it is all dissolved. Then let it cool. If the cream is too thick to pour easily from a bottle, thin it down a little with more hot hater. The cream will be white and satiny. Hold a wet, hot towel to the face several times for several minutes. Rub this cream on the entire face. Then wipe off with a soft, dry cloth. Then apply again and let it dry on the face. Repeat this again at night. Any good druggist will let you have zintone for about fifty cents.

How to Remove Blackheads.

Blackheads should be removed without having to squeeze them out and redden the skin as a result. First wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some neroxin generously upon a sponge made wet with hot water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. You should be able to secure the neroxin at any druggist's for fifty cents.

BOYHOOD FRIENDS ARE CAMPAIGNING TOGETHER

CHRIS O'BRIEN
Of St. Paul.

"LON" MERRITT,
Candidate for Commissioner.

CALLS STIRRUP CLUB A BAND OF "ADOLESCENT ELISHAS"

"Taxpayer" Says "Heroic Band of Windmill Chasers" Has Discovered the People Are Not to Be Trusted Uninstructed.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Duluth is about to select its first commissioners.

The selection of men of capacity and sound principle, not those inspired with experimental advanced ideas, is the first and clearest duty which devolves upon the citizenship of Duluth.

The foundation of future good government must be fairly laid before consideration is had for the interior finish of the structure and the size or confirmation of the weather vane upon the roof.

The electorate should not be misled by the clamorous direction or advice of coteries or clubs organized to advance some fashionable governmental theory or fad.

What commissioners can best assure a sane, moral and efficient business administration is the first and only question now confronting the citizens of Duluth. After the organization of the new government is satisfactorily completed and standing firmly upon its feet, there is ample time for excursions into the debatable lands. And is it the part of good citizenship to so multiply questions and obscure the vision of the main object to be obtained with issues that are at best not vital but appurtenant, and advanced possibly for the gratification of pride of opinion?

It would naturally be supposed that the people, who have intelligently and without hesitancy taken upon themselves the personal duties and responsibilities of the unrestricted use of a direct ballot, might be depended upon to honor both themselves and the city by their choice of men to inaugurate our new government. All men desire good government, and when confronted by definite responsibilities, as those now presented, history shows temperate and wise action by all free people.

But the people of Duluth are not so to be trusted. An unexpected situation develops. Our citizens have been most carefully weighed and found wanting in both mental and moral perception. A heroic company of Wind-mill Chasers has discovered that they cannot be trusted uninstructed, but the All Wise Providence doth indeed move in mysterious ways. Thrice blessed are His people, for there is, in their present extremity, raised up to their aid and assistance, the Littlejohnny Fixit Club, which manfully rushes in and with wise and considerate counsel advises the poor ignorant people just who and what their friends and neighbors are, and with prophetic instinct, what they may be.

Words fail to convey adequate public appreciation of the services of this band of adolescent Elishas, confidently grasping the folds of the mantle descended upon them; who, imbued with high ideals and lofty if uncertain ends and purposes, with selves altruistic, "for they are all honorable men," have, in these piping times of progressive primary, pushed the people into their proper places and constructed for their safe guide this select and infallible, if somewhat archaic, oligarchy of twenty-one brilliantly burning beacons.

With what unheard of, if unsought, sacrifice they have dedicated themselves to the task of steering the Ship of State. And relying upon their unfailing judgment how secure against error may our people feel.

As chosen representatives of the unified, though unconsulted, business interests of the city, with judgment tempered by long and wise local experience, unfaltering in their convictions of their own fitness for the task, they have set up for the benefit of the benighted people of Duluth a latter day inquisition with a marvelous third degree acid test of municipal ownership complexion as the consummation of all things earthly to be desired; and having wrung answers from many by the mutatory strangeness of their methods, they have proceeded to separate the wheat from the chaff, visiting condemnation upon some whose heads have grown white in building up the social and moral structure of the city, and whose names have always been synonymous with honesty, integrity and broad public charity; while with gracious condescension they have approved some whose answers, carefully attuned to the inquiries propounded by them, have been led to match even the vagaries of the inquisitors; while yet others there be, neither condemned nor approved, who are suspended in breathless anxiety lest they be not numbered with the elect.

Corporate suggestion in any form, or any corporate influence, even inspired by the very natural human desire to protect property interests from possible injustice or possible attack, is not for an instant to be tolerated. This is beyond question. How much less equably then should be borne the dictation of a group of Ready Rescuers, not avowedly representing any interests which might be imperilled by extreme or drastic legislation, but who assume with marvellous modesty to establish themselves as self elected mentors of the public, and presume to pillory in the public press and impugn and distort the motives and define the future actions of their fellow citizens, legally, honestly and honorably aspiring to office under the new charter—some of whose nomination petitions bear the signatures of the very persons who, now consecrated to greater uses, have withdrawn the sun of their present approbation and have become conservators of the public good.

All hail the holy few sitting apart clothed in righteousness and making the way straight. May they never be candidates for public office that the hems of their garments may not be defiled by their unsuspected friends and neighbors.

TAXPAYER.

Duluth, March 25.

SOCIALISTS TURN THEIR GUNS ON McEWEN.

At the meeting at the Bricklayers' hall last evening W. E. Towne asserted that an attempt was being made by various labor leaders, particularly S. S. McDonald, president of the Trades and Labor Assembly, to deliver the trade union vote to W. E. McEwen. Towne said that some time in February a call was sent out to the different unions to send delegates to a "Citizens' League," a committee selected to send out a list of questions to certain candidates. All candidates were not questioned; only a few received letters and it was only upon the vigorous demand of one delegate that a letter was sent to Morris Kaplan, the speaker claimed.

Three delegates reported back who had sent in the best answers to the questions.

In most instances the business meetings of unions were transformed into "citizens' meetings" and the delegates reported that McEwen's answer was the best. It was charged that McEwen instigated the scheme.

At a recent meeting of the Trades Assembly, said Towne, whole delegations left the hall because of the methods. He said that the answers would not be made public and would not be shown to anyone, as they did not want it known that union labor supported any set of candidates.

Thursday the Socialists will hold two meetings—one at 104 West Fourth street and the other at the Polish Independent church, where Polish speakers and Morris Kaplan will speak. Friday they will speak at West Duluth, Oneota hall.

CHILDREN HATE CASTOR OIL, UGH!

Delicious "Syrup of Figs" Cleanses Their Little Clogged Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the physic that mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. The day of harsh physic is over. We don't force the liver and 30 feet of bowels now; we coax them. We have no dreaded after effects. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their little stomachs and tender bowels are injured by them.

If your child is fretful, peevish, half sick, stomach sour, breath feverish and its little system full of cold; has diarrhoea, sore throat, stomach-ache; doesn't eat or rest well—remember—look at the tongue, if coated, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, then don't worry, because you surely will have a well, smiling child in a few hours.

Syrup of Figs being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics simply cannot be harmful. It sweetens the stomach, makes the liver active and thoroughly cleanses the little one's waste-clogged bowels. In a few hours all sour bile, undigested fermenting food and constipated waste matter gently moves on and out of the system without griping or nausea.

Directions for children of all ages, also for grown-ups, plainly printed on the package.

By all means get the genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. Accept nothing else.

CAME TO TALK FOR A FRIEND

Chris O'Brien Tells Duluthians of Lon Merritt's Career.

Boyhood Friend of Pioneer Candidate Takes Stump for Him.

It was a friendship of forty-eight year's standing that brought Chris D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, to Duluth last evening to speak in behalf of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt for long term commissioner.

"I have come 150 miles to answer to the call of a friend," he told his audience last evening at Knights of Pythias hall. "I would go that far any time for a friend, especially if he is as good and true a friend as Lon Merritt. Yes, I'd go further. I would go on and on until I wearied from exhaustion, so long as in the distance stood such a friend who beckoned to me."

Mr. O'Brien deserved a larger audience than turned out last evening. As it was, however, the hall was comfortably filled and the speaker was met at every turn with sincere enthusiasm. He was introduced to the speaker by John Jenswold, Jr., who referred to him as a man of integrity, who had always stood for clean government and for what was clean and pure in politics.

"Few men in Duluth have achieved what Lon Merritt has," he said. "You are all familiar with the early history of the Mesaba range and the career of the man who built the first railroad to it and who later lost it. Duluth, today, would have had twice her present population if Lon Merritt had not been waylaid and robbed and if he had been allowed to realize his dreams. His one ambition was to build up a great city here. His interests were centered here. He is the greatest friend Duluth has ever been able to boast of.

Willing to Share It.

"He wanted to share his prosperity with Duluth just as he was willing a half century ago to evidence his hospitality to a stranger when he lived in a little log cabin at Oneota. Then he would have asked you to be warmed at his fire and to eat at his table. He has the same desire to be of service today.

"I ask the voters Duluth to support him, not only because I love him. It is because I believe in my heart that he is worthy of every confidence that is in the power of his fellow citizens to bestow upon him. I do not wish to pick up the paper the next day after election and read that Lon Merritt has been refused an office of public trust."

Mr. O'Brien waxed eloquent in his picture of the memorial statue of John A. Johnson at St. Paul and reminded Duluthians that an effigy of Lon Merritt of Duluth in the well known costume of the cruiser was one of the four types of men which had been chosen to grace the foot of one of the greatest monuments of appreciation ever erected to the memory of a man. Lon Merritt was chosen by the commission which erected this monument as a man worthy to be associated with the late and respected governor. That is what the state did for him—are you of Duluth going to do any less?"

Law Enforcement.

Mr. O'Brien was the law enforcement mayor of St. Paul and he told his audience a few things he learned about law enforcement during his tenure of office and just before he "buried his political ambitions."

He declared that thirty years ago, when he was prosecuting attorney in Ramsey county, he made a study of crime and its causes and made the discovery that there were two channels into which all trails of crime went and out of which they emerged. They were the house of ill fame and the disorderly saloon.

"I found this out. The large mass of the people have nothing to do with the vice question. It is carried on with their permission, but by the protection of authorities and municipal officers. I resolved to be mayor and close the disorderly places and gambling joints —and I did. In doing so, I was without the moral support of the prosecuting attorney, the city attorney and the common council, but I kept these places closed for two years and all without a single arrest.

Segregation Wrong.

"The doctrine of segregation is wrong. The vices practiced in the so-called restricted districts are felonies, according to the laws of the state of Minnesota and are punishable by a state's prison term. These places cannot exist except by the affirmative protection of the city officials and in the eyes of the law, one who aids or abets in the commission of a crime is also guilty of a felony as a principal.

"What would you say of a city, whose officials set aside a certain district of the city in which burglars could ply their work with safety, where thieves would be assured the affirmative protection of the police and where the murderer would be in the pale of protection. You would say: 'That could not be.' Yet you elect officials who openly and flagrantly take this stand on the vice question.

"I have been reading in the papers where an appeal has been made to President Wilson to take up the white slave question as a national issue and where the matter has also been put up to Governor Eberhart. That is all well and good. But why not turn to our cities, where the white slave 'factories' may be found in numbers? Get at the root of the evil."

The speaker declared that he believed the electorate wanted law enforcement and he appealed to the voters to pick their men with discretion. He complimented Duluth on its change to the commission form of government.

CLEAR STREETS OF CHILDREN

Bernard Wants Young Boys and Girls Kept Home at Night.

Utilizing the agencies of the welfare board to aid parents to keep track of their children, particularly young girls, when the new commission takes charge of the city administration, was the recommendation advanced this morning by William L. Bernard, candidate for short term commissioner.

Mr. Bernard declared that too many foolish, giddy girls are on the streets and at public dances at hours when they should be in their homes. He added that altogether too many young boys hang about pool halls, especially those of the cheaper variety.

He explained that in the majority of instances the parents are ignorant of their whereabouts, frequently believing the statements that they are spending the evening at the home of some friend, or attending a meeting or social affair which is not objectionable. He said that fathers and mothers are altogether too prone to take the explanations offered at their face value, making no effort to find out whether or not the children have told the truth.

"I believe that the agencies now at our command could be extended to help the parents know where their younger children spend their time," said Mr. Bernard, "co-operating as much as necessary with similar branches of the state and county administrations. We have visiting nurses to aid us in stamping out tuberculosis and other visiting nurses to teach mothers how best to feed and bring their babies through the critical stages of infancy. Why could not capable, whole-souled women, or men, do a vast amount of real good by calling upon mothers and fathers to point out to them the pitfalls awaiting their young sons and daughters when first they start running on the streets and staying out late nights, frequenting places which they should not know at hours when they ought to be in bed?

"In that way they could be taken in hand before they had gone so far that they had reached the police court or committed some crime bringing them under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. At all times the greatest care should be exercised to prevent publicity which would wipe out the good which could be accomplished. That plenty of opportunity for work can be found without hunting for it is evident to the casual observer who gets on the streets, goes to dance halls or visits the poolrooms.

"Our experience with visiting work in the other lines has shown that much can be done in that direction by proper application and with comparatively small expense. One man or woman can call upon a surprisingly large number of people in a week or a month when conducted upon a systematic basis and at the same time do the follow-up work which would be necessary to the success of such a plan."

RELIGION AS INSURANCE POLICY

"Some men don't believe in a judgment," said Evangelist Robert Whiston in his sermon on "The Two Thrones" at the First Christian church last evening. "They will acknowledge, however, that there 'may be' a judgment. A man is a fool who will take chances if there is the least possibility of a judgment day. When I travel, I carry accident insurance. Not because I expect the train to run off the track, but on the possibility of a 'may be.' You insure your property not because you expect it to burn down tomorrow, but on the possibility of a 'maybe.' What a monumental fool a man is, who takes chances on an eternal 'maybe.'"

Rev. Mr. Whiston will speak this evening on "The Short Bed," the sermon being a discussion of the application of the ten commandments to twentieth century life.

BUTTE HOSPITAL STUNG FOR $17,000 VERDICT.

Butte, Mont., March 26.—Julius Steiman was awarded $17,000 damages by the jury which heard his case against the Murray hospital. Steiman sued for $50,000, alleging that careless treatment at the hospital resulted in the loss of his leg.

Steiman stated that his leg was broken some time ago and that he took advantage of a dollar a month contract and went to the hospital for treatment.

After he left the hospital, Steiman says, it became necessary to have the limb amputated.

DOES YOUR SKIN ITCH AND BURN?

MINIMUM WAGE BILL PASSES

Effort of Opponents for Reconsideration By the House Fails.

Bill Reducing Mortgage Registry Tax Now Up to Governor.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is an excellent prospect that a law providing for a minimum wage commission to see to it that wages paid women and children in this state do not go below a humane level will be enacted at this session.

The house yesterday afternoon, by a vote of 61 to 10, passed the bill by Representative J. W. Wilson of Minneapolis providing for such a commission, and the bill now goes to the senate.

After the bill had passed the house its opponents, led by A. L. Warner of Duluth, sought a reconsideration of the vote by which it had passed. Mr. Warner said that if the aim of the bill was to improve the moral condition of women workers that aim could not be accomplished by such means, as morality has no relation to wages, nor wages to morality. He was supported by Representative Kerry Conley of Rochester. The motion to reconsider failed, however.

Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth has a similar bill in the senate, which has been approved by the senate committee on labor, and provided with an appropriation by the committee on finance. In addition, the Boyle bill yesterday afternoon came out of the judiciary committee with a report that in the opinion of that committee it is constitutional.

The commission is to consist of three members, one to be the state labor commissioner and the other two to be appointed by the governor. One is to be an employer of women, and the other is to be a woman, who is to act as secretary.

The commission may in its discretion investigate wages in any line of employment, but where 100 women engaged in any industry make complaint it must investigate. All employers of women and children must keep lists of their employes, with the wages paid. The commission has full power to summon witnesses and to compel testimony. It may create advisory boards to examine any particular industry, and these boards also have power to compel testimony.

Forbids Patented Material.

Senator J. T. Elwell of Minneapolis yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill absolutely forbidding the use in any public improvement of streets and roads of any patented or monopolized material or process.

The bill provides that no county board, town board, city or public utility commission shall adopt any plan for paving or improving streets or roads calling for "the use of any material which requires the use of any patented article or process protected by trade mark or any article or process which is wholly controlled by any person, firm or corporation."

Death on dogs is a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator J. M. Hackney of St. Paul.

It applies to Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and it declares that any dog running at large in either of these cities is a public nuisance; on complaint of any citizen to the health department any such dog, whether licensed or unlicensed, is to be "put in the pound" immediately.

If the dog is unlicensed, the owner may redeem the animal by paying a fine of $1 a day and costs, and if there is no redemption within five days, the dog is to be destroyed.

Senator O. G. Dale of Madison introduced a bill in the senate yesterday afternoon providing for the taxation under the head of "moneys and credits" shares of stock in corporations, all the property of which is taxed in other states.

Street Paving Materials.

Under a new bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul, and advanced to the calendar immediately under suspension of the rules, Duluth and St. Paul would be permitted to issue bonds to the amount of $50,000 to provide plants for the manufacture of street paving materials.

The house reapportionment committee's bill amending the new reapportionment law so as to readjust the two districts in which the counties of Sherburne, Isanti, Anoka, Mille Lacs and Kanabec are situated, reached the senate yesterday afternoon, and Senator Victor L. Johnson, chairman of the senate reapportionment committee, moved that it be passed under suspension of the rules. Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota had the bill laid over. He raised the point that it would be unconstitutional to pass any law amending the reapportionment law until a new census has intervened.

Those who kill the friendly timber squirrels which frequent city parks and gladly strike up social relationships with those who feed and pet them will have to reckon with the law hereafter.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the bill by Representative A. L. Warner of Duluth, providing penalties for those who kill these harmless little animals, and the bill will be a law as soon as the governor signs it.

Lower Mortgage Registry Law.

The mortgage registry tax, which was aimed at lenders of money but has always hit the borrowers under the clever contrivance of the lenders, will be a lesser burden hereafter than formerly.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the house bill reducing this tax from 50 cents per $100 to 15 cents, with the provision that on mortgages running for more than five years the tax shall be 25 cents per $100.

Another bill which goes to the governor because of its passage by the senate yesterday afternoon is that by Representative Anton Borgen of Duluth, authorizing St. Louis county to spend $8,000, if the county board approves, in improving channels near Tower entering Lake Vermilion.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the Finke bill prohibiting shipments of cream more than sixty-five miles except in refrigerator cars. As originally drafted, the bill prohibited shipments of more than fifty miles, but the friends of the bill yesterday afternoon conceded an additional fifteen miles to the Northern Minnesota sections that would be harmed by it.

The Holmberg-O'Neil-Flowers bill, appropriating $50,000 in state aid to counties maintaining county agricultural agents, passed the house yesterday afternoon. Counties maintaining agricultural experts and supplying at least $1,000 a year for that purpose are to have a similar amount from the state; and the several counties are authorized to appropriate money for this purpose. The bill originated with Charles P. Craig of Duluth.

WOULD HAVE BONDS SOLD

Another Move to Change Policy of State Investment Board.

Resolution Urging Speedy Sale of Foreign Bonds Is Introduced.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another move in the campaign to have the state dispose of the foreign bonds now held by it and to invest the proceeds in home development bonds was made yesterday afternoon, when Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin introduced a resolution requesting the state investment board to dispose of the foreign bonds as speedily as may be.

The resolution, at the request of its author, was referred to the committee on general legislation.

Bills are now before the legislature in both branches changing the law governing the state investment board so as to make it possible to reverse its policy of clinging to the foreign bonds while communities in this state are compelled to borrow money abroad at high rates of interest.

Representatives P. H. McGarry of Walker and G. W. Burrows of Breckenridge have in the house a bill allowing the state investment board to take this action by a majority vote, and Senator J. T. Elwell of Minneapolis has a similar bill before the senate.

Under the present law none of these bonds can be sold except by a unanimous vote of the board, and as State Auditor Iverson always has been opposed to letting these bonds go, action has been made impossible.

State Treasurer Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, who is a member of the board, made a campaign some time ago to have some of the bonds sold and the proceeds made available for home development purposes, but no action was taken.

Text of Resolution.

The Warner resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, the state of Minnesota has in its permanent trust funds several million dollars of the bonds of other states, the larger portion of which draws interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum and do not mature for many years; and

"Whereas, these bonds were acquired for the state at a time when the state investment board was limited to a narrow field in which to invest the funds at its disposal, and the money thus invested has gone to make improvements and do development work in other states; and

"Whereas, the field for the investment of the permanent trust funds has been extended and there are now more demands for funds by our own people with which to refund floating indebtedness of school districts, townships, villages, cities and counties and with which to make public improvements and do development work than the funds at the disposal of the state investment board will permit them to fill; and

Whereas, our own people are thus compelled to go into the money markets and borrow paying 4, 5 and even 6 per cent while their money is loaned to the people of Utah, Virginia and Massachusetts at 3 and 3½ per cent; and

"Whereas, this does not appear to be good business or good banking and sound public policy demands that in the loaning of public trust funds the needs of the people of Minnesota shall first be consulted and considered:

Therefore be it resolved by the house of representatives that the state investment board be and is hereby requested to dispose of all the foreign owned bonds held in the state permanent trust funds as soon as such sale can be made without loss to the state and compatible with the best interests of the state."

counties in which the lakes are situated.

Bills providing for these changes accompany the report.

The report refers in a spirit of criticism to the connection of "a certain high official" with contracts heretofore made for seining lakes, which contracts have proved highly profitable to the contractors. This reference, judging by the testimony in the hearings before the committee is to Mayor Keller of St. Paul, who acted as attorney for one of the contractors.

The committee reports that the game and fish commission has two general functions: First, policing the state to prevent and punish game law violations; second, propagating fish. The first function is declared to be largely negative and repressive; the second, positive and constructive. The board, the committee says, lays great emphasis on the former function, and the executive agent, H. A. Rider, devotes much of his time to it, with sixty-three men or more under him scattered over the state and costing the people for salaries and expenses $83,191.43 in 1912. For gathering fish spawn and fry the commission spent only $3,169.83 last year. "Even in the matter of hatcheries too much attention is paid," says the report, "to the development of buildings and grounds and too little to the propagation of fish."

Policing Poorly Performed.

"On the other hand," continues the report, "the policing function is poorly performed. Evidence before your committee indicates that game and fish wardens are appointed largely through political consideration. No doubt some good men are secured in this way, but as a general proposition the system works badly. After appointment the wardens are turned loose without proper organization or supervision, largely to follow their own devices, and do the work well or ill, according to individual inclination. There is no proper inspection, no proper directing of the force, no well organized effort; and naturally the results are meager, considering the large expenditure.

"Under the law, commissioners and wardens are given large power and wide discretion. There is little evidence that either the power or the discretion has been wisely used. Wardens may seize as contraband game illegally taken, and paraphernalia used in the taking. There is no proper check upon its taking or disposal. Here are wide opportunities for abuse of power, favoritism and even for graft. While there is no specific evidence before your committee of such graft, the large force of wardens would be more than human if some have not taken advantage of their opportunities in this respect.

"As regards loose business methods, a warden may himself seize and sell game and paraphernalia, collect therefor and report at leisure. It must be borne in mind that he is dealing with law-breakers who dare not report him without themselves getting into the clutches of the law. A dishonest warden might forget to report until reminded to do so, and if not reminded at all, might not report at all. Under the system he would run little risk in taking that course."

"As to the seining of fish in international waters, specifically in the Lake of the Woods, Representative Walter Anderson of Badger charged before your committee that the law and the rulings of the commission favored big fish companies as against settlers. Fish companies for nominal license fees, $25 per net, were permitted practically to monopolize the seining privileges of the lake.

Seining for Rough Fish.

"Under the law the commission is authorized to license fishermen to seine inland lakes for rough fish. The intent of the law seems to be to provide a means of ridding these lakes of such fish so that the more valuable game fish may survive.

"In practice the law seems to have been the means of giving fishermen with political pull opportunities to make money in seining some of the best stocked lakes. The commission has interpreted the law as authorizing a monopolistic contract for each lake. Lake Chetek is a case in point.

"In 1911-12, Aaron Margulis of St. Paul secured a license for seining this lake on a bid of $1,999, aided by the influence of a certain high city official who appeared in the case as his attorney. The privilege, Mr. Margulis says, netted him a profit of $20,000. Naturally this year the privilege was much in demand. Louis Schwartz, the law partner of this certain high official, told Margulis that he could control the securing of the privilege, and wanted to bargain with Margulis for the fishing of the lake under some sort of a partnership agreement. Margulis wanted no partner. The lawyer looked elsewhere. He and others succeeded in interesting William Somers, a fisherman at Hastings, in the deal. Many other fishermen were ready to bid on the lake, and some of them now say that they would have bid up the lake as high as $5,000 or $10,000, or on a commission basis up to 25 per cent. But nobody except the St. Paul lawyer and his combination was permitted to bid. The commission adopted a resolution that no fishermen might secure license to fish more than one lake. Bidders were told that the lake would not be let. Most of them tied up on other work in September. A secret contract for the letting of the lake was made with the combination between meetings of the commission, arrangements having been completed with the 'high official' and his law partners.

"The lake was let on a percentage basis to Somers ostensibly, but really to the combination. Other prospective bidders heard of the letting when the successful man began operations, or else through the newspapers. This lake and its letting seem to have been made a subject of a conference between high officers of the state and other men of political standing and influence.

Looks Like Juicy Plum.

"If the year had been favorable, William Somers says that fish of the value of $120,000 might have been taken from the lake. Even now it looks like a juicy plum, except that the plum is of unusual size.

"Fishermen who appeared before the committee assume that political pull determines who shall get licenses for the fishing of lakes promising good profits. As a consequence these fishermen have interested men of political influence to appear for them before the commission. It makes a situation of which neither the state nor the officers concerned have any reason to be proud."

The committee recommends that the law under which this seining is done be repealed as once, as "conditions under it are little short of a public scandal."

"The board of game and fish commissioners," says the report, "a payless board, is as inefficient an instrument of administration as other boards of its kind. Members of the board are not so much to blame. The system is hopelessly bad. Laws governing the work are not what they should be. If Minnesota is to have an efficient department for the protection of game and fish, it should be headed by a single responsible officer with some conception of the problem before him."

The committee recommends the absorption of this work by the forestry bureau, and that forest rangers and patrols be charged with the duties of game wardens in the forest territory. Additional men might be given to be used for both purposes, and two game wardens should be assigned to each of the large cities and one to Duluth to look after illegal marketing and shipping. The state forester should be given a corps of about five traveling inspectors to be used all over the state, and to organize local officials into a force of game wardens, working on a reward basis.

The committee recommends that more attention be given to the propagation of game and fish, for which work the state forester should employ a "real expert."

The committee recommends that in interstate waters no person should have a license for more than one net, and that these nets be restricted to the smallest practicable size. The idea of this is to avoid monopoly in fisheries and to give the little fellows a chance.

Committee's Recommendations.

Summarized, the recommendations of the committee are as follows:

1. Abolish the board of game and fish commissioners.
2. Give their work to the state forestry department.
3. Make forest rangers and forest patrols also game and fish wardens for the forest lands.
4. Give the department five traveling inspectors whose business it will be to organize sheriffs, village marshals and constables into game and fish wardens paid upon a reward basis.
5. Encourage them also to organize game and fish protective associations using gun clubs or other like organizations as a nucleus in each case.
6. Keep five wardens in the large cities, two in St. Paul, two in Minneapolis and one in Duluth to watch markets and shipping points.
7. Repeal chapter 54, laws of 1909, authorizing seining of inland lakes for rough fish.
8. Require the state to do seining after investigation.
9. Revise law as to seining international waters so as to give small fishermen more show.
10. Remove restriction on sale of non-game fish from any lake where seine is used.
11. Let rough fish be speared at all seasons, and night and day in waters with few game fish or none.
12. Be more liberal in licensing fish houses.
13. Limit the size of seines and nets and license but one for each person.
14. Put an expert in charge of fish hatcheries and fisheries.
15. Have studies made of Minnesota fish lakes to determine sorts of fish to which they are adapted. Stock with fish to which the waters are adapted. Be more liberal in permitting the taking of plentiful fish.
16. Close the market to more rare game fish and restrict catch.
17. Shorten the open season for quail and chickens and made it later.
18. Give settlers better opportunity to take game in open season.
19. Encourage domestication of game and fish, and permit marketing of domesticated game and fish.

END LIVER TROUBLE WITHOUT CALOMEL

Untrustworthy Drug, Thought to Loosen the Teeth, Now Made Absolutely Unnecessary.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are the mildest but surest laxative known, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. Dr. Edwards has been calomel's uncompromising foe. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-oil-colored tablets, a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil. These pleasant, harmless little tablets do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel at all, but to let Olive Tablets take their place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" the clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits.

10c and 25c a box. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

POLICE JUDGE BLAMES THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC FOR CRIME

Says 90 Per Cent of Police Business Is Due to Drink.

Claims the Hands of Chief Troyer Have Been Tied.

JUDGE W. L. WINDOM.

That the country is cursed by liquor; that enough money was spent in Duluth last year for intoxicants to provide bread for the city for seven years; and that 90 per cent of the crime committed is caused by indulgence in the liquid fire, were among the assertions made last night by Municipal Judge W. L. Windom, when he spoke before the joint meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance unions of the city at the First M. E. church.

The unions gave a banquet at the church last evening, and members of the various unions of the city—from all parts—attended. Judge Windom, Dr. R. W. Bowden, Watson S. Moore, Dr. Mary McCoy, Mrs. Joseph Cochrane, Mrs. A. B. Siewert and Rev. Swaney Nelson were the speakers of the evening. Mrs. E. Daniels gave a vocal solo and led the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" at the conclusion of the program. The hostesses of the evening were:

Mrs. J. T. Culbertson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs Helen Stewart, Mrs. David Adams, Mrs. B. H. Smith, Mrs. Seglum, Mrs. M. C. Ives, Mrs. T. F. Olson, Mrs. M. E. Allen, Mrs. Swanson and Mrs. A. R. Bennett.

"The Legal Standpoint."

Judge Windom spoke on "The Legal Standpoint." His talk was most interesting and aroused a great deal of enthusiastic comment among those who heard him. He said in part:

"My experience on the municipal bench for ten years has shown to me that fully 90 per cent of the trouble and crime which comes to the attention of the police court is caused by liquor. That traffic has its tendrils about the whole body politic, and it frustrates the efforts of such conscientious officials as Chief Troyer to try to stamp out vice. The chief is the most perfect hater of vice in Duluth today, but his efforts to check it have been hindered by a gang who do not wish to see the existing ills eliminated for political reasons alone. The question being discussed these days is: 'What saloons should be closed?' That is the present question, but the chief one is: 'Why were they ever opened?'

"There is no need of more laws to curb this traffic and its machinations. We are cursed by too many laws. What we need is enforcement. The law that permits this liquor evil to exist is the chief curse of the country. Such a law permits this traffic to fatten and grow at the expense of manhood and womanhood. In the year 1912 Duluth spent $3,400,000 for liquor—enough to supply this city with bread for seven years. What do we get in return for it? Nothig but dissipated, degraded manhood. If one sat on the bench as I have for ten years, and possessed common human sympathy, he could not help but become a determined foe of the liquor traffic."

The judge told of efforts that Chief Troyer has made to enforce the laws and declared that his efforts have been set at naught by a gang in the council which desires such evils perpetuated. He paid a tribute to the chief, who, he said, is sincerely desirous of shutting off the various avenues of vice and making the city cleaner.

Elimination Plan.

Dr. Bowden related a plan for the gradual elimination of saloons. He suggested that taking the present number as a basis, there being 184 saloons in the city, 10 per cent be eliminated each year. His plan is this: Number the saloons in rotation as licenses are issued; place those in No. 1 class—No. 1, No. 11, No. 21, etc.—for instance, and those in the No. 2 class, and so forth, all down the line, together. Each year the commission about to come into power should draw ballots and the class drawn should be refused licenses. If his plan were adopted now, he said, and continued each year, the saloons would be wiped out by 1924. This he advocated as a fair measure, giving the saloon keepers a chance to get out without loss and at the same time obtain the results desired—that of wiping out the traffic in the city.

Mrs. Alfred Jaques spoke on "Our Work," telling of the activities of the W. C. T. U., particularly of the educational work in the public schools, which aims to show the evils, effects and dangers of alcoholism.

Watson S. Moore spoke on "Business' Worst Enemy." He declared that war, fire and inefficiency are minor to the handicap of liquor in business. He said that the drink evil saps manhood and levies a tax on thrift and industry, and steals moral responsibility from men who would otherwise be good citizens.

Dr. Mary McCoy spoke on "Trying to Do With Tied Hands." She advocated the ballot for women so that they might help clean the moral tone of cities. Mrs. Siewert spoke of "The City as a Woman Sees It." She told of her experience in jail visiting and corroborated Judge Windom's statement as to the percentage of evil caused by liquor. Rev. Swaney Nelson's subject was "The Moral Issue," in which he dwelt on the necessity in the coming election of electing men who will see that the laws were enforced.

GREAT RUSH FOR OFFICES

Pie Rush at Washington Is Worst Since Jackson's Time.

New York, March 26.—A Washington special to the Sun says: Democratic office seekers are sadly disgruntled. The weeping and the wailing in the market places have not yet commenced. The grand chorus of condemnation, criticism and cussing of the administration has been put off until April 1, the date of the beginning of the special session, but rehearsals are being held in the Washington hotels and boarding houses and on the streets.

There never was an administration since Andrew Jackson made his memorable cleanup in 1829 in which was repeated the utter disruption of the business affairs of the government by the application of the spoils system to the limit of its possibilities.

The hungry horde is here, for which a worthy citizen of Perth Amboy, N. J., is responsible in a measure. He has had prepared what he calls a red book of official positions outside the civil service. Red it is; a fine, gory, resplendent crimson, emblazoned on its cover in huge black letters "Pick Out Your Job." It sells for a dollar and relates in 104 pages of close print the list of government jobs open to the Democrats. The Perth Amboy man has estimated that as the book discloses more than 5,000 fine jobs open to presidential or cabinet appointment, and assuming that there are twenty candidates for every job, he will make $100,000 and spend next winter at Palm Beach.

Red Books Numerous.

Wherever you go in Washington you will see gentlemen gathered in groups, excitedly discussing politics. Out of the pocket of each of these gentlemen you will catch the radiant gleam of one of these red books and the Perth Amboy man talks about Washington from hotel to hotel and enjoys the prospect.

When President Wilson came into office the seekers after preferment and jobs assailed the executive office in a veritable mob. Mr. Wilson met them with his famous "See the Cabinet" order.

The only man who really seemed to enjoy this transfer was Secretary of State Bryan. The business of patronage distribution was so onerous a burden in the region of the state department that Mr. Bryan was able to plead the excuse of no time to spare and turned over the duties of secretary of state to his assistant.

It was different in the terasury department. Mr. McAdoo tried it for a week. It is related by his private secretary, Byron R. Newton, that before the week was up Mr. McAdoo was on the verge of nervous prostration. Mr. Newton had lost his voice and the treasury department was on the high road to the devil when Mr. McAdoo was seized with the brilliant idea of doing his patronage business by correspondence.

Schemed Worked Well.

It has worked beautifully, so far as Mr. McAdoo is concerned, but a lot of citizens of the Democratic faith who thought they were going to be collectors of the port, naval officers, internal revenue collectors or hold well paid jobs in the treasury department itself are preparing to take active and vociferous part in the April 1 concert.

It is believed in Washington that a state by state census of the hotels and boarding houses and clubs and other places where office seekers congregate would show a predominance of Georgians. Grand old Georgia has sent into Washington more than 1,000 of the flower of her citizenry, who are "jest itchin'" to save this nation from the rascally Republicans who have spent sixteen years trying to destroy it.

A stroll through the corridors of the house office building will convince any sceptic of this fact. Several of the Georgia members of congress have remained in Washington for the short interval between congressional sessions. This is known because from time to time in the capitol a door is seen cautiously to open, a Georgia congressman pokes his head out by degrees, casts a glance up and down the corridor and then dashes for a street car or taxicab. Letter carriers, newspaper men and fellow sufferers among the congressmen have been instructed in a code of signals by which ingress may be had to the offices of the Georgia Democrats. Three hard raps and two soft ones will open any Georgian office door.

This information is not given for the benefit of office seekers, but may prove useful, unless another new set of signals is adapted.

From Other States.

Alabama and Arkansas are close seconds to Georgia, with Tennessee running third and Missouri fourth. Indiana holds fifth place, and in close sequence come Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland. The other states are bunched in the rear of the race. New England being the most notable laggard. The Pacific coast and other areas where Progressivism ran rampant last fall are not furnishing full quotas.

One Maryland congressman, who has twenty-three third class postoffices in his district, says he has had 218 applications for these twenty-three jobs, a ratio of nearly ten to one.

Postmaster General Burleson's office is the mecca for the seeker. Fortunately, it has one of the largest anterooms of any of the departments. There are more than two dozen big leather chairs in the outside office. They have not been unoccupied since 8:30 a. m. of March 5, and the crowd of callers occupies standing room generously. There are four fine pillars to lean against and the overflow can be and is accommodated in the hall. Postmaster General Burleson has a private elevator which stops only at the fifth (his) and the ground floor. Its point of exit is kept a profound secret, and it is by this means only that the postmaster general has been able to escape either for rest or sustenance during the last fortnight.

The postmaster general has a private secretary, a slender, brown eyed youth from Texas, by name, John Ruskin McArdell, who did have a soft, mellow Southern voice, but it sounds now like a fence rail telephone.

Had to Give It Up.

"For the first three days I tried to remember by name every person who called on Mr. Burleson," said Mr. McArdell, "I was awfully sorry, but I had to give it up. I might as well have tried to memorize the city directory."

They have a better system at the department of justice, which occupies rented quarters in four or five former residences. One of them, once the home of a rich East Indian merchant, has a porte cochere which does not seem to be attached to the department itself. Mr. McReynolds' offices are just back of the porte cochere. The main entrance to the department is on another street.

But, using an automobile, the attorney general is able to get home to dinner sometimes as early as 8 p. m. The office seekers go out the other way at 4:30, for the attorney general, after a week of seeing everybody, was compelled to issue an order saying that after 4:30 p. m. each day he would have to confine himself to the business of the department other than patronage.

Gains New Complexion By Peeling Her Skin

(Julia Orff in The Queen)

"Keep still, sad heart, and cease repining, behind the clouds is the sun still shining." I was forcibly reminded of these lines when, after months of fretting over my ugly complexion, I found how easy it was to remove the cloudy, muddy skin and bring forth a bright, new complexion. I got an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at my druggist's and used this like cold cream every night for two weeks, washing it off mornings. Lo and behold! That old skin had all peeled off! The healthy young skin underneath gave me a complexion as pure, white and soft as any young girl's. I experienced no discomfort, the skin came off so gradually and gently. Several friends having been similarly benefited, I'm sure anyone whose skin is soiled, withered, blotchy, pimply or freckled, can acquire the lovellest complexion imaginable by using this remarkable treatment.

Another treatment that brought more sunshine was one to remove wrinkles. A face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½-pt. witch hazel, soon chased away every line. It's wonderful.

YOU SHOULD ENJOY YOUR MEALS

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

If your stomach can not digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? The answer is in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach?

Science nowadays can digest food without having it enter the stomach at all. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, billousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TURKS FIGHT LOST CAUSE

Former North Dakota Minister Writes of Awful Conditions Prevailing.

Asiatic Turks Dragged From Homes to Fight Losing Battles.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the men of Asiatic Turkey have been dragged from their homes and sent to the front like slaves to die for a lost cause, is the pitiful story that Rev. F. H. Leslie, formerly a Methodist pastor at Niagara, Grand Forks county, tells in an appeal which he and other missionaries located at Ourfe, Asiatic Turkey, to Americans for funds to carry for the starving widows and orphans.

"Thousands of fathers from Asiatic Turkey, who had no interest in the conflict, were torn from their helpless families, chained together like slaves, and driven to the front to die uselessly for a lost cause.

Families Suffer.

"Their innocent families are suffering. Commerce is dead; industry stagnant; employment unobtainable; fields untilled; women and children are starving, and the misery, distress and suffering are beyond description.

"Turkey is impoverished. The government is exacting the last farthing from its subjects with which to continue the wretched war. New recruits are hunted out even in the remote villages and are driven out at the point of rifles, and their families are left absolutely helpless.

"Even if the war was to end tomorrow, it will be months before the distress that is caused can be relieved."

Minot Man Wins Prize.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—While spending a part of the winter in Southern California, Clarence H. Parker of Minot annexed the trap-shooting championship of that section. Parker won the North Dakota championship at the tournament held in Fargo last summer. His record in California was 98 out of 100, the last 84 being straight.

PLAN TO FATTEN MONTANA STOCK

North Dakota Farmers to Feed Animals on Corn and Other Products.

Hillsboro, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The idea suggested by the Better Farming association to have the farmers fatten Montana cattel for the Eastern market on North Dakota corn finds ready response with Col. R. T. Kingman of this city, who owns a large farm near here and for some years has experimented with Montana sheep in this manner and believes the plan can just as successfully be worked with cattle.

The idea is to have a representative of the association interview the leading farmers who grow corn, then go to Montana and purchase grass cattle in such quantities as desired when the shipping season starts next fall. These cattle will be billed to either St. Paul or Chicago, but stopped on North Dakota farms in transit and after being finished for the Eastern market on North Dakota corn, clover and alfalfa will be sent on to their destination.

INSURGENTS TO SIZE UP THINGS

North Dakotans to Take Stock at Thursday's Fargo Meeting.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be an inventory of the insurgent wing of the Republican party at the state meeting here Thursday. It will be the first gathering of any importance since the campaign, and is regarded as the initial gun of the 1914 political campaign. Chairman Tucker of the executive committee issued the call.

Senator Gronna, Congressmen Helgesen, Young and Norton were all invited to speak, but because of the special session of congress their presence is a matter of some doubt. Norton is visiting the Panama canal and cannot be here. Local insurgents are not quite sure whether the others will be able to come.

Buchanan Still Willing.

After making the race once for secretary of state and twice for the nomination for governor and failing to win the nomination for either, J. A. Buchanan, who has borne the brunt of the fight for the insurgents for some campaigns, is said to be again willing to make the race next year.

Until the closing hours of the legislature Lieutenant Governor Kraabel was supposed to be the man, beyond question, but his vote on the initiative and referendum antagonized so many insurgents that his candidacy is no longer considered. He is regarded as more fitting for the prohibition candidate for governor than the insurgent.

DYING MAN IS GIVEN PARDON

Is Taken From Penitentiary to His St. Paul Home.

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—John O'Rourke, aged 30, who was granted a pardon from Stillwater penitentiary that he might be brought to his home here to die of tuberculosis, is now at home in the last stages of the disease.

He was removed from the penitentiary about 2 p. m. yesterday.

The Northern Pacific train, by special arrangement of Warden Wolfer, stopped at the prison gate and O'Rourke was placed in a car for the ride to St. Paul.

His father, Andrew O'Rourke, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Carter, came to the prison city early with blankets and other things to make the pardoned man's last journey as comfortable as possible.

Mother Prepared Things.

At the O'Rourke home, 375 Lisbon street, the mother awaited expectantly the return of her son. His bed had been prepared and its white spread was evidence that the mother, though she knew that she would receive her son only to watch him die, had not neglected details that might increase the pleasure of his home-coming.

O'Rourke was sent to the penitentiary two years ago under sentence of five years for burglary in the third degree. It was charged that he and four companions had stolen the savings of an aged woman who lived near the O'Rourke home.

Kill Anti-Junior Prom Bill.

Madison, Wis., March 26.—The Ackley bill forbidding junior prom and other class dances at the state university was killed in the senate Tuesday. The vote was 16 to 9.

Senator Killen argued that the university should not be shorn of the power to regulate its own affairs.

OFFER MUCH ORE AROUND BRAINERD

Mining Companies Making Overtures to Soo to Extend Line.

Brainerd, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The promise of ore tonnage causes the Soo Line to build extensions on the Cuyuna iron range and it now looks possible for the Soo to enter Brainerd. On the south side, within a mile of the postoffice, the Brainerd-Cuyuna Mining company, operating on lands under option from Judge G. W. Holland, has uncovered 3,000,000 tons of high grade ore. On lands in Southeast Brainerd and within two miles from the postoffice, the Martin Exploration company, drilling on lands leased from Judge G. W. Holland and other parties, has uncovered a body of ore showing to date 3,000,000 tons of good ore.

Mineral Between Tracts.

Between these tracts lie mineral lands of Fritz Koop and of Brainerd, Charles Neimeyer of Duluth and others, representing so much additional ore. A meeting of the directors of both companies will be held in Duluth this week and steps taken to begin preliminary negotiations with the Soo regarding the hauling of this ore. The matter of sinking a shaft on the property will also be discussed by the directors and stockholders of the Brainerd-Cuyuna Mining company.

At a joint meeting of the railway committees of the Commercial and Boosters' clubs it was agreed to extend an invitation to President Edmund Pennington of the Soo Line to address both clubs at a joint meeting to be held in the near future.

NOMINATE FASSBENDER.

Is Chosen Mayoralty Nominee at Marquette Citizens' Caucus.

Marquette, Mich., March 26.—The Citizens caucus Monday evening to nominate a ticket for the coming city election resulted in the choice of William Fassbender for mayor over Mayor Jacobs.

The Citizens ticket follows: Mayor, William Fassbender; treasurer, Robert P. Byrne; recorder, D. S. Donovan; justices of the peace, Peter Primeau and John Robertson; constables, Jacob Dolf and John Bergh; First ward, supervisor, James Hudson; alderman, Ed. J. Butler; second ward, supervisor, Victor Fahlstedt; alderman, J. J. Boyle; Third ward, supervisor, D. W. Powell; alderman, H. A. St. John; Fourth ward, alderman, A. F. Neidhart; alderman, J. A. Ekstrom; Fifth ward, supervisor, John Stickney; alderman, August Melin. Another caucus, the People's, will be held at once and it is expected that Mayor Jacobs will be nominated and other selections made.

BEMIDJI WOMAN DENIED DIVORCE.

Bemidji, Minn., March 26.—After some sensational disclosures in the divorce case of Mrs. Grace A. Vye vs. W. H. Vye in district court here, during which the plaintiff fainted on the stand, Judge Stanton denied the divorce. Both principals are prominent, the man in business and the woman socially. The woman alleged she did not love her husband and that he was too fond of a certain young woman. Counsel for Vye on cross-examination drew from the woman that she asked her husband to release her that she might marry another Bemidji man. It was while making this damaging admission Mrs. Vye fainted. The court wound up the proceedings by denying the divorce.

"LIVER" BROWN DEAD.

Minneapolitan Who Furnished Free Liver to Lumberjacks Is Called.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 26.—"Liver" Brown, for thirty-three years a Minneapolis resident with an extensive acquaintance not only in Minneapolis but in the lumber camps of Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin, died Tuesday.

One of the strangest characters Minneapolis ever knew, John H. Brown, who was born in Sarnia, Can., and who was 58 years old when he died, gained his unique title by setting up every day, in his saloon, which for many years was located at 529 Washington avenue south, 300 pounds of liver, of which any hungry man who walked in from the street might partake. No questions ever were asked, nor was it necessary that money be spent in the place. Men came, as they pleased, and ate the liver, and spent money or not as they might or might not have it.

ACCUSE CONSTABLE.

International Falls Official Said to Have Seriously Beaten Woman.

International Falls, Minn., March 26.—M. O. Springer, recently elected constable for Koochiching township, was arrested on a warrant charging assault in the second degree upon one Opal Glow.

It was reported that she was so badly beaten she was unable to appear as a witness and the case was set for Wednesday, March 26. He was released on $250 bail.

NEW MEN ON FACULTY.

President Vincent Announces Additions to University Teaching Force.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 26.—President Vincent announces the following appointments to the faculty of the University of Minnesota:

Dr. C. M. Jackson of the University of Missouri, to be professor of anatomy and director of that department from Aug. 1, 1913.

Roscoe E. W. Thatcher, director of the state experimental station of Pullman, Wash., to be chief of the division of chemistry from May 1, 1913.

Josephine T. Berry of the state college at Pullman, Wash., to be head of the department of home economics.

ST. PAUL FIRM LOWEST.

Expected to Secure Grand Forks County Courthouse Contract.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six bidders are competing for the contract for the construction of the Grand Forks county courthouse, a structure which will be erected during the coming two years at a cost of about $200,000. Ingemann Bros. of St. Paul are the low-bidders, and it is probable that the county board will grant the contract to them today. The bids for the superstructure follow:

DRIVEN INTO STORM.

North Dakota Woman Makes Charges Against Her Drunken Husband.

Oriska, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Running three miles through the snow, clad only in a nightdress, Mrs. Charles Gurman, wife of a farmer near here, arrived at the home of a neighborhood in an exhausted condition. She stated her husband came home intoxicated and began to make a threatening demonstration. Fearing for her life, she fled. Gurman was arrested and placed under bonds to keep the peace.

MANY CANADIANS FILE IN MONTANA.

Chinook, Mont., March 26.—At the opening of the new land north of here there were over 300 filings made in one day. The land office was rushed to its full capacity, a line of prospective homesteaders being outside the door almost continuously. Many Canadians are coming here to file. The government is offering great opportunities and many settlers who went to Canada are returning and taking up land in the states. Over twenty-six from across the line applied in one day for citizenship papers.

Institute at Williston.

Williston, N. D., March 26.—Five members of the University of North Dakota faculty are here conducting a two-day citizens' institute, the second of the kind that has been held in the state. The institute is being conducted under the auspices of the Williston Commercial club. Questions relating particularly to municipal development will be discussed.

Admit North Dakota Schools.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five more North Dakota high schools have attained the standard established for admittance to the North Central Association of High Schools and Colleges, and have been granted recognition by that body, according to President McVey of the university. The schools admitted were Langdon, Casselton, Mandan, Hope and La Moure, making twenty-five high schools in this state attaining the association standard.

Dedicate Devils Lake Hall.

Devils Lake, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The guild hall of the Episcopal church was dedicated Monday evening. It was built largely through the efforts of Rev. Edward Clattenburg, rector in charge, at a cost of $6,800.

"KEEP ON A-SMILING"

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today--You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his health, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4671 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

YOUR SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

REPORTS from up the way are to the effect that the anti-booze clause will be tidily tucked into all of the contracts signed by the members of the Grand Forks baseball team. With East Grand Forks literally yawning in the countenance of the thirsty with its hurdy-gurdies and flamboyant signs indicative of the cooling draft within, it has been on record that baseball players of the past have jaunted forth gayly to the haven of Bacchus over the river and looked on the large lagers when the suds were wild.

It's the irony of the thing; the only team in the Northern league to have an anti-booze clause in its contracts is the club situated within the dry belt.

But George mayhap you have chanced to travel up North Dakota way during your rambles, and if so you will grasp the purport of this little stipulation. Those things that we have not are the very ones we want.

When some merry gink with the wise look in his eyes comes along and says, after glibly passing sweet salutations, "Pray let us have a drink," and you reply: "but we cannot get a drink here, for this is a prohibition state," and he winks wisely and tells you to follow him, then it is, Bill, that curiosity combines with the insipid thirst and makes the call irresistible.

Even though there is the little prohibitory clause in the contracts of the members of Sam Foster's team, the enforcing of this clause is another question and the experiment will be one interesting to follow.

TOM SCANLON, who is here in the interests of Mike Yokel, is one of the best known promoters of sport in the United States. He is an intimate friend of Darby O'Brien, our promising young pilot, and in the old days was the business manager for Tom Jenkins, when this huge exking of the steel mills was considered the greatest heavyweight wrestler of America. That was before Gotch finally mastered the Cleveland man and was acknowledged as the greatest of all the American wrestlers.

AS ONE of the flourishing athletic institutions of the city the officials of the Catholic Athletic club have decided to increase the activities of that organization in the future. One of the first steps in this direction will be the entertainment of Thursday evening, when some of the best athletes of the city will appear on the club's program that has been arranged under the direction of Walter Miller.

The proceeds of the entertainment are to be utilized for the further equipment of the gymnasium of the club. With all of the members of the C. A. C. behind the movement to make the show an unqualified success, and with a program that will appeal to the lovers of clean sport, it is expected that the proceeds from the entertainment will materially assist in making the gymnasium in the Cathedral school one of the best in the city.

With the swimming meet over, there remains the indoor field and track sports and then the amateur wrestling tournament. Some of the best of the younger wrestlers of the city daily workout at the association gymnasium and the competition among this set for the supremacy of the association for the present year holds the promise of exceeding interest.

SIR THOMAS STILL A GOOD SPORTSMAN

Will Challenge Unconditionally If New York Yacht Club Permits.

London, March 26.—Sir Thomas Lipton keenly was disappointed to hear that the New York Yacht club had declined to reconsider his challenge for the America's cup. Said he:

"I have not received any news of the declination of my challenge by the New York Yacht club except through press reports. I am hoping that the reply of the New York yachtsmen will leave the way opened to an unconditional challenge by an intimation that the defending yacht will not surpass in size the challenger.

"Should a little bird from New York even whisper this to me, I would challenge unconditionally."

Chicago Billiardist Wins.

Philadelphia, March 26.—Percy Collins of Chicago defeated Dr. Walter Uffenheimer, Philadelphia, in the afternoon game of amateur championship billiard tournament of the National Association of Billiard Players at the Union League. The score was 400 to 382.

Lauben Wins Over Moore.

Chicago, March 26.—Walter Lauben of Chicago last night defeated John Moore of Kansas City, 59 to 36 in the second game of the three-cushion series in the national billiard league championship.

MILITIA TEAMS SCHEDULE GAME

Arrangements were made today for a game of indoor baseball between Companies A and C of the National Guard, the contest to be played next Tuesday evening at the Armory. These teams are old and bitter rivals in the baseball sense and the contest promises to bring the present indoor season to a fitting close.

Some of the best of Duluth's stars will be seen in the lineup of the two teams, Schaeffer, McCauley, Menelce, Schmirler and some of the other of the hibernating stars are scheduled to appear.

An effort is being made to have "Spike" Shannon, the former great outfielder of the New York Giants, and the present manager of the Virginia team, appear in the lineup of one of one of the teams. If "Spike" is in the city it is believed that he can be persuaded to take part in the game.

LITTLE SAINTS TO REPORT SHORTLY

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—Thirty candidates for places on the St. Paul Northern league team today were ordered to report here on April 7, when the training season will start. Owner Conrad said he has not definitely concluded arrangements for grounds, but that he likely will use the St. Thomas field, or else will utilize one of the West side parks during the season.

Twenty-seven signed contracts already have been returned and this number likely will be increased to thirty before the training starts. Dickerings are now under way for the services of Mike Kramer, a pitcher, who last year played semi-professional baseball in Alexandria. Kramer three years ago was given a trial by Minneapolis, but broke an ankle in training, and the following season, with the same team, was stricken with pneumonia while preparing for work.

Kramer applied for a position on the St. Paul Northern league club on Sunday and yesterday his contract was mailed to him.

MURPHY PEEVED AT FRANK CHANCE

News That Peerless Leader Is to Play Is Not Taken Well.

Chicago, March 26.—The news that Frank Chance is going to play first base for the New Yorks this year is worrying Charles Webb Murphy of the Cubs and August Herrmann of the Reds. It is said that whenever Murphy and Herrmann read cable despatches to the effect that Chance is in splendid physical trim and is in his game instead of warming the bench, they talk to themselves. Chicago and Cincinnati fans are doing much thinking too, for they were led to believe last winter that Chance, a physical wreck, never could return to the game in possession of his old quality as leader or player. Murphy sold Chance to Herrmann for $1,500, after all of the other National league clubs had waived claim to the Peerless Leader. Herrmann in turn disposed of Chance to the New Yorks for a similar amount, being fully convinced that he was driving a shrewd bargain.

If the Cubs, managed by Evers, and the Reds, handled by Tinker, fail to make good, while Chance demonstrates that he still can play and lead with success, it is predicted that Murphy and Herrmann will have to face a storm of criticism. It is also declared that other National league owners, including W. H. Locke of Philadelphia, are ready to admit that the release of Chance to Ban Johnson's circuit was a fatal mistake. In baseball circles the impression is growing that Johnson, Comiskey and Farrell "put one over" on the National league and that Chance knew what he was doing when he picked the now famous quarrel with Murphy.

When Chance was signed by the New Yorks the general belief in the National league was that he would never play again and as a bench manager he would not prove a howling success. Murphy spread the story that Chance was a hopeless invalid and that he would prove a white elephant in the American league. It is now admitted that several National league club owners, if they had been conversant with inside facts, would have declined to waive on Chance rather than allow him to go over to the enemy. Murphy, it is argued, can show that the retention of Chance by the Cubs was out of the question because of personal animosity, but in Herrmann's case it is a matter of record that the owner of the Reds never seriously considered Chance while negotiating for Tinker and did everything in his power to swing the deal for Farrell. For these reasons the achievements of Chance, Tinker and Evers this year are awaited with unflagging interest.

STAGG IS FOR "BIG 10" IDEA

Chicago, March 26. — Coach A. A. Stagg returned to the University of Chicago yesterday, put on his working clothes and joined the "Big Ten" rooters. The director praised the Michigan athletic board for opening negotiations for a return to the conference and prophesied the move would meet with the approval of the "Big Nine" authorities.

Wanted Michigan In.

"I am in no position to discuss Michigan's moves in detail, since I have had no official communication with Michigan, but I will say I am pleased with what has been done," said Coach Stagg. "I have always wanted to see Michigan return to the conference, under the conference rules, and I certainly have not changed my opinion in that regard. I shall be delighted to see the formation of a 'Big Ten.'

Exception to the Rule.

"As for the rule against playing colleges which have withdrawn from the conference, of course, that will not be effective against Michigan when the institution has returned to the conference. It is true the rule was made as a protection to the conference. I do not know how the members of the conference would feel about taking back the rule should Michigan not return.

Faculty Rules Not Same.

"It is also a fact that faculty control does not mean exactly the same thing at all colleges. I feel sure the conference will accept Michigan's definition of what constitutes faculty control at Ann Arbor. The 'Big Nine' institutions would take Michigan's word in that matter.

"I suppose Michigan will come up for readmission at the June meeting of the conference, but I doubt if Michigan will play any of the conference colleges in baseball or football this year. The schedules are all practically completed and it would be hard to change them."

CRACK ATHLETES WILL COMPETE

The Y. M. C. A., Boat club, Polish Athletic club and several other athletic organizations will be represented in the track and field games that are to be decided this evening at the big association gymnasium.

Cowne, Lathrup, McNarry, Woelben, Forgette and several others of the crack athletes of the boat club will be on the program.

Martin, Conning, Otto, Beorkelman, Henneberry, Le Sage, H. Hollenbeck, McArthur, Radford, and others will makeup the team that is to represent the association.

The competition is expected to bring out some very good performances, as practically the best athletes in the city are represented on the various teams.

GOOD CARD FRAMED.

Walter Miller and Other Stars to Appear at C. A. C. Entertainment.

Walter Miller will wrestle Walter Nasgoda, while Louis Zorbas, Pekow, Jimmy Brady, Steve Gardner and other athletes are to appear at the athletic entertainment to be given at the gymnasium of the Catholic Athletic club, tomorrow evening. The purpose of the card is to raise funds for the equipment of the gymnasium and as the card is one of the best that has been given during the present season, it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

PAL BROWN GETS THE DECISION OVER MURPHY.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 26.—Pal Brown of Hibbing, Minn., was given a decision over Jerry Murphy of Indianapolis in a 15-round bout last night.

OUR COLLEGE ATHLETES OUTCLASS OLD ENGLAND'S

Recent Records Show That American Track Teams Are Superior to Those of Oxford and Cambridge.

Boston, Mass., March 26.—The performances in the annual athletic meet between Oxford and Cambridge, held at the Queen's club last Friday, were nothing beyond the ordinary, with the exception of the running broad jump and the one and three-mile runs. If Harvard and Yale should meet the Britons in the stadium on Soldiers' field as proposed, the chances for an American victory would be brilliant indeed.

In the event of the proposed meeting taking place with the same events on the program as in England, the visitors could not hope to capture more than three of the ten events, with a bare chance to land a further victory.

Where Britons Excel.

In the running broad jump Ashington of Cambridge cleared 23 feet 5¾ inches, which would be good enough to win against any American competitor. In the three-mile run Ganssen of Oxford covered the distance in 14.47, which would be too fast for any distance man at either Harvard or Yale, with Paul Withington out of the running.

In the mile run, H. S. Jackson of Oxford had no trouble in winning in 4:25 1-5, but this is the same Jackson who cleaned up John Jones, Abel Kiviot, Norman Taber and the rest of our American cracks in the 1,500-meter race at Stockholm. Jackson can run the mile well inside of 4:20 and would romp away with this race on the parlor track at Soldiers' field.

Ziegler, the University of Iowa student representing Oxford, did 43 feet 3 inches in the 16-pound shotput Friday, and a repetition might win the fourth victory for the visitors should Ziegler elect to compete against his countrymen. In 1911 G. E. Putnam, an American student at Oxford, won the hammer throw in the meet against Harvard and Yale, and his victory gave the odd event to the Britons.

American Best in Sprints.

The track at the Queen's club in West Kingston, where the games were held Friday, is probably the fastest in England. Schick of Harvard was credited with 9 4-5 seconds for the hundred, and the track, three laps to the mile, has wide sweeping turns especially adapted for fast time.

The time for the 100-yard dash at the Queen's club, 10 2-5 seconds, would not indicate that the Oxonians and Cantabs were rich in sprinters, and either Harvard or Yale should swing the short sprint comfortably.

In the quarter-mile D. Gordon-Davies got a miserable start and then finished in 51 seconds. Harvard has two men who can do 50 seconds or better, and the Americans have also better performers than Ashington of Cambridge, who covered the half-mile in 2 1-5. Ashington must be a versatile athlete, as it was he who won the broad jump with such a remarkable performance and also captured the hurdle race.

Hurdlers Easy for Harvard.

The hurdlers should go to Harvard with Cummings. The British performance, 16 1-5, would not bother the Harvard captain under ordinary conditions. In the running high jump the athletes from across the water would not have a chance, as 5 feet 8⅛ inches should not be taken seriously as compared to the stars that Harvard alone can produce, not to mention Yale's jumpers.

In the hammer throw, Cable, the colored youth at Harvard, would throw circles around Ziegler, should the American represent Oxford.

First places only would count in the event of the international college meet, and it may be a case of nine instead of ten events with the shotput eliminated, as in England on three occasions. This would make the chances of a Harvard-Yale victory all the stronger.

SEASON'S BIG MATCH.

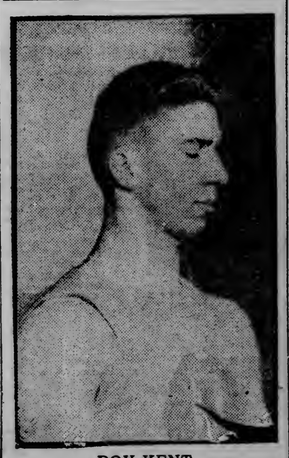
HOCKEY TEAMS IN TITLE GAME

The Nationals and the Intermediate team of the Curling club will meet tomorrow evening at the Curling club rink for the championship of the Duluth Hockey league. This is expected to prove the final contest of the season and also one of the hardest fought contests of the entire year. The two teams are tied in the league standing and the winner of tomorrow evening's game will be the undisputed champion for the present year.

Both sevens are to have their strongest lineups in the game, and with so much at stake it is expected that both will put up the best article of hockey that has been witnessed in the junior league during the present season.

GOTCH TRAINING HARD FOR MATCH

Humboldt, Iowa, March 26.—If consistent training counts—and it always does—Frank Gotch will be in the best condition of his career when he journeys to Kansas City the latter part of this week for his match with George Lurich, which is to take place on Convention hall, April 1.



The champion has surrounded himself with good men, who work with him as though they were training for a championship match themselves. In the camp are Farmer Burns, Emil Klank, Marian Plestina, the Austrian champion, and Billy Everson, a youthful wrestler from this city. They all work, for the champion means business this time.

Follows Same Training.

Gotch is going through the same training course he did when he trained for his last engagement with Hackenschmidt. While he pays some attention to road work, the bulk of his training is in the gymnasium. The champion is a firm believer in handball, and when he goes to Kansas City he says that he will be ready to take the Kansas City Athletic club champions into camp.

It can be said truthfully that although Gotch is working as hard as he ever did in his career he is not losing much weight. This, however, is not worrying him. The extra weight he says, will be as hard as nails when the bell rings and for this match he now expects to enter the ring weighing about 220 pounds. This will be five pounds heavier than he ever wrestled before in a championship match.

ROY KENT.

WILLOUGHBY AND YOKEL LOOK LIKE EVEN MONEY BET

With Walter Willoughby here for the past day and a half and working with an earnestness that has impressed the fans with some measure of the extremely large store of confidence of the Mellen wonder, the scheduled arrival of the famous Mike today promises to bring the interest in the world's titular contest up to the highest degree of enthusiasm.

Yesterday afternoon and the evening before Willoughby worked out at the Catholic Athletic club. Those who were privileged to witness the work of the Mellen marvel were doubly impressed with the form he exhibited. Lean and shewey, with a great spread of shoulders and a capacious chest, truly Willoughby exhibits a speed that is bewildering.

One of the favorite holds of the visitor is the scissors. Working an opponent into an opening the Mellen grappler clamps on this deadly hold with wonderful speed and precision. To the followers of the game this fellow is what is known as an easy worker, he wrestles with little apparent effort and seems to be a perfect judge of time and leverage, two of the hall marks of the truly great wrestlers.

Many Duluth followers of the game are thoroughly convinced that there is no man in the world who can put the shoulders of Yokel to the canvas. The citizen of the Jackson Hole country truly made an indelible impression upon the fans of this city. And yet one is rather awed by the fact that several hundreds of the citizens of Mellen are coming here with the greatest confidence in the world that Willoughby is to pin the shoulders of Yokel to the mat.

Tracing the dope on these two great wrestlers the keen follower of the sport is struck by the fact that the two men have wrestled their way cleanly up the ladder to the topmost rung, where they stand at the present time ready to spring to the grappling embrace that is to decide which of the two shall rule cock of the wrestling walk.

Willoughby's Record.

Going back over the long and honorable mat record of Willoughby there is to be found but one blemish upon his athletic escutcheon. Gehring defeated the Mellen star at Cleveland in one of the greatest contests ever witnessed in the Forest City. This contest has been coupled in Cleveland mat history with the great Gotch-Jenkins battle in that city.

For this match Willoughby was forced to make 158 ringside, and even some of the friends of Gehring have since admitted that Willoughby was unable to do himself justice. For the past year Willoughby has been begging Gehring for a match at 160 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, offering to back himself with real money and to permit the winner to take the entire purse. Rather than meet Willoughby, Gehring made the announcement that he was through with the game.

Charley Kaiser, Ed. Atherton and Al. Ackerman, three of the greatest of all the middleweights of the world, were defeated decisively by Willoughby. And while the Mellen star was fighting his way up to the top, Yokel was just starting to make the natives of the Jackson Hole country talk about his ability.

Willoughby was a brilliant and established star of the wrestling game before Yokel began to attract the attention of the world. Some of the more presumptuous of the friends of the Jackson Hole country man suggested that he challenge Gehring. Always modest, Mike demurred. He drawled out one of his inimitable protests against such a move and made ready to journey out to his ranch.

But friends of Yokel had greater confidence in his ability than the silent man, and the contest with Gehring was made. Then across the continent trekked the great Cleveland wrestler, interviews blazing his trail and heralding his coming.

The result of that famous struggle is now mat history. For three hours and thirty-seven minutes the two men struggled. At that time Gehring knew more about the scientific points of the game, but he could not overcome the bulldog courage and inhuman endurance of his green opponent. Some have stated that Gehring was on the verge of collapse when the greulling and at times bitter battle was stopped.

And this brings us down to the contest scheduled for Friday night. Willoughby possesses wonderful cleverness, speed and agility. Ed Smith has pronounced the Mellen man the greatest wrestling machine in the world. But Smith never saw the wonderful Yokel work. Can Willoughby, with all this speed and cleverness, stave off the relentless attack of the bulldog Yokel and catch his burly opponent in an unwary moment and turn the trick?

If Walter Willoughby does this he will have accomplished a trick that only one man in the whole world has been able to do—that man was Frank A. Gotch.

Out at Salt Lake City one night Gotch went against Yokel in an exhibition match. He was to pin the shoulders of the little Mormon to the mat in half an hour. It is true as gospel that the champion heavyweight wrestler of the world wasn't making the progress that some of his ardent admirers expected of him. Then Gotch lost his temper and resorted to the toe hold. Yokel was beaten: beaten so badly, in fact, that he was in the hospital for over a month.

There is some of the dope on the two men who are to meet in what promises to be one of the great matches in the mat history of this country.

Knowing the undoubted greatness of Yokel, viewing his illustrious record with calm nonchalance, the good citizens of Mellen remain unshaken in their implicit belief that Willoughby is going to prove the master.

And thus, robed in the glorious deeds of the past, two strong men, from the East and West, as Kipling would have it, stand face to face, and the man with the sporting spirit cries aloud: "Let the better man win."

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE AT WEIGHT

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—From the training camps of Frankie Burns and Eddie Campi, matched to box twenty rounds before the Pacific Athletic club at Vernon next Saturday afternoon, comes the report that both men are perfectly at weight.

Campi had been advised that 116 pounds at noon was a difficult weight for Burns to make, and insisted upon a scale forfeit of $1,000. Burns now offers to let this amount go as a side bet. Working at the Peters gymnasium, Venice, yesterday, Burns boxed two rounds with Mickey Sullivan and two with Jimmy Lastro, and wrestled with "Young" Shugrue.

Harry Gilmore, Jr., was an interested spectator at the Burns workout. "I can easily understand now how Burns beat Attell and Stanley," said Gilmore. "He is a wonderful little boxer."

Campi worked out at his Vernon camp, sharing the honors with Johnny Dundee. Campi boxed three rounds with "Young" Marino and one three-minute session with Brother Kavo Campi.

Dundee, matched to box Johnny Kilbane in April, boxed three rounds with Harry Carter, Dundee, Manager Monteith and Trainer Smith leave tomorrow for a short stay in Catalina island.

Tommy Walsh, manager of Frankie Burns, Frankie Russell and Joe Mandot, arrived in this city late Saturday night and is now in charge of the Burns camp.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, arrived in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon.

"I am the champion baby juggler of the United States," said Manager Jimmy Dunn when the party had alighted from the train.

"The Kilbanes' two babies and my own infant kept me busy from Cleveland to California, but here we are without sign of cramp or colic."

Kilbane is matched to box Johnnie Dundee before the Pacific Athletic club at Vernon during the last week in April. It was in this same ring that Kilbane won the 122-pound championship from Abe Attell.

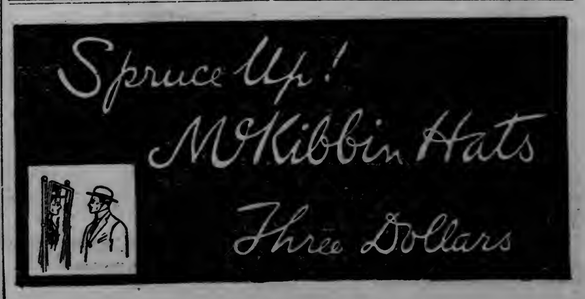
PAL RECEIVES MANY OFFERS

Chisholm, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pal Brown is receiving many attractive propositions from men of the first rank in his class. The latest offer is from J. McDonough of Butte, Mont., who is trying to arrange a match between Brown and Joe Mandot for April 1. F. S. Andrews of Milwaukee has been consulted and is trying to make the date and is now in communication with both managers. Brown is demanding 25 per cent of the gross receipts and it is believed that McDonough will accept the offer. Mandot's manager is now in Los Angeles and if his consent to a match can be arranged on suitable terms the mill will be held around April 1. Mr. Andrews is also attempting to arrange another Milwaukee date for Brown with Charlie White of Chicago and if this date is fixed it will have to come close to the Mandot-Butte date unless some other place besides Butte is chosen to hold the fight as Brown's Southern trip and his Pacific coast trip will interfere with dates around April 1, or last of March, unless it can follow closely with a date that is being arranged at Salt Lake City.

ARCHER SIGNS UP.

Hold-Out Catcher of Chicago Cubs Gets Part of Demand.

Chicago, March 26.—James Archer signed a four-year contract as catcher of the Chicago Nationals yesterday afternoon. Archer has been holding out for a salary of $7,500 and while neither he nor President Murphy would say at what stipend he signed, it was reported that a compromise at $6,000 was effected.



Both Murphy and Archer declared they were very well satisfied with their agreement. The catcher will join the team at Louisville in a few days.

FRANK BRYANT OFF FOR MILWAUKEE RACE.

Frank Bryant left yesterday for Milwaukee to take part in the 24-hour roller skating race. The contest is to start at 9 o'clock Friday evening and will end at 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Skaters from all parts of the United States are entered for this event, which is one of the big skating contests of the present season. The race is to be held on the Riverview rink.

Chink Ball Team Arrives.

San Francisco, Cal., March 26.—The all-Chinese baseball team of Honolulu arrived here yesterday to start a tour of the United States and play college teams. The first game will be played today against Stanford.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SAYS VIRGINIA IS LOSING COIN

Bert Fesler Points Out Loss From Not Operating Plants.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bert Fesler of Duluth, special attorney for the council in the water and light plant acquirement proceedings and sale of bonds, told the council that those who have commenced the injunction proceedings purporting to be saving the city $6,750, are requiring the city to market the bonds at $20,000 more if the injunction succeeds. He asserted also that the city is losing $7,000 or $8,000 a month each month it is not operating the water and light plant. As Mr. Fesler goes on the district court bench April 1, he made the recommendation that Luther C. Harris of Duluth be employed as special attorney to succeed him. Mr. Harris was also recommended by City Attorney D. D. Morgan and the council made the appointment.

There was no action by the mayor on the resolution revoking Pat Sullivan's saloon license. He has ten days to sign or veto it.

White Way Contract.

The contract for installing the white way standards on Central avenue and Mesaba avenue was awarded to the Star Electric company, which will install the standards, forty-eight in all, for $11,929. Other bidders were John S. Swanson of Virginia, Richardson Electric company of Duluth, Robert Perkins company of Minneapolis and Fritchler electric company of Virginia.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson advised by letter that he could not fix a price on the state eighty the city desires to acquire, but said there might be a way the city could acquire it for park purposes. M. S. Hawkins, superintendent for the Oliver Iron Mining company, submitted an agreement by which the city may use the route desired for the new Wolf road, and this will be signed up and work on the road will proceed. The Virginia Electric Power & Water company consented to give the city until May 1 to take over the plant. There was only one bid for the piling in Virginia lake at the North side of the market site, that by the Butler-Coons Contracting company at $6,581, and this was so much more than the city expected to be called upon to pay, that it was referred for a recommendation to the street committee and the city engineer.

GRAND JURY NOW PROBING MURDER

Itasca County Inquisitors Look Into Killing at Deer River.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury which was charged by Judge Stanton in district court yesterday and placed at work on pending cases, today took up the Deer River murder case of yesterday, wherein John McDonald, a bartender in Dick Jones' saloon, was killed, presumably by Herman Maki, a Finn, who is in the county jail here, with Otto Range, another Finn who is alleged to have been implicated. Sheriff Riley brought the pair from Deer River last evening after a coroner's jury had looked into the shooting, and held Maki liable for McDonald's death.

Today Judge Stanton and a jury are hearing the evidence in a civil action involving some property near Deer River.

Killed Over Some Money.

Deer River, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John D. McDonald, known as "Jack the Horse," a local bartender, was shot in the head, presumably by Herman Maki, a Finn, about 2:30 yesterday afternoon with a .32-caliber pistol, and died in two hours. Maki and a companion named Otto Range, who is also implicated, were promptly arrested and later taken to Grand Rapids. Both are Finns, and the killing of McDonald is said to have been due to a row over money.

Until two years ago McDonald was a saloon keeper here. At the time he was shot he was tending bar in Jack Jones' saloon. The shooting arose over some money matters. The two Finns, who were drinking, came into the saloon in the forenoon and left some money on deposit with the bartender. He went off shift at noon and McDonald came on. The Finns came in and wanted their money. McDonald knew nothing about their money and told them they would have to see the man they gave it to.

Pair Buy Revolver.

The two immediately went to a store and bought a revolver and had it loaded at the store. They then proceeded to the salon, and one entered and shot McDonald without going any further than the screen in the barroom. McDonald stood about five feet from his assailant when the shot was fired. One of the Finns then took the gun and threw it down between the buildings. The Finns came down from the woods and are not known here. They had been drinking in town for the past two days.

Both men were immediately arrested and Sheriff Riley came from Grand Rapids last evening and took the two to the county jail.

Jack McDonald was about 55 years old and a widower. He came to Minnesota about thirty years ago and was until a few years ago employed as camp foreman for the Itasca Lumber company, where he attained the title of "Jack the Horse." He leaves an adopted daughter about 6 years old at Melrose, Minn.

RAISES RADISHES IN WINTER TIME

Farmer Near Hibbing Turns Trick By Aid of a Hothouse.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. Reed, residing in the country eight miles south of Hibbing near Stewart, established a record when he marketed in Hibbing, St. Louis county-grown radishes and leaf lettuce matured on his farm during the winter. For the radishes he was paid 55 cents a dozen by a local concern and for the lettuce he received $1 a bushel.

Mr. Reed, at his farm, erected a hothouse 50x80 feet. For the past three weeks he has been marketing radishes and lettuce in Hibbing. He says he is not yet convinced that the plan will prove a paying one, but he has every reason to believe it will. From this time on he will be able to market all of the vegetables for table use that are usually imported at this time of the year and finds he has no trouble in marketing them at a fair price. He has a model hothouse plant. It did not cost him much to install, but it is quite complete. It is steam heated, an old boiler being used for that purpose.

WILL OPEN ARCTURIS.

Oliver Iron Mining Company Expected to Develop Marble Property.

Hibbing, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. B. Messner, who has returned from a business trip to Marble, where he is interested, says the people of Marble are much elated by significant developments which seem to indicate that the Arcturis mine is to be developed by the Oliver Iron Mining company this year.

Drills have been working at the Arcturis for some time, it is supposed to prove up the ore body. Within the week several car loads of ties have been unloaded there which is taken to indicate that the company is getting ready to install railroad tracks preparatory to beginning stripping operations. If the property is developed it will mean much to Marble. That town is one of the neatest villages on the range. It has a white way, model residences, boulevarded streets and other improvements. The town's best industrial asset has heretofore been the Hill mine. That will again be a big shipper this season. If development work is begun on the Arcturis additional prosperity is assured. There are still a large number of undeveloped mining properties in the vicinity of Marble.

BIWABIK SMOKER.

K. of P. Lodge Gives Very Pleasant Entertainment.

Biwabik, Minn., March 26.—(Special to Tht Herald.)—The members of Biwabik lodge, No. 146, Knights of Pythias, gave a delightful smoker in its lodge hall last night that was voted one of the finest affairs of the kind held here in months. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Methodist church will give a supper in Odd Fellows' hall tomorrow night.

The school board of District No. 124 last night re-employed all of the teachers and transacted various other routine matters. An adding machine was ordered for the equipment.

F. E. Myers, the local banker, left last evening on an extended Eastern trip.

CROOKSTON MAN DIES.

Ernest Rolsch, Father of Two Harbors Teacher, Passes Away.

Crookston, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Rolsch, a native of Leipsig, Germany, aged 57, who came to America in 1880, living first in North Dakota, and has resided here twenty-seven years, died here March 23. He is survived by a wife and four children: Miss Lillian and Miss Genevieve, who teach school at Fergus Falls and Two Harbors, respectively, and two small sons, Harold and Willis.

HAS SON IN EVELETH.

Knute Sundlie, Resident of Ishpeming for Forty Years, Dies.

Ishpeming, Mich., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Knute Sundlie, resident of Ishpeming for forty years, died Monday evening at the age of 67, leaving a family consisting of the wife and five sons and two daughters. Mr. Sundlie married in this city thirty-eight years ago. All the family live in Ishpeming, with the exception of one son, Ole, who is employed at Eveleth, Minn., and who is here today. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon with services at the Swedish Methodist church.

VIRGINIA GIRL DIES.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dagmar Annetta Ole, aged 18, died yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Ole, 330 Cedar street. Miss Ole was a senior in the Virginia high school and would have graduated next June. She was born May 4, 1895, at Ishpeming, Mich. Interment will be here, the day not being yet set.

The funeral of Dan Medic, aged 37 years, who came to his death by being crushed at the Alpena mine, will be held Thursday. Medic boarded at 418 Chestnut street and those who were his associates say he had a wife in Austria. He had been in America about two years.

AGED WATCHMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Old Alger-Smith Employe Called While Sitting in Chair.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Dwyer, aged 67 years old and a night watchman for the Alger-Smith Lumber company at their camp on the Alger line, was found dead early yesterday by the cook in the camp. The cause of his death is thought to be due to heart failure. When found Dwyer was sitting in a chair with his head resting on his hands as though sleeping, but as no response came when the cook called to him he investigated further and found out that the old man was dead.

Dwyer, although well along in years, showed no signs that his end was near and ate his lunch at midnight as usual. The deceased has worked for the Alger-Smith company for many years in their camps on the Alger line, although, according to reports, he has two sons who are in very favorable circumstances and who live in Detroit. Undertaker Thomas Brown brought the remains here, where they will be held for a few days in hopes that an answer will be received to the message sent to the sons in Detroit advising the local authorities as to the disposition of the remains.

OLD INJURY IS FINALLY FATAL

Joseph McMahon, Itasca County Old Timer, Dies of Hemorrhage.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald)—Joseph E. McMahon, 53 years old, and a resident of Itasca county for the past twenty-two years, died at 6:30 this morning at St. Benedicts' hospital of hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. McMahon was injured about thirty years ago while working in the woods, and he had been a sufferer all these years from those injuries. Some time ago he was taken to the hospital, his condition having grown worse. Mr. McMahon was born in Ontario. He was unmarried and leaves a brother, P. M. McMahon of St. Paul, who was here at the time of his death and three brothers, Ed, Thomas and Michael, and a sister, Katherine, living in Ontario. The funeral will be held Friday morning from St. Joseph's Catholic church, when a high mass of Requiem will be sung by Rev. Father Buechler.

VIRGINIA ELKS DOING HONORS

Their Far-Famed Boola Opened Tuesday and Will End Friday.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many attended the Elks' Boola last night on the opening night. The new building, which has been erected at a cost of $35,000, was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The booths were a feature of the event and every conceivable style of adornment was displayed.

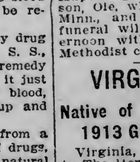
There was much merriment and considerable excitement over the various entertainments and much keen rivalry for the contests that began last night. Tomorrow is Eveleth night and special arrangements have been made by the interurban railroad for transportation between this city and Eveleth. Thursday night is Hibbing night. The Boola will wind up with a big dance on Friday evening.

STUMBLES ON PIPE.

Man Sues Virginia for Injury Resulting From Fall.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Yukelich has brought suit against Virginia for $1,500 for injuries alleged to have been received by falling on the cement sidewalk on Mesaba avenue and Pine street. Yukelich claims that a piece of water pipe was left sticking through the sidewalk and that on the night of Sept. 14 he stumbled and fell on it and injured his head and ear permanently.

Yukelich says that he has lost the hearing in his left ear in consequence and claims $1,500 and the costs of the action.



ARE AGAINST BILL.

Virginia Club Directors Are Fighting "Full Crew" Measure.

Virginia, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The directors of the Commercial club went on record yesterday against the passage of the "full crew" bill, now before the legislature which requires all the railroads to carry an additional brakeman on freight trains consisting of fifty or more cars. The following message was sent to Senator Boyle and Representatives Healy and Knapp: "We are particularly interested in anything that will decrease the cost of living. Senate file No. 19 and house file No. 245 known as full crew bill, seems unnecessary increased expense that the people will eventually pay. We urge that you oppose same."

Lillian Russell's Warning. Sore Feet: Bad Health.

Lillian Russell is a physical wonder. Now in mature years, but having preserved the fresh beauty of youth. In the Chicago Tribune she says: "Care of the feet, hardest worked members of the body, is absolutely essential to health. Irritation from sore feet often causes serious nervous disorders, and nothing brings face wrinkles quicker." Here is the best treatment known to science for all foot ailments. It works through the pores and removes the cause: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is magical. All soreness disappears instantly. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives instant relief for bunions, aching and sweaty, smelly feet. Any druggist has Calocide in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent box usually cures the worst feet. Calocide is not a patent medicine. Don't waste money on uncertain remedies. Insist on getting what you want from the druggist.

Wan, Weary and Worn Out

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S., Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Send for their free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

This morning was snappy with the temperature down to 4 deg., but the sky was clear and the sun made an impression on the snow as the day advanced. Fair, cold weather is predicted for tonight, with higher temperatures for tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:59, and it will set at 6:29 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Disturbances centered over New York and Louisiana caused rain or snow over most of the Eastern and Southern states, the Lake region and Central valleys during the last twenty-four hours, the rains in the Ohio valley being heavy and disastrous. Abnormally cold weather prevails in Western Canada, the Rocky mountains, Southwest and Middle Western states and the greater portion of the Lake region. Continued cold weather may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight followed Thursday afternoon by milder temperatures."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 26.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled weather with snow tonight or Thursday.

Iowa—Generally cloudy with local snows tonight or Thursday; slightly colder tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; warmer Thursday.

Wisconsin—Local snows tonight or Thursday; slightly colder tonight.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Thursday; warmer Thursday.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"The Winning Widow."

Amusement Notes.

An event that will interest Duluth and its interurban theatergoers is found in the announcement of the attraction that will occupy the stage of the Lyceum next week.

Duluth's well-beloved actress, Adelaide Thurston, will make her reappearance as a star in a new play entitled "The Love Affair," a comedy written especially for Miss Thurston by Frederick Paulding.

Adelaide Thurston has come to hold a place in Duluth's affections a little closer than that created by her artistry. In "The Love Affair" Miss Thurston as the heroine rejects the love of a poor suitor in favor of that of an elderly millionaire, only to find that her affections are in the keeping of her discarded sweetheart. The girl accepts a position as stenographer to an old and very rich bachelor, who, in dying, makes her the executrix and principal beneficiary of his immense fortune, a clause in the will being that she must live for a time in the neighborhood occupied by the other heirs and be guided in the final appropriation of the property by the opinion she forms of their several characters. Living there under an assumed name, she again meets her first love, who has won a fortune for himself and again lays siege to her affections.

May Robson, who has won a well-deserved distinction for her incomparable impersonation of eccentric old ladies, has completed a new comedy, with the assistance of Charles T. Dazey. The theme in development embraces several very funny situations. Miss Robson assumes the character of an elderly woman—a grandma, in fact—of the old-fashioned kind, whom we remember for her quaint expressions and her kindly disposition. The character of Granmum is distinctive of the class, and the type of Aunt Mary, made famous by Miss Robson's splendid characterization. The new comedy is said to be very interesting. The play will be seen at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday.

Bessie Crawford, songbird and comedienne at the Orpheum this week, is a model in self-sacrifice. She originated many of her husband's best jokes and is not a bit jealous when he gets almost all the applause in the Orpheum act in which the jokes created by Bessie are the main standby of T. Roy Barnes, her husband and stage partner.

Bessie has only one comeback. She charges her husband a tiny royalty for her jokes, and as they have been on the stage together for more than eight years that has amounted to a nice, round sum which they are to invest in a home near Boston.

With Bessie Crawford, jokes are a spontaneous part. It was a joke that made her quit musical comedy for the vaudeville stage. When an uppish woman in "The Tenderfoot" was discharged because she persisted in singing above key, Miss Crawford explained the situation by saying: "Marie is too high-toned for the part."

The manager laughed and suggested that Miss Crawford would make "a go of it" in vaudeville.

"That's me the vaudeville 'bug,'" said Miss Crawford, "and before I realized it I was on the Orpheum circuit as half of the duo, Barnes and Crawford."

Mr. Barnes has been a most hilarious hit on this week's bill, and his clever nonsense has convulsed every audience since the bill opened.

To obtain the proper amount of physical exercise is one of the problems of the actor on the road and many are the devices resorted to, to secure it. Mui Clark, the funny German comedian with "The Winning Widow," which closes its engagement at the Empress tonight, has found one solution of the difficulty. He has organized in the company a boxing class and now all the members secure all the exercise they need, with an occasional black eye thrown in. Mr. Clark has been a boxer all his life, his father having been the amateur champion of England years ago and having taught the art to all of his sons when they were boys. Therefore, Mr. Clark has constituted himself boxing instructor of the company and every day he gathers his pupils on the stage where they may happen to be playing and for an hour or two there are exhibitions that are the delight of the stage hands. Several of the members of the company have developed into excellent boxers and at the end of the season it is planned to pick a team from the class to challenge any similar team in the theatrical profession for the championship, the matches to be held in private in New York.

Several original musical numbers are offered in the production of "The Love Pirate" which opens a three days' engagement at the Empress theater tomorrow. Notable among them are the following: "Look Out for the Automobile" and "Sociability," both of which were written by William C. Cushman, who is playing the principal comedy part. Others are "Baseball," during which the company plays a regular game of baseball upon the stage, "That Rag Baby Rag" has already gained a foothold and promises to be a real summer hit. "Waltz With Me" is a waltz number a little different than the rest, while "In Dixieland" is a march song that has a swing to it.

CLOQUET PLAY POPULAR.

"Deestric Skule" Next Friday Promises to Draw Well.

Clouquet, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the demand for tickets to the performance of the "Deestric Skule" to be given Friday night by the men of the Methodist church, it has been decided to give a matinee Friday afternoon. A home-talent play is always well patronized and the "Deestric Skule," though an old play, promises to be a very funny affair as some of the best local talent of the city has been secured to take part. Those taking part are all men and no effort has been spared to lend the last comical touch to every situation. Following are the parts as taken:

Ezekiel Simpkins, teacher, Rev. C. W. Ramshaw; Deacon Tidd, C. E. Dennis; John Jacob Astor, Harold Hanson; Patience Puddenfoot, C. D. Ohman; Ben Butler, Dr. Alex Barclay; Tooty Frooty, Victor Swenson; Cornelius Vanderbilt, Attorney J. E. Diesen; Peruna Jones, A. G. Thompson; Jim Blaine, J. R. Medley; Christopher Columbus, Omra Skaggerberg; Petey Barnum, Albert Cox; Buster Brown, E. S. Davis; Daniel Webster, Attorney F. T. Persinger; Lydia Pinkum, Franklin Coolbaugh; Jesse James, Hanford Cox; Liza Anna Snodgrass, F. J. Adams; Samanthy Small, Percy Smith; Mehitable Hornsnagle, Dr. M. K. Whittmore; Brigham Young, Rev. C. W. Lowrie; Mrs. Amanda Jerush Quackenbush, R. Robinson; musician, C. E. Blume.

POLICEMAN HARTIGAN SENTENCED TO PRISON.

PUT POSLAM AT WORK FOR YOU

As soon as you put Poslam to work for you, by applying gently to any diseased part of the skin, you will experience relief from itching, burning and inflammation, and will feel the skin surface soothed, cooled and comforted. After successive applications you may note rapid improvement until the trouble has disappeared.

Use Poslam first in preference to anything less dependable for any form of eczema, acne, tetter, salt rheum, piles, barbers' and all other forms of itch, and, as well, for clearing the skin of minor blemishes, such as pimples, rashes, red noses, inflamed skin, etc.

POSLAM SOAP keeps the skin secure against infection and disease, improves its color and texture, soothes tender skin, makes complexions clear.

All druggists sell Poslam (price, 50 cents) and Poslam Soap (price, 25 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

EARNEST ADVICE

However painful, however stubborn your rheumatism may be, even if the disease is of long standing and many remedies have failed, do not despair, but give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The rheumatic poison is in the blood and it defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. Rubbing something on your skin will not drive it out. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills attack the disease at its root, in the blood, and rheumatism cured in this way stays cured.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, or direct by mail, postpaid, upon receipt of price by the

Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

After North Dakota Jobs.

Fargo, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. J. Doyle of Carrington appears to be in the lead in the race for United States marshal in this state, and it is a close contest between Casey of Dickinson and Hildreth of Fargo for the United States attorneyship, according to reports.

Duluthian in New Concern.

Brainerd, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd Model laundry is to be incorporated by W. A. Barrows, Jr., and Carl Zapffe of Brainerd and D. L. Fairchild of Duluth. The corporation is to be capitalized at $15,000. A building specially adapted for laundry purposes will be built.

Duluthian in Pesthouse.

Ashland, Wis., March 26.—Frank George, said to be employed in a Duluth shoe store, who came here to visit Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burnham, was taken ill with smallpox in a mild form and removed to the pesthouse. This is the first case reported here. It is claimed George contracted the disease in Duluth.

Reilly Wants Rehearing.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. J. J. Reilly of Milton, facing a ten-year state penitentiary sentence, will make a motion in the supreme court for a rehearing, claiming that newly discovered evidence is of such nature as to support the plea for a new trial. Dr. Reilly is here in conference with attorneys.

VALUE OF RIGHT BREATHING

Health Comes From Knowing How and What to Breathe.

Hardly a day passes without confirmation of the old adage, "Man's life is but a breath of air."

Dust laden with disease breeding germs is inhaled by all who use the streets, but disease is not developed unless the germs find conditions suitable for their lodgment and growth.

With people having catarrh there is an ideal culture medium for these germs, as the irritated membrane and weakened tissues is a hot-bed where germs must thrive and multiply until they are numerous and active.

If you have catarrh, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest remedy, the direct method of HYOMEI. This wonderful medication is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following and destroying all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible.

The unusual way in which druggists sell HYOMEI should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties. Boyce Drug Store offers to refund the price to anyone whom it fails to benefit. You do not risk a cent in testing the healing virtues of this breath of life. Complete outfit $1.00. Extra bottles of HYOMEI liquid, if later needed, 50 cents.

BOY MAY BE GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE

Walter J Green, 17-year-old boy who stripped the steamer Easton of some of its wireless apparatus to rig up an outfit of his own, is today truly repentant.

At noon today he was brought before Judge Cant, who received his plea of guilty on a charge of grand larceny, second degree. The young man is a high school student and has never been in trouble before, so his mother told the court. He will probably be placed on parole. The court will dispose of the matter at a hearing to be held at 5 o'clock.

MANY FEAR FOR FRIENDS

Duluthians Fail to Hear From Relatives in Stricken Dayton.

Unable to Send Messages of Inquiry to Loved Ones.

There are numerous people in the city who have relatives in the flood-stricken district in Ohio and Indiana, and others who have acquaintances.

J. R. Zweifel, the photographer, feels great anxiety for his brother in Dayton. The brother's name is Josh Zweifel and no word has been heard from him. He is a photographer there and all inquiry in the way of mossages from this end of the line have been refused, so Mr. Zweifel is unable to learn whether or not his brother has escaped the flood. He said this morning that if reports from there are true as to the depth of the flood, his brother's building must be inundated. It was reported that a hotel next door to the Zweifel studio in Dayton was submerged as high as the third floor. The studio is only two stories in height, and therefore if the reports are true the studio is in bad shape.

Miss Nell Saarenberg, who is from Peru, Ind., and who is in the George A. Gray store, has been trying to reach relatives there and in Dayton for the last twenty-four hours, but to no avail. She fears the worst.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Feuer, who are in the city have also many relatives in Dayton, but can learn nothing of their fate. Mr. Feuer is with the Burroughs Adding Machine company and his wife is at Gray's. They have already packed and shipped their furniture and were about to move to Dayton, intending to leave here next Saturday. Now their plans are all topsy turvy. With these people there is the horror of losing mothers, sisters and brothers and they are in a highly nervous condition all this time and are anxiously awaiting even the smallest morsel of news from the stricken district.

Mrs. Thomas Walker, whose husband is a member of the real estate firm of Ebert, Walker & McKnight, is from Dayton. Her people all live there. Whether or not they have escaped she cannot find out as yet and is as a result in an extremely anxious state.

THREE WIVES SEEK FREEDOM

Desertion Is Named as Ground for Divorce in Each Case.

Desertion is named as the ground for divorce in three suits by unhappy wives in district court this morning.

Adella M. White, negro, aged 30, wants the bonds of matrimony which have bound her to William Lee White, aged 36, and also colored, for the past six years repudiated and set aside. She asks for the divorce on the claim that William Lee left her during the month of September, 1911, while they were living in the city of New York. Mrs. White stated that she does not know his whereabouts. She thought at one time he might be in Montreal. A trip there proved fruitless.

Mary Johansen, 50, after being deserted, she claims, for four years, is applying for a legal separation from Andrew Johansen, 53, to whom she was married at Mountain Iron on Christmas day, 1904.

Mabel Cox, 25, who was married to Charles I. Cox, 38, on Christmas day, 1905, seeks to have the marriage dissolved on the claim that her husband deserted her on Oct. 16, 1909. They have one child, Edna Marie, aged 6, of whom she asks custody.

WILL HEAR FROM FISHERMEN

Arrangements Being Made for Joint Committee Meeting Here.

Secretary H. V. Eva of the Commercial club and Deputy Game Warden T. J. Storey are making local arrangements for the hearing on fisheries to be held at the courthouse Saturday by a joint committee of the Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures.

This hearing which will involve fishing in the waters between Wisconsin and Minnesota, will be held at the courthouse, beginning at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. It is expected to be completed in the one day. Fishermen and others interested in the fishing industry on Lake Superior and other border waters will be given an opportunity to be heard.

The members of the committee will be taken by automobile to the government fish hatchery at Lester Park Saturday afternoon and will be entertained at a dinner at the Commercial club Saturday evening.

John J. Healy of Hibbing is secretary of the joint commission and the only member from this section of the state.

STRIKING TESTIMONIAL FROM THE EMPLOYES OF CANDIDATE

At a meeting yesterday of the employes of the Silberstein & Bondy company for the purpose of expressing their personal regard for Bernard Silberstein, the old custom of drawing up a set of resolutions was done away with, and each employe in the store wrote his or her own opinion of Mr. Silberstein.

There are employed in this institution about 100 people, and the following are some of the expressions just as they were handed to the committee.

J. T. JOHNSON,
OLETHE PEARSON,
MRS. G. E. DIXON,
Committee.

"Most considerate in all dealings; a man to be honored."—Mrs. Wicklem.

"A man could not be kinder, finer or more just."—Mrs. G. E. Dixon.

"A fine man and worthy of every man's confidence."—Grace G. Cate.

"After three years' association as an employe, can truthfully say that Mr. B. Silberstein stands for right dealings."—Grace Henry.

"I have been employed by the Silberstein & Bondy company for the past few years and have always found Mr. B. Silberstein fair and square in all dealings."—Kate Perrott.

"Have been employed by the S. & B. company for four years. Mr. Silberstein I admire and respect, as I think he stands by the working girls."—Mamie Bannock and Jennie Erickson.

"In my six years' experience I find Mr. B. Silberstein the most conscientious employer. He pays a salary which enables me to live and clothe myself as any self-supporting woman should."—Mae Burnham.

"A progressive, forceful business man and fair to every interest."—Alice Linner.

"As a just and considerate employer, I could ask for no better than Mr. B. Silberstein."—A. Pearson.

"In his dealings as an employer, honor and fairness stand predominant."—L. Higbee.

"As an employer, broad-minded, square and reasonable."—H. B. Hetager.

"His is a most noble character and honest to a fault."—M. Dryden.

"Have worked for Mr. Silberstein ten years and find him a grand man."—Miss Kate McDonald.

"I have worked for Mr. Silberstein for two years and have found him very honorable."—Ida Duffy.

"The man who is the same with all classes of people is the only man for mayor, and here is where Mr. B. Silberstein stands, at the summit."—Algot Nelson.

"I have worked for Mr. Silberstein for the past year and have always found him to be fair to his help and customers. I couldn't work for a better man."—B. Silverman.

"I think a man who makes a good employer will make a good mayor."—Elsie Gasper, cash girl.

"As an employe I feel that Mr. B. Silberstein is a man of good, honest character."—A. Loubert.

"Mr. Silberstein is not only an employer, but a very good friend."—June Carr.

"I have always found Mr. Silberstein kind, honest and pleasant."—Miss Annette Johnson.

"As an employer he is always kind, generous and considerate."—Miss L. Bruner.

"I have been employed in two other places in this city and without hesitation will say that he is the fairest and most liberal of any."—Grace Hanson.

"A kind and considerate employer."—Blanche Crowe.

"As an employer, Mr. Silberstein has always treated me not as an employe, but as a father to his children. I have been under his command for the past twelve years."—Joseph P. Le May.

"I am only 16 years old and I know I am too young to vote, but if women had the right to vote and I were of age I'd be among the first to cast mine for Mr. B. Silberstein, because I like him."—Minnie Winer.

"It is now almost nine years since I entered Mr. Silberstein's employ. In all these years I have found him ever fair and square in all his dealings, he is ever kind and generous, pays a liberal livable salary. In short, he is all considerate; believes in living and let live."—Marie Cheska.

"In my past four years of employment with Mr. Silberstein I have found him very considerate and generous in all respects."—Lydia Von Drashek.

"In my ten years' experience with Mr. Silberstein I have found that he is considerate, possessed of good sound judgment and will meet you more than half way as a fellowman."—J. T. Johnson.

"During four years of my business association in the employ of Mr. Silberstein I can frankly say that I have always found him to be conscientious and honorable in every way."—Miss A. Foley.

"I have been employed by Mr. Silberstein for five years. I know him to be a fine employer."—Mae Nolan.

"I have found Mr. Silberstein a gentleman in every respect since I have been in his employ."—R. Thompson.

"I have worked for Mr. Silberstein for four years and he has treated me fine and O. K. in every way."—Mr. Jerstead.

Osborne on Trial.
The trial of William Osborne, West Duluth man charged with having carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old orphan girl placed in his home for adoption, will probably not be concluded in district court today. Up to a late hour this afternoon the state had not rested its case. Three witnesses have been on the stand to testify for the state. Yesterday afternoon Judge Cant cleared the courtroom of spectators.

Chorus Plans Tour.
The Duluth Male chorus, composed of Finnish residents of this city, has a series of public appearances planned for the coming spring and early summer. On April 27 under the direction of Sanfrid Mustonen the chorus will render a program at Minneapolis. In June the chorus will form part of a large traveling party of Finnish singers of this part of the country, taking a tour of the Scandinavian countries. Before leaving this country, the tourists will give concerts at Chicago and New York. Twenty-four concerts will be given on the Scandinavian peninsula and three weeks will be spent in Finland.

Farm Paper for Duluth.
Profitable Farming, an agricultural periodical published at Minneapolis, is to have its headquarters transferred to Duluth shortly after April 1. Arrangements for this transfer are being made in Duluth by W. M. Wigham and J. W. Elliott, representing the Wigham Publishing company of Minneapolis, which owns the paper. The editors say that in their opinion Northern Minnesota is in great need of a farm paper.

Railroads

RAILROADS BLOCKADED

Snow Storms Delay Shipments of Grain From Canadian Ports.

Two More Lines Will Be in Operation This Year.

J. A. Speers, manager of the Lake Shippers' Clearance association at Fort William, who was a guest on the Duluth Board of Trade today, stated that there was no congestion of grain at the Canadian Head of the Lakes.

"It is true that there are about 1,500 cars, loaded with grain and ready for shipment to the East, over the Canadian Pacific, but which cannot go out on account of the snow blockade on that line," he said. "However, I do not think that blockade will continue for any great length of time. The elevators have orders ahead for 805 cars, which there is no use in loading at the present time, or until those 1,500 cars can be gotten out of the way.

"I believe this is the last winter we shall be obliged to depend altogether on the Canadian Pacific for our all-rail shipments to the East. The Grand Trunk Pacific has completed a new line for such traffic and one train-load of grain went over it about the last of the year 1912, but the line has not yet been regularly used, as the equipment has not been ready. But I think the new line will be in running order in every way by the middle of next summer. The Canadian Northern will have a new line for shipment from Port Arthur and Fort William to the East ready for service about next October.

"At present there is room in the elevators at the Canadian Head of the Lakes for about 3,500,000 bushels more of grain, including the new elevator that the Canadian Northern is about to open to hold about 2,500,000 bushels. That railroad has 1,200 to 1,500 cars of grain on track ready to be unloaded into this elevator as soon as it is ready. There are boats enough in the bay, available for grain, to take about 1,500,000 bushels, and these boats can be put to such use as soon as the ice can be broken. I believe this will be about April 1.

"The tug James Whalen, is now now breaking its way out into the open water. It is in about twenty-one inches of ice, just outside the Welcome Islands. Inside the Welcomes, the ice is much thicker. There are thirty-seven inches of solid blue ice, two inches of snow ice and fifteen inches of snow.

"The elevators now have about 26,000,000 bushels of grain in store and boats in the bay have about 10,000,000 bushels.

"Today I received a letter from a correspondent at the Soo stating that the opening of navigation would probably be about April 12 to 15. I feel sure that this is too early. I believe the 20th is the very earliest that we can possibly hope for the opening of navigation."

Railroad Visitors.

Railroad visitors in the city today are: W. E. Blachley, district passenger and freight agent of the Pennsylvania system, with headquarters at Winnipeg; J. T. McKennedy, district passenger agent of the Northern Pacific at St. Paul; Fred Lyon, traveling passenger agent of the Rock Island, of Minneapolis; and George S. Atterbury, general agent of the E. J. & E., the noted belt line in Chicago.

ARE TAMING THE BOOMERS

Canadian Northwest Getting on a More Substantial Footing.

W. E. Blachley, district passenger and freight agent of the Pennsylvania system, who is in the city today, says that the Canadian Northwest is still on the boom, but on a more conservative basis than formerly. Said he today:

"There is no stopping the Canadian Northwest, but just now an effort is being made to crowd out the false boomer and give the country a chance to enjoy a natural growth. There has been an influx of people in our country that has been amazing. Like many new countries there has been considerable rif-raf among the others, and while good citizens have come in they have been handicapped because of the difficulty of discrimination between them and the right sort of people. Now the banks have shut down for a time, the idea being that these wanderers should be discouraged. The Canadian Northwest is far from hard up but it wishes staple residents. The drifting people and the fly-by-nights are not desired.

"Up Winnipeg way we welcome good citizens at any time and are making an effort to get more of them. It is a great country and there are great opportunities developing there all the time. But we do not want the fake boomer."

ALGER-SMITH LINE NOT SOLD

Rumor That Canadian Northern Has Purchased It Is Denied.

It was rumored today that the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road has been sold to the Canadian Northern or was about to be.

This was emphatically denied by Secretary Bayly of the road, and the Canadian Northern officials here also claimed that they had heard nothing about it. The Alger-Smith line, as it is commonly called, has surveyors out extending its survey toward the Canadian border, but that has already been announced, and it is thought that that is the reason of the rumor. Said Mr. Bayly:

"We have not sold and we do not figure on selling. How such a rumor gained circulation is beyond me for there has never been an offer made and consequently not the slightest negotiation. This is the first we have heard of it, and it is interesting. Just why the Canadian Northern would want our short line, I can't imagine. But at any rate there have been no offers, acceptances or refusals exchanged."

The average man has twenty pounds of blood.

Changes in Officers.

Two important changes have been made in the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company lines. W. S. Jenks, formerly general western agent, has been made general freight and passenger agent of the lines, with headquarters at Port Huron. J. W. McLean has been appointed western agent with headquarters at Duluth.

AMENDMENT IS CHANGED

"Seven-Senators" Plan Is Made Less Discriminatory Against Cities.

Commission Men Flatly Refuse to Let Manahan See Books.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "seven senators" constitutional amendment will be reported to the senate from the senate reapportionment committee this afternoon without recommendation. As the measure comes back to the senate, it is somewhat less discriminatory against the cities than it was when it was submitted to the people last fall. It was amended this morning so as to limit the membership of the senate to fifty, and seven senators to a county out of fifty is less discriminatory than seven out of sixty-seven.

Object to Manahan.

The wrangle in the house committee that is investigating the grain trade may shift to the floor of the house. Though perfectly willing to submit to the committee their private books relating to future trades, the commission men this morning flatly refused to permit them to be examined by James A. Manahan, the committee's attorney, on the ground that he is prejudiced and is associated with a business rival of the chamber of commerce. At noon the outlook was that the committee would direct Manahan to prepare proceedings to bring the matter before the house so that a process could be issued compelling the traders to produce their books.

This morning, when the demand was renewed, Mr. Fowler said: "The future traders are willing to abide by the agreement which was made and permit the committee individually or collectively to examine their books and to permit the committee with any attorney from the attorney general's office or the chairman of the house judiciary committee to examine the books. They will not unless compelled to permit an examination of the books by Mr. Manahan."

New Normal School.

The senate normal school committee voted to recommend the house bill providing for a new normal school in Northern Minnesota north of the Northern Pacific line from Duluth to Moorhead.

The house voted down a motion by Representative Fink to make six minor temperance measures special order for next Wednesday.

The house committee on dairy products and livestock introduced a bill proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing a specific tax on dogs, the proceeds to go into a fund to reimburse owners of farm animals injured by dogs.

The house game and fish committee introduced a bill providing a closed season on frogs between Dec. 11 and Sept. 1.

The bill providing for a state life insurance system like Wisconsin's was reported without recommendation by the house insurance committee. This committee recommended for passage the bill providing that the state shall carry its own fire insurance, also the Lindberg resolution providing for a commission to see if fire losses cannot be reduced and fire insurance rates lowered in this state.

Senate Bill Passed.

The house passed the Rockne senate bill authorizing employers to form mutual liability insurance companies, a companion bill to the workingmen's compensation act.

The senate bill proposing a constitutional amendment providing state hail insurance was killed by the house insurance committee.

The house in committee of whole defeated the Stone bill turning the Willmar hospital farm for inebriates into a state tuberculosis sanitarium.

C. E. Southwick's marriage regulation bill was advanced to the calendar. It abolishes common marriages, requires five days to intervene between the issuance of the license and the marriage and requires physical and mental fitness as essentials to matrimony.

Duluth Dock Bill.

The house public domain committee favorably recommended the Cheadle senate bill amending the 1911 law providing for the leasing of the old state elevator site at Duluth to the city for public dock purposes.

• • •

The bill for a state racing commission and the bill prohibiting state officers from accepting theater passes were killed by the house general legislation committee.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

SOME GIGANTIC WEDDING CAKES

Castles, Cupids and Flowers of Sugar Paste Decorate Cakes Which May Weigh 300 Pounds and Tower Four or Five Feet Above the Table.

Kansas City Star: "Fashions in wedding cake change, not as do the fleeting phases of dress, but rather as a great art grows and expands."

The author of this dictum is Mme. Blanche, maker of the fashionable wedding cakes of America.

A wedding cake is designed with many things in view. Chief of these are the modes of the period to which the bride-to-be desires her cake to belong; the particular sentiment she wishes presented as the special feature of the decorations, and the degree of formality or informality that is to characterize the wedding feast. If the general proportion and style of the cake and its main decoration belong to the thirteenth century or the fifteenth or the twentieth, even, Mme. Blanche will have it that the tiniest festoon and the most inconspicuous cupid shall conform to the self-same period. As an example of the designs which have been highly favored recently, there is the "Temple of Love," which is a copy of the little temple at the Trianon, designed by Marie Antoinette.

This little edifice, which is made of sugar paste, is modeled by a French artist and architect who models all of Mme. Blanche's decorations. It perches on the topmost tier of the cake. All the decorations beneath it, of whatever degree of importance, must follow the period of the ill-starred French queen.

If, on the contrary, a cake is to be representative of smart up-to-dateness, and is to be lighted, as many of them are, by cleverly arranged electric bulbs, the flowers and decorations are done in modern realism, sometimes even to the extent of substituting real flowers for the more formal sugar ones.

Four Weeks to Make a Cake.

The enormity of the task of baking and finishing a wedding cake can be reckoned from the fact that it requires about four weeks from the time the order is put in till the cake is delivered. In weight they range from 3 to as much as 300 pounds. The Gould wedding cake, for instance, for the payment of which George Gould was recently sued, weighed 300 pounds, and was too wide to go through an ordinary door without being sharply tilted.

It was even taller than it was wide, having three tiers, supported from the base by white marble columns. Between the tiers were tiny white marble ladders, upon which little sugar cupids poised in seeming passage from top to bottom. At the very top a sugar flower nestled in loops of satin ribbon. Around the base of the lowest tier, under filmsy ribbons and back of translucent white flowers, a row of electric bulbs sparkled gayly at the instance of concealed batteries. The whole of its construction required even longer than the average four weeks. And its maker, at least, considered it well worth $1,000, which was the approximate value placed on it.

How the Huge Layers Are Baked.

To take the processes of making cake, in their due order, the mixing and baking is all done by Mme. Blanche herself after a secret recipe. The lower tier is baked in four oblong pieces, which, when put together, makes the four corners of the cake. Each corner is poured into a huge baking pan and is put into a tremendous oven, specially built. There is is allowed to cook for six hours by a slow fire. Only a coal fire is slow enough for this.

The upper layers are then made in their respective molds, each of a lesser size. The baking is first finished from top to bottom, then the pieces are fitted together, and the icing put on. At this point the services of a deft little Scotch woman are called into play to do the finer, sugar decorations. This woman has made a profession of designing in icing, and she does all the finishing work for Mme. Blanche. Then the more elaborate secondary designs are made—the sugar flowers, the paste cupids, the marble columns, the "Temple of Love"—if that be the design selected—and the ribbons. All these are laid carefully by till the wedding.

Finally, when every necessary part is assembled, Mme. Blanche takes the cake itself in her big boxes to the house where the festivities are to be, and there completes her work. She builds her cake, arranges the decorations, sheds a benediction over the whole, and smilingly departs. Of course, when she constructs a cake for export she is obliged to finish it at home and ship it entire. In this case a special brand of decoration is employed, comparatively indestructible.

Boxes for Lucky Dreams.

A very important feature of every wedding cake is the small boxes containing bits of it, which are given to the wedding guests to insure them lucky dreams. It is in these boxes that the greatest play is had for ingenuity and individuality, though they usually follow certain general lines. They can be made of paper, of satin, or of white moire, and can be of whatever shape is agreeable to the bride-to-be. One of the most successful designs hit upon by Mme. Blanche is a tiny bandbox, tied with satin ribbons. Others have heavily embossed monograms with here and there a coronet. For second marriages these boxes become pink or pale blue or lavender.

Mme. Blanche is the first woman in America, if not in the world, who has literally made an art of wedding cakes. She is a French woman, and came here by way of the Newfoundland fishing banks. She began modestly with Mrs. Brown, who had already a considerable vogue as a cake maker and confectioner, and what with encouraging her own imagination and quelling Mrs. Brown's timid apprehensions, she gradually introduced the wedding cake as we have come to know it.

Cake for Ethel Roosevelt.

She made the enormous cake which Alice Roosevelt Longworth used at her White House wedding. That was among her earlier ventures. She is now baking the cake which will adorn the tables at the wedding of Ethel Roosevelt. Her fame has spread till now she bakes the festal cakes for English society women, though England is the home of the wedding cake, and until the advent of Mme. Blanche, had been thought to be pre-eminent in its production.

There is scarcely a state in the Union into which she has not sent her famous concoctions. She has been recognized as official cake baker for the White House, not only by the Roosevelt family, but by President Taft, who ordered from her the colossal cake used at his wedding. And, being an optimist, Mme. Blanche believes that the pinnacle of her fame is as yet untouched. She will not rest until she has established her profession as an accepted branch of the fine arts, respected as such, and followed as such by those of the younger generation who shall succeed her.

NEVER SUCH A TIEUP OF RAILWAY TRAFFIC

Loss to Roads Will Range From $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

New York, March 26.—Conservative estimates of the damage to railroad property in the flooded Middle West, plus the loss entailed by the suspension of traffic, range from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, and it is conceded that these figures may be exceeded by several millions. This was the opinion railroad men expressed here today.

Never in the history of the United States has there been such a complete tieup of railroad traffic as now exists in Ohio and Indiana. Floods frequently have stopped traffic on individual railroads in the territory now affected, but in such instances train service has been maintained by using the tracks of other roads. In the present situation, however, although Ohio is covered with a veritable network of tracks, only one road in the state, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, in the northern part, was able to run through trains today, according to reports received at railroad offices here.

At the offices of the Erie railroad it was said that it would take at least fifty-six hours before service could be re-established and it was estimated that it would be over a month before traffic conditions in the whole flooded district could be restored to normal. The Erie's tracks between Chicago and Salamanca are out of business and fifteen passenger trains are stalled between those two points, all of them fortunately at large towns.

At the executive offices of the Big Four it was stated that washouts and collapsed bridges had tied up the line between Terre Haute and Cleveland.

RIVER BEGINS TO FALL AT HAMILTON

At Least Score of Persons Known to Have Perished.

Hamilton, Ohio, March 26.—After a night of horror for the marooned flood sufferers, there was a ray of hope that the worst was over early today, when the river began falling at the rate of nine inches an hour.

On all sides can be heard rumors of deaths due to the flood. At least a score of persons are known to have perished, and it was reported that more than 100 were killed when a monster reservoir north of the city broke last night. This latter report cannot be verified.

Fire broke out in the flooded district last night. One of the buildings reported to have burned was the Champion Coated Paper company's plant, the second largest of its kind in the world. There are only a few boats that can be used in rescue and relief. Ohio National Guardsmen who arrived in Cincinnati during the night are doing heroic work. They came here in four motor trucks and brought food and clothing with them. One of the trucks returned to Cincinnati for more boats.

Clarence Olson Tells Why Name Appeared on Stirrup Club Report.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As a further explanation of my name appearing under the report of the Stirrup club, I wish to say that I attended the meeting at which the report of the club was read and adopted by unanimous vote; and I authorized my name to be attached to the report.

After thinking the matter over more carefully I decided that I would not sign the report for the reason that I do not approve of the report as a whole. In the meantime the report had been given to The Herald for publication.

STORE FOOD FOR CRUSOES

Lonely Islands Fitted With Provisions for Castaways of the Future.

Pearson's Weekly: That all expeditions, whether Arctic or otherwise, place food depots within reach in case of need is, of course, well known, but few people are aware that there are certain rarely-visited islands and desolate coasts where depots of provisions and necessities have been placed for the use of shipwrecked crews. The most extensive supplies of this sort are those existing on some of the lonely islands in the South Indian ocean. South of the liner track to Australia, via the cape, lie Crozet and Kerguelin islands.

In the jubilee year of Queen Victoria, a French warship placed in a hut on one of the Crozets a good stock of food and necessities, including two spears and two hatchets. It is highly probable that the bulk, if not all of these stores, are still there, for the warship in question found the provisions left by a British warship eight years before absolutely intact.

The handbooks furnished to all British shipmasters indicate exactly the whereabouts of these cached stores. A scal-hunter, who sought to find the depot on Kerguelen island, wrote: "It was as easy as if we had a sign post."

The Kerguelen depot was fitted out by the French ship Eure, which, in 1893, left "2,250 pounds of preserved beef in boxes of nine pounds, 1,125 pounds of biscuits, 20 swanskin shirts, 20 pairs of woolen drawers, 20 woolen blankets and 4 packets of matches." Furthermore, great trouble was taken to protect the stores from the weather.

The beef boxes were coated with tar, as were the iron-hooped barrels containing the biscuits and clothes, and the matches were in boxes painted over with red lead.

Fourteen years afterward Capt. du Baty, who spent many months sealing on the island, examined the depot. Even though the goods had been buried beneath a cairn of stones, the casks had rotted away, and the clothing fell to pieces when opened out. The biscuits had been turned to sour pulp, and long, green strands of moss were growing on the barrels. The tinned beef was perfectly good, and was agreeable to the taste. He failed to find the matches but left some of his own, together with needles and twine.

On Amsterdam island, farther north, the Board of Trade's handbook notifies the fact that the French supplies are in a cavern where have also been left a knife, and dry wood. On cooking pot, cots and dry wood. On this island the stranded Crusoe will find, too, abundance of wild cabbage and celery growing, and lobsters and fish are plentiful.

On the east coast of Tasmania there are some very lonely districts. At Rocky Point shipwrecked mariners may find relief stores, and, in order to aid them to regain civilization tracks have been made for their benefit, with "iron index fingers every quarter-mile, pointing in the direction of the relief station." And, on a river where fording is necessary, a raft has been left in readiness.

Similar provision exists on some of the outlying islands of New Zealand, and these are visited by a government steamer once or twice each year in case castaways are needing rescue. In Vancouver shelter-sheds are erected on some lonely shores, and thence the shipwrecked sailor can ring up a central station on the telephone.

Refugees in Terra del Fuego learn from the same source above quoted that "they can trust the Yaghans to conduct them to mission stations or settlements;" but the "Alacalufs are aggressive and treacherous, though, however great their number, they will not attack a combination of three or four persons, especially if they are aware that these persons possess fire-arms or implements resembling them."

WOMEN NEED WORK.

Modern Wife an Idle Scatter-Brain, Says Rabbi Mayer.

Kansas City Times: The woman of today is an idler and a scatter-brain and needs some definite occupation or profession. At least, that is what Rabbi Harry H. Mayer of the B'Nai Jehudah temple said at the temple yesterday morning in a lecture on "The Independence of Woman." His talk was based on Olive Schreiner's book, "Woman and Labor."

"Unless our women are rescued from idleness, our nation will sink into unimportance, as the Greek and Roman empires," he said. "The manhood of Greece was destroyed through the degeneracy of its women, who had lost their vitality through luxury and idleness. It was the same with the Roman empire.

"The division of labor between man and woman in earlier ages was equal. But the modern woman is not on the same footing with the woman of the past because she does not have an equal share of responsibility with man. The value of Mrs. Schreiner's book lies in accentuating this idleness. Mrs. Schreiner's cry, 'Give us labor, and training that fits us for that labor,' should be taken up and echoed far and wide.

Idleness Means Degeneration.

"The cessation of woman's being an equal sharer of the burden with man has made her a drone and a parasite. It has made it more difficult for the man. Still he has not complained. It has been his pride in making her free of labor. He has been chivalrous and would save her every unnecessary step. The consequence that ensues to woman and the human race is such that it does not compensate for the luxury woman enjoys. An inactive organ becomes atrophied, withered and useless and so it is with woman if she be not employed.

"Woman's field of labor has shrunk so that her status is only one degree better than that of the woman in the Oriental harem. We must not encourage women to become society moths. Luxury is especially deadly to woman. By yielding to such luxury women become degenerates. Girls and young women should have occupations.

"Clinging Vines" Out of Date.

"Woman's entry in a definite vocation or profession and her rivalry in business will not make her less attractive to man. Nor will it cause jealousy or prevent marriage. It would make her more attractive to him. A man does not really want a clinging vine for his wife. Let her be independent. The independent woman will be more precious to her husband. Men like to talk to women who know something of what is going on in the world."

LAST CONTEST AT CURLING CLUB

Married Men and Bachelors Will Play Series for Cigars.

The last post-season contest at the Western Curling club will start this evening between the married men and bachelors.

Although the season at the local club practically closed over a week ago, several post-season games have been played since. The ice is still in a good condition and it is the plan of the members to continue playing until Saturday evening. The contest to start this evening is expected to finally close the season at the club.

Only married men will be allowed to play on one side and bachelors on the other. The losing team will pay for the cigars at a smoker to be held after the last game either Friday or Saturday evening.

Last evening the members of the club held a bonspiel in honor of the 63rd birthday anniversary of George J. Mallory, the oldest member of the club. Mr. Mallory presented the curlers with cigars. During the evening Mr. Mallory was presented with a handsome leather traveling bag as a gift of the club.

MASS MEETING WILL BE HELD

Western Suburbs Want to Elect at Least Two Candidates.

Because betting throughout the city is against West Duluth candidates for the commission, and because even money is offered that no candidate west of the Point of Rocks will be elected, it is planned by West Duluth and West end voters to hold a general mass meeting at one of the central halls.

In this way local voters hope to centralize the votes of the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards on at least three of the candidates from this end of the city. They plan to elect one commissioner from the West end and another from West Duluth.

The meeting will be held within a day or so, when every voter of the West end and West Duluth will be requested to come out and hear only the local candidates.

WILL PARTICIPATE IN MIDSUMMER FESTIVAL.

The Morning Star lodge No. 17, I. O. G. T., at their meeting at Dormedy hall last evening accepted an invitation from the Swedish-American National league to participate in the midsummer festival to be held in Duluth this summer. Those appointed to represent the lodge were Reinhold Scharf, Maurice Ek, Axel Matteson, Waldemar Dahlberg and Andrew Nelson.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT TO BE HELD IN JUNE.

The first annual industrial exhibit planned for this spring at the Duluth Industrial high school will not be held until shortly before the close of the school year in June.

The exhibit will include the work of the girls in the cooking and sewing departments of the school and other schools in this end of the city. It was planned at first to hold the exhibit about this time, but it was yesterday decided to postpone the affair until later.

The exhibit will be open to the public and is to be held for the purpose of showing the parents and residents of the city just what work is being done by the pupils. All the sewing will be on display, as well as special dishes and canned fruits and vegetables prepared by the pupils.

During exhibit week the pupils of the cooking department will serve luncheons to all those coming to the school. This feature will be in charge of Miss Irene Foster, head of the cooking department.

NEW DULUTH WANTS JUSTICE OF PEACE.

At the meeting of the New Duluth Commercial club last evening steps were taken by the members to have a court established at the local suburb. The following committee was appointed to draw up a formal request, which is to be sent to the St. Louis county members of the state legislature: E. E. Martell, A. J. Kulaszewicz and Noble Sampson.

It is claimed by those behind the campaign for the establishment of the office that New Duluth is placed in a great inconvenience because of the absence of the court. It is necessary at present to go to the central station at Duluth for a warrant, before any police action can be taken by local officers. On many occasions the prisoners have escaped, while the warrant was being secured.

A resolution will be drawn up by the committee within a few days and submitted to the county members of the state legislature, who will be asked to have a bill passed authorizing the establishment of a justice court.

The setting of the date for the annual banquet and the appointment of the general committee was postponed until the next meeting, April 8.

Conradson Funeral.

The funeral of Emil Conradson, 52 years old, who died at the Duluth hospital Monday evening, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gardner, 5 Munger row, and at 2:30 o'clock from the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street. Rev. Wilfrid Clark will officiate and interment will be at the Oneota cemetery.

Injured By Fall.

Mrs. William Nettleton of 5709 Cody street was severely injured by a fall on the sidewalk near her home late last evening. Mrs. Nettleton was rendered unconscious and her condition at first was considered serious. She is much improved today. She was attended by Dr. David Graham.

Building Moved.

The Getchel building at 317 Central avenue has been moved over about ten feet south. Work was started this morning on a new foundation for the structure. Several improvements are also to be made on the interior.

Committee to Meet.

The banquet committee of the West Duluth Commercial club will meet at the clubrooms Saturday evening and complete the program for the eleventh annual banquet to be held April 10 at the Dormedy hall.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mrs. Joseph Chestock of Oshkosh, Wis., is a guest this week at the home of Mrs. Louis Blechl, 634 Central avenue.

APPEAL MADE BY PRESIDENT

Executive Asks Aid for Sufferers of Ohio and Indiana.

Washington, March 26. — President Wilson today issued the following appeal to the nation to help the sufferers in the Ohio and Indiana floods:

"The terrible floods in Ohio and Indiana have assumed the proportions of a national calamity. The loss of life and the infinite suffering involved prompt me to issue an earnest appeal to all who are able in however small a way to assist the labors of the American Red Cross, to send contributions at once to the Red Cross at Washington or to the local treasurers of the society. We should make this a common cause. The needs of those upon whom this sudden and overwhelming disaster has come should quicken every one capable of sympathy and compassion to give immediate aid to those who are laboring to rescue and relieve.

(Signed)—"WOODROW WILSON."

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— NORTHERN CONCRETING COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That, we, the undersigned, whose names are hereto subscribed, do hereby associate ourselves together and agree to be and become a corporation under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota of 1905, and the several acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and to that end and for that purpose, we do hereby agree to, adopt and sign the following Certificate of Incorporation, that is to say:

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be NORTHERN CONCRETING COMPANY.

The general nature of the business of the corporation, and the objects and purposes for which it is formed, are and shall be as follows:

To manufacture, buy, sell, import and export, install, erect and deal in concrete material and ingredients, to manufacture concrete and to erect, construct ufacture concrete and to erect, construct and build any nature, kind or description of building or buildings of concrete or other materials;

To conduct and carry on the business of builders and contractors, in all its branches, for the purpose of building, erecting, altering, repairing or doing any other work in connection with any and all classes of buildings and improvements of any kind and nature, whatsoever, including the building, rebuilding, alteration, repairing or improvement of houses, factories, buildings, works or erections of every kind and description whatsoever, including the locating, laying out and constructing of public and private roads, streets, highways, railroads, street railroads, birdges, abutments, wells, walls, arches, cahals, sewers, viaducts, docks, slips, wharves, piers, coffer-dams, pile-driving, dredging, submarine work, power plants, and the grading, paving, curbing and macadamizing of streets, roads and highways, and to do other construction work of a similar character, and to furnish labor and materials in the performance of all such work; and, generally, to engage in all classes of building operations, erections and construction work, both public and private, and generally to do and perform any and all work as builders and contractors, and, with that end in view, to solicit, obtain, make, perform and carry out contracts covering the building and contracting business in all its branches and the work connected therewith:

To manufacture, buy, sell, trade and deal in all and every kind of material, product, manufactured or unmanufactured, iron, steel, wood, brick, cement, granite, stone and other products and materials, including the quarrying of stone, to buy, acquire, hold, use, employ, mortgage, convey, lease and dispose of patent rights, letters patent, processes, devices, inventions, trademarks, formulas, good will and other rights;

To purchase, lease, or otherwise acquire, hold, own, use and improve, sell and convey, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of, and generally to deal and traffic in, real and personal property of every kind and description, either within or without the state of Minnesota.

The business of the corporation is and shall be, from time to time, to do any one or more, or all of the acts and things hereinbefore set forth; and, in furtherance of, and without in any particular limiting any of, its objects, purposes and powers, the corporation shall have the power to borrow moneys, and to issue bonds or other obligations therefor or in payment for any or all property purchased or acquired by it or for any other objects or purposes in or about its business, and to mortgage or pledge any or all property, which may be acquired by it, to secure any bonds or other obligations by it issued and incurred.

The principal place of transacting the business of the corporation shall be in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, but the corporation may have offices and transact business in such other states of the United States as its Board of Directors shall, from time to time, designate.

ARTICLE II.

The time of the commencement of the corporation shall be the 27th day of March, A. D. 1913, and the period of its continuance and duration shall be thirty years, and the corporation may be renewed from time to time for further periods each of thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming the corporation are as follows:

Edward J. Maney, Duluth, Minnesota.
John W. Neukom, Duluth; Minnesota.
E. A. Maney, Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of the corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of three Directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation.

The members of the Board of Directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, or at any adjournment thereof, for the period of one year and until their successors are elected and qualified.

The first Board of Directors of the corporation shall consist of Edward J. Maney, John W. Neukom and E. A. Maney, and they shall hold office until the first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation as provided in this Article and until their successors are elected and qualified.

The first meeting of the incorporators and of the Board of Directors shall be held, without any notice thereof, at 1400 Alworth Building, in Duluth, Minnesota, on the 29th day of March, 1913, at ten o'clock in the forenoon thereof.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held, without any notice thereof, at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on Tuesday, Jan. 20, 1914, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon.

Thereafter, without requirement of further notice than is herein given, the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the third Tuesday in January in each year, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon.

The Board of Directors shall hold, without any notice thereof, its first meeting for the year immediately after the election of the Directors at said annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof. At said meeting, the Board of Directors shall elect from its own number a President and a Vice President, and shall also elect a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Board of Directors, all of whom shall constitute the officers of the corporation and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and qualified.

The offices of President and of Treasurer, or of Secretary and of Treasurer, may be held by the same person.

Any vacancies in the Board of Directors or in any of said offices may be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

The Board of Directors is invested with complete and unrestricted authority in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and is authorized to exercise for such purpose, as the general agent of the corporation, its entire corporate authority.

Until the first election of officers by the Board of Directors immediately following the first annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation to be held in January, 1914, the officers of the corporation shall be as follows: Edward J. Maney shall be the President and the Treasurer; John W. Neukom shall be the Vice President, and E. A. Maney shall be the Secretary.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of the corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00), which shall be divided into five hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each. Said capital stock shall be paid in from time to time as called for by the Board of Directors, and such stock, or any part thereof, may be paid for in cash at par or by services or property of the actual value of not less than the par value of the stock so paid for.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall at any time be subject shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the undersigned, have hereunto set our hands and seals, in triplicate, at Duluth, Minnesota, this 20th day of March, A. D. 1913.

OHIO WHEAT DROWNED OUT

This and Smaller Primary Receipts Send Price of Cereal Up.

Flaxseed Market Is Very Narrow—Changes of Little Moment.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 26.—During the latter part of the session, the wheat markets of North America were strengthened greatly by the reports of damage by floods in the winter wheat region of Ohio and the news of smaller primary receipts. Duluth May wheat today closed 1⅛c higher. Cash wheat closed 1½c to 2c under May. Durum and oats closed ½c up and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May and July flaxseed closed ⅛c higher.

Wheat on the North American markets today had a rebound from the downward trend of yesterday. By noon the results of yesterday's slump were almost completely wiped out. This occurred without any particularly bullish news affecting the markets. Most of the foreign wheat cables were lower.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 86¼c bid, opened today at the same figure bid, and at noon was quoted at 86⅞@87c. There were higher quotations also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat today closed ½d lower at ⅝d higher. The nearby options were beared by the lower American cables of yesterday, the easier closing at Buenos Ayres, a smaller general inquiry and liberal Platte offers.

Flax Market Narrow.

Business was very slack on the Duluth flaxseed market today. The demand amounted to very little and at the same time offers were not at all aggressive. Most of the flaxseed that was on the track could not be sold here at all, on account of the fullness of the elevators, and the result was that a number of cars had to be shipped to Minneapolis. The market was so narrow that the variations in the prices quoted had little meaning. At noon today Duluth May flaxseed was ⅛c higher and July was unchanged. Winnipeg seed at noon was unchanged at $1.11⅛ bid, being 15¾c under the Duluth May price. Buenos Ayres May flax last night closed 1⅝c under the Duluth May price. London-Calcutta March off at $1.21½. London-Calcutta March seed today closed unchanged at $1.56⅜.

Duluth car inspection: Wheat—No. 1 northern, 19; No. 2 northern, 9; no grade, 8; western red, no grade, 6; mixed, 3; total wheat, 46; last year, 11; flax, 28; last year, 6; rye, 3; last year, none; oats, 3; last year, 5; barley, 11; last year, 1; total of all grains, 91; last year, 23; on track, 77.

The Price Current, Cincinnati, says: "Another cold wave over the winter wheat belt has temporarily checked growth. The few warm days brought out reports of conditions at the best at this period of the year. The plant is uniformly small but healthful. Aside from the far western section, there is plenty of moisture in the soil. In the section where temperatures were lowest, a light fall of snow preceded the lower temperatures. Wind storms in Central and Western Kansas were reported as that is a usual condition in the spring of the year, probably no more than the usual damage has occurred. The heavy floods in Ohio cover the region in which two-thirds of the winter wheat is located, in the Scioto and Miami valleys."

COPPER STOCKS MOVE HIGHER

The quotations of copper stocks on Eastern markets, though incomplete, on account of the impaired telegraphic service, were sufficient to show that this class of securities had a bullish day. Butte & Superior closed at a gain of $1.75. North Butte and Amalgamated also closed somewhat higher. The general stock market of New York, however, was a bit off. On the Duluth curb market the feature was the strength of Red Warrior for which 87c was bid at the close. There was much buying of this stock by reason of the recent strike of rich ore on the 600-foot level.

Duluth curb stock quotations for today are as follows:

HINTS ON BUILDING UP A LIBRARY

Most People Just Drift in Book Buying and the Result Is a Curious Conglomeration of Little Real Literary Value to the Owner.

Portland Transcript: In the matter of collecting a library the average man is a pathetically helpless creature. Unless he is a book sharp he is likely, some day when he is 40 or 50 years old, to gaze upon his shelves and wonder what on earth brought together this curious conglomeration. Here are some "subscription" volumes. Here are the complete sets of Cooper and Scott which he rushed off to buy in an access of enthusiasm, under the impression that it would be a good thing to have some of the "standard authors" in the house. Here are the stray novels which he has purchased from time to time. And finally, there are the books which kindly persons have pressed upon him at Christmas or upon his birthdays.

From this deplorable state of affairs, how shall we be delivered? It is a condition in which many of us find ourselves. Our libraries represent years of drifting, rather than intention.

Some Things to Avoid in Books.

The current novels are not to be cast out altogether. There are one or two novels published every year which may be added to the small library. Perhaps they will not be enduring "monuments of literature"—no one can tell. But they are nearly sure to be readable and interesting twenty or thirty years hence. A few of them may have taken on, in that time, the dignity of "classics."

The subscription books are a menace to which we are less and less exposed. In some communities people still go about offering the life and addresses of Doctor Dreary for $4 a volume. But the custom is happily vanishing.

To one peril we are still open. This is the widespread habit of buying "complete works," "full sets" of this or that author, or collections in ten, twenty or fifty volumes of the "Greatest Classics of the Universe." "Most Magnificent Speeches of All Ages," "Sublimest Dramas of the Centuries," and so on. About the latter there is just one thing to say: Don't.

As for the complete works of various authors, there are cases when such a purchase is wise. If a man is so devoted to, say, Charles Lever, or to Trollope, that he really desires to read all his books, then it is, of course, foolish not to take advantage of the rates at which he may obtain the whole set.

The usual set of "complete works" of an author is one of the greatest discouragers of reading that was ever invented. More promising booklovers have been blighted by means of "complete works" than in any other way. There they stand, making a fine show, as regular and as alike as Prussian grenadiers. There is no point of attack, and so they stand to gather dust unread.

The library of the booklover is irregular; it is made up of odd volumes of different dates, different sizes, and of different styles and colors of binding. It is homely, familiar, comfortable. The library of the parvenu is on endless farm mares. Values continue low as follows:

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 26.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade was mostly in retail orders. Numerous small bunches were sold Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. There are however very few carload buyers on the market. Receipts included several carload of draft horses and farm mares. Values continue low as follows:

Owing to telegraphic communication with the East being interrupted by the floods in the Middle West, the market reports today are very much curtailed.

PEOPLE ARE BURNING UP

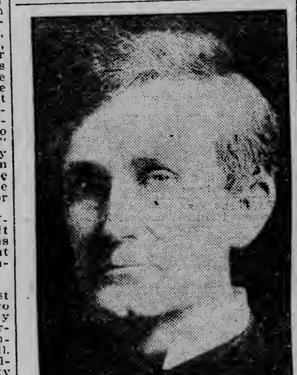
Wolf Creek, Ohio, March 26.—"There has been an explosion in the middle of Dayton and the town is on fire, and the loss of life has been increased. People are burning up and we have no way to get to them or the fire either now."

This was the message from the Western Union operator this afternoon.

LEWIS ELECTED TO U. S. SENATE

Chosen for Long Term on Fifteenth Ballot of Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—Col. J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, today received a majority of the votes of both houses for United States senator.



The result of the fifteenth ballot for the long term was:

Lewis, Democrat, 164: Sherman, Republican, 9; Funk, Progressive, 22; Berlyn, Socialist, 4.

Late L. Y. Sherman was elected to the short term in joint session.

J. HAMILTON LEWIS.

L. Y. SHERMAN.

FEARS FOR FLOOD ON MISSISSIPPI

Weather Man Warns River Residents to Prepare for Danger.

Memphis, Tenn., March 26.—"With such a volume of water coming into the Mississippi from above, people along the Mississippi river should prepare for a great flood," said Col. S. C. Emery of the local weather bureau today.

"I cannot say just what the stage is going to be," he continued. "It will be a big river. I believe the flood stage will be reached at Memphis Thursday morning if not before."

Washington, March 26.—Weather bureau headquarters' scientists here confirm the fears of Local Forecaster Emery at Memphis for a heavy Mississippi flood, although they do not believe the flood stage at Memphis will be reached so soon as Thursday.

If rain continues for the next twenty-four hours they look for disastrous developments.

OBITUARY

William J. Northen, former governor of Georgia, and prominent in politics for many years, died at Atlanta, Ga., March 25.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Newton Hallock, editor and owner of the Christian Work and Evangelist since 1878, died March 25 at his home in Brooklyn, aged 79 years.

GOVERNMENT ORDERS TENTS FOR SUFFERERS.

Washington, March 26.—Secretary Garrison today ordered the immediate dispatch to Columbus and other suitable distributing points in Ohio, of tents for 10,000 people, 100 hospital tents, a large quantity of medical supplies and 1,000,000 rations. Majors Normoyle and Logan, quartermasters' corps, have been dispatched to assist in relief work.

OHIO SOLONS VOTE $250,000 FOR SUFFERERS

Columbus, Ohio, March 26.—The house today, under a suspension of rules, immediately passed a bill introduced by Mr. Lowery for the relief of the flood sufferers. It carries $250,000, and this entire sum is placed in the hands of the governor for distribution as he deems fit. The bill carries the emergency clause, so it goes into effect immediately upon its passage.

THIEVES CLAD IN SILK AND SATIN

Modern Shoplifters Are Obviously Women of Fashion---Motor Cars, Handsome Gowns and Furs, a Well-Bred Manner and Hordes of Jewels Are Their Principal Tools of Trade.

London Answers: "Stand in this recess and you won't be seen," said the shopwalker at a big drapery store to the writer. "At the same time," he continued, "I will be able to point out to you one of the smarest shoplifters in London at the present."

At that moment a big private motor car, driven by a man in a smart green livery, drew up outside the main entrance of the store. A dainty little woman, dressed in the very latest fashion, stepped out of the car and said:

"Which is the fur department?"

As she was bowed through the entrance she was followed by a rather shabby looking woman, whose hurried glance round as she went through the door and general appearance stamped her in my sight as the expert shoplifter. The enormous muff she carried made the conviction a certainty.

"Did you notice her?" whispered my companion.

"Yes, but I should have thought anyone would have spotted her at once," I replied.

"Well, it has taken three of our best men more than a year to make sure she is the thief," replied the shopwalker, "and even now she is so artful that, though she has been closely followed, we have been unable to catch her. But she will be caught, nevertheless."

"What was the difficulty?" I asked.

"Well, would you suspect a woman who drives up in her own private car?"

"That woman! Why, I thought it was the shabby one, with the big muff, who followed her!"

The up-to-Date Shoplifter.

The shopwalker laughed quietly.

"That's where we were beaten. Your really up-to-date thief inspires confidence by the very way she goes to work. She drives in a private motor car—it's generally hired, by the way—is dressed in the very latest fashion, and is so obviously a woman of high degree that even the shop assistant hesitates before giving the alarm, for mistaken charge would mean his dismissal.

"Every movement is open and above board. Only a few weeks ago she came down to her car with her hands in an expensive muff, which certainly she wasn't carrying when she entered the place. I happened to notice the muff, but attached no importance to it till too late.

"One woman who was captured last year must have stolen thousands of dollars of expensive goods before she was detected. She confessed afterwards that she calculated on making a steady $100 per week.

How the Expert Works.

"Her method was this. She picked out ten of the biggest shops in London. At one she always made a point of buying dresses, paying for them in hard cash. The assistants in that department all got to know her as one who ordered expensive dresses and who paid for them as soon as the bill was presented. They looked upon her as one of their best and most reliable customers.

"So, when anything was missed in any department of the shop, she was never suspected, because the shop assistants always spoke well of her. And it was the same with the other big stores.

"She was caught in a very curious way. A large number of the smaller fry among shoplifters are, of course, well known to us. Well, it was noticed by an observant assistant that the smaller fry would very often walk out without making any attempt at stealing whatever. Nor would they return that day. This always happened when the particular woman put in an appearance.

"The fact is, the smaller fry knew the big fish, and cleared out, because they realized that, if anything was missed, they would be suspected. While they were protesting, the real culprit would be speeding away in her motor car!

Specialize on Certain Goods.

"The day of false arms and hooks and extent skirts is almost dead. The up-to-date shoplifter is not only a woman of fashion, but she specializes just as much as the average man specializes nowadays. One woman will steal nothing but furs, while another steal nothing but furs, while another is filled with a desire for expensive lace.

"There's one thing above all others which generally gives the shoplifter away. She is never in a hurry. She has plenty of time, and wanders from room to room, with her eyes open for any emergency. It is the studied lack of haste which gives her away in the long run.

"But whatever you do, don't run away with the idea that thieves are shabbily dressed. They are generally very much the reverse, and have paid honestly more for their clothes in one year than you could afford in a lifetime. Yes, shoplifting pays, so long as it escapes detection."

LOFTY PEAK SANK.

Ancient Mount Mazama Was About Fifteen Thousand Feet High.

From the United States Geological Survey: The highest mountain in Oregon is Mount Hood, 11,225 feet above sea level. Compared with Mount Whitney, to the south in California, and Mount Rainier, to the north in Washington, each rising well above 14,000 feet, Mount Hood does not appear as a skyscraper. However, according to the geologists of the United States geological survey and other authorities, Oregon had at one time, probably before the dawn of life upon the earth, a great volcano which towered as far above Mount Hood as does Mount Rainier, possibly even several thousand feet higher. This was the great Mount Mazama. But thousands of years ago this mountain disappeared into the bowels of the earth and all that is left today is the huge rim around Crater lake.

Crater lake is the caldera of this extinct and collapsed volcano and is nearly six miles in diameter. The inside walls of the rim of the ancient mountain are in places nearly 4,000 feet high and almost perpendicular. The lake itself is in places 2,300 feet deep and parts of the wall rise above its waters another 2,000 feet. A restoration of the mountain in fancy, using as a basis the angles of the lower slopes, which still remain, shows that the apex could not have been far from 15,000 feet in height, so that Mount Mazama was one of the most lofty and majestic peaks in the United States.

BASEBALL FOR THE FARMER.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: Baseball never has been regarded exclusively as a city product. While it is true that the cities supply the enormous crowds that support the big leagues, it is equally true that many of the players in those leagues are graduates of the "bush" leagues. The country boy has an equal chance with the city boy to win the high honors and generous emoluments of a successful ball player. The farmer himself has not come directly in touch with the national game, perhaps, except on a rare holiday. A professor in the Kansas State Agricultural college calls this a mistake. Familiarity with the game, he believes, would promote success in agriculture. If the

BETWEEN 600 AND 1,000 PERSONS DEAD ON WEST SIDE OF COLUMBUS, OHIO

Communication With the Stricken District Reveals Awful Horror.

Hundreds Cling to Housetops for Two Nights, Crying for Help.

Many Freeze in the Cold Weather and Drop to Death in Waters.

Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—Between 600 and 1,000 persons lost their lives in the flooded west side of Columbus, according to representatives of the Columbus Dispatch who have just gotten into communication with the newspaper office from the previous isolated section of the city.

This same estimate is given by persons in charge of the relief stations on the hill top west of the flooded section.

After two nights of horror during which hundreds clung to housetops calling for help until their voices gave way, while dozens were perched in the branches of trees, many were still beyond the reach of rescuers.

Many Freeze.

The cold wave which struck the city last night caused many to freeze, lose their grip and drop into the water. With military glasses rescuers standing on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad near Center avenue could see several dead forms lying on the roof of a building to the east.

At the corner of Glenwood and Thomas avenues, the lifeless form of a man was still hanging in a tree. He had frozen during the night as he was signalling for help before dark.

Vandals looted the flooded territory, adding to the horror. J. W. Gaver, justice of the peace at Briggsdale, swore in several deputies and armed with instructions to shoot down all looters. Company E, Fourth Ohio National Guard, at Marysville assumed guard duty around the stricken district today.

Relief Trains Arrive.

Relief trains from Marysville and London, Ohio, bearing food and clothing, relieved the situation in the

SCENES ARE INDESCRIBABLE

Telephone Lineman Reports Conditions at Dayton as He Saw Them.

Three Babies Are Born in Church and One in Rescuer's Boat.

New York, March 27.—A summary of conditions in Dayton as reported over the American Telephone & Telegraph line to Phoneton and forwarded to this city follows:

"One of our employes, who returned this evening from the north side of the submerged section of Dayton, says the scenes there are indescribable. People are huddled in churches and public schools and there is danger of these collapsing.

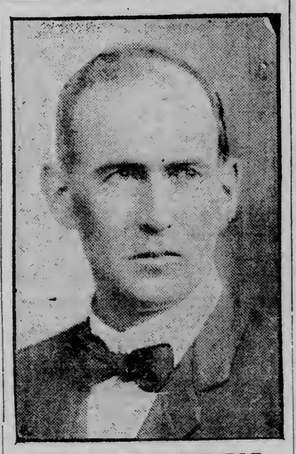
"Three babies born in one church this afternoon. One was born in a boat while its mother was being conveyed to safety. Such scenes are common.

"Every effort was made by us to aid the sufferers with supplies and such other help as we could.

Building May Collapse.

"There is a school building said to contain 600 persons and indications were that it would collapse in a short time. Two men seen using a pleasure boat to view the scene had to be pressed into rescue service by the police at the points of shotguns.

"Many buildings in a portion of the downtown section were destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire seems to have subsided considerably with heavy rain this afternoon. Indications are that there will be great loss of life before enough help arrives to get people to places of safety.



Many Homeless.

"A relief committee which met on the north side of Dayton this afternoon, reported between 500 and 1,000 homeless. Many dead bodies were floating past. There is great danger of the spread of disease. The river has been steadily falling all afternoon."

A report received near midnight says the town of Piqua was on fire. There was no positive confirmation of the report. About the same hour, according to Phoneton messages, fires were again raging in Dayton.

"For the last hour," a message said, "burning buildings in Dayton have been plainly visible from our office here. The rain has subsided now so the fire has practically nothing to check it."

WOULD PUT END TO TERMINAL MONOPOLY

SENATOR H. W. CHEADLE, Of Duluth, Who Has Introduced Bill for Joint Use of Railroad Terminals.

TO PREVENT MONOPOLY

Senator Cheadle Presents Bill on Terminal and Dock Facilities.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bill intended to prevent railroad monopoly of terminals and dock front facilities was introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth.

The bill is aimed at the situation which exists in Duluth, where one or two railroads have a practical monopoly of the water front, and it requires that upon demand by the railroad and warehouse commission such railroads must afford facilities to other adjacent railroads, whose lines are not more than a mile away, so that these railroads can reach the docks and warehouses.

Railroads are also required to provide ample and equal track facilities

GRAND RESERVOIR, GREATEST IN WORLD, IN WEAK CONDITION AND MAY BREAK AT ANY MOMENT

WOULD RUIN EVERYTHING IN ITS PATH

First Reports Said Its Banks Had Already Given Away.

Would Menace Whole of Northwest Ohio and Northeast Indiana.

South Bend, Ind., March 27.—Alarming reports as to the condition of the Grand reservoir at Celina, Ohio, were somewhat modified after investigation by telephone officials in this city. The first information from Celina said that the reservoir had burst, but later reports stated that while the banks had considerably weakened they still were under control.

Break Confirmed.

South Bend, Ind., March 27.—The Central Union Telephone company at 11:30 o'clock today succeeded in getting confirmation here of the breaking of the Celina reservoir, the largest in the world. The Celina informant told the local office that the break came on the St. Mary's river side and that the water was sweeping toward Indiana with terrific force.

The first town in the path of the flood, according to the information given the telephone company here is Decatur, Ind. Fort Wayne and Peru as well as other flood stricken cities in the Wabash river valley will now face danger from a still more extensive flood.

A report received here said that the water at Fort Wayne had already risen four feet since 7 o'clock this morning. A relief train was made up here and an attempt will be made to succor the citizens at Fort Wayne.

The whole of Northwest Ohio and Northeast Indiana would be in danger of flood and scores of towns might

STATEMENT BY THE GOVERNOR

Ohio's Chief Executive Issues Summary of Conditions.

Says There Never Was Such a Tragedy in History of Country.

Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—Governor James M. Cox gave out the following statement last night:

"The exact extent of the appalling flood in Ohio is still unknown. Every hour impresses us with the uncertainty of the situation. The waters have assumed such unknown heights in many parts of the state, that it will be hardly less than a miracle if villages and towns are not wiped out of existence in the southern and southwestern parts of Ohio. The storm is moving south by east.

"Please give great publicity to an appeal for help.

"My judgment is that there has never been such a tragedy in the history of the republic.

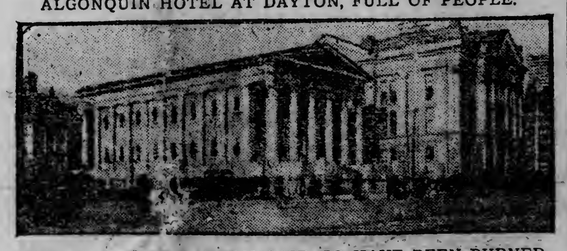
"Columbus is the center of all activities among the stricken cities. Every hour has apparently been filled with an accumulation of drastic circumstances.

Piteous Appeals.

"Piteous appeals have been made by the men who were surrounded by water and confronted by the approaching conflagration in the city of Dayton. Every human energy has been exerted to give relief, and yet the measure of assistance has been comparatively small. It is my belief, however, that by daylight those imprisoned in the business section of Dayton can be relieved.

"The day began by a storm signal from the weather bureau, advising that there would be a dangerous rise in the waters of the Muskingum river. All the towns along its source including Zanesville and Marietta, were advised. Before noon, the situation assumed a critical aspect at Zanesville and the historic "X" bridge was blown up with dynamite.

Fate of Zanesville Uncertain.



"The fate of Zanesville is uncertain because all telephone communications ceased at noon. Marietta cannot be reached, but it is safe to assume that

CINCINNATI THREATENED

Rapidly Rising Rivers Are Likely to Cause Most Serious Flood.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 27.—The continued rains of the last twenty-four hours completely changed the complexion of the river situation in this city and today, according to experienced river men, Cincinnati is threatened with one of the worst floods in her history. With the Muskingum, Scioto and the two Miamis pouring their millions of gallons of water into the Ohio, and the Licking, on the Kentucky side doing likewise, the river during the night rose to 57.7 feet at this point and was increasing at the rate of 2 inches an hour.

Radical observers predict a 70-foot stage but more conservative men say that 63 feet would not be impossible and that until the two Miamis run out more gradually than at present an even greater stage may be recorded.

The Central Telephone station was abandoned last night and all trains leaving or entering this city are being detoured.

At Lawrenceburg, twenty-five miles below this city, fearing that the backwater would flood the town, the Baltimore & Ohio track, which runs along the river, was dynamited last night to give the water egress to the Ohio river. This has lightened the town's burden for the time being. Reports state that four persons were drowned there last night.

The Ohio river is rising rapidly at Portsmouth, Ohio, Gallettsburg, Ky., and Parkersburg, W. Va.

At Huntington, W. Va., and Maysville, Ky., the river is now within a few feet of the flood stage and rising rapidly.

MONEY NEEDED BY TELEGRAPH, SAYS GOVERNOR.

Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—That money by telegraph is the urgent need of Ohio's flood swept district is the substance of a proclamation issued by Governor Cox today. He said that it is impossible to get supplies to the stricken districts because railroad trains are unable to operate and that supplies can best be procured at the nearest points to the cities and towns affected.

"The situation is critical and the need is urgent," said the proclamation.

FIVE HUNDRED LOST AT PIQUA

Columbus, Ohio, March 27—Five hundred lives were lost at Piqua, according to information received here this afternoon by Senator S. E. Kiser of Piqua. His informant was J. Guy O'Donnell, prosecuting attorney of Miami county.

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED

Governor Ralston Acts Promptly in West Indianapolis.

Vandals Who Start to Rob Are Quickly Arrested.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Governor Ralston this noon declared West Indianapolis under martial law.

Vandals started to rob and pillage and a company of the state troops was rushed into the district. A number of arrests were made.

Governor Ralston also was notified that prices on all foodstuffs had been increased by commission merchants. The price of eggs has been advanced 10 cents since yesterday with corresponding higher prices on other commodities.

Governor Ralston, who is making an investigation of the high prices was very indignant and said:

"I will do anything that is necessary to protect our people against those exorbitant prices."

Bread 20 Cents a Loaf.

Before the supply of bread available on the West Side had been exhausted today, loaves were selling at 20 cents each. The supply of meat had been exhausted.

That section of Indianapolis lying west of the river is the poorest in the city. The supply of meat, eggs, milk, coffee and butter practically was exhausted before noon yesterday. Little save canned goods remained in the groceries.

The more conservative engaged in

OVER 70,000 PERSONS HOMELESS AND MUST BE FED AND TAKEN CARE OF Governor's Secretary Says It Will Be Marvelous If Loss Is Only 1,000; Not Be Surprised at 10,000.

Columbus, Ohio, March 27.—That the fire in Dayton was under control and practically ended was the information given to Governor Cox by telephone this afternoon.

The information came from the marooned chief operator of the Bell Telephone company. He said a temporary morgue had been established in the United Brethern church and he could see many bodies as they were carried into it. Most of them were women and children.

The crowded North side of the river, where it is feared there may be thousands of foreigners dead and dying, is still far beyond reach. No one speaks of it. The immediate need is of the known survivors calling for every attention.

If the downtown section is relieved by night, it may permit the city authorities to get together with the militia and the relief committees and make some organized attempt to give aid to the North side tomorrow.

From all parts of the state militia, equipped with food and blankets, are hastening to the relief of the Dayton sufferers and it is reported the advance guard is patrolling the principal streets in boats and checking incipient ruffianism.

The appeal of Governor Cox for outside help has received quick response and today provisions, cots and supplies of all kinds were being hurried from neighboring states.

The list of known dead in Columbus has been increased to 12, with a missing list of 50. At Delaware the dead number 33. Sidney reports 100 dead and Tiffin 50.

It was believed today the Lewiston reservoir, near Dayton, which had threatened to break during the night, had been so sufficiently strengthened that no further danger need be feared.

When the full account is made it is believed the total death list for the state will run well over 2,000 and that the property damage will amount to $100,000,000.

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—"If the death list is only 1,000 I will consider it a marvelous dispensation," telegraphed Governor Cox's secretary today. "If it is 10,000 I will not be surprised."

"Horrible as this is," he said, "the real suffering will grow worse for days. There are 70,000 homeless. The refugees are being fed from hand to mouth with less than a day's food supply ahead."

ANXIOUSLY WAITING TO LEARN FATE OF FRIENDS

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—A small portion of Dayton's citizens today from their refuge on the highest point in the city awaited anxiously to learn of the fate of at least 65,000 of the city's inhabitants hemmed in by raging flood water and menaced by fire.

Although only a little more than a mile from the section where it is feared there has been great loss of life, hundreds of willing men and women looked on helplessly.

Thousands have been marooned. How many have survived no one knows.

Numerous fires have sprung up since the water from a bursted reservoir penned in tens of thousands but the worst blaze started yesterday afternoon about 4:30 and this morning still was claiming its toll of property and doubtless many lives.

Although water from swollen streams slowly had been creeping upon the outlying sections of the city for hours, the catastrophe, which resulted so seriously came within thirty minutes after the Tarleton reservoir broke. The streets soon became basins for swelling torrents of water in which boats could not live. Those safe from the flood have had to wait until the water subsided.

Water Going Down.

The water went down perceptibly each hour after noon yesterday and during last night and unless other reservoirs break, which is feared, the well-organized force of relief workers should have a large section of the city explored before nightfall.

Fire, the extent of which is unknown, added a grim menace last night and today. From what could be seen through a field glass from the top of a tall building more than a mile away, it seemed as if the blaze started in the Patterson Supply company's plant. Early today it had consumed at least parts of three blocks.

The fire burned northwest for a time and then shifted to direct west. It has been conservatively estimated that 250 persons were marooned in the Becknel hotel, which was believed to have gone up in flames. This fact, however, could not be definitely ascertained. Whether many persons were in other buildings in the vicinity is not known. Two expert oarsmen took a boat into parts of Third and Jefferson streets yesterday and saw persons in every building who pleaded with them to save them. They did not traverse

NO IMPROVEMENT IN TRAIN SERVICE

Some Roads Making No Attempt to Maintain Schedules.

Chicago, March 27.—There was no improvement today in the train service conditions through the flood districts of Indiana and Ohio.

No attempt was made by the Monon, Big Four, Erie, Panhandle, Chesapeake & Ohio and a number of other roads to run trains.

The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad and Michigan Central continued to maintain their train schedule between Chicago and New York while the Wabash and Grand Trunk ran a few trains although nearly all were late.

The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio roads ran two trains through to New York by using the Lake Shore & Michigan Central tracks in Ohio.

Experience Gained While In the Drug Business

I have been troubled more or less in the last five years with kidney trouble and from the experience I gained while in the drug business and from different cases where I have sold Swamp-Root with perfect satisfaction to those who purchased it, and as I never had a single complaint regarding the medicine while I was in business, I was in a position to know that it was a great preparation and it did not fail me when I used it myself. It has certainly afforded me great relief at all times that my kidneys have troubled me and I would not be without it. I always recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to my friends as I believe it to be a medicine of great curative value in the diseases for which you recommend it. Sincerely,

TO GIVE THEM ALL A CHANCE

Day Invites Other Nine Candidates to Speak at Armory.

Campaign Too Much Like a Farce Comedy, He Says.

A mayoralty free-for-all to be staged at the Armory Saturday night by Dr. D. H. Day, one of the candidates, will be one of the closing features of the campaign.

Dr. Day has engaged the Armory for Saturday evening. Instead of going it alone, he will invite the other nine candidates for mayor to be his guests. The time will be divided equally and each candidate will have an opportunity to state his case. The chairman will hold a watch on the candidates, and each will be restricted to the time allotted.

"There is too much attention being paid to the comedy feature of this campaign," said Dr. Day today. "The campaign is distinctly not a comedy, with or without music, but it may be turned into a tragedy unless the people do some thinking and go to the polls with the idea that good city government is the one dominant issue.

"I believe that if all the candidates will come to the Armory Saturday night we can clear the atmosphere of much of the confusion that has been aroused. I propose that each candidate for mayor state his case briefly. The people will have an opportunity to see and hear each candidate. After that we can safely leave the decision to the voters."

It is expected that most of the candidates will avail themselves of Dr. Day's invitation. P. E. Dowling has already arranged a meeting at New Duluth for Saturday night, but he may be able to attend the Armory meeting also. W. E. McEwen is scheduled to speak at the Polish hall, but he can get to the Armory from there without difficulty. W. I. Prince said today that he had arranged a meeting for West Duluth Saturday night, but if the other candidates speak at the Armory he will certainly be there. It is expected that before Saturday all will arrange their plans so that they will be able to participate in the "free-for-all."

Undoubtedly the "free-for-all" will attract a large crowd. The voters are intensely interested in the election, but are somewhat confused. Seeing and hearing all candidates for mayor in one evening will undoubtedly assist many men in reaching a decision as to their course at the polls next Tuesday.

GOOD GOVERNMENT IS CHIEF ISSUE

McEwen Deplores Confusion of Platforms at West End Meeting.

The candidates for mayor should endeavor to unite the voters on the thought that the need of good government for the city is the first consideration in the election next Tuesday, declared W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at Bricklayers' hall in the West end last evening.

"There have been too many efforts to divide the voters," said Mr. McEwen. "We should all get together for the ultimate good of the whole city. I believe that the voters have the capacity to think for themselves and to pick out the men they believe to be best fitted for the places on the commission. For my part, I have been content and I will be content with setting out my own views on municipal problems. I have nothing to say against any other candidate. If the people believe I will give them a better administration than any other candidate would, they will elect me.

"If I am elected I will be the mayor of no group or clique. I want to be mayor of the city of Duluth, and that includes all its citizens. We candidates should endeavor to bring all the people together, that the man who is elected may have the hearty co-operation of all the people. The good of the city should be the first consideration, regardless of personal interests."

Mr. McEwen declared that a system of valuation, which places the greatest burden on the congested districts and does not demand adequate taxes of the great areas of vacant land which should be improved, is holding Duluth back. He declared the street railway company should be made to change its policy of extensions in order to assist instead of retard the growth of the city.

The hall was crowded and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. Besides Mr. McEwen, Alex Kennedy, D. E. Stevens and J. W. Cumming, candidates for the short term; J. W. Preston, candidate for the long term; Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant judge, and John Brown, candidate for special judge, gave short talks.

Mr. McEwen will speak at Dormedy hall in West Duluth tonight.

LAST DAY TO WITHDRAW

Sixty Candidates Will Have Their Names on the Ballot.

Yesterday was the last day for withdrawal from the municipal campaign, and no more candidates dropped out of the race.

Sixty candidates will have their names on the ballot next Tuesday, fifty-five for the commissioner places and five for the two places on the municipal court bench.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer is today preparing the ballots and they will be printed and distributed to the judges as soon as possible. The names in each division will be arranged in alphabetical order, M. B. Cullum leading the mayoralty candidates, John T. Arnstead appearing at the head of the list of long-term candidates, and A. M. Balfany holding the place of honor among the short-term candidates. The name of John Brown will lead that of Judge Cutting for special judge, and W. H. Gurnee will have first place in the list of three candidates for assistant judge.

City Clerk Palmer had a large number of election judges out to his school at the city hall last evening. He explained the methods of counting, tallying and reporting under the new system of voting and impressed on the judges the necessity of getting the returns in as soon as possible after the polls close.

The last session of the school will be held tonight. Mr. Palmer says that the questions asked indicates that the instructions are timely and he hopes that the result will be an entire freedom from mistakes in the returns.

DULUTH: "THIS ISN'T SUCH A BAD PLACE FOR A CITY, AFTER ALL.

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS

The campaign meetings arranged for tonight are:

W. E. McEwen at Dormedy hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street, West Duluth.

Marcus L. Fay at Woodmen's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

David H. Day at the Maccabee hall, New Duluth.

J. C. Wesenberg and John Hogan at meeting of Fram lodge, Sons of Norway, at West Duluth Commercial club rooms, 317 Central avenue.

T. T. Hudson, representing Municipal Ownership league, at Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

Watson S. Moore on behalf of Bert N. Wheeler's candidacy, and other speakers at meeting of Men's League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

PREDICTS ELECTION OF B. SILBERSTEIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have with us public men, men who want to be in public, and men who prefer the private life to the grind of being criticized when entering the public life.

Some of our public men are competent and thoroughly business-like, while others, well, they are to be judged by what they have done for the public.

I wish to be plain and save as many words as possible, for I know your space is valuable.

Among the list of candidates for mayor, we have one who is a business man, a man of integrity, honor and high morals. As a business man he has prospered and has all his savings invested right here in Duluth, and on which he is a cheerful taxpayer.

As has been stated, "He never took an order that he could not fill." This same man is laying his plans to give this city a first-class government, to arrange the inner workings of the business affairs of the city, with the view of economy and efficiency, systematize the business of the city, and to do this he has been making a deep study of commission governed cities, so that he will know just what to do as soon as he assume the office of mayor, for I believe that on April 1, the sensible, fair minded, business men will give Bernard Silberstein an order to fill the mayor's chair for the next four years, and judging the future by the past, Mr. Silberstein will fill the order with credit to himself and to the city.

Yours truly,
J. G. MORAN.

Lady Baltimore Cake

The Most Popular Cake This Season

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This is considered by many cooking authorities the finest cake that can be made, though in reality it is not at all difficult.

K C Lady Baltimore Cake

One cup butter; 2 cups granulated sugar; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoonful rose water; 3½ cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; whites of 6 eggs, beaten dry.

Cream the butter and beat in the sugar gradually. Sift together, three times, the flour and baking powder, and add to the butter and sugar, alternately with the milk and rose water. Lastly, add the egg whites. Bake in three-layer cake pans. Put the layers together with the following frosting.

Frosting for Lady Baltimore Cake

Three cups granulated sugar; 1 cup boiling water; whites of 3 eggs; 1 cup chopped raisins; 1 cup chopped nut-meats; 5 figs cut in thin slices.

Stir the sugar and water until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil without stirring until the syrup from a spoon will spin a long thread; pour upon the whites of the eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. Continue the beating until the frosting is cold; add the fruit and spread upon the cake.

The K C Cook's Book contains ninety just such delicious recipes,—bread, muffins, cakes and pastry. You can secure a copy free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago. Small cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

ICE DRIVEN TO WESTERN END

Still Solid in Whitefish Bay and in the Harbors.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and meteorological service of Canada indicate that the high northeast winds of the past week have driven the ice fields in over the western portion of Superior.

There are not so extensive fields over the central portions while over the eastern portion the fields are extensive and no open water showing. In Whitefish bay the ice is solid. In the St. Mary's river the ice is solid but not as heavy as last year. In Green bay there has been no material change; it is softening over the southern portion. In Michigan the high westerly winds have driven the fields to the east shore and extend along the shore from below Holland life saving station northward beyond Glen Haven. The ice is solid from Charlevoix northward to the straits where it remains firm. In Huron the ice fields have practically disappeared from the west shore and no extensive fields are reported on the east shore. The connecting rivers are open. In Lake Erie there are but few fields reported over the central portion; the high wind of the 21st drove the fields into the eastern end and broke up the ice. In Ontario the harbors are open and no fields reported except over the extreme eastern portion.

In comparison with the same period last year there is less ice in all of the lakes.

The details for Lake Superior follow:

Two Harbors—No open water visible; heavy northeast winds have moved the ice fields; they extend beyond vision.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Harbor ice averages 20 inches in thickness with 5 inches of new ice to Thunder cape; ice covered with snow.

Houghton—Harbor ice 14 inches in thickness with 6 inches of slush on top.

Portage Entry—Bay ice is 9 to 10 inches in thickness; river ice about 5 to 11 inches with 2 inches of frozen slush on top.

Baraga—Ice averages 18 to 22 inches in thickness; no open water in sight.

Marquette—Harbor ice 8.5 inches in thickness; loose ice extends beyond vision with small areas of open water in the bay; harbor ice is cracked and covered with slush and water.

Munising—Harbor ice 20 inches in thickness.

Grand Marais, Mich.—Harbor ice is 20 inches in thickness and solid; the ice fields in the lake are winrowed and extend beyond vision.

Sault Ste. Marie—From Iroquois point the ice is solid as far as can be seen; it averages 15 inches between Iroquois and Parisian island; from Iroquois to Round island the ice is thin in channel with short stretches of open water. At the city the harbor ice is 21 inches in thickness and solid; very little snow on ice. In Mud lake above Lime island and Sweets point 24 inches and at Pipe island 20 inches; measurements taken in middle of channels.

Ice Still Forming.

A letter from Capt. F. D. Root of the Soo received in the city today gives news that is rather discouraging to the optimistic marine man. Capt. Root says that instead of there being a letup in ice conditions at the Soo the supply of the congealed water is increasing.

The captain says that from Whitefish point east as far as the Soo there has been a heavy increase of ice during the past week, and that in the Soo river the increase is about four inches. The lake, he says, from Whitefish is solid ice and conditions look bad for an early opening. Detour and Mud lake are both in bad shape and the marine men at the Head of the Lakes are beginning to be reconciled to the belief that there will be no opening before April 15 at the earliest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKinnon returned this morning from Winnipeg. Mr. McKinnon is general agent of the Canadian Northern here.

RESCUE WORK IN INDIANAPOLIS

Three Known to Have Been Drowned, With Hundreds Homeless.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Organized rescue work was resumed after daylight today in the flooded district of West Indianapolis. Police officials and rescue workers estimated that 500 persons spent the second night of the flood in the second floors of houses and buildings, three were known to have been drowned, and a night of snow and freezing temperature threatened an increase in the death list that is expected to grow steadily throughout the day.

Men who refused to leave their houses yesterday were to be left to the last of the rescue work today and the rescue workers expected to begin an organized search for the dead by noon.

The known dead are:

GEORGE SMITH, died from exposure.

CHARLES ROGERS, rescue worker; drowned.

BOYD SHOEMAKER, drowned.

Smith was a volunteer boatman who was thrown into the water when his boat capsized and he died later from exposure to the bitter cold of the waters and the night. He was found by other rescuers clinging to branches of a tree.

One thousand loaves of bread and other supplies were sent into the flooded districts at daylight. Relief work proceeded a little more rapidly, after an additional fall of eighteen inches of White river. At the city dog pound, on the edge of the flooded district, hot soup and coffee were served to the refugees this morning.

Vandalia Bridge Down.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—The Vandalia railroad bridge over White river went down this morning with a crash, carrying with it ten cars put there to hold it in place.

WHO WANTS TO BE A BALDHEAD

Thousands of men are daily growing bald and don't know it.

Those persistent germs of dandruff, often called the destructive agents of the devil, are in full possession of the hair of thousands of Americans.

They have wonderful endurance, these game little demons, they never stop work, they dig and dig and dig and gnaw and gnaw and gnaw night and day, day and night, with seemingly only one purpose in view, and that purpose to destroy the vitality of the hair and make us a race of baldheads.

What are you doing to protect yourself from the ravishing inroads of these almost unconquerable fiends?

There is only one way, kill the dandruff germ, or the dandruff germ will kill your hair. The quicker you start, the quicker you can win the battle.

The only weapon you need is a bottle of Parisian Sage, the only hair preparation that spells death to the devilish dandruff germ.

Get a bottle today, it costs but 50 cents and is guaranteed to cure dandruff in two weeks or money back. Sold by druggists and at toilet goods counters everywhere.

Boyce Drug Store guarantees it.

ECZEMA

(Also called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk-Crust, Weeping Skin, etc.)

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for awhile, to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting twelve years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime nearly half of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, just give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today, I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

The time will be divided equally and each candidate will have an opportunity to state his case. The chairman will hold a watch on the candidates, and each will be restricted to the time allotted.

"There is too much attention being paid to the comedy feature of this campaign," said Dr. Day today. "The campaign is distinctly not a comedy, with or without music, but it may be turned into a tragedy unless the people do some thinking and go to the polls with the idea that good city government is the one dominant issue.

"I believe that if all the candidates will come to the Armory Saturday night we can clear the atmosphere of much of the confusion that has been aroused. I propose that each candidate for mayor state his case briefly. The people will have an opportunity to see and hear each candidate. After that we can safely leave the decision to the voters."

It is expected that most of the candidates will avail themselves of Dr. Day's invitation. P. E. Dowling has already arranged a meeting at New Duluth for Saturday night, but he may be able to attend the Armory meeting also. W. E. McEwen is scheduled to speak at the Polish hall, but he can get to the Armory from there without difficulty. W. I. Prince said today that he had arranged a meeting for West Duluth Saturday night, but if the other candidates speak at the Armory he will certainly be there. It is expected that before Saturday all will arrange their plans so that they will be able to participate in the "free-for-all."

Undoubtedly the "free-for-all" will attract a large crowd. The voters are intensely interested in the election, but are somewhat confused. Seeing and hearing all candidates for mayor in one evening will undoubtedly assist many men in reaching a decision as to their course at the polls next Tuesday.

GOOD GOVERNMENT IS CHIEF ISSUE

The candidates for mayor should endeavor to unite the voters on the thought that the need of good government for the city is the first consideration in the election next Tuesday, declared W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at Bricklayers' hall in the West end last evening.

"There have been too many efforts to divide the voters," said Mr. McEwen. "We should all get together for the ultimate good of the whole city. I believe that the voters have the capacity to think for themselves and to pick out the men they believe to be best fitted for the places on the commission. For my part, I have been content and I will be content with selling out my own views on municipal problems. I have nothing to say against any other candidate. If the people believe I will give them a better administration than any other candidate would, they will elect me.

"If I am elected, I will be the mayor of no group or clique. I want to be mayor of the city of Duluth, and that includes all its citizens. We candidates should endeavor to bring all the people together, the man who is elected must have the hearty co-operation of all the people. The good of the city should be the first consideration, regardless of personal interests."

Mr. McEwen declared that a system of valuation, which places the greatest burden on the congested districts and does not demand adequate taxes of the great areas of vacant land which should be improved, is holding Duluth back. He declared the street railway company should be made to change its policy of extensions in order to assist instead of retard the growth of the city.

The hall was crowded and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. Besides Mr. McEwen, Alex Kennedy, D. E. Stevens and John Cumming, candidates for the short term; J. W. Preston, candidate for the long term; Harry W. Lamners, candidate for assistant judge, and John Brown, candidate for special judge, gave short talks.

Mr. McEwen will speak at Dormedy hall in West Duluth tonight.

LAST DAY TO WITHDRAW

Sixty Candidates Will Have Their Names on the Ballot.

Yesterday was the last day for withdrawal from the municipal campaign, and no more candidates dropped out of the race.

Sixty candidates will have their names on the ballot next Tuesday, fifty-five for the commissioner places and five for the two places on the municipal court bench.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer is today preparing the ballots and they will be printed and distributed to the judges as soon as possible. The names in each division will be arranged in alphabetical order, M. B. Culbin leading the mayoralty candidates, John T. Armstead appearing at the head of the list of long-term candidates, and A. M. Balfany holding the place of honor among the short-term candidates. The name of John Brown will lead that of Judge Cutting for special judge, and W. H. Garnes will have first place in the list of three candidates for assistant judge.

City Clerk Palmer had a large number of election judges out to his school at the city hall last evening. He explained the methods of counting, tallying and reporting under the new system of voting and impressed on the judges the necessity of getting the returns in as soon as possible after the polls close.

The last session of the school will be held tonight. Mr. Palmer says that the questions asked indicates that the instructions are timely and he hopes that the result will be an entire freedom from mistakes in the returns.

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS

The campaign meetings arranged for tonight are:

W. E. McEwen at Dormedy hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street, West Duluth.

Marcus L. Fay at Woolman's hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

David H. Day at the Maccabee hall, New Duluth.

J. C. Wessberg and John Hogan at meeting of Fram lodge, Sons of Norway, at West Duluth Commercial club rooms, 317 Central avenue.

T. T. Hudson, representing Municipal Ownership league, at Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

Watson S. Moore on behalf of Bert N. Wheeler's candidacy, and other speakers at meeting of Men's League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

PREDICTS ELECTION OF B. SILBERSTEIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have with us public men, men who want to be in public, and men who prefer the private life to the grind of being criticized when entering the public life.

Some of our public men are competent and thoroughly business-like, while others, well, they are to be judged by what they have done for the people.

I wish to be plain and save as many words as possible, for I know your space is valuable.

Among the list of candidates for mayor, we have one who is a business man, a man of integrity, honor and high morals. As a business man he has prospered and has all his savings invested right here in Duluth, and on which he is a cheerful taxpayer.

As has been stated, "He never took an order that he could not fill." This same man is laying his plans to give this city a first-class government, to arrange the inner workings of the business affairs of the city, with the view of economy and efficiency, systematize the business of the city, and to do this he has been making a deep study of commission governed cities, so that he will know just what to do as soon as he assume the office of mayor, for I believe that on April 1, the sensible, fair minded, business men will give Bernard Silberstein an order to fill the mayor's chair for the next four years, and judging the future by the past, Mr. Silberstein will fill the order with credit to himself and to the city.

Yours truly,

J. G. MORAN.

Lady Baltimore Cake

The Most Popular Cake This Season

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This is considered by many cooking authorities the finest cake that can be made, though in reality it is not at all difficult.

K C Lady Baltimore Cake

One cup butter; 2 cups granulated sugar; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoonful rose water; 3½ cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; whites of 6 eggs, beaten dry.

Cream the butter and beat in the sugar gradually. Sift together, three times, the flour and baking powder, and add to the butter and sugar, alternately with the milk and rose water. Lastly, add the egg whites. Bake in three-layer cake pans. Put the layers together with the following frosting.

Frosting for Lady Baltimore Cake

Three cups granulated sugar; 1 cup boiling water; whites of 3 eggs; 1 cup chopped raisins; 1 cup chopped nut-meats; 5 figs cut in thin slices.

Stir the sugar and water until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil without stirring until the syrup from a spoon will spin a long thread; pour upon the whites of the eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. Continue the beating until the frosting is cold; add the fruit and spread upon the cake.

The K C Cook's Book contains ninety just such delicious recipes,—bread, muffins, cakes and pastry. You can secure a copy free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. CO., Chicago. Small cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

ICE DRIVEN TO WESTERN END

Still Solid in Whitefish Bay and in the Harbors.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and meteorological service of Canada indicate that the high northeast winds of the past week have driven the ice fields in over the western portion of Superior.

There are not so extensive fields over the central portions while over the eastern portion the fields are extensive and no open water showing. In Whitefish bay the ice is solid. In the St. Mary's river the ice is solid but not as heavy as last year. In Green bay there has been no material change; it is softening over the southern portion. In Michigan the high westerly winds have driven the fields to the east shore and extend along the shore from below Holland life saving station northward beyond Glen Haven. The ice is solid from Charlevoix northward to the straits where it remains firm. In Huron the ice fields have practically disappeared from the west shore and no extensive fields are reported on the east shore. The connecting rivers are open. In Lake Erie there are but few fields reported over the central portion in view of the 21st drove the the high wind of the fields into the eastern end and broke up the ice. In Ontario the harbors are open and no fields reported except over the extreme eastern portion.

In comparison with the same period last year there is less ice in all of the lakes.

The details for Lake Superior follow:

Two Harbors—No open water visible; heavy northeast winds have moved the ice fields; they extend beyond vision.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Harbor ice averages 20 inches in thickness with 5 inches of new ice to Thunder cape; ice covered with snow.

Houghton—Harbor ice 14 inches in thickness with 6 inches of slush on top.

Portage Entry—Bay ice is 9 to 10 inches in thickness; river ice about 5 to 11 inches with 2 inches of frozen slush on top.

Baraga—Ice averages 18 to 22 inches in thickness; no open water in sight.

Marquette—Harbor ice 8.5 inches in thickness; loose ice extends beyond vision with small areas of open water in the bay; harbor ice is cracked and covered with slush and water.

Munising—Harbor ice 20 inches in thickness.

Grand Marais, Mich.—Harbor ice is 20 inches in thickness and solid; the ice fields in the lake are whirowed and extend beyond vision.

Sault Ste. Marie—From Iroquois point the ice is solid as far as can be seen; it averages 15 inches between Iroquois and Parisian Island; from Iroquois to Round Island the ice is thin in channel with short stretches of open water. At the city the harbor ice is 21 inches in thickness and solid; very little snow on ice. In Mud lake above Lime island and Sweets point 24 inches and at Pipe island 20 inches; measurements taken in middle of channels.

Ice Still Forming.

A letter from Capt. F. D. Root of the Soo received in the city today gives news that is rather discouraging to the optimistic marine man. Capt. Root says that instead of there being a letup in ice conditions at the Soo the supply of the congealed water is increasing.

The captain says that from Whitefish point east as far as the Soo there has been a heavy increase of ice during the past week, and that in the Soo river the increase is about four inches. The lake, he says, from Whitefish is solid ice and conditions look bad for an early opening. Detour and Mud lake are both in bad shape and the marine men at the Head of the Lakes are beginning to be reconciled to the belief that there will be no opening before April 15 at the earliest.

E. L. Eva Promoted.

E. L. Eva, for years chief clerk in the Northern Pacific freight office in this city, has been promoted to the position of assistant agent. He succeeds A. C. Albachten, who has just been promoted to the position of agent in Superior. The appointment of Mr. Eva has just been announced by Agent W. H. Mitchell. The promotion will cause others but until confirmation comes from headquarters at St. Paul, no announcement will be made.

Railroad Notes.

General Manager McLeod and Assistant General Manager Cameron of the Canadian Northern road are expected to arrive in the city today on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKinnon returned this morning from Winnipeg. Mr. McKinnon is general agent of the Canadian Northern here.

RESCUE WORK IN INDIANAPOLIS

Three Known to Have Been Drowned, With Hundreds Homeless.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Organized rescue work was resumed after daylight today in the flooded district of West Indianapolis. Police officials and rescue workers estimated that 500 persons spent the second night of the flood in the second floors of houses and buildings, three were known to have been drowned, and a night of to have been drowned, and a night of snow and freezing temperature threatened an increase in the death list that is expected to grow steadily throughout the day.

Men who refused to leave their houses yesterday were to be left to the last of the rescue work today and the rescue workers expected to begin an organized search for the dead by noon.

The known dead are:

GEORGE SMITH, died from exposure.

CHARLES ROGERS, rescue worker; drowned.

BOYD SHOEMAKER, drowned.

Smith was a volunteer boatman who was thrown into the water when his boat capsized and he died later from exposure to the bitter cold of the waters and the night. He was found by other rescuers clinging to branches of a tree.

One thousand loaves of bread and other supplies were sent into the flooded districts at daylight. Relief work proceeded a little more rapidly, after an additional fall of eighteen inches of White river. At the city dog pound, on the edge of the flooded district, hot soup and coffee were served to the refugees this morning.

Vandalia Bridge Down.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—The Vandalia railroad bridge over White river went down this morning with a crash, carrying with it ten cars put there to hold it in place.

(Also called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk-Crust, Weeping Skin, etc.)

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED, and not merely patched up for awhile, to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting twelve years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime nearly half of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, just give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today, I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

DOCKS MAY BE IN TWO STATES

Court of Appeals Reverses Judge Morris in Boundary Dispute.

New Boundary Line May Cut Duluth Coal Docks in Center.

A decision that may be of unusual importance to Duluth and to the state of Minnesota and other states, has just been handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis in the suit of the Norton estate against R. B. Whiteside.

So far, the text of the decision is not known here, but details will be learned in a few days. As one attorney put it, a newspaper in Superior is "counting its chickens before they are hatched" when it declares that the result of the decision puts the bay ends of the Carnegie, Island Creek, Zenith Furnace and Berwind coal docks at West Duluth in Wisconsin territory; and yet that may be the fact.

The case involves the location of the boundary between Minnesota and Wisconsin in the St. Louis river, and it is believed that its final decision will affect numerous other states where boundary territory is in dispute. In the original case, which arose because of a dispute between the Norton estate and R. B. Whiteside as to the ownership of under-water ground and a small island adjacent to what is known as Big Island, in the river, the chief contention was as to whether the ownership extended to the center of the original channel of the river or the dredged, or artificial, one.

Judge Morris held that the ownership was valid only to the center of the artificial channel. The case was appealed and Judge Morris' findings and decision are reversed.

L. C. Harris of the law firm of Harris & Pearson, who had Mr. Whiteside's side of the argument, has been merely been notified of the reversal, but does not know the details as yet. He assumes, however, that it means that the center of the original channel must be established as the boundary line, and believes that his contention during the hearing of the case that state's or government engineers cannot change boundaries without ratification has been upheld. In case, he says, that such is the decision of the Federal court, the supposition of Superior that the bay ends of the docks mentioned are in Wisconsin territory and taxable there is correct.

Should that be the decision, which will be known in a few days, Wisconsin will have gained a great deal and Minnesota lost as much, it is claimed.

GURE WAS WORSE THAN THE DISEASE

Inasmuch as many people are afflicted with the grip at this season of the year, they might profit by the experience of a young man who rooms at the Y. M. C. A. This youth had quinine prescribed for him, but today declared that he could not take it. Last night, feeling much the worse from the torments inflicted by this rather prevalent malady, he purchased a box of quinine capsules, according to a doctor's order, and prepared to take a good strong dose. He opened two or three of the capsules, emptied the contents into a cup of water and raised the vessel to his lips. One sip was all that he wanted. "The cure is worse than the disease," he exclaimed.

He told his troubles to a friend, who happened to be better versed in the lore of taking quinine, and told the patient that the capsules were made to be swallowed whole.

MAYOR AND OTHER OFFICIALS MAROONED.

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—Unlike other cities heretofore overwhelmed by flood, Dayton has few representative citizens to relieve victims of the flood and fire that have swept this city. It was impossible to communicate with the mayor or other city officials as they with more than half of the population of 150,000 are hemmed in by the water.

The relief work is being done well by a small coterie of citizens in the southwest part of the city who happened not to be caught in the business section when the flood suddenly made egress from buildings impossible.

The relief is in charge of J. H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company.

The cash register plant was the only structure of importance not seriously affected by the flood or fire which followed and today more than 1,000 refugees are receiving medical attention and food at the plant, which has been turned into a huge hospital and lodging house.

Until today relief measures exceeded requirements but only because it was impossible to rescue the thousands of marooned inhabitants. With waters receding and the rapidity of the torrents through the business sections lessened, the people were brought out by hundreds today and the relief staff was kept busy. Many doctors and nurses have come here from nearby towns and medical supplies and food have been provided for on relief trains.

Absence of motor boats has been the cause of great suffering. Hand propelled boats could not navigate the water. With appeals for motor boats and men to run them, Cleveland responded with several boats, which arrived this morning. Cincinnati also sent some. Upon the arrival of these craft, rescue work went on rapidly.

Harrowing tales have been told in connection with the rescue work already done. A boy pitched by his mother from his roof to a boatman, who was having difficulty keeping his craft steady was missed by the rescuers and drowned. The mother was saved. A young husband had to restrain his wife from throwing herself into the flood waters as they sat upon the roof of their ruined home. She was holding two children. All were saved.

ALL SUPPLIES WILL BE ADMITTED FREE OF DUTY

Washington, March 27.—Secretary McAdoo will admit free of duty relief supplies from Canada for the flood sufferers of Ohio and Indiana. He waived the tariff restrictions today on the receipt of a telegram from Mayor Price of St. Thomas, Ont., saying the people of that city wished to send food, clothing and medical supplies.

Surgeon General Blue of the public health service, left today to take personal charge of the Federal aid medical offices rendering assistance to the distressed people of Indiana and Ohio.

HEAVIEST FIRES IN RESIDENCE DISTRICT.

Sidney, Ohio, March 27.—A message received here from Dayton, via Tippecanoe today says that fire has consumed that territory in the flooded city bounded on the north by First street, on the east by St. Clair, on the south by Third street and on the west by the boulevard. The message came to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. If true, the information means that the territory nine blocks long and two blocks wide has burned.

The district is a fine residence district and contains the Beckel house, court house, jail, Central Union Telephone company, Callahan bank building and several other structures.

TWO VERDICTS ARE RETURNED

Two district court juries, sitting on civil vases, reported verdicts in district court yesterday.

Before Judge Cant, the jury in the case of John A. Ostrom against Duluth camp, No. 2341, Modern Woodmen of America, and Jacobson Bros., contractors, returned with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendants, Jacobson Bros., for $400. The case as against the Modern Woodmen was dismissed by the court before going to the jury. Ostrom sued for personal injuries. The jury was out all Tuesday night.

In Judge Hughes' court, a jury awarded Leno Roswald, plaintiff, a verdict of $700 against Patrick Hines. The case was a timber trespass suit in which defendant admitted his liability to the amount of $143. The woman sued for $3,450.

Candidate for COMMISSIONER

Two-Year Term

A United Commercial Traveler for twenty years.

Born at Preston, Minn., in 1873.

A resident of Duluth for fifteen years, and in business here for ten years.

A member of Zenith Council, No. 40.

Believing that I am thoroughly competent after twenty years of experience in the commercial field, doing business with all classes of people, to discharge the duties of commissioner in the new city government, without fear or favor to any one, I respectfully submit my platform as follows:

Strict enforcement of the liquor laws, with no favoritism to any one.

A square deal to all, rich and poor alike and to the small and large interests.

Equality in taxation.

Just recognition of claims from all parts of our city.

Municipal ownership of public utilities.

Close attention to the demands of our citizens.

Encouraging new industries to locate in Duluth, believing that there is ample room for many new enterprises in our city.

Eight hours for city employes.

Ability and honesty as qualifications for appointments to any position in the city government.

My best efforts for anything that will bring Duluth to the front as one of the best-governed cities in America.

Will appreciate your kind support.

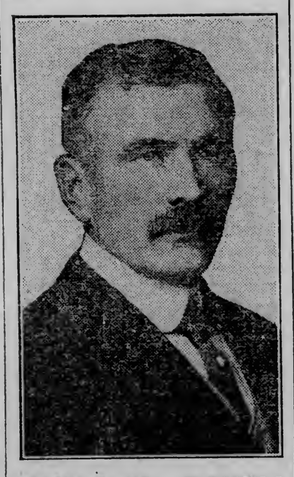
FOOD CANNING ESTABLISHED ON SCIENTIFIC BASIS

The scientific principles that underlie the processes of canning foods are simple and well understood. They are as well understood and applied by canners of food as the power of steam is understood and applied by the railways in the transportation of freight and passengers.

Minor details, such as a fair average of net weights, standards of quality, and problems of like character, are being worked out by experiment with cordial aid of the packers, and no one will be more pleased than the packers, and the dealers in canned food when such questions are fairly settled.



But canned food products are today substantially pure and beneficial and the public interest was never better safeguarded and protected.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Inserted by John A. MacDonell in behalf of himself, candidate for short term commissioner. Amount to be paid, $8.96.

JOHN A. MacDONELL

FOR COMMISSIONER

(Short Term)

I wish to state in announcing my platform, that I have been a resident of the city of Duluth for the past twenty-six years, during all of which time I have taken an active interest in public questions, and during the last four years I have served the people of the city as an alderman from the Fifth ward. Among other things, I stand for the following:

1—The voters have spoken on the electric light issue. Their wish must be followed.

2—All laws must be enforced. This applies equally to the saloons and to the social evil, as well as to all other forms of vice. Our patrol limits are already extended as far as the needs require.

3—I am in favor of the eight-hour day for all city employes.

4—Insurance rates in unprotected parts of the city are burdensome—our fire department should be extended.

5—I am in favor of workingmen and school children rates of fare on the street railway during certain hours of the day.

6—Public markets, playgrounds, parks and matters of similar public importance should be encouraged and extended.

7—My nomination came unsolicited; I owe no political debt; I have made no promises; and if elected the people will be my one and only master, and no private interest will be able to dictate to me.

8—If elected, I will employ the best help I can get in the department allotted to me at the salaries allowed for such positions, irrespective of political lines or party affiliations.

CANNED FOODS ARE THE GREAT HEALTH FOODS

As a class canned foods are the great health foods. Some other foods have a higher nutritive value than canned fruits and vegetables, but canned fruits and vegetables are valued most highly and excel all other foods for their health-giving qualities.

The sugar and acid qualities of fruit and the starch, succulent qualities of vegetables render them particularly valuable in making a well-balanced ration to keep the body in health.

The canner takes the fresh foods in the season of plenty and in places where they grow abundantly, cans them while ripe, and puts them into the market everywhere in the fall and winter of need, when fresh fruits cannot be had. Canned foods are preeminently the great health-giving foods.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"The Love Pirate."

Amusement Notes.

May Robson, one of the most charming actresses of the present day, has developed a type of character new to the stage. The conventional old lady of the farce with traditional mannerisms of her predecessors, is absent from the work of May Robson, since she offer a distinctive type of the good-natured, generous woman of today. Combining the rare ability to express naturally pathos and humor, her manner of expression sways one to laughter. While there is a wide scope for the introduction of "horse play," it is carefully avoided, and the movement of the action kept well within legitimate bounds.

The play is well constructed, and above all very funny. Miss Robson's characterization of "Granmum" is exceptionally clever, and she had the widest range for emotional work from which she may change to the ludicrous and yet so quietly and so thoroughly at her case that it does not jar, but is convincing to the last degree. There is in the background a certain amount of philosophy which occasionally glimmers in the lines, particularly the reference to hereditary influence—not as an argument, but as an opinion of a broad-minded old lady, generous enough to alter that opinion should she be convinced to the contrary.

The theme of "A Night Out," in brief, is based upon the absorbing love of an elderly woman for her grandsons, and the results of their influence over her. She is curious to know what the attraction is in the city that draws the young men from a comfortable home at night to visit the city. This curiosity is not satisfied until after stealing away from the house and visiting a well known restaurant in New York. Everything is apparently proper until a visit from the police changes her opinion and urges her immediate departure. The arrival home in the small hours, finding the house fastened—the climbing up the ivy—the crushed and dilapidated appearance of Granmum, all form a most laughable incident, one of the many in this funny play. Miss Robson will present this play at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee.

There is a little mongrel fox terrier at the Orpheum this week that is the understudy for an entire troupe of trained dogs.

"Spot" is the little animal's name, and he is the dog that does the high summersaults in Meehan's trained dog act. He does the summersaults better than any other dog in the troupe and always gets applause for this trick, but this represents only a part of Spot's value to the act. He can do every trick that any other dog in the act can do, and do it just as well. In fact Spot can give an entire act by himself, and once did it for several weeks, appearing with his master one summer in a few "small time" theaters to fill in a few open weeks in the bookings. He and his master gave a 20-minute entertainment alone. Mr. Meehan did not care to present his entire act on the "small time," so he took Spot and filled the open dates to earn a little extra "pocket money."

"Spot is the best trick dog I ever saw," said Mr. Meehan last evening, after his act. "He can do any trick done by any dog I know of," and he seems to pick them up almost instantly. It is no trouble at all to teach him. He seems to know just what you want him to do after showing him once or twice. If any dog in the act, outside of the leaping greyhounds, took sick or died, Spot could step in and fill the vacancy without a rehearsal. He can lick any dog in the troupe except the Russian wolf hound. He's all energy, muscle and brains, and it just about keeps one man busy watching him. If Spot was a man he would probably be the Theodore Roosevelt or the Morgan of this country, or perhaps both rolled into one."

"A musical comedy with a plot and handsome costumes and real singers" is what is promised in "The Love Pirate" which comes to the Empress theater for three days starting today matinee. It tells the story of an American heiress who in order to obtain her fortune must be married to an Englishman on a certain date and the day before the said date she fearing the nobleman will not arrive in time, secures the services of a quack doctor who secures a husband for the young lady. The man he secures is none other than a half witted country boy and strange to say immediately after the wedding the nobleman arrives and in order to become a widow a scheme is arranged to poison the country boy who in turn refuses to die. In order to get rid of him no end of complications arise and the comedy situations are enough to keep the audience in constant uproar of laughter. As the principal comedy part is in the hands of the man who originally created the part a finished production is secured. The many musical numbers are original. One that is especially worthy of mention is "Base Ball," during which the entire company plays a regular game of ball upon the stage which is a novelty originally created by William C. Cushman.

William C. Cushman who is the principal comedian of "The Love Pirate" is one of the few comedians of the many tabloid shows that really has a Broadway reputation. He has been connected with several noted successes.

INSURGENTS IN SESSION

Effort at Fargo Meeting to Join Insurgents With Bull Moosers.

Not Meeting With Favor and Alliance May Not Be Made.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are many of the leading insurgent Republicans of North Dakota here today in response to a call issued by Chairman Tucker of the executive committee. Of the five members of congress in Washington, Senator Gronna is the only one present. Neither of the three members of congress could attend.

Lieutenant Governor Kraabel, whose vote on the initiative and referendum bill and later explanation have attracted considerable political attention, is a prominent figure in the hotel lobbies.

The meeting was called to order this morning by Chairman Tucker, who outlined the necessity of effecting a strong organization for future campaigns and fostering strength. He outlined the plans for the future and intimated that a discussion of candidates would not be entirely out of place.

Dorr H. Carroll of Minot, state chairman of the Bull Moosers is here in an effort to effect a combination with the insurgent Republicans. He extends an invitation for them to walk into the Bull Moose camp and affiliate. He points out that the insurgents are waning, the cause of the Republican party is disintegrating; that views of insurgents and Bull Moosers are quite similar, all being progressive, and that the insurgents should align themselves with the new and virile organization instead of remaining with a sinking ship.

Devine For Going It Alone.

Former Governor Devine, one of the leading insurgents, replied to Carroll and insisted that the insurgent Republicans, while even more progressive than the Bull Moosers, should work out their plans with the Republican organization, which was permanent and now practically controlled by the progressive elements, that it was purifying itself and would be stronger than ever, while the Bull Moosers were an ephemeral organization, their only strength being the popularity of their leader, who with his withdrawal the party would collapse and prove a failure like many other temporary national organizations. Sentiment seems opposed to an alliance with the Bull Moosers.

HAIR FELL OUT IN HANDFULS

Scale on Forehead and Scalp. Face Burned and Itched. Eyes Swelled Shut. Ears Cracked Open. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trouble Gone.

2338 E. 79th St., Cleveland, Ohio.—"I had a very bad white scale on my forehead and scalp. I first noticed trouble with my face when it always got very red spotted whenever I washed. My face burned and itched and I could hardly keep my hands off of it. It got red and inflamed in a small place and my eyes swelled shut for three days. Then this trouble went in my hair. It came in a hard scale on the scalp and itched terribly and when I scratched the water came out of the scalp and made my hair all wet. Then the hair fell out in handfuls until I was very bald in spots. After a while my ears got a scale on them and they cracked open until the blood came out.

"Then I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some more. I had used the Cuticura Soap for some time, but not the Cuticura Ointment. I had the trouble about six weeks before I received the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, but the trouble was all gone in less than three weeks after. Now I am all right." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Crowell, Aug. 5, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient when all else fails. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

WHY KINGS 'SNUB' US

The United States Could Not Receive a Royal Ruler Officially.

Baltimore Sun: If King Alfonso of Spain can persuade his government to let him visit our shores—a fact he is trying hard to accomplish—he will be the first reigning European king to drag the royal purple over the land of the free and the home of the brave.

We have had monarchs here before, and indeed reigning ones, but they were usually from the cannibal islands and coral-reef circuits. For instance, about a quarter of a century ago that distinguished potentate, King Kalakaua, of the then primitive and unAmericanized Hawaiian islands, used to transport his august person across the Pacific and favor us with a visit now and then. Within the last few years the highly civilized and progressive Gaekwar of Baroda has twice visited America, and his son is even now a student at Harvard. The Gaekwar's throne is under British protection.

Kings do not call on us as a rule, though they frequently drop in on republican France and are welcomed there. The reason is simple—we could not receive a king officially. Though we have all kinds of systems, from the stripping system to the civil service system, we lack the system that nearly every other nation revels in, the system of official rank which recognizes hereditary dignitaries.

King Alfonso goes to visit the kaiser. Just before he reaches Berlin he will remove his common clothes and don the uniform of a Prussian regiment of dragoons, of which he is titular colonel. The kaiser simultaneously will hurry to the storehouse called his wardrobe and array himself in the uniform of the Royal Spanish Lancers, in which he, in turn, is a titular colonel. The emperor will meet his august brother at the station with a full military escort; the crowds will cheer, the bands play, the monarchs bow, and so triumphantly they will arrive at the palace as self-respecting monarchs are accustomed to arrive.

Now, if King Alfonso comes to this country his reception will, sad to say, be far, far different. He cannot don the uniform of an officer in a crack American regiment because he has no authority to do so; neither can the president, for various reasons, don the uniform of a Spanish regiment of lancers. Nor will there be any considerable part of the United States of America waiting to greet His Majesty as the ship comes in.

As he steps down the gangplank a newsboy may very likely brush the royal sleeve with a newspaper. A customs man may insist on the king signing his declaration with his last name. Once the king is allowed to step on our little island the best he can do is to proceed incognito to a good hotel, register as Count something or other, grant an interview or so and take the earliest train to Washington.

There the president and he will exchange visits, in the course of which the president will address him not as "Your Majesty," but as "Great and good friend." Such is the formal White House phrase for all similar purposes. The poor monarch will have to look for entertainment as a private person wherever the official representatives of this nation are concerned.

Can any one wonder that no king who has been nicely brought up can think of an official visit to America without a shudder?

FEW ANXIOUS ONES HERE

Only Ten Telegrams for Dayton Filed at Local Offices.

Railroad Will Handle All Relief Supplies Free of Charge.

Evidently Duluth is fairly free from the anxieties attending the Dayton flood in regard to whether or not loved ones have survived the disaster.

Altogether only ten messages have been filed in the offices of the two telegraph companies here for delivery at Dayton. Many have acquaintances there, but seemingly few have relatives in the stricken district. The telegraph companies take the messages but refuse to guarantee delivery as yet. It is claimed that many messages are being held in Chicago and Cleveland as clearing houses, as it were, for the flooded towns, and that as soon as wire communication will have been re-established there will be a flood of telegrams into Dayton and vicinity.

Railroads as well as individuals are offering every service possible to alleviate the situation in and around Dayton. S. J. Bigelow, commercial agent of the New York Central lines at Duluth, this morning received the following telegrams from Carl Howe, manager of the lines:

"Owing to disastrous and appalling conditions in flooded districts the New York Central lines will handle free any food, clothing or other supplies contributed for relief of flood sufferers and consigned to mayors or relief committees in the flooded districts. Mr. Ingalls, freight traffic manager, has instructed all agents to accept and bill free such consignments. Notify all concerned."

A. C. Eichelberger, who resides at the Lenox hotel, is anxiously awaiting word from his mother and his sister. They reside in Dayton, but he believes them to be safe for the reason that they live in the higher part of the city, which, it is understood, has escaped the ravages of the flood. Mrs. Thomas Walker of Duluth is fearful of the consequences to her father, mother and two sisters, who reside at 1100 West First stret, Dayton, which is in the very center of the flooded district. No news can be received as to their fate as yet.

BRIEF SESSION OF FEDERAL COURT

Judge Charles Willard of Minneapolis Disposes of Routine Work.

Judge Charles Willard of the Federal court was up from Minneapolis this morning and held a brief session of court. He returned home this afternoon. During his stay here this morning he admitted a number of applicants to citizenship and dismissed as bankrupts four who had applied some time ago. They are: Christian T. Christianson of Two Harbors, Mike Rajachiech of Chisholm, George Nugent of Royalton and Arthur G. Anderson of Duluth.

The two suits of the Union Carbide company against the American Carbolite company of Duluth for infringement of patents, were dismissed by stipulation. The terms of settlement are not divulged.

The personal damage suit in admiralty court of Annie Lower against the Port Huron Steamship company was dismissed, the case having been settled out of court for $400.

JURY DIVIDED IN OSBORNE CASE

Unable to Decide Fate of West Duluth Man.

"When cases such as these are not correctly decided, it is always a matter of some scandal. Somebody knows what the truth is. In this case, the defendant knows what the real facts are. The defendant's wife also knows the truth. Likewise does the little girl, who is the complaining witness. And there are others who are connected with the case, who have a strong suspicion of what the real truth is. Take the case again, gentlemen of the jury, and try to reach an agreement."

This is a short extract from the instructions which Judge Cant gave to a jury in district court this morning, which had spent a restless night in trying to decide whether or not William Osborne of West Duluth is guilty or innocent of the crime of abusing a young girl under the age of 18. He has been tried on a charge of taking advantage of the weakness of an orphan girl who was placed in his home for adoption, and now awaits the verdict of a jury of his peers.

Osborne, at the trial, denied the girl's story from start to finish. He and his wife brand the tale of abuse as a concoction evolved in the mind of the girl, who, the defendant claims, was lonesome and not satisfied with living at his home.

The jury retired with the case at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At noon today, the jurors came in for instruction. They informed the court that they were divided 9 to 3. Alexander Anderson is foreman of the jury. After giving them further instructions, the jury retired again.

DEATH SUMMONS IS VERY SUDDEN

Mrs. Magdalena Schubitsky Dies at Her Home of Heart Failure.

Mrs. Magdalena Schubitsky, 64 years old, dropped dead last evening at her home, 729 Fifth avenue east.

Mrs. Schubitsky had apparently been in good health. She was around the house in the morning, and was suddenly stricken, dying almost instantly. Heart failure was the cause of death.

The body was removed to Crawford's undertaking rooms.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 from the residence, with services at the Polish church, Third avenue east and Fifth street, at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in the Polish cemetery.

FEDERAL TROOPS KEEP REBELS OUT OF CANANEA

Naco, Ariz., March 27.—With an estimated total of 200 killed during the day's fighting in the Arperlean mining town of Cananea, the 300 Federals yesterday prevented the state troops' attempt to take their position by assault. More than 1,000 state troops were driven back. The Huerta garrison is reported to have lost few men. The slaughter of the attackers was great.

FRANKLIN SCHOOL IS OVERCROWDED

Parents Pass Resolutions at Meeting of Neighborhood Club.

That the Franklin school is congested and that steps should be taken to relieve the overcrowded condition which exists there, is the opinion of the Franklin Neighborhood club, which held a meeting last evening at the Franklin school.

A resolution expressing this sentiment was adopted in the presence of School Directors Cobb, Barnes and Colman. The resolution called attention to the deplorable fact that the Franklin school has 791 students who are crowded into seventeen poorly ventilated rooms.

The proposition was put up to the schools directors who were present. Mr. Cobb replied to the appeal by stating that the state law fixed a limit on the amount of money which could be spent by the school board and that all of that amount had already been contracted for or used. Nothing can be done at present.

Fred Ward, agricultural expert for St. Louis county, gave a short talk in which he advised that the children in the schools be urged to plant seeds this spring. A number of musical selections were given by students and graduates.

The club will hold its next meeting on April 16.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GREATEST "ANTI-WASTE" SOCIETY

Bishop Quayle Delivers Opening Address at State Convention.

More Than 1,200 Delegates in Attendance at First Session.

The fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday school association opened last evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. More than 1,200 delegates were in attendance at the opening session.

Rev. James M. Gray, D. D., of Chicago.

Bishop William A. Quayle of St. Paul gave the opening address, speaking on "The Anti-Waste Society," in which the speaker termed the Sunday school the greatest anti-waste organization in the world, surpassing even such forces of conservation as the anti-tuberculosis society.

A song service by the union chorus of 100 voices was the opening feature. Prof. J. Lincoln and Dr. Adam Geibel, both of Philadelphia, will be in charge of the convention music up to the close of the gathering Sunday evening.

The delegates commenced arriving yesterday from all sections of the state and already 1,000 official delegates are registered. About 500 more are expected today. Rev. Edward Erickson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, chairman of the entertainment committee, assigned most of the delegates to the homes of local Sunday school members, who have donated the use of one or two rooms during the convention.

John L. Alexander, of Chicago.

Morning Sessions.

This forenoon the regular association schools of methods were held. The programs held for each division of the convention follow:

Elementary division at the Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street; Mrs. C. F. Apitz of St. Paul, supervisor; Mrs. J. A. McGaughey of Duluth, presiding, 9 a. m., Mrs. F. A. Mills, devotional; 9:10, Miss Mabel Bailey, Neenah, Wis., cradle roll; 9:55, Mrs. John E. Hobart, "The Child We Teach," 10:40, Miss Bailey, "A Study of the Junior Pupil," and 11:25, Miss Beatrice Longfellow, "Music in Elementary Division."

Secondary division at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street; Dr. R. W. Bowden of Duluth, supervisor; N. D. McLeod of Duluth, presiding, 9 a. m., devotional, Rev. C. P. Sheridan of Brainerd; 9:10, "The Boy in the City Sunday School," Rev. S. B. Roberts of Minneapolis; 9:55, "Boys' Organization and the Sunday School," Rev. E. B. Dean of Northfield; 10:40, "The Boy's Religion—His Foundation," John L. Alexander of Chicago; 11:25, "Open Parliament," led by Mr. Alexander.

Adult division at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street; Rev. W. C. Hodgson of Crookston, supervisor; H. F. Michael of Brainerd, presiding; 9 a. m., devotional, by Rev. B. A. C. Willoughby of Wadena; 9:10, "Value of the A. B. C. Organization," Rev. F. H. Brigham of Neenah, Wis.; 9:55, "Promoting Bible Study and Prayer Life," unassigned; 10:40, "The A. B. C. and Why," Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss.; "Open Parliament," led by Miss Kilpatrick.

General division at the Swedish Mission church; Rev. F. M. Rule of St. Paul, supervisor; Rev. F. L. Trelstad of St. Paul, presiding, 9 a. m., devotional, by Rev. W. G. Baab of Brownton; 9:10, "Home Department Organization and Methods," Rev. Trelstad; 9:55, "Five Missionary Minutes," Mrs. C. J. Hunt of Minneapolis; 10:40, "Teacher Training, What? How?" Mrs. J. C. Buchanan; 11:25, "Open Parliament," led by Miss Carrie S. Pond.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session today was held at the Swedish Mission church, with President J. H. Martin of Minneapolis presiding. The features of the afternoon program were addresses by Rev. Dr. M. S. Rice of Duluth, John L. Alexander of Chicago and Rev. James M. Gray, dean of the Moody Bible institute of Chicago. A conference hour was held at 4 o'clock under the direction of A. M. Locker of Minneapolis, general secretary of the association.

This evening Dr. R. W. Bowden of Duluth, vice president of the association, will preside. A sacred concert by the chorus will be rendered at 7:30 o'clock, after which the Scripture will be read by Rev. W. C. Hodgson of Crookston. Addresses will be given by Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss., and John L. Alexander of Chicago.

Friday Program.

The complete program for tomorrow follows:

SUFFRAGE CLUBS MAY CONSOLIDATE

West End Women May Join the Duluth Organization.

The consolidation of the West End Suffrage club with the Duluth Suffrage club is advocated by a large number of the members of the local organization.

It was announced yesterday that the matter will be officially taken up by the West end club within a few weeks. If it is found advisable, the members say, arrangements will be made at once for the consolidation.

That the club should unite with the larger organization in the work for suffrage, and that in this way more effective work can be accomplished, is the claim of those behind the movement. The matter has been discussed for several weeks, but nothing official has been done as yet.

The West End Suffrage club was organized about a year ago among the women in this end of the city, and it already has a very active membership. The club has not held any meetings for the past few months, owing to the absence the early part of this winter of Mrs. L. Q. Greeley, president. It is planned to call a meeting within a week or so, when the consolidation plans will be discussed.

The officers of the club are Mrs. Greeley, president; Mrs. Leigh Gunther, secretary, and Mrs. David Adams, treasurer.

CLASSES SHOW STEADY GROWTH

The classes for working people and foreigners in this end of the city, now being conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., have increased considerably since they were started several weeks ago.

Many of the pupils who were taken into the classes did not know a word of English when they started, and according to one of the instructors in charge, a rapid advancement has already manifested itself. The pupils are being taught reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic and English. An advanced class in economics is also conducted for those who can read and write.

There are seventy-five people now enrolled in the various classes, all of which are under the direction of Prof. A. G. Alexander of the Y. M. C. A. Prof. Alexander is being assisted by several instructors.

The classes meet every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at room 7, Mohaupt building, 2022 West Superior street. The economic class meets every Friday evening.

CENTRAL COUNCIL OF IMPROVEMENT CLUBS.

Arrangements for the organization of a Central Improvement club, the membership to be composed of representatives from all the civic and commercial bodies of Duluth, which was proposed by the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club several weeks ago, will be made at the meeting of the club Friday evening, April 4.

The members of the club have been campaigning among all the other organizations in the city, and they find the project very much in favor. It is planned to send invitations to these clubs, asking them to send delegations to a meeting in the near future, when the new club will be organized.

The proposed club will act as a clearing house for all matters of interest to Duluth at large. The subjects could then be referred back to the various commercial bodies and action finally taken by the citizens at large. A committee of three from every club in the city will act as delegates to the Central Improvement club.

Church Concert.

An interesting program has been planned for the concert which will be given tomorrow evening at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, under the auspices of the ladies' aid society of that church.

Miss Johannah Hanson will open the program with an organ prelude and Rev. J. N. Nervig will say the prayer and address of welcome. Rev. F. O. Hanson will speak and other numbers on the program will be vocal solos by Miss Minnie Nielson and Joe Erickson, violin solos by Prof. Edward Lynn, two songs by the church choir, organ numbers by Prof. A. E. Lundholm, a recitation by Miss Agnes Helam and a piano solo by Miss Margaret Hesness.

Auxiliary Meetings.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold two meetings during the month of April. The first of the two will be held by the ladies' aid society on April 7 in the church parlors. Mrs. E. E. Churchill will be hostess for the afternoon. The other meeting will be held by the mission circle on April 16. Mrs. Churchill will lead in a discussion on "China's New Literature." Mrs. J. D. Campbell will be hostess.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D'Aoust of Cloquet are the guests this week at the home of Mrs. Gilbert D'Aoust, 215 North Twenty-fourth avenue west.

Hjalmer Peterson of West Fourth street returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives at Grand Forks, N. D.

Mrs. E. R. Ecklund and daughter Elizabeth of Chisholm left yesterday for their home after spending the past week with West end relaitves.

Miss Florence Halliford of 102 North Twenty-eighth avenue west is convalescent.

Rev. H. A. Ofstle of Minneapolis will preach Sunday at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

Mrs. C. Johnson of 320 North Twenty-first avenue west entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. church at her home this afternoon.

Mrs. Gust Johnson of 22 Exeter street entertained this afternoon for the St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace M. E. church met yesterday afternoon in the church parlors, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

WILL NOT JOIN WITH HOUSE PROGRESSIVES.

Washington, March 27.—Representative Kent of California, Lenroot of Wisconsin, and Anderson of Minnesota, all known as Progressive-Republicans, joined in a formal announcement yesterday that they would not join the house Progressives in a new third party organization and would not vote for Representative Victor Murdock for speaker. The three representatives declared they believed progressive ends could be best attained at present by supporting the present administration, and that they intended to co-operate with the administration in every way so long as it continued to carry out Progressive policies.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED

Two Cases Well Worth Reading

MRS. J. C. DACUS

Mrs. J. C. Dacus, Danville, Arkansas, writes: "I have had a running ear since I was about three years old. It had become very offensive, notwithstanding I had tried several physicians without any benefit whatever.

"My father meeting a neighbor who told him that his wife had been cured by Lacupia and Peruna, then wrote to Dr. Hartman, asking his advice. He was told that I had catarrh of the middle ear, or chronic otitis.

"He recommended Lacupia and Peruna, and after using three bottles of each the discharge and offensive odor are both gone."

Mr. W. C. Nye, of Washington, Vermont, has had a good deal of personal experience with catarrh. He probably knows more about catarrh than a great many people who make a specialty of the subject for he has had it twenty years himself. There is no other way for the average person to learn anything, than experience. Twenty years wrestling with the problems of catarrh, local treatment and internal treatment, ought to teach a man something.

Mr. Nye tried, he says, many so-called catarrh remedies. He also claims that he received temporary relief from some of them. But all the time his catarrh remained. Ringing in the ears. Muddling of the senses. Dropping in the throat. This remained with him year after year.

He began taking Peruna, without using any local treatment. Just taking the Peruna, according to the directions on the bottle.

It may see strange to some that a bad case of chronic catarrh can be cured without any local treatment. But the fact remains, nevertheless. The explanation is that catarrh is not a local disease, but a systemic disease. To be sure, it finds local expression. That is to say, it settles somewhere. Quite frequently in the nose and throat. But it is a systemic disease and requires systemic treatment. Something to take. Something that will operate on the whole system. Nothing short of this will cure catarrh. A great many have found this out.

One of the people who have found it out is Mr. Nye. He had had a long campaign of treating his catarrh by the usual methods of treatment, but until he took Peruna his catarrh kept recurring. Now he is well. Peruna did the work.

His testimony is the same as many others who have had similar experiences. Sometimes it helps a little to gargle your throat with strong salt water and to snuff weak salt water into the nose. Such things help a little sometimes, but if a cure is ever to be really accomplished it will be by taking Peruna according to the directions on the bottle. Take it right along regularly, faithfully, until the catarrh disappears.

Mr. Nye is very enthusiastic about Peruna. He stands ready to answer any inquirer who is seeking a remedy for catarrh.

Or you might write J. G. Steffe, Sherman, South Dakota. He had been a sufferer from catarrh for several years. He also had tried all sorts of catarrh remedies. He was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which he did. He commenced at once to get better. He is able to say to-day that he is a well man, and he never ceases to recommend Peruna whenever he can get the chance.

Both of these men are reliable, honest citizens, respected and useful in the community where they live. They did not try Peruna until after they had tried other things. Like most people, who find Peruna after everything else has failed.

Of course you would save time by simply buying your Peruna at once and beginning to take it. Then in the meantime you can write these gentlemen. You will find that not only the things you have read in this article are true, but that they have a great deal more to say in praise of Peruna than we have quoted from them.

An internal remedy for catarrh, that is what Peruna is. Whether the catarrh assumes the form of a common cold, or whether it proceeds to the dangerous condition of catarrh of the lungs, for all of the phases of catarrh Peruna is the remedy. Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Pharyngitis, Gastritis, Cystitis. All these are phases of catarrh. Peruna is the remedy.

The symptoms of catarrh of the throat are: First, gagging in morning; hawking stringy mucus. Second, enarged tonsils. Third, sore throat at times. Fourth, snoring when lying on the back. Fifth, elongated uvula. Sixth, ulcerated patches in throat. Seventh, throat dry, necessitating clearing throat often. Eighth, coated tongue. Ninth, inside of throat red. Tenth, inside of throat smarts and tickles.

Relief work Thursday was directed toward rescuing 250 from the marooned plant of the Sun Manufacturing company where they have been for two days without food or heat. One boat which got within hailing distance and was stopped by the swirling current, was informed that conditions there were terrible.

Estimates of a heavy loss of life in the extreme west side are based upon the stories told by the hundreds rescued, and by scenes witnessed by the rescuers who have been working continuously with rough boats for forty hours.

The break in the levee near Central avenue washed every thing before it. According to refugees from that section there is not a house standing on Glenwood avenue and many of the parallel streets are almost completely denuded of buildings.

Crowded With Refugees.

According to those who invaded the stricken district, the charities, big state institutions and store rooms in the hilltop section are crowded with refugees, many of whom were rescued from the murky waters and who tell stories of indescribable horrors.

Former Mayor George S. Marshall, who was in telephone communication with Attorney Cecil Randall, his law partner, said today that Mr. Randall said the death roll would reach at least 1,000.

Throngs of excited groups of people from the flood stricken section of the city who were crowded into the temporary rescue quarters assert that the estimate of Mr. Randall is not exaggerated.

Not Known For Days.

The true extent of the awful tragedies enacted during the sweeping away of homes and the exact death toll will not be known for days until the mass of wreckage, houses and uprooted trees, strewn over the lowlands south of the city, are uncovered. This mass of debris is now under several feet of water with swift currents running in many directions.

Many of those rescued tell of escaping from their homes by fractions of minutes before the rushing waters swept their houses away and crushed them like egg shells against bridges. Scores of entire families, these people assert, were swept down with their houses in the swift current.

Hospitals Crowded.

Every available inch of space in the Columbus state hospital for the insane and Mount Carmel hospital on the hilltop is occupied by refugees, according to those who invaded the stricken district today.

Four children were reported to have been born in a schoolhouse on the hilltop.

Fire Chief Lauer, who was marooned just beyond the flooded section, reaching that point of safety in his automobile just before the waters swept the lowlands, said that he saw scores of people standing on their porches as the waters swept down and that he cannot see how many of them escaped.

GRAND RESERVOIR IN WEAK CONDITION

be wiped out if the reservoir breaks. Such a condition also would make impossible further rescue work at Peru, Ind.

Hears Reservoir Is Gone.

Celina, Ohio, March 27.—The Grand reservoir has broken, according to information received by E. P. Bonds, manager of the Central Union Telephone company. If the report proves true flood conditions will be much worse throughout Eastern Indiana and Western Ohio. The reservoir is the largest of its kind in the world and drains ordinarily into the valleys of the Wabash and St. Mary's rivers.

Special Train Leaves.

Chicago, March 27.—Upon receipt of the reported break of the reservoir at Celina the Pennsylvania railroad officials immediately made up a special train and within forty-five minutes it had left the city under instructions to get as near the stricken district as possible. The train was under the direction of General Supt. McCarthy of the road.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy

MRS. L. C. FIGG.

RESTORED TO HEALTH AFTER INTENSE SUFFERING

Mrs. L. Clifford Figg, suffered intensely for months from kidney and liver trouble. She found relief and health in Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy.

"I was ill and miserable for months with backache, sick headache, dizziness, rheumatism, pains and neuralgia. I had kidney and bladder trouble. After taking other medicines with little or no relief I tried Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. The urinary disorders and pains disappeared and my health and strength returned. Six bottles effected a complete cure."—Mrs. L. Clifford Figg, 1449 Dahin St., Chicago, Ill.

Kidney Poisoning

Most people do not realize the prevalency and alarming increase of kidney disease. When the kidneys are diseased the uric acid is not carried off, causing gout, lumbago and rheumatism. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy possesses remarkable remedial qualities. It is pleasant to take. Sold everywhere in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. Write for free samples to the Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 375, Rochester, N. Y.

KILLS HIS TORMENTOR

Poor Farm Inmate Uses Iron Cuspidor as a Weapon.

Fractures Skull of the Man Who Called Him "Macaroni."

Driven into a rage because Michael Lenovitch called him "Macaroni" or "Spaghetti," in a corridor near the poor farm reading room, Peter Perelli hurled a heavy iron cuspidor which struck Lenovitch in the head yesterday afternoon, causing injuries of which he died in about an hour. The blow fractured the skull.

Perelli was immediately repentant for his violent act and submitted calmly to imprisonment in the insane ward until the arrival of Patrolman Peter Barber, who took him to police headquarters, where he was charged with first degree murder. He waived examination in municipal court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury.

Perelli is 64 years old and has been an inmate of the poor farm on different occasions since October, 1912. He has been a sufferer from chronic asthma and returned to the institution the last time Jan. 9. Lenovitch was 50 years of age and had been at the poor farm since last November, although he had been there on several occasions the preceding year. He was afflicted with separated glands. Neither of them is thought to have relatives in this city.

Perelli had often been referred to by his nickname but had not appeared to notice it until last Tuesday, when he showed anger at being called "Macaroni." He turned upon the inmate using the term and told him that his name was not "Macaroni" but Perelli.

Yesterday Perelli passed through the corridor where Lenovitch was sitting with a number of others. Lenovitch spoke to him, again calling him "Macaroni." Perelli lost his temper and picked up the cuspidor, but set it down again without attempting to injure Lenovitch with it. He then went into the boiler room. He returned in a few minutes and the quarrel was renewed. Before any one could interfere he grabbed up the cuspidor and struck Lenovitch on the head, fracturing his skull. The Austrian collapsed and sank to the floor. He was hurriedly picked up and given attention but he died within an hour.

Perelli was taken into custody and later removed to police headquarters. The body of Lenovitch was removed to Crawford's undertaking establishment at the direction of the coroner. An autopsy will be performed and a coroner's inquest may be impaneled by Coroner McComb to investigate the circumstances surrounding Lenovitch's death.

STATEMENT BY THE GOVERNOR

the same devastating results at Zanesville were carried on to Marietta.

"A flood situation developed in the Maumee and Sandusky valleys in Northwestern Ohio, but the damage to life and property was nothing compared to that in the south."

Without Parallel.

"In many respects the Dayton situation is absolutely without parallel. The city is unable to send to the outside world any accurate idea of the real loss. North Dayton reported a loss of 100 lives. Later precisely the same situation was reported at Riverdale. West Dayton was almost completely under water and the houses in Edgemont, a residential section, were so deep in the flood that great destruction to life and property certainly ensued there. On the high lands of South Park and East Dayton pockets were developed and people were drowned in apparent elevations where it would seem naturally impossible. The water at Fifth and Brown streets is 25 or 30 feet above the elevations in the business section.

"At this time a river wild and turbulent, four mile wide, is sweeping through the business section of Dayton to say nothing of the overflow of the residential sections.

Communication Established.

"Telephone communication was established before the day was over with four points in the city. Bell, the intrepid Bell telephone operator reported first that he had sent scouts into the different parts of the city by boat. His belief, at daylight, was that the loss had been overestimated, but by 10 o'clock it was known that easily 500 people had been drowned. This evening we cannot resist the belief that the loss will not be less than 1,000.

"The Miami river enters Dayton directly north and south, separating North Dayton from Riverdale. It then makes a complete turn in west and runs about three-fourths of a mile, then turns directly at right angles to the south. These bends have been the undoing of the city and have caused the break in the levee. Not until today was it apparent that between 10,000 and 12,000 people are penned up in the business district in buildings, hotels and the Mica building, making it apparent that the flood came so quickly that the business community was unable to reach the hills of the city.

"The city hall is patrolled by a number of policemen inside and it is situated so as to enable the officers to make more or less accurate estimates of the number of people in the business section.

Fire Breaks Out.

"Fire broke out in the square bounded by St. Clair, Jefferson, Second and Third streets, soon after noon. The blaze swept north and destroyed the St. Paul Evangelical church. The flames then shot to the south through the wholesale district consuming two large wholesale liquor houses.

"The fire is still burning tonight. We are advised by telephone that the people are seen on roofs of buildings in the imperiled square and that they were jumping from one structure to another, keeping safely away from the flames. The water at this time had receded to about five feet in that part of the city.

"The appeal came over the telephone to the state house that unless boats were sent at once from some part of the stricken district, the human loss would be tremendous. This evening develops the fact that the rescue from this square was complete.

"The Beckel hotel immediately across the street was on fire at noon, but the flames were put out. Howard, from the Home telephone building, reported that the roof of the Beckel house was blazing with people standing guard over their safety point. South of the stricken square is another wholesale section, and it developed that about thirty-five women and children were in several of the buildings.

Flames Leap Across Street.

"About 3 o'clock the flames leaped across Third street and attacked the square bounded by Third, Fourth, Jefferson and St. Clair streets. Low Brothers paint store was destroyed and another tremendous sacrifice in human life was imminent. Fifteen men in the Home telephone service succeeded however in rescuing the women and children by the aid of a block and tackle, getting them into the Beaver Power building, a fireproof structure where they are tonight.

"Instructions have been given from Columbus to the militia in the southern part of Dayton to give vigilant eye to the fire district, and if the flames start in the direction of the Home Telephone building and the Beaver Power building to risk passage through the turbulent river which is now running through the city, with boats.

"Tomorrow morning at daylight fifty boats will go into the business district of the South Park. The naval militia with 100 boats leaves Toledo tonight.

"We are unable to get any accurate idea of the loss of life at Hamilton. Both that place and Middletown are so completely isolated that we fear for the worst.

"In Columbus the situation has improved. The Scioto is receding. It is feared that when the waters have left the western part of the city, a considerable loss of life will be revealed. Almost within sight of the capitol building three men, two women and a child, have been hanging to a tree for over twenty-four hours, and yet the waters are too swift to make their rescue possible.

COMMITTEE NOT AGREED

in aid of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers.

Cigarette Bill Favored.

The house committee on commerce and retail trade recommended for passage the Westlake bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors and licensing cigarette dealers.

The house temperance committee killed the bill allowing saloons in first class cities to remain open till midnight.

The Reed anti-snuff bill was snuffed out when it was returned to its author at the request of the committee on commerce and retail trade.

The house labor committee recommended the passage of the Campbell bill limiting hours of labor of street car employes to ten, to be included in twelve consecutive hours.

The house judiciary committee introduced a bill exempting land contracts from the mortgage registry tax.

The house grain committee today was hearing President Fred B. Wells of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce in relation to the cleaning and mixing of grain. He told the committee that the Canadian government is adopting this method in the interest of the producers of grain.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

rescue work were optimistic today and ventured the opinion that the loss of life in the West Side bottoms would prove slight, possibly not more than twenty or thirty.

Twins Born.

In the Methodist church on the West Side today a woman rescued from the bottoms gave premature birth to twins. The only physician available was a victim of the morphine habit. What, with the horror of his duty and his inability to secure more of the drug, he went insane and after making three unsuccessful attempts to jump from a window, was placed in a straightjacket.

Diseases arising from unsanitary conditions and the exposure of the flood victims already threaten to claim a greater toll than the waters. Five women rescued and taken to Tomlinson hall are suffering from pneumonia and cases of whooping cough and measles were discovered among the refugees.

Those suffering from contagious diseases were removed at once and inspectors from the city board of health aided by corps of nurses detailed from various hospitals of the city, set to work to prevent exposure of the refugees to contagion and to take care of the other sick.

Governor Ralston today received an urgent call from Logansport for troops to aid in rescue work and patrolling the city.

CONFLUENCE OF RIVERS AT DAYTON

None of the three rivers that flow through Dayton is of great size, but the city lies on ground so low and level that it is necessary to wall all of them with levees. The center of the city—Third and Main streets and the union station, but four blocks away—is higher than Riverdale to the north and that part of the city lying west of the Big Miami. The northwest portion —Dayton View—and the southeast portion, where the National Cash Register plant stands, are the only sections on higher ground. It is to these points that the refugees undoubtedly have fled. The railroad bridge just west of the union station, which spans the Big Miami, was blown up by the authorities in the hope that the torrent would more nearly confine itself to the channel.

that portion believed to have burned.

Sixty Motor Boats on Way.

Word was received early today that sixty motor boats with men to operate them were coming from Cleveland and a few from Cincinnati.

Unless conditions become worse, it is believed, practically all of the submerged section can be explored today. That conditions will improve is not assured, however.

Reports today from the vicinity of Lewiston were that the huge reservoir was expected to break any minute. A high wind was blowing water over the banks, and dams were weakening, and Lewiston people were fleeing from their homes for high ground.

Lewiston is seventy miles from Dayton, but it is predicted here that if the reservoir there gives way a worse flood than has overwhelmed the city will sweep down upon the inhabitants now fighting for life. Should this catastrophe come before the water now hemming in thousands subsides enough to allow boats to get to the stricken people, it is predicted that it will be impossible to reach them for days.

Most of them have been exposed to a cold, penetrating wind, driving rain before it, since Tuesday noon. Early today there was snow and a decided drop in the temperature.

Martial Law Prevails.

The city was proclaimed under martial law yesterday afternoon. Last night, a thief was caught robbing homes of flood victims who had been taken to refuge stations. He was shot to death by state guardsmen, doing patrol duty.

Persons taken from flooded homes have been well cared for.

Although all grocery stores outside the flooded area sold out their stocks yesterday afternoon, food soon was suppiled by other cities. Doctors and nurses have been rushed from nearby towns and today Dayton waits to succor its unfortunate and care for its dead. Fearing that in the event the flood should subside enough to allow men and teams to make their way to the fire they would prove ineffectual to combat such a conflagration as seems to be raging, Vice Mayor Huber early this morning called upon nearby towns for fighting apparatus and dynamite with which to blow up buildings surrounding the fire.

BLIZZARD RAGES IN FLOOD DISTRICT

Lessens Flood Dangers But Hampers Work of the Rescuers.

Lima, Ohio, March 27.—A blizzard is raging throughout the flood district this morning, hampering the work of relief for the flood sufferers. While the cold has lessened the flood, it has added greatly to the misery of the victims.

Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—Snow added to terrors of the elements today. Hundreds of refugees are being taken out of the Hickory street houses. The weather is bitter cold, adding to the suffering of those who have been trapped on the top of their homes since the levees broke. Fire is sweeping almost the entire downtown district. The flames are leaping hundreds of feet into the air. The conflagration has destroyed several blocks in the heart of the business section as indicated from observation taken early from the roof of the National Cash Register building.

MINIMUM STILL PLACED AT 1,500

Loss of Life Will Reach That Figure and May Go to 4,000.

Chicago, March 27.—Estimates of the loss of life by floods in Ohio and Indiana were still inaccurate early today, though 1,500 was placed as the minimum by the most conservative. Other estimates, which included rumors of large loss of life in towns and districts shut off from communication, run as high as 4,000.

Governor Cox of Ohio said late last night that it was believed more than 1,000 persons had perished in Dayton alone, and that the loss of life in other parts of the state might increase the total to 2,000 or even more.

The latest report from Piqua, Ohio, placed the number of dead there at 500, but there has been no verification of this report.

Fires were raging in various parts of Dayton all night, and it is feared that many of those marooned in buildings in the inundated district were burned to death.

The waters in most of the flooded districts are receding, but there is great difficulty in reaching the refugees in buildings, on account of the swift current.

Many gasoline launches have been rushed into the flooded district, and it is expected that many persons will be rescued today.

In Indiana estimates of the total number of dead run all the way from 200 to 1,000.

Ohio Rising Fast.

Cairo, Ill., March 27.—The Ohio river here has passed the flood stage of 45 feet and now is creeping over many acres of lowlands. The stage this morning was 45.6 feet.

Terre Haute Paralyzed.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 27.—Light and transportation facilities were paralyzed today. The stage of the river is 31 feet 6 inches and business is at a standstill. The electric light and gas plants have closed. Street cars stopped entirely. Four thousand persons homeless as the result of the flood which is steadily spreading.

Woman's Realm

Statements made by Miss Cora Overt, matron of the Bethel home, yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Women's Aid Society of the Lakeside Presbyterian church held at the church parlors, regarding white slavery, were astounding. She spoke of the good which has already been accomplished in the fight against the "white plague" and urged equal vigilance and action against the "black plague." She said: "Segregation is incubation. It is a recruiting station, a radiating center, and there should be a big fight against it."

Mrs. M. Cruickshank, superintendent of the municipal lodging house, spoke of that place as "a home which is a temporary place of refuge for women, girls and children who are adrift and homeless until they can be taken care of or their cases properly disposed of." One of the most difficult problems, she claims, is the finding of employment for a woman with a child, but at the home, housework and sewing are taught and the inmates are made to feel at home and that they are not receiving charity but have a right there.

Miss Edna Meeker of the Associated Charities thanked the women for the help they have given the society, saying that the aim is to give friendship to those who come to them for help, as well as charity.

OPEN MEETING.

Prisoners' Aid Society Will Meet at Y. M. C. A.

All men and women of Duluth interested in the work of the Prisoners' Aid society are urged to attend the meeting of that organization which will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Among the speakers will be Mrs. A. B. Siewert, who will read a report on the work done among prisoners during the year. Harvey S. Clapp will talk on "The Attitude of the Lawyer Toward the Prisoner." The need of a broader parole system will be discussed by Judge H. A. Dancer, and "Reform Rather Than Punishment," will be the topic of Rev. G. R. Gebauer. "The Right Attitude of Business Men Toward Released Prisoners," will be the subject of a talk by Judge Alfred Jaques.

SEX HYGIENE.

Dr. McCoy Urges Single Standard of Purity.

Dr. Mary McCoy spoke on "Sex Hygiene" yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the missionary societies of the First M. E. church, held in the church parlors, urging the women present to stand for the single standard of purity, and deploring the acceptance of the man who has "sowed his wild oats" when it is no more—justification for him than for a girl.

Following the talk, a general discussion was taken up by the women present and tea was served by Mrs. E. J. Robinson, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. J. H. Darling, Mrs. John C. Annand and Mrs. J. E. Bratton.

WILL VISIT DULUTH.

Laura Frankenfield Will Be Seen in "Madam X."

Miss Laura Frankenfield, one of the Duluth women who have met with success in dramatic work, who is playing this season in the title role of "Madam X," will be seen in Duluth in that part on May 1. She recently received a flattering offer to play the role of "Helena Richie" during the coming season in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," at a salary considerably higher than that she was receiving, but the manager of the "Madam X" company met the increase in order to keep her, guaranteeing her appearance in her home city this spring.

Miss Frankenfield's decided ability, especially in the heavier work, has won for her success and praise, well merited, and her friends here are anticipating with much interest her work in this play.

Wagnerian Music.

A Wagnerian recital will be given by the Smith & Allen company tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock at their store, 309 and 311 West First street. This is the tenth program in a series of free entertainments which they have been giving this winter and all interested are cordially invited to attend. Only numbers by this great composer will be played on victrola and pianola.

NEW TENOR HEARD IN OLD OPERA REVIVED

PAUL ALTHOUSE.

General Director Gatti Casazza of the Metropolitan Opera House has given New York a new opera and a new tenor on the same night. The new opera was Moussorgsky's "Boris Godounce" and the tenor was Paul Althouse, an American singer. The opera was a sensational success. Written forty years ago, it shows a disregard for conventional form which was in tint day no less than revolutionary. Since Wagner waited so long for appreciation, it is not surprising that Moussorgsky did not come into his own for nearly half a century.

Temple Assembly.

The Easter ball of the Temple assembly which will be held this evening at the ballroom of the Masonic Temple, promises to be one of the largest affairs of the week, as it is an "open party" and invitations have been extended to friends of the members.

Weston-Gardner.

The marriage of Miss Mary Weston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Weston, who left recently for Hemit, Cal., to reside, to Nathaniel Gardner of Virginia, Minn., will take place at the home of the bride's parents on April 2. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner will arrive in Virginia by April 20 and will be at home at that city at 314 Larch street after May 1.

STUDENTS' CONCERT.

Miss Harris Will Present Piano Pupils in Recital.

Miss Edna Z. Harris will present a number of her pupils in her annual piano students' concert on Monday evening of next week at the Young Women's Christian association assembly hall at 8:15 o'clock. A well arranged program has been prepared and assisting will be Miss Agnes May Johnson, reader, and Miss Loretta O'Gorman, soprano. The following pupils will appear on the program: Vivian Hambly, Cecil McKercher, Ruth Olson, Mildred Sanders, Rosalie Haddad, Ella McKercher, Raymond Brenton, Myrtle Nelson, Esther Pearson, Evelyn Olson, Lila Palmer, Alice Little, Victor Little and Thomas Little, Mildred Palmer, James Gray, Ruth Strickland, Lillian Gronseth, Ruth Gronseth, Inez Richards, Marguerite McCullough, Carolyn Bartholdy, Oget Wannebo, Stella Wolthausen, Alma Forsell, Selena Carlson, Mina Macaskill and Fanny Karon.

W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Jaques Will Talk to Central Union.

The regular meeting of the Central Women's Christian Temperance union will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Young Women's Christian association. Mrs. Alfred Jaques will speak on "Law Enforcement" and any women interested in joining the society are cordially invited to attend.

BANKERS HOSTS.

Large Number of Guests Enjoy Party.

One of the most enjoyable dancing parties of the season was given last evening by the members of the Duluth chapter of the American Institute of Banking, at Coffin's hall. A large number of invited guests danced a program of sixteen dances played by La Brosse's orchestra. The hall was pretty with potted plants and palms.

Recital at Conservatory.

The seventh recital of the season will be given tomorrow evening at the Flaaten Conservatory of Music by students of that school. An interesting program has been arranged which will commence at 8:15 o'clock sharp and all interested may secure tickets for the concert free at the conservatory office. The program follows:

Piano duet—Polonaise.....Horath
First piano, Christine Mainella.
Second piano, Ruth Flaaten.

At Bridge Party.

Mrs. A. C. Weiss, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. A. B. Wolvin won the prizes at the afternoon bridge party at which Mrs. C. E. Mershon was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home, 1730 East Superior street. The game was played at seven tables during the afternoon.

Afternoon Party.

Little Miss Portia Lugoff was hostess at an afternoon party yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lugoff, 1116 East Second street, in celebration of her 12th birthday anniversary. Sixteen girls were entertained with games, and pretty decorations of orange and white were effectively used throughout the rooms.

Drama Class Meeting.

Miss Frances Earhart will repeat her talk on Arthur Schnitzler tomorrow morning at the regular meeting of the modern drama class of the Twentieth Century club, which will be held at 10 o'clock at the guild hall of Trinity pro-cathedral. After the talk the reading of his play, "Light of Love," will be completed.

Concert at Church.

The concert planned by the Young Women's Missionary Society of the Lester Park M. E. church for two weeks ago, which was postponed on account of a storm, will be given tomorrow evening at the church. The Apollo quartet will appear and musical numbers and readings will fill the program.

Hostess to Club.

Mrs. A. M. Kreidler entertained the members of the United Spanish War Veterans' club at cards at Memorial hall, courthouse, yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. J. McMillan won high score. Mrs. F. J. Small will be the hostess at the meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

Lodge Party.

Mrs. J. H. McGilvray and Mrs. Bailey will be the hostesses at a card party which will be given tomorrow evening at the Maccabee hall for the members and friends of Duluth lodge, No. 110, Degree of Honor.

Birthday Surprise.

Miss Mamie Johnson was pleasantly surprised last evening by a number of her friends in celebration of her 14th birthday anniversary. Music and games were features of the evening, followed by a lunch served to the following guests:

Misses—
Ethel Akerman, Blanche Benson,
Florence Benson, Ubba Iceberg,
Elise Johnson, Ruth Biorgensen,
Ruth Lent, Florence Messler,
Ruth Nyman, Louise Olson.

Company C Dance.

Members of Company C, Third Infantry, M. N. G., were hosts at the sixth of a series of monthly dancing parties last evening at the Armory which was attended by a large crowd. Flaaten's orchestra played for the dancing, and the hall was artistically decorated with flags and bunting. The committees in charge consisted of the following:

Sergeant A. W. Gasper, Private T. Galenean, Carl Haglund, G. W. Nagle, R. McIntyre, E. P. McCabe, J. A. Straus, E. G. Williams, W. F. Culligan, F. E. Smith, O. C. Norberg, M. Novack.

Decorating—Sergeant Robert Burke, chairman; P. G. Schultze, F. Zander, A. Budnick, C. A. Williams.

Refreshments—A. C. Nelson, chairman; R. Gosselin, A. F. Thompson, H. Krause.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Walter T. Wright has issued invitations for a bridge luncheon at her home, 230 North Fifteenth avenue east on Thursday afternoon of next week.

Church Meeting.

The Young Ladies' Guild of St. John's English Lutheran church will meet at the home of Miss Olga Shalgreen, 2322 West Third street tomorrow evening, March 28 at 8 p. m. All members urged to be present.

The Luther League of the German Lutheran church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Jacobson, 401½ East Fourth street.

DINNER PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Will Entertain for Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Anderson of 320 Mesaba avenue will entertain at a dinner party this evening at their home in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Benson and H. Gold of Minneapolis who are guests in Duluth this week attending the Sunday school convention. Mrs. Anderson has arranged a centerpiece of yellow daffodils in carrying out a color scheme of yellow and white for decorating and her other guests will be:

Messrs. and Mesdames—
Dr. L. A. Sukeforth, George R. Martin, W. L. Smithies.
Master Bruce Benson.

"Bunny Party."

Miss Marjorie Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Willis, 1526 East Third street entertained a number of her little friends at a "bunny party" yesterday afternoon the occasion being her 5th birthday anniversary. The decorations were carried out with little rabbits. The following little guests were present:

Vera Kingston, Alice Brugger,
Mildred Southwick, William Kingston,
Buddie De La Motte, Marguerite De La Motte,
Rosine Snyder, Dorothy Batchelor,
Genevieve Brugger, Louis Brugger,
Willard Wiseman, Alexander Kellam.

FOR CHARITY.

Raise Good Fund for Relief Work.

EVERYBODY LIKES "MINNESOTA" SPAGHETTI

Those Duluth housekeepers, who are often puzzled about meals, should serve the deliciously appetizing "Minnesota" Spaghetti at least twice each week.

The whole family, and the men folks particularly, will like the delicious flavor of "Minnesota" Spaghetti, and it gives them strength and vitality without overloading the stomach. It is much better than so many heavy meals of meat.

And, besides, "Minnesota" Spaghetti is so easy to prepare and you make a big saving in household expenses if you serve it often—it costs only about one cent a dish.

Insist on "Minnesota" Spaghetti—made from the VERY-BEST DURUM wheat with ALL the nourishing Gluten left in. Adv.

CLAN STEWART MEMBERS ENJOY CONCERT AND DANCE

Members of Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans, and their families, required every foot of room in Foresters' hall last evening for the musical and literary entertainment held there under the auspices of the clan. It was the general belief that a hall twice the size could have been filled had it been available.

Last night's program, besides including many of the familiar Scotch songs, which seem to grow dearer to the people of that nationality the more they are sung, also contained several entirely new features.

An original musical composition, "Stafford's Reel," by R. C. Stafford of Minneapolis, was rendered by Mr. Stafford himself with a violin, while Alexander Melrose accompanied at the piano. This number, like every other, was followed with calls for an encore.

Mr. Melrose probably contributed more to the success of the entertainment than any other participant. His character song, "My Dear Little Wife and I," was one of the chief hits of the evening. The same, however, might just as well be said of his appearance in feminine costume as "Mrs. Murphy," proclaiming her business in the song "Apples and Pears," which told just why and how she peddled them. In response to calls for an encore he danced the "Irish Washerwoman's Jig."

Prominent also among the entertainers was J. C. Batchelor, who after rendering "The Auld Scotch Sangs" as a vocal solo, gave as an encore, "Sandy Come from Skye." That, too, was followed with prolonged applause and he responded with "Bonnie Mary Frae Argyleshire," the audience joining in the chorus. It was no unusual thing, when a familiar song was rendered by one of the participants on the program, for the audience to take up the refrain.

Robert Mowbray was on hand with his bagpipes and Highland costume. He played the opening number of the program, and also accompanied the dancing of the "Highland Fling" by little Miss Marion Gow.

Another decidedly juvenile entertainer was 5-year-old Willis Peer, who sang "Ye Banks and Braes" and "Scots Wha Hae." There were also others on the program who were by no means grown-ups. Miss Elizabeth McDonald rendered a vocal solo, "On the Banks of Loch Lomond," and being called upon for an encore, sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye." Miss Adelene Melrose rendered "We'd Better Bide a Wee' and as an encore, "The Rose of Annandale." Ronald Myron gave a piano solo and was promptly called back to give another.

A vocal solo by Miss Dorothy Close, with violin and piano accompaniment, was greeted with prolonged applause and she then sang, "Good Bye, Annie Laurie." John Galbraith sang "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" and followed this with "A Wee Doch an' Doris" (a wee drink at the door) as an encore. James C. Myron sang "Angus McDonald" and being called back rendered "If Ye Saw Her Ye Would Love Her."

A reading, "Cock and Jennie," was given by Miss Lillian Baxter. Another was immediately demanded, and she rendered "Cuddle Doon."

The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing to music of bagpipes, piano and violin.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Men Who Are Really "Henpecked" Are Comparatively Few.

I have a friend who has occasionally remarked that such and such a man was afraid of his wife. "Nonsense," I have always said, "I'd like to see a man who is really and truly afraid of his wife. Now and then you see a henpecked individual who gives in, in small matters, rather than endure a lot of talk, but when it comes to the big things he usually will have his way, suffering the consequences, whatever they may be."

But my friend has always stood by his assertions, and promised that he would some day prove to me that men who were afraid of their wives really existed. While he has never made his promise good, I accidentally stumbled across a man who is afraid of his wife, I truly believe.

Unlike the henpecked husband of the comic pictures, this man is not sparse of hair, weak in the knees or of small stature. On the contrary, he is a giant in size, and to all outward appearances he shows no sign of weakness. But if his wife were to tell him to take off his shoes in the vestibule and come into the house in his stocking feet, he would do it without demurring in the least. He would do it if he were bringing the president of the United States home with him to dinner, and would make him wait while he obeyed his wife.

Before he married, this man had numerous friends. Now he has friends, but they are not the old friends, not the friends of his youth or of his choice. They are his wife's friends. She selects them for him, and he has to accept them whether he likes them or not. He dares not mention the names of his former companions, and as for bringing them home with him, he would just as soon think of bringing a canary bird home and, after setting it free, shut it in with the cat. He doesn't dare more than to speak to the young women he knew in days gone by. His wife, however, has retained all her own friends, men and girls alike, and he is forced to accept the situation, whether he likes it or not. He is afraid of his wife if ever a man was.

But this man is only the exception that proves the rule. There are others like him, but they are rare, outside the funny supplements. And, as for the wives of these few, surely they are objects of contempt, not only to the friends of the husbands, but to the friends of their own sex. No one likes to see either man or woman held in subjection by the partner in life. The man who is henpecked, however, probably deserves to be if he hasn't spunk enough to throw off his yoke.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MARCH 30.

Review of the Quarter.

FOREWORD.

We have gone over a large space of time, have studied the beginning of the earth, of man, of sin, of a new world after the flood, of a new nation whose mission it was to prepare a people to receive the Messiah and introduce Him to the rest of the world.

LESSONS.

1. MAKING THE WORLD. Gen. i., 1-31—This is not science, it is history. The business of science is to learn the nature of the material God used and the method He employed. It has been doing that ever since. This is the account the Hebrews kept under the superintendence of God. Other nations kept their records and we see striking points of similarity with this. This, however, is so pure, true and rational and free from superstition we know now that God aided them in making and preserving the records.

The teachings of this lesson are that God was the originator of the world; that it was first chaotic, that the stages of creation were orderly, as the scientists also are now showing, till lands emerged and vegetable and animal life were created, then man as the crown of creation. The form in which it is all set forth first makes the impression that it was instantaneous, but I think now, with our scientific point of view to begin with, one would get the idea of an unfolding.

2. THE FIRST MAN. Gen. ii., 4-25.—The teachings about man are that he was made in the image of God, which means personality—the power of knowing himself and determining his own actions; that the body was made of the earth and we are now told that it was developed through lower forms to its present status, all under God's creative guidance; that man was male and female, both of them necessary to the whole being, man, the integer; that man was given a commission to rule all the other creatures and enjoy his position over the works of God's hands; that all of them seemed fitted to give him pleasure and render him service; that God gave them everything heart could wish and made only one reservation—they must not eat of one tree. That was to give them a chance to choose whether the innocence in which they were created should become virtue and be permanent. It is called the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, because by disobeying God and eating of it they would learn evil by doing it rather than by doing exactly right. The terms in which both God and the man speak of the woman show the unity and intimacy of the two.

3. FIRST SIN. Gen. iii.—It was sin of the will, man's choice, doing something strictly forbidden. The only way for him to make his original innocence his own and incorporate it in his nature is to get control of himself so as to be able to do right in the face of temptation. Here are the ideal conditions for the test. The man has a nature unsoiled by chosen sin, has everything to gratify him, has every possible inducement to get his will into harmony with God's wishes and make God's choice his own; on the other hand he has the utmost temptation, something to pique his curiosity, the shrewdest being to ply the temptation, is exposed on his most vulnerable side in the person of his wife. To her curiosity, appetite, sense of beauty, thirst for forbidden knowledge, dislike of what she was told was injustice, vanity, the appeal is made. When she is won both fall. The results are an unwholesome knowledge of evil through doing instead of refusing it, cowardly rather than filial fear of God, resort to falsehood, attempt to shirk responsibility; and those sins continue together with a brood of others they have brought forth. The penalty was added privation, sorrow, laborious work, a torturing conscience, subsequent disobedience of their children and discord in their home.

4. FIRST MURDER. Gen. iv., 1-15.—The children were not wholly bad. Some good was in them, as in the father and mother, and they were probably penitent, especially the woman. They probably taught the children the promise of a descendant who should take revenge on the serpent. The evil is embodied in Cain who went through the forms of worship by offering a present to God from his farm, for he was a farmer; the good in Abel who caught the spirit of worship and confessed his sins with suitable sacrifice. The former was angry at being rejected, deliberately invited his brother out to the fields and killed him, as much to Abel's surprise as was King George of Greece at being shot by the assassin. His penalty was a sullen soul that resorted to lying and repudiation of responsibility, banishment from his native soil and enmity towards all men. But God gave him protection by putting on him a sign so that the next of kin should not take vengeance on him and kill him.

5. THE FLOOD. Gen. vi., 9-22.—Two streams of character flowed from the original source, one in the line of Cain, the other in the line of Seth and Enoch. The former were called daughters of men, the latter sons of God. The latter married among the former and all their descendants were corrupted save one family. To leave them alone was to lose that family, in time. To destroy all the rest and start with that family is the only way to have any good people at all. Besides the remarkable testimony of that one man while building the ark might have great weight with the rest. The constant and unflinching faith of Noah, his long residence in the ark during the forty days of the rain and the months of waiting for the subsidence of the waters, his skill and self mastery mark him as great.

6. GOD AND NOAH. Gen. viii. 8-17.—This promise involves several things for him and all his descendants—no other destruction of all flesh by a flood; the rainbow, so familiar to them, to be a token of it so that whenever they are alarmed by a rain storm they could have a sign of the promise before their eyes; a tender thought in God's memory about them forever.

7. A NEW NATION. The call of Abraham. Gen. xii. 1-9.—It is necessary to have somebody to live for that promise of a Messiah which has been repeated again and again. The man to found that nation is of the highest importance. He must have the type of character that the Messiah himself will require and impart, must answer to God with trusting confidence and unhesitating obedience. He finds the very man over in Chaldea, a descendant of Shem. The man shows those two qualities and the others that accompany by leaving home and going obediently to the land chosen for him, notwithstanding the distance, his advancing years and the enemies in the way.

8. ABRAM AND LOT. Abram's noble unselfishness. Gen. xiii. 1-18.—Lot followed him more or less as an adventurer and got the blessings which Abraham received. Both were prosperous, and when their flocks were too thick and their herdsmen quarrelled, the latter gave him choice between the two sections of land. The young man showed his selfishness by taking the richer section and lost all that was worth living for.

9. EXPLICIT COVENANT. Abraham honored. Gen. xv, 5-18.—Abraham has been doing just what God had been telling him a long time and now God honors that fidelity by throwing more light on his mission and giving loving pledges to fulfill His word. His word is really enough but He descends to the man's level. His faith had in it the germ of fidelity and God already gave him credit for the righteous life he was going to lead. He answered the question the man asked and used the usual covenant method, the two walking down the lane made by the separated parts of the sacrifices.

10. SODOM. Gen. xix, 12-29.—It was hopelessly bad. It would be a kindness to destroy it before it spread disease abroad. If there had been enough good men in it God would have spared it, on Abraham's request. He talked to Abraham about it, as a friend. He came to see, though He knew, but would give them the benefit of the suggestion. It was with difficulty He got Lot and his family out. Lot was the only one really good. The bitumen and gases were used to burn the city. They were probably ignited by lightning and there was an upheaval, perhaps.

11. TESTING ABRAHAM. Gen. xxii. 1-19.—After the years of training comes the ultimate testing. If he meets this test he can be trusted anywhere. He goes through the mental process of sacrificing his son, with all the loss of hopes involved. Other men offered their sons to their gods; he will do as God says. There were no higher heights of sacrifice ahead of him.

12. ISAAC. Gen. xxiv.—We omitted this lesson last Sunday to take a lesson on the resurrection. Isaac showed as good a faith as his father in being willing to be offered. He is equipped with a wife from the right race. His career will interest us very much for he is in the line of the chosen nation.

NO HOPE OF CHEAPER MEAT.

President of Union Stock Yards Says Supplies in This Country Are Steadily Decreasing.

There is no hope for materially lower prices of meats in the near future.

Such is the statement given out by Arthur G. Leonard, president of the Union Stock Yards company at Chicago. Mr. Leonard says that the shortage of meat has gradually been increasing during the last six or seven years, and it will be at least that long before, by careful work, the industry may be built up. Even then the increase of population will have a counteracting effect and the same conditions may exist.

Mr. Leonard's statement follows a telegram of inquiry addressed to him by Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league, at New York. Mrs. Heath says that the retailers state that they are unable to account for the sudden jump. "The league," she says, "awaits your answer before going further."

Mr. Leonard answered the telegram with another, as follows:

"Replying to your telegram, the receipts of the market for the year to date as compared with the corresponding period of 1912 show a decrease of 121,600 cattle and calves, 200,000 hogs and 225,000 sheep, a total decrease of 546,600 meat animals, amounting to a shortage of 200,000,000 pounds for the period. I think this fully answers your question."

Commenting on the matter, Mr. Leonard said to a Chicago newspaper correspondent:

"Within only the last year there has been a decrease of one pound of meat per capita per month in the United States. This may not seem alarming to the average person, but it is the basis for the high prices now existing. "One of the main reasons for the shortage of cattle is the cuting up of the range country into smaller tracts. "Intensive or irrigation farming is playing an important part in the wiping out of the cattle grazing country.

"It is time for us to conserve other things besides public lands. More vital is the immediate question of food. The packers are doing their best to encourage cattle raising and to improve the quality."

Frederick R. Burrows, manager of the National Packing company, made the following comment on the meat shortage:

"The people must economize on the amount of meat they consume. We are becoming a nation of meat eaters.

"There is no question that the nation faces a serious problem in the shortage of meats. The receipts have been gradually decreasing for several years. Cheap meat has disappeared from the market."

by track connection, and the use of each other's tracks, platforms, warehouses, docks, etc.

The only provisions are that the connections and facilities asked for must be practicable, and that the road required to concede them shall be given adequate compensation by the road or roads to which facilities are conceded.

Somewhat similar requirements are made by the present law, but the Cheadle bill strengthens the existing provisions, and provides for such extensions of facilities between railroads a mile apart where the present law applies only to railroads 500 feet part.

Senator D. M. Gunn of Grand Rapids introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon a bill requiring railroads to make connections with municipal power plants in any community owning such a plant.

Would Make It Mandatory.

Senator Julius A. Coller of Shakopee yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill proposing a constitutional amendment making reapportionment mandatory upon the legislature at the session of 1923 and every ten years thereafter.

While nobody can read all of the provisions of the present constitution without perceiving that the plain intent of them was to make it mandatory upon the legislature to reapportion whenever a census, state or national, discloses inequalities in the representation, the language is not definite, and the legislature always has acted upon the presumption that the function of reapportionment is permissive, not mandatory.

The adoption of Senator Coller's amendment would remove this question beyond all possibility of future debate.

Another bill introduced by Senator Coller proposes an amendment to the Constitution providing that the senate shall be limited to forty-five members and the house to 105. These senators and representatives are to be distributed according to population, except that so far as practicable each county is to have at least one member of the house.

Both bills were referred to the reapportionment committee.

Canal to Stillwater.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the Harrison-Vollmar joint resolution asking congress to make a survey of the proposed 10-foot canal from Lake Superior by way of the Brule and St. Croix rivers to Stillwater and the Mississippi at St. Paul, and directing the state government to investigate the commercial feasibility of the plan.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth opposed the resolution on the ground that the plan it proposes is impracticable and not commercially justified.

Senator George H. Sullivan assumed the role of Proctor Knott No. 2 in an intentionally mock-heroic speech in reply to Senator Cheadle's attack on the resolution.

"I must admit that this measure is mine," said Senator Sullivan, "and I am compelled to tear the mask from its face and expose it as a conspiracy to wrest from Duluth its proud position as the head of navigation on the Great Lakes, and to give that position to the beautiful city of Stillwater, leaving Duluth a mere obscure way station."

The resolution was adopted, 41 to 2, only Senators Cheadle and Coller voting in the negative.

Senator Coller gravely explained that while he had favored the proposition, since he had discovered that Senator Sullivan's purpose was to commit such a larceny as he described, he was compelled to vote against it.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the Cheadle bill allowing Cook county to vote bonds up to $100,000, when authorizde by a vote of the people, to aid in constructing a railroad to connect Grand Marais, the county seat, with the line of the Alger-Smith railroad.

The Spooner bill directing the state board of control to proceed to the manufacture of farm implements and any other articles not in competition with the free labor of the state passed the senate yesterday afternoon, and now goes to the governor for his signature.

The bill provides for taking $250,000 from the new prison revolving fund to be used for this purpose.

Support of Insane Patients.

Under a bill by Senator H. N. Benson of St. Peter, which passed the senate yesterday afternoon, counties would be required to pay $10 a month toward the support of their patients in the state hospitals and asylums for the insane. The counties may collect this money from the relatives of the patients, if they are able to pay.

At present the state carries the full burden of caring for the insane, and the state board of control has repeatedly charged that this service is greatly abused.

Senator Benson, speaking for his bill, said that all but six states in the Union have some such provision as he proposes. He said that there are many patients in the hospitals now who could be cared for by relatives and would be if the state were not so generous. Many of them are old people who are merely childish, and who wouldn't be there at all if their relatives had to pay for their keep.

Senator Clague said that the Benson bill would reduce the population of the insane hospitals by from 300 to 500 patients, and would obviate the need of a new hospital, which the board of control is asking for if this bill is not passed, for several years to come.

Senator Saugstad and others opposed the bill on the ground that it would be a burden on the counties, and that it would serve to keep out of the insane asylums many who ought to be there, as county boards would not send them if the counties had to foot the bill. It was pointed out in answer to this criticism that the county boards have nothing to say about who is to go to the insane asylums. The bill passed 41 to 10.

Tonnage Tax Bill.

The house committee on taxes and tax laws yesterday afternoon decided to take up for final action Friday morning the Bjorge-Frankson-Dunn-Minette-Peterson bill imposing a tonnage tax of 1 cent a ton—for state purposes only, of course—on the franchises of mining corporations.

The bill is an attempt to reach in an indirect way what the tonnage tax advocates have failed to reach in a direct way at four successive sessions.

Two constitutional amendments by Bjorge, Frankson and H. H. Dunn, one proposing to legalize a tonnage tax and the other legalizing a multitude of other specific taxes, will be taken up for hearing Monday afternoon.

The committee will have a public hearing Friday afternoon on the Spooner bill taxing members in the Minneapolis chamber of commerce and the Duluth board of trade. Representatives of both bodies are expected to be here in opposition to the bill.

The committee decided to introduce a committee bill increasing the gross earnings tax on telephone companies from 3 per cent to 5 per cent.

To Change Marriage Laws.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the bill by Representative C. E. Southwick of Wells radically changing the marriage laws of the state. It abolishes the common law marriage.

It requires that five days must elapse between the issuance of a marriage license and the performance of the ceremony, and provides that in the meantime any interested party may protest against the marriage. Penalties are provided for those who protest maliciously and without true evidence to back them up.

It prohibits the issuance of licenses to girls under 15 or boys under 18, to imbeciles, insane people, habitual drunkards, those affected by venereal disease, those addicted to opium, morphine or cocaine, first cousins, and those who have been divorced within six months.

It allows girls between 15 and 18 and boys between 18 and 21 to marry with the consent of parents or guardians only.

It provides that the marriage of the parents legitimatizes children born out of wedlock.

Anti-Tuberculosis Bills.

The house put in nearly the whole afternoon considering anti-tuberculosis bills, and succeeded only in advancing to the calendar one bill—the Boyle-Froshaug senate bill authorizing counties to build and maintain tuberculosis sanitoria. The state is to pay half the bills. Where counties have already established sanitoria for tuberculosis, as have St. Louis and Ottertail counties, the state is to give $500 for each bed provided for patients. Two or more counties may join in creating such institutions.

Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota yesterday afternoon gave notice that some time today he would move to make the workingmen's compensation law a special order for an early date.

The senate yesterday afternoon adopted the report of the Saugstad-Rustad-Boyle special brewery investigation committee, presented some time ago.

The senate committee on game and fish yesterday afternoon introduced a bill providing that the black bass season shall open June 15 instead of May 29, north of the Forty-sixth parallel. This means north of a line drawn from Hinckley through Little Falls and Long Prairie to Elbow Lake. Below that line the season is to remain as at present.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

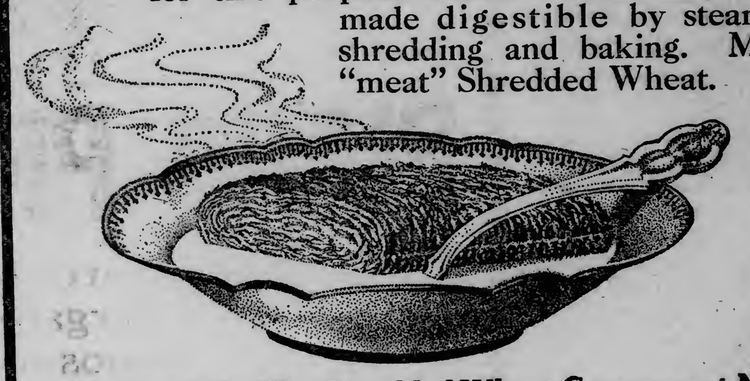
"THE SHORT BED" IS HIS THEME

Evangelist Robert Winston preached upon "The Short Bed" in the Christian church revival last night, using for his text, "For thy bed is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it and his covering, narrower than that a man can wrap himself in it."

He said in part: "The bed of self-righteousness is too short and the covering of morality too narrow. Any plan of salvation from sin that leaves Christ out is inadequate and insufficient. We boast of our loyalty to the ten commandments, yet we break them all in this modern era. Even if we kept them that would not itself be sufficient to save.

"The ten commandments were given to the Jews 2,500 years before Christ was born and Jesus is not mentioned nor suggested. How then can they save from sin? The ten commandments may be good things to live by, but mighty poor things to die by; they may give us standing with men, but of themselves do not give standing with God. No man can have standing with God except in Christ.

"Men say, 'But we keep what Jesus said was the greatest commandment, "Thou must love thy God with all thy heart and soul and mind and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."' But do you keep that? You say you love God and refuse the Son of God? If you honor God you will honor His Son; if you love God you will love His Son."



Tonight he will speak on "The Good Samaritan and Others" at Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

YOUR DOCTOR

doesn't know your stomach as well as you do—he hasn't lived with it as long as you have—but he will tell you that a well cooked cereal eaten every morning for breakfast will strengthen the digestive organs and keep the bowels healthy and active. And if he is wise he will recommend for this purpose because it is the whole wheat made digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking. Make your "meat" Shredded Wheat.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in the oven a few moments to restore crispness; then pour hot milk over it, adding a little cream; salt or sweeten to suit the taste. It is deliciously nourishing and wholesome for any meal with stewed prunes, baked apples, sliced bananas, preserved peaches, pineapple or other fruits. At your grocer's.

Made only by The Shredded Wheat Company at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Studebaker

"Young man, when you buy a buggy, be sure it's a Studebaker"

Sound advice from the man who has been driving one for twenty years.

When you buy a Studebaker buggy you are buying all the skill, experience and science in buggy building that half a century can produce. You are protecting yourself against the mistakes of younger builders.

You will always be proud of the Studebaker nameplate, for there isn't a buggy on the road that is its equal for style, luxury and good looks.

Flexible bent-reach gear, graceful lines, solid corner, plugless body, double-ironed shafts, are a few of the special Studebaker features.

The new close-fitting shifting rail is enough in itself to make you buy a Studebaker buggy.

"DICK" CULLEN, THE WHITE-MANED ORATOR OF THE BIG PINE WOODS, SCORES AGAIN BEFORE BIG CROWD

RICHARD CULLEN.

Richard Cullen, orator extraordinary, who gained fame and distinction last fall by holding enthralled an overflow crowd while Theodore Roosevelt was talking at the auditorium, has not lost any of his powers of eloquence.

Before the curtain went up at the Lyceum last evening, Mr. Cullen entertained and instructed the crowd that had gathered to hear P. E. Dowling.

Standing in the orchestra pit, his white hair brushed carefully back from his broad expanse of forehead, Mr. Cullen orated at length and with many vigorous gestures, on the evils that beset Duluth on every side.

"Why," he declared, his right hand outstretched at a well calculated angle of 45 deg., "Unless we elect to this commission men of ability and courage, every remaining foot of this magnificent water front from Allouez bay to the Dalles of the St. Louis and clear around to Two Harbors will be gobbled up by the greedy corporations."

"Hear! Hear!" came in chorus from 1,200 lusty throats.

"The selling of polson-water is responsible for the ruin of more young men, for the breaking up of more homes, for more despair and desolation than any single thing on this earth," orated Richard with perfervid mien, and the crowd again roared its approval.

"Wipe out this district that ruins young men and holds women in bondage," declared the Sage of the Pine Woods, and a round of applause sent him on to greater flights of oratory.

"The special interests will be satisfied with Dowling or Prince or Fay for mayor, the mayor will control the commission and then it'll be all off with the people," was the next contribution to the wisdom of the campaign. Richard swiped some of T. Roosevelt's stuff by illustrating a seesaw by a violent swinging of his body back and forth. The crowd called for more, but the white-haired orator to other men's crowds was content. Squaring his shoulders and assuming the serious attitude of a man upon whose shoulders rests the weight of nations, he walked majestically up the aisle to the plaudits of admiring hundreds.

Richard Cullen, orator extraordinary, had scored again.

DOWLING PAYS RESPECTS TO MEMBERS OF STIRRUP CLUB

"Self - Constituted Guardians of the Public" Are Roasted.

Candidate for Mayor Draws Great Crowd to the Lyceum.

P. E. Dowling accomplished an unusual feat last night. He packed the Lyceum for a municipal campaign meeting. Every seat on the main floor, in the dress circle and in the family circle was taken, and the S. R. O. sign was out.

Mr. Dowling promised fireworks, and he delivered. He toasted the Stirrup club members over the fire of his indignation, and then turned them over and roasted them over the flames of his civic spirit. He declared that law enforcement and the social evil have been paraded up and down in municipal elections for twenty years to blind the eyes of the people to real issues, and that municipal ownership, which was settled a year ago, has been added to the list. He commended the Commercial club for its late course, but said he was ready to start at it again if it should leave the right track. He denounced the railroads for discrimination against Duluth, and denounced the men who have sat quietly by and allowed the railroads to continue their discrimination. He made a plea for the election of good men for the commission, and wound up with the appeal, "For heaven's sake don't forget the first of April."

Respects to Stirrup Club.

"There are many good men in this contest," said Mr. Dowling in turning his guns on the Stirrup club. "I didn't think there were so many 'bad' men or so many 'dangerous' men as there are, if the evidence submitted can be believed. Probably a court would set aside that evidence, and I know no better court than the great court of public opinion.

"A few men have set themselves up to judge for the people of the qualifications of the candidates. Would you call it audacious? I know no term in the English language, that I can use here, that will really apply.

"The conscience of the public is a sacred thing, and why should a few men set themselves up as dictators to trample on it? Think of a grand old man like Bernard Silberstein, and those men say he is unfit to hold public office. W. I. Prince is a splendid man, and yet they say he is dangerous. Dr. Cullum gave the city about as good government as any of us could under the circumstances, and they besmirch his record.

"Your press and you people asked us to come out for office. You wanted good, clean men to become candidates for the commission, and good men did become candidates. Then fifteen or sixteen self-constituted guardians of the public dare to tell you you have no right to choose for yourselves; that the men you have induced to become candidates are dangerous men. I tell you frankly that I would not trust my coat around the corner with any of those who signed that report.

"All of the Stirrup club members are not men of that type. There are some good men in the club, but they picked up the crumbs and had the crumbs make up the report. The good men did not sign it.

Pioneer Days in Eveleth.

"They said that when I was mayor of Eveleth, I countenanced crime and left the saloons run open. I have never denied that. They say I have the backing of the saloons. I have never denied that. I want the backing of the saloons and I want the votes of the saloon men and I have no apologies to make for it. I will make no compromise with the saloons, but I do not claim to be bigger than the state of Minnesota and the state declares that the saloon is a legitimate business.

"Thirteen years ago when I was mayor of Eveleth, things on the Mesaba range were different than they are today. It was a pioneer situation. We didn't have the best people on earth. We had a lot of rough men of the frontier to assimilate. We didn't have a Sunday school seven days a week and we did have the saloons wide open and some unfortunate women on the outskirts of the town. The women were outside of my jurisdiction, and I didn't close the saloons.

"I'll tell you what I did do. The curse of the Mesaba range was gambling and we had about 200 gamblers in Eveleth. I and two other members of the council issued a proclamation one morning, giving the gamblers until 6 o'clock that evening to get out of Eveleth. It stuck. At 6 o'clock that night, there wasn't a gambler in Eveleth. It was the first time a blow had been struck at gambling on the Mesaba range, and Eveleth was about thirteen years ahead of Duluth in that.

"They said I didn't close the saloons. I didn't. If I had tried it I wouldn't have lasted twenty-four hours. They would have had a rope around my neck and have had me at the top of a tree.

"I served two terms in the state legislature. In those days there was plenty of money around the legislature, for those who were susceptible. I venture to say that if some of the Stirrup club members were there, they would not have served thirty days without stripes, to the everlasting shame of St. Louis county.

Assassins of Character.

"Think of the awfulness of the assassination of character. When you undertake to assassinate character, you undertake a terrible thing. When you take from a man or a woman his or her good name, you leave nothing. Think of the crime these men have committed. I am shocked that young men should be so foolish as to sign this report.

"Do you know that the total taxes of those who signed that report are $104 in personal property taxes? Seven of them have not even taken the trouble to register for this election. Six do not pay one cent in taxes.

"We have one of the most magnificent institutions in this city, built by the charity of the people, in order that the young men on a small salary may have a congenial place in which to live cheaply. Some of these men who signed their names at the head of the list, and I mention particularly I. K. Lewis, live on the charity of the people at the Y. M. C. A."

In opening his talk, Mr. Dowling urged on the citizens the necessity of keeping in touch with the municipal government after the commission is elected. He said there has been too much of a disposition to elect men to official position and then leave them to do as they would. He said the active co-operation of the citizens is necessary to make any government a success.

Some Things Not Issues.

Mr. Dowling said that he had been criticized for saying that some things are not issues in the campaign. In regard to the social evil, he said there is a wide difference of opinion as to the best methods of dealing with it. No city and no man truthfully say that there is any true solution of the question, he said. He urged the co-operation of the men and women of the city to deal with the subject with justice to everybody. He said he would not violate his oath of office, but he wanted to be sure of his ground before proceeding.

Mr. Dowling said that he hasn't met one saloon keeper or one hotel man who doesn't want the law enforced. He said the saloon keeper pays $1,000 for certain privileges, and if he is deprived of some of those privileges by favoritism or by blind-pigging, he is being robbed.

"If I am elected mayor, I will see that the sale of every form of intoxicants, in saloons or elsewhere, ceases except within the hours and under the conditions provided by law," he said.

"The municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant is absolutely no issue," said Mr. Dowling. "We have set our seal on that matter by our votes, and there will be no excuse for any man elected to fail to carry out the will of the people. There is politics being played here. Men are trying to cloud the situation so as to conceal the real issues. The men who are shouting the municipal ownership issue when there is no issue, might better be engaged in endeavoring to build up the city."

Building the City.

Mr. Dowling said that for many years he lived on the fringe of Duluth and watched for Duluth to grow. He said he helped Duluth in many ways on the Mesaba range. He said the real question now is "How are we going to build up this city?"

Mr. Dowling read a copy of the agreement between Governor John Lind and the Northern Pacific railroad on the occasion of the Northern Pacific taking over the St. Paul & Duluth, the railroad agreeing to abide by the state laws in regard to traffic and terminals. He said Duluth can own its own terminals by simple legislation.

"We must stop this hushing business and get busy," he said.

Mr. Dowling says that at the banquet to L. W. Hill, the business men of Duluth were asked three times what could be done for Duluth, and the word was out, "S-h-h-h-h! Don't say a word." At the recent banquet to Howard Elliott, the same program was to have been carried out, but F. A. Patrick broke away and told the truth.

"I could have gone miles to shake the hand of F. A. Patrick that next morning," said Mr. Dowling. "You owe him a cheer and you should give it now." He drew a round of applause.

"I would rather be mayor of Duluth for the next four years than congressman from this district, governor of this state or United States senator," said Mr. Dowling. "I see great things to be done and I would like to do them."

Mr. Dowling said that he has set forth the facts in regard to the Commercial club as he has seen them, not with any destructive idea, but for purposes of construction.

"There are many excellent men in the Commercial club, and there is more insurgency there than ever before," he said. "There is more action there. I hope the club will continue in that direction. We need such an organization to get into the game in this city, but it has gotten into bad hands. It is trying to do something now and if it succeeds, we will all rejoice. If it doesn't stand by its course, we shall have to start in again."

Mr. Dowling said that a committee of business men of Duluth, headed by the mayor, should go to New York and confer with President Farrell and other officials of the United States Steel corporation, offering to do what can be done for the company, and requesting in a manly way that the company do the right thing by Duluth. He said the commission should sit in conference at least every thirty days with the men and women of all classes in Duluth, so that the best methods may be worked out for the government of the city.

"If these things are impossible, I am a dreamer, and that's the worst you can say of me," he said.

Always Have MUSTEROLE in the House

Every family should have a jar of MUSTEROLE at hand.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment which takes the place of the old-fashioned mustard plaster and does not blister.

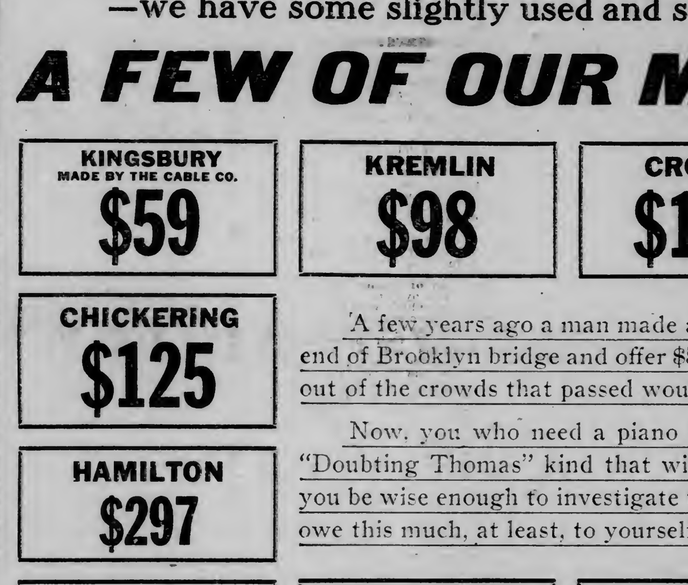
MUSTEROLE
WILL NOT BLISTER



Don't Be Wrecked By Drink Habit

If the craving for drink has become so much stronger than the will power that you cannot stop when you desire to do so, or find it necessary to abstain, you are a victim of drink habit and need the Neal Treatment.

Regular drinking of alcoholic liquors results in chronic alcoholic poisoning. Do not deceive yourself with the idea that because you only require one or two drinks a day to make you comfortable and able to transact business that you do not need treatment. The moderate drinker ultimately becomes the regular and excessive drinker, which means loss of everything worth living for.

The Neal Drink Habit Treatment which is administered at fifty-three Neal Institutes in the United States, Canada and Australia, will eliminate all alcohol from the system and neutralize its functional effect upon the body tissues in three days, without the use of painful, dangerous hypodermic injections.

Call or write the Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh street, Superior, Wis.; Minneapolis Institute, 403 South Seventh street; St. Paul Institute, 676 Dayton avenue.

THE HORRORS MULTIPLY.

Instead of being diminished as later information is received from the scene of disaster, the horrors of the Ohio and Indiana floods multiply with each day's developments. Nowhere, within recent years, outside of the terrible ravages by floods in the Chinese empire, has the world seen a duplicate of the scenes being staged at Dayton and other cities of the Middle West. In most of the disasters of this character a great portion of the area affected was farm land, and the loss of human life was comparatively small. Property damage in other cases has been less severe than in the present instance.

But today we see whole blocks of a populous and busy city submerged; business places and residences swept away or crumbling into the flood; human beings marooned in places of refuge that may topple from crumbling foundations at any moment; and as it all this were not sufficiently discouraging, the fire demon has seized upon the shelters of the refugees, leaving their inmates only the poor choice of perishing in the flames or dying in the icy water.

Probably the full list of the dead in the floods will never be known. Some who went unnoticed to the scene that was so rapidly turned into one of disaster will simply have disappeared, and there will be nothing to tell of their fate. And of the property losses it will be impossible to form any just estimate.

Men cannot but gaze aghast at such havoc as this. Ready sympathy is extended instantly to the suffering, and substantial aid is already being secured for them in this and other cities. At least the people who are undergoing the horrors of the Dayton disaster can know that there will be no lack of all that human endeavor can do to lighten their burden.

The reformed spelling agitators are demanding that we all spell knit without the k. They thereby furnish the popular answer to their own proposal.

A STATE COMMISSION?

Governor Hodges of Kansas has made the suggestion that the government of that state be revised so that it will be vested in an executive body and a commission of lawmakers. The plan is not entirely original with Governor Hodges. It has been suggested in many different quarters since the commission plan has been found to succeed in municipal affairs. Indeed, a bill for a constitutional amendment to provide such a government in Minnesota has been introduced at St. Paul.

There is much to be said for the idea of state government by commission, both from the point of efficiency and that of economy. This is especially true as concerns the legislative feature.

Compare, for instance, the possibilities that would lie in a commission government for Minnesota as contrasted with the present arrangement. Under the present plan of government in this state the legislature meets once in two years, spends ninety days in actual session, and in that time enacts a vast number of laws. At the present session some 2,000 bills have been introduced. If the 1913 legislature follows the example of its predecessors, the probabilities are that about 1,500 of those bills never will get past the committee stage. And in the case of most of them the state will be none the worse off for that fact, and would have been none the worse off had they never been introduced. It is a weakness of legislators that they introduce bills merely for the purpose of showing themselves to be active participants in the affairs of the session, and of getting a little personal attention for what they do.

Contrast that situation with the possibility of a commission of say eight men, who remain at the capital all the year round. They would have no need of haste in their actions, and they would be in a position to secure accurate and complete information as to the needs of the state. They might not actually enact a dozen laws in any one year, and yet could cover in that space all the needs of the commonwealth. And they would not have their time taken up with personal campaigns for publicity or long and wordy debates over insignificant points.

When it comes to the financial feature of the proposal the possibilities of the commission plan as applied to the state are even more impressive. If eight commissioners were chosen, they should be paid, perhaps, about $4,000 apiece for each year of service, and allowed possibly as much more for clerk hire and such work. That would make $8,000 apiece, or a total of $64,000 for the whole commission. There would be no need of many of the accessories that have to be allowed to legislators.

As compared with this we have the expense of the legislative session of 1911 of $317,981.41. The extra session of 1912 cost the state $12,034.10, and the publication of the laws enacted at the extra session cost an additional $9,980.67, making a total expense to the state of $339,996.18 for the two years, or $169,998.09 for each of the two years of 1911 and 1912. Had we had the commission plan in force this expense would have been reduced more than 50 per cent, in all probability, and the state would have been in a position to command even better service than it can under the present arrangement.

There are, of course, details of the plan, such as the question of executive authority for the commissioners, that are not included in this rough suggestion. But on the face of it the idea of a commission to look after at least the legislative matters appears to have many advantages. At any rate it is worthy of receiving some thought.

The White House tennis courts are being restored, and naturally the public will be keenly interested in knowing whether any love games are played there.

ADRIANOPLE HAS FALLEN.

If there has been any doubt, since the resumption of hostilities after the futile London conference, as to the outcome of the war between Turkey and the Balkan allies, that doubt has been removed by the surrender of Adrianople.

Intimations have come to the outer world from time to time of fearful conditions within the beleaguered city. It has been more or less plain for many weeks that the one great factor in determining the Turks to maintain what seemed to be a hopeless defense was the sacred character with which they invested the former Moslem capital. One shudders to think what must have been the conditions that forced even the fanatical Turks to surrender what they have long regarded as the headquarters of their faith.

That the war will long continue now that Adrianople has fallen, nobody will believe. As far as the actual captures in the city are concerned the victory promises to be inconsequential for the allies. The Turkish commander apparently took good care that no stores or other things of value should be left to fall into the hands of the conquerors. Furthermore, the occupancy of the city is certain to be fraught with the greatest personal peril for the troops and officers of the allies, for the Turks will not tamely watch their conquerors go about the place. Bloody scenes are certain to be enacted in the streets.

But the fact remains that the historic city has been formally given up to the enemy, and it is impossible to believe that the war can continue much longer.

Whether the capture of Adrianople will have a tendency to persuade the great powers that the demands of the allies should be acceded to in the framing of a peace treaty is yet to be seen. It would seem that there must be some such effect. Yet, so complicated is the European political situation, that even this effect is uncertain. The Balkan allies have accomplished something that for many months was regarded as impossible, and have won for their arms a name and fame that never can be forgotten.

And now for a generous slice of March lamb, if you please.

WORK FOR THE ERRING.

Some interesting sidelights on life in the county jail are promised at tonight's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building of the Duluth Prisoners' Aid society. Reports will be given on the work done in the last year.

The active members of the society are directing their efforts to the education of prisoners in the county jail, and to finding work for those who are released from that institution. The purposes of the society are beyond question, and those interested in work of that kind, whether from humanitarian or sociological motives, should find much to interest them in the accounts of the year's efforts.

Apparently Chief Moore is already loosening his grip on the weather of the country.

Another subject for open guessing is, how many of the training camp "discoveries" will be attracting any attention the last week of the season?

It becomes more and more conspicuously a matter for regret that the job of being an ambassador from the United States is not even self-supporting.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE "OTHER CHOICES."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I believe that the attention of all good citizens should be called to the probable result of not using second and third choice votes at the coming municipal election. There seems to be a strong tendency among voters to cast their ballots for only their particular friends and not to give men whom they know to be capable, deserving and upright, the benefit of their second choice. If every voter in Duluth should follow this policy the result is almost inevitable.

It is not my purpose to in any way attack the Socialists, but the following is simply for the benefit of those who do not believe in their doctrines. The Socialists have picked a slate of five candidates. This political party has approximately 2,000 votes in the city, and its members are pledged to vote only first choice. This means that each of these five candidates is likely to receive 2,000 first choice votes.

Take the race for short-term commissioner for an example. The two Socialists will receive 2,000 votes each. Suppose, for the sake or argument, that each of the remaining thirty-four candidates have an equal number of friends and that only first choice votes are cast. There will be approximately 70,000 first choice votes cast for two short-term commissioners, and of this number the Socialists will receive 4,000. The remaining 16,000 votes would be divided into thirty-four parts. Each candidate would receive less than 500 votes. If no second or third choice is voted the Socialists are bound to be elected. While they would not have a majority of the first or second choice votes, yet they would have a plurality of all the votes cast and would be elected. But to go farther, suppose all the voters except the Socialists cast their second but not their third choice ballots. Then each of the remaining thirty-four candidates' pro-ratio vote would be less than 1,000, and the Socialists would still be elected. Of course, this is somewhat exaggerated, as some candidates will run much stronger than others, but it shows what might happen if the voter fails to cast his full ballot. The danger of not exercising the full right of franchise is much greater than the average voter thinks. Yours truly, A CITIZEN.

TEACHERS ARE FAR FROM BEING ELATED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

About a week ago your paper published facts about a prospective raise in salaries which the teachers of our city were to receive. The report as given was misleading and it is feared the public has erroneous ideas about the said raise which the teachers will receive.

The statement that it would be necessary to expend an extra $20,000 to give the teachers a $50 raise in salary is not true. Every year the teacher who is considered at all valuable to the school board receives a raise of $50 per year until she reaches the maximum. This was done last year and will be done next year, so no one can count that expense as an extra or additional outlay. Practically the same amount is spent every year for salaries. The exceptional years are those when new schools have been built, when, of course, more teachers are needed. Now the only expense in addition to the regular allowance for salaries will be the $5,000 which gives a $50 raise to the 100 teachers who have been receiving the present maximum, and the salaries for the new teachers of the new buildings, which total $15,000. Barely $5,000 can rightly be called the additional money expended for "raises" next year. This seems little enough and especially so when it is accompanied by no hope of ever getting anything better.

We feel we have every reason to be discouraged and the reading of the report telling what Minneapolis is doing has not helped us very much. Respectfully, A TEACHER.

CONGRESSMAN NEED NOT RESIDE IN DISTRICT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please state in your Open Court column if there is any state or election law which requires a person to be a resident of the district from which he is elected to congress to represent, prior to or at the time of his election? Oblige yours truly.

J. F. O.

Cloquet, Minn., March 24.

There is no legal obstacle to the voters of any district electing an outsider if they wish to do so. He must be a resident of the state, however, under the Constitution.—The Editor.

Muskogee—A Case in Point.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Let Philadelphia learn something from Oklahoma. Muskogee is a thriving little place of 25,000 inhabitants, although not long ago it was a bald prairie inhabited by coyotes. Today it is making a big noise and is growing simply because it will not be ignored. Other places in Oklahoma have better claims to attention, but are overborne to a large extent because Muskogee is working twenty-four hours a day for trade and development.

Every man of standing in the little city belongs to the Commercial club, which is the whole thing in civic exploitation. Every man must work and must pay something and must be pleasant about it. There are no jealousies allowed. The kicker is attended to at the first sign of pessimism or grouchiness. He is cured immediately. Excursions from towns in the neighborhood (and 150 miles are considered next door) are brought to the town and every citizen must be an entertainer. There are no "ifs, buts and perhapses" allowed. In consequence Muskogee is growing so rapidly that the people have hardly time to take breath between activities.

If a village of less than 2 per cent of our population can achieve so much by concentrated energy there is no limit to what a city like Philadelphia may accomplish by pulling together with every possible force to achieve results. If Philadelphia in any way falls below what might reasonably be expected it is simply because of inertia or lack of intelligence. Alba B. Johnson has pointed the way. Are we to admit that there is more public spirit and greater energy of a constructive sort in a prairie town in Oklahoma than there is in Philadelphia? If so, the suffering and loss be on our own heads.

From House to Senate, No. 9

By Sawyard.

Washington, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—He was a poet as well as a savant, an orator as well as a student, a lawyer as well as a rhetorician. Oliver P. Morton was a more forceful personality, George W. Julian, perhaps a more effective popular orator, David Turpie, certainly, a more erudite scholar, Joseph E. McDonald a more profound lawyer, Thomas A. Hendricks a more consummate politician; but Dan Voorhees, not excepting Tom Browne, was the best loved man Indiana ever produced, the best loved man "the Middle West" ever knew if we shall, as we must, except Abraham Lincoln, whose great soul peopled a vast and boundless solitude in a hungry and arid American heart and made it numberless millions yet to be. I am proud that he was a Kentuckian; I exult that every drop of his blood, every fibre of his body, was Southern.

Born in 1827, a native of Butler county, Ohio, where it was then, and should be so yet, agin the law for anybody to have any politics except Democratic, Jefferson-Jackson, Dan Voorhees was educated at Asbury, and immediately entered upon the public career for which nature designed him. He was a lawyer, and it is doubtful if Lincoln himself did more "pauper practice" than did this nature's nobleman. When the "Wizard of the North" was adjudged bankrupt his case was the subject of gossip in a social-literary club of London, and a member, himself a famous man of letters, exclaimed: "Walter Scott broke! By Heavens, if every man to whom his writings have given hours of delight will but contribute to him one shilling he will be the richest subject in Europe."

And had Dan Voorhees rigidly collected every "lawyer's fee" and providently invested it, he would have been the richest lawyer of his day west of the East, and at the East the successful lawyers teach corporations how to steal.

Dan Voorhees was in the senate of the United States a little more than twenty years. What a pity he was not in the house all that time! He was made for a popular body: he was born to that estate. His nature was pregnant with impulse. He was a power in a tumultuous assembly. Though a man of vast reading, he was not a deep thinker. He had a heart Pelion on Ossa for human suffering. There was something, indefinable, about him that suggests Basil Duke, and at the same time you had thought of Simon Bolivar Buckner—all three so different and yet so much alike—all coin current with the merchant who deals in faith and fealty—up yonder.

I never think of Voorhees without calling to mind a sentiment that makes the heart of every true man swell. And I'm going to bore you by repeating it, not for you, you old scamp of 60, but for some bright boy of 16, God love his guileless heart and keep him pure:

"Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich and like a lily bloom,
An angel, writing in a book of gold;
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,
And to the presence in the room he said,
'What writest thou?' The vision raised his head,
And with a look made of all sweet accord,
Answered, 'The names of those who love the Lord.'
'And is mine one?' said Abou. 'Nay, not so,'
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still, and said, 'I pray thee, then,
Write me as one who loves his fellowmen.'
The angel wrote and vanished. The next night
It came again with a great wakening light,
And showed the names whom love of God had blessed,
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest!"

And that was the great big nature of Dan Voorhees, who was born a child, who lived a child, who died a child. I shall be more than repaid for copying this from Leigh Hunt if some good boy shall read it, shall commit it, shall cherish it, shall do it.

There is but one word that defines the mind of Dan Voorhees—glowing. No word has yet been coined that can do justice to his heart. Here was a man who held a dew drop on the brow of honest toil an infinitely more precious jewel than Golconda could show. He was a great big man, physically, mentally, morally. Human? Yes; but the human the Nazarene came to be comrade with, to cheer, to bless, to save.

"On form" Voorhees was one of the most successful criminal lawyers at the American bar. Yet he never suborned a witness nor "fixed" a juror. His client was in trouble, needed aid and sympathy. That was enough for Dan Voorhees, who had not the heart to ask, "Are you worthy?" If there was a pro-slavery Democrat at the North it was he, and yet he appeared for the defense in the trial of one of the John Brown raiders.

As for a fee, it never entered into his computations. When a young man, deeply involved in debt, he was one day paid a fee of $500. He was an honest man, and concerned for his creditors. Before the sunshine of heaven departed from him that eve, on the other side of the Wabash, he gave every cent of it to a call of distress.

Now, in my shackling philosophy, that is a lack of character; but is it not an opulent asset somewhere, where you and Dan Voorhees and I may meet bye and bye? I would be glad of some such asset over there. So would you.

I could write miles of stuff about this great big heart. While he is—and was—honored everywhere, he had some weaknesses that you and I and all of us have. Let me quote a Hoosier poet who must be kin to James Whitcomb Riley:

"You hadn't ought to blame a man
For things he hasn't done.
For books he hasn't writ
Or for fights he hasn't won.
There are holes in lots of hens' nests,
And you'll have to look below
To find the eggs that's rolling
Where they hadn't ought to go.
The waters may look placid
On the surface all around,
And yet there is an undertow
That keeps a good man down."

These lines are from my dear, excellent friend, Clint. O. Price of the government printing office.

That expresses Dan Voorhees. It kept him from being president, and Jesus loved him more tenderly for it.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator John K. Shields of Tennessee lives on a big farm near Knoxville, but has never fretted himself over crop rotation or pamphlets on "How to Make the Farm Pay." He simply hires a farm manager and goes ahead with his law practice. By sticking strictly to his profession and letting agriculture alone, he has managed to keep his farm on a paying basis.

At least one man down that way, however, regards Shields as a regular farmer. They were having a county convention a few years ago, and this man offered a motion that Shields be indorsed for another term as judge of the state supreme court. It was pointed to him that Shields' first term wouldn't expire for two or three years, and that to indorse him for the next term would be almost premature.

"Yes," insisted the Shields' enthusiast, "but I want to head off any possible opposition to the man. He is the first farmer we ever had on the supreme bench, and if we aren't mighty careful, they'll put a lawyer there in his place."

When Senator John Shafroth of Colorado was a small boy down in a little town in Miscouri he had a sweetheart who thought rather well of him. She said he had it in him to do something big, and that some day his voice would be heard in the United States senate.

Shafroth was half inclined to believe the girl was right. At any rate, he was glad she felt that way about it, and he came back with a counter prediction. He said that if he became a United States senator, then she would be Mrs. United States Senator. She blushed, and replied that she wasn't so sure.

The funny part of it is that both forecasts have come true. In fact, if Shafroth were not now senator and that girl Mrs. Shafroth, there would be no sense in telling the story.

After Shafroth had been practicing law in his home town for three years, he got out the family atlas one day to refresh his memory in regard to the geography of states lying to the west. He noticed Colorado, represented by a beautiful shade of pink, and it seemed to him that Denver ought to be a good place for a bright young lawyer destined to be a member of the United State ssenate.

He mentioned the project to his brother, and the latter thought his brain must have slipped, else he wouldn't have conceived such a thing.

"What!" said his brother, 'pass up a fine law practice like you've got, taking in almost $1,000 a year, for an uncertainty!" And he walked away shaking his head.

Shafroth went to Denver, but three years later he returned to the home town—for "the girl."

This is the story Senator Chilton has been saving to tell to President Wilson:

A man came over from Russia a few years ago and settled in West Virginia. He was a natural merchant, and made a lot of money. There was a movement started to raise $100,000 for a church by the adherents to some newfangled kind of religion. They got the foreign-born hero of our story interested, and he gave them about half the entire sum they required. Even then they couldn't raise the rest, and after two or three months they came around to know if he couldn't ante again to the extent of, say, $5,000.

"What!" says he. "Me give you $5,000 more, after all you got from me? Naw. Not another cent. Before I'd give you anything more, I'd join the Presbyterians, even if I did go to hell."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas is not only the fourth man to succeed the late Jeff Davis in the course of a few weeks, but holds the world's record for the number of important offices held in a short time. Within two months he was member of the lower house of congress, governor and senator. The only thing to mar his rapid flight is the fact that a number of people down his way have criticized him for quitting the governorship so soon, many declaring that it was just like breaking a contract, jumping a lease, running away with the French maid, or, as the old saying is, selling one's birthplace for a mess of putty.

Elevator men about the capitol don't talk much about it, but if overpowered and forced to tell the truth, they will admit that nothing vexes them so much as for a senator to give the special signal of three short rings, which means that they must pass up all other calls and lift or lower the senator to the desired floor. The undemocracy of the thing gets on the elevator man's nerves. It is as if the senator said: "Come right along and let everybody else walk, if need be, for, lo, I am here!"

Senators Smith of Michigan and Bryan of Florida are among those who never take advantage of the senatorial signal.

Representative Otis T. Wingo of Arkansas was invited by a friend to go out and play golf, shortly after he came on here to enter congress. He said he never played golf. The friend told him he ought to play some such game, for the exercise.

"Nope," said Wingo. "I'm willing to go out and bat a ball around, but I won't play any game that a boy won't play. Did you ever see a small boy playing golf?"

Standardization.

New York Tribune: Standardization is not by any means the new and revolutionary thing that efficiency engineers and scientific management fakers would have you believe. Standardization is, in fact, as old as the hills.

Take wheels—buggy wheels, for example. They are all the same standard size and they are painted in just a few standard colors. When a buggy wheel breaks you don't have to get one made to order. You replace it at any shop—it's standard size.

All circus rings, the world over, are precisely the same diameter to an inch, no matter what may be the size of the tent itself. Thus the circus rider knows the angle at which he must lean.

Ladders are standardized. The hodcarrier, with his heavy load, need never watch his step—for every step, or rung, on a builder's ladder, is seven inches.

A Report on the Pawnees.

Los Angeles Herald: Alfred Henry Lewis, the writer, tells about the man who was sent by the Smithsonian institution to study the manners and habits of the Pawnees. He was expected to make a report that would fill at least couple of volumes, but instead he just wired the result of his investigation in a ten-word message. He said:

"The Pawnees have no manners and their habits are disgusting."

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Next Year.

Stillwater Gazette: Helps some. Each of the 400 teachers of Duluth's public schools are to be given an advance in salary of $50 a year. That will buy a pretty fair Easter suit.

Argument for Parcel Post.

Austin Transcript: The Duluth Herald tells of a Milwaukee man who shipped an article home from Detroit, Mich., by express and paid the company 40 cents carriage. He found later that the package came by parcel post and bore only 22 cents worth of stamps. This looks like taking an unfair advantage of the patron. Better ship by parcel post direct in such a case.

Asylum Wanted.

Hill City News: There is a necessity for another state insane asylum and of course it is wanted in several different localities. Duluth says it ought to have the hospital because it is Duluth, and also that there are more crazy people there than any other part of the state. Carlton is also after the bughouse and claims to be located in just the right spot so it would be convenient for all. We suspect that the real reason why any place wants this hospital is that it will help to boom the town, bring in more business, etc.

Covers Sins.

Mankato Free Press: A Duluth pastor announced in his Sunday sermon that "money does not count with God." No, but the filthy stuff covers a multitude of sins here on earth.

Inland Seaports

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: Among the schemes under consideration by our lawmakers is one for a canal from Duluth to Minneapolis, and later for a canal connecting the Twin Cities with the Red river valley and Winnipeg, via the Minnesota and Red rivers. What is the matter with Minneapolis? She has been advertising herself as the head of navigation for many years. One thing more is needed: Make Owatonna a seaport and we will go in for the whole swindle.

Hard on the Brains.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: A young German immigrant has gone crazy over musical comedies at Duluth. They do give a bad kind at Duluth, but they hadn't been reported that rotten before.

Voters in the Air.

Gheen Record: Between the proper method of marking his vote and a choice of the confusion of candidates, the Duluth voter will have to do some thinking this spring. This is as it should be. To force the voter to think on questions he has hitherto given but casual thought, is a step upward for politics.

Important, If True.

Fergus Falls Journal: Duluth has adopted the commission form of government under which it is supposed that only good men will be elected to office. Good salaries go with the offices and as a result there is a big rush for the jobs. Ten candidates are running for the position of mayor, eleven candidates for the commissionership lasting four years and thirty-seven candidates want the commissionerships which have a two-year term. The plan contemplates a mayor and four commissioners, two holding for two years and two for four years. All kinds of men are after the jobs and "efficiency" will cut very little figure in the result. The election is on April 1.

The Art of "Seeing Men"

Cromwell Childe in Harper's Weekly: "Seeing men" is an art. It amounts almost to second sight. Often, in a business "line" some man makes his way mysteriously and rapidly to the top, or near to it. He does not seem to have greater trading ability than many others, nor has he been favored by a larger capital or a more magnetic personality. But he rises. His faculty of "seeing" men has been the magical force.

"Seeing" men means recognizing, perhaps under an unpromising exterior, what a man really is or may grow into, and attaching him to an organization or staff. There are business executives who are geniuses in doing this. Their success is brought about in great measure by the efficiency of the body of men they have picked in this way. It happens many times that a captain of affairs hunts for years for a lieutenant of certain qualities. He finds him at last, in Cinderella-like garb, far down the commercial ladder, a person a hundred other men who really wanted a man of just this type have passed carelessly over. They could not "see."

It is no trick at all to discover the man who has triumphantly made a record, who is already a personality in this trade or that. Unfortunately such a man is unfailingly costly. What he has done, moreover, is no positive guarantee as to his future exploits. Men of great reputation as lieutenants many times prove great disappointments when they shift. The chief who "sees" picks a man whose reputation is yet to be made, and thereby gets the profits himself.

Old Love and the New Rug.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Here's the overheard conversation that made the day seem more springlike:

"Those people next door to us have been married a long time, haven't they?"

"Perhaps they have. But their honeymoon isn't over yet."

"How do you figure that out?"

"Well, it was awfully sloppy last night. But when he came home she made him step inside and kiss her before she told him to go back on the porch and wipe his feet."

"Well, honey, wouldn't you——"

"No, I wouldn't! We've got a new rug!"

Summer Night.

Now sleeps the crimson petal, now the white;
Nor waves the cypress in the palace walk;
Nor winks the gold fin in the porphyry font;
The firefly wakens; waken thou with me.

Now droops the milk-white peacock like a ghost,
And like a ghost she glimmers on to me.

Now lies the earth all Danae to the stars,
And all thy heart lies open unto me.

Now slides the silent meteor on, and leaves
A shining furrow, as thy thoughts in me.

Now folds the lily all her sweetness up,
And slips into the bosom of the lake:
So fold thyself, my dearest, thou, and slip
Into my bosom and be lost in me.

Germs.

To the hygienist, the sanitarian and the surgeon all dirt is clean dirt, so long as it is free from living germs, and it matters not how white and clean looking a thing may be; if it has been exposed to contamination containing germs, it is filthy and must be, therefore, avoided. Many people have the idea that the fear of germs is a purely mental malady, and that it may become so to a few people of neurotic temperament is an undisputed fact, but germs are real, can be seen plainly under the microscope, both in the living state and after they are dead, mounted and stained; and many of them which affect mankind or the domestic animals, have been so carefully studied that all their habits of life are known. It is known exactly what food they thrive best on, at what air temperature they grow the fastest, just how they reproduce themselves and what methods are the most successful for their extermination.

The diseases they produce, when entrance is gained to a living body, are also known, and the susceptible and unsusceptible animals have been clearly distinguished. Among the known germs there are, however, scores which, instead of being a menace, are indispensable to perfect health in man and some of the lower animals; therefore, they must be looked upon as friends, not foes. To the person affiliated with germ fear all germs look alike, and he is truly in a bad way, but there's a remedy and it is simply knowledge of the truth in regard to these micro-organisms.

Mystery, ignorance and superstition have always been the foes of hygiene, and they are much more potent foes of mental hygiene than they ever were of general physical hygiene. On the other hand, a few people scoff at what they call "the germ theory," simply because they refuse to be educated on the subject, and anything which cannot be demonstrated to the unaided senses is by them considered mysterious, and, therefore, a mere matter of belief. So they argue that their belief that there are no such things as living germs deserves the same respect as any other unsupported belief.

The existence of germs and their sensitive effect in disease has, however, long since passed the period of speculation or unsupported belief, and instead of there being only a "germ theory" we are confronted with a myriad of germ facts. Physicians and surgeons are not the only class who have taken advantage of the development of bacteriology (the name given to the science of germs) for the brewer, the distiller, the butter and cheese maker, and a host of other manufacturers, have found that this science has a place in their work. And at the present day the larger and more progressive of these manufacturing establishments have a bacteriologist as well as a chemist on their staff.

The few germs which are responsible for disease in man are the only ones which seriously interest the physician, the hygienist or the sanitarian. The surgeon, however, has a larger group to fear, for many of the ordinary filth germs which rarely attack living tissue, will flourish in pus, blood or serum and produce poisons that, when absorbed by the body, cause fever and generally reduction of vitality. The condition is known as sapremia, and although rarely or never fatal, is frequently a factor in bringing about fatal results.

The practical points worth remembering about germs are:

1. Only a few are fatal to man, a large number are useful, but knowledge of which to avoid and how best to do so is an essential part of the prevention of disease.

2. A normal body, in perfect health, is capable of resisting or destroying large numbers of deadly germs; so, keeping the body healthy as well as clean is a big factor in avoiding germ diseases.

3. Germs causing human disease are mostly carried and distributed by individuals sick of the disease, or only partially recovered, and only in a few instances is it known that they are carried by insects; such as flies, fleas, mosquitoes and lice.

4. Germs are seldom, if ever, carried in the air for any distance and they never of their own accord leave a moist surface.

5 Sunlight is the best germ killer we know of; artificial heat the next. So don't be afraid to allow the sun to enter your home, but see that every room gets its share of sunlight every day.

Coughs.

Cough is a symptom which arises from so many widely different causes, that it is the utmost folly for anyone to attempt its treatment without at least a slight understanding of the causes that might be responsible for it. The popular belief that all coughs require dosing with expectorant syrups is so widespread, that many people will take any sort of mixture that may come to their hands so long as it is said to be good for a cough. The fear of a cough is very much exaggerated; no doubt because it is a prominent symptom in consumption, and the energies are all used to stop the cough, instead of remedying the condition causing it. This is all wrong; because the cough, instead of doing harm, is natures' agent attempting to remove some irritation. So long as there is no superficial wish it should be removed, the cough should rather be encouraged than repressed. In the early stages of cold or bronchitis there is nothing, however, in the air passages requiring removal; the cough is caused from inflammation of the mucous membrane, and cough mixtures are more likely to make this worse than to be of any advantage. A smart purgative to clear the gastro-intestinal tract, and a good sweat, which may be produced by a hot foot bath and hot drink before retiring for the night, will often do much to break up a cold and prevent cough.

Rubbing the chest, and the back between the shoulder blades, with a liniment made of equal parts of Hartshorn and turpentine, is of service to reduce the bronchial irritation.

These simple remedies can do no harm, and are much preferable to dosing with the advertised cough syrups. When they are not sufficient to remedy the cough, it is time to get busy and ascertain just what the cause may be.

Coughing may be produced by irritation of the nose, throat or bronchi, and occasionally by irritation of the stomach. The most sensitive part of the air passages is the larynx, and following this the pharynx. From irritation of the mucous membrane of the pharynx, a large percentage of the chronic coughs arise; and cough syrups have little curative effect in this condition. Throat lozenges, when of the mucilagenous sort, help some by lessening the irritation; but the cause is usually a catarrhal one, arising in the nose, often aggravated by the constant breathing of air which is too dry, and this should be treated first.

A cough should never be neglected; that is, when the simple remedies have failed to dispel it, consult the family physician. He will locate the trouble and treat the cause, not the cough. It may prove to be a symptom of nothing more serious than a bronchitis or a catarrh, but it may be an early warning of tuberculosis, or a symptom of heart, liver or kidney disease; in which case no time should be lost in attending to the basic disease. The point of all this is—don't spoil your digestion by dosing with every handy mixture which may be recommended, when you have a little cough. Try the simple rational remedies just outlined, and when they do not prove successful, find the underlying cause before taking any medicine for its relief.

Questions and Answers.

Alcohol as a Food.

W. M. writes: I have seen it stated that alcohol is a food when taken in reasonable quantities. Please tell me, through your column in the paper, how much would be considered a reasonable quantity, and in what form is the best to take it?

REPLY.

Any substance which can be burned by the body and yield energy might be technically called a food, no matter what injury to the body as a whole results from its consumption. This is the technicality on which the use of alcoholic beverages is defended by some of the victims, and some of those interested in its manufacture or sale. Reasonable men should not allow themselves to be humbugged by any such argument, for the food value of alcohol is low, because it burns with a fierce flame in the body, and the energy produced is mostly dissipated as excess heat within half an hour after taking. The injury done to the body through this unnatural combustion should not be lost sight of; neither should the fact that the energy produced is of no practical value.

The only valid excuse for the use of this drug internally is in those emergency cases where rapid stimulation is imperative, and no other of the better and safer stimulants are at hand. In these emergencies, either good whisky or brandy will be the easiest procured, as well as best, form; and the dose is from one to four tablespoonfuls, according to the circumstances of the case.

The light wines and beer do not contain much alcohol, and, if not abused, are valuable as foods, aside from the alcohol contained. Their use must be governed more from the moral and ethical standpoint than from the medical.

A Genuine Rupture Cure Sent On Trial to Prove It

Don't Wear a Truss Any Longer.

After Thirty Years' Experience I Have Produced An Appliance for Men, Women and Children That Actually Cures Rupture.

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Send attached coupon today and I will send you free my illustrated book on Rupture and its cure, showing my Appliance and giving you prices and names of many people who have tried it and were cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies.

I send on trial to prove what I say is true. You are the judge and once having seen my illustrated book and read it you will be as enthusiastic as my hundreds of patients whose letters you can also read. Fill out free coupon below and mail today. It's well worth your time whether you try my Appliance or not.

The above is C. E. Brooks, inventor of the Appliance, who cured himself and who has been curing others for over 30 years. If ruptured, write him today.

Pennsylvania Man Thankful

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir—

Perhaps it will interest you to know that I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your Appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot, no matter what position I was in.

It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. It is a pleasure to recommend a good thing among your friends or strangers. I am,

Yours very sincerely,
JAMES A. BRITTON.
80 Spring St., Bethlehem, Pa.

Confederate Veteran Cured

Commerce, Ga., R. F. D. No. 11.
Mr. C. E Brooks.

Dear Sir: I am glad to tell you that I am now sound and well and can plough or do any heavy work. I can say your Appliance has effected a permament cure. Before getting your Appliance I was in a terrible condition and had given up all hope of ever being any better. It it hadn't been for your Appliance I would never have been cured. I am sixty-eight years old and served three years in Eckle's Artillery, Oglethorp Co. I hope God will reward you for the good you are doing for suffering humanity.

Yours sincerely,
H. D. BANKS.

Others Failed But the Appliance Cured

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir—

Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more, for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him 3 months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you. Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON.

Cured At the Age of 76.

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich,
Dear Sir—

I began using your Appliance for the cure of rupture (I had a pretty bad case) I think in May, 1905. On November 20, 1905, I quit using it. Since that time I have not needed or used it. I am well of rupture and rank myself among those cured by the Brooks Discovery, which, considering my age, 76 years, I regard as remarkable.

Very sincerely yours,
High Point, N. C. SAM A. HOOVER.

Child Cured in Four Months

21 Jansen St., Dubuque, Iowa.
Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir: The baby's rupture is altogether cured, thanks to your appliance, and we are so thankful to you. If we could only have known of it sooner our little boy would not have had to suffer near as much as he did. He wore your brace a little over four months and has not worn it now for six weeks. Yours very truly,
ANDREW EGGENBERGER.

Ten Reasons Why

You Should Send for Brooks Rupture Appliance.

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.

2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.

3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.

4. Unlike the ordinary so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.

5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.

6. The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.

7. There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.

8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.

9. All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.

10. My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Remember

I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail today.

HUDSON AND MOORE SPEAK

Municipal Ownership Workers Talk to Voters at Lakeside Hall.

Hudson Says the Character of Candidates Must Be Considered.

T. T. Hudson and Watson S. Moore were the speakers at a meeting at the Lakeside town hall last evening under the auspices of the Municipal Ownership league.

Mr. Hudson and Mr. Moore declared that the man who is right on municipal ownership is a friend of the people and will be with the people on all other issues affecting their welfare.

Mr. Hudson said that the character of the men must be considered in the election, and that the voters must bend their efforts not only to obtain the electric lighting plant for the city, but to drive the Duluth-Edison Electric company out of politics.

"Some candidates do not like to have the truth told about them," said Mr. Hudson. "They do not like to have the public know of their faults, of their indiscretions, of their character, of their incapacity to transact business, of their tendencies to help a friend or themselves to profit at the expense of the public. And it is not a popular thing for citizens to give out statements telling their neighbors and the public of the frailities of the candidates; but when a man offers himself for office and he is not qualified, or he has tendencies in his make-up which will conflict with the public interests, the voter should know of these evil tendencies or the want of capacity in the candidate, and it is the duty of good citizenship to let it be known, because he suffers equally with the public if the wrong kind of a man is elected.

"Why do city contractors take so much interest in the election of certain candidates to city offices?

"Because they expect to profit by their election, and the public must pay all the profits. Why does the electric lighting company want certain men elected to conduct the affairs of the city?

"Because it expects to profit largely at the expense of the general taxpayer, and the consumer of electric light and power. Why do certain of the saloon and brewery interests work so hard to elect particular men to the office of mayor and commissioners? Because they want a wide open town which they think will enable them to get greater profits out of their business, and the public and their patrons have to foot the bills.

Activity of Interests.

"Why do the contractors, the electric light company, and certain saloon and brewery interests combine in support of the same candidates for the office of mayor and commissioners? Because their interests, which are to get their profits from or to prey upon the general public, are identical, and they know they cannot hope to win any election working singly.

"Now it has been my observation that the interests seldom make a mistake in the man they support. They usually have their man sized up right. Their candidates are not necessarily bad men. In private life they are generally good citizens, because it would not be possible for them to elect other kind. But their candidates are often men easily cajoled, or influenced, or persuaded, who have no particular opinion on public questions, who are spineless, weak and undecided, whose viewpoint on all moral and business questions is at variance with the public interests. When men are elected by such combinations it is not uncommon to find that the first and all-important interests which are looked after and protected in their administration are the interests of combinations which are so largely instrumental in their election. It is a pretty safe proposition for the average citizen to vote against the men who are supported by a combination of the above interests.

"We who went through the numerous contests with the old gas and water company well remember the demoralizating influence it exercised in our city's affairs. Unscrupulous men in the employ of the company used money to corrupt our citizens and city officials. Aldermen and newspapers tried to force the city to bond itself to pay three times what the plant was worth, to purchase it, and nearly twice what the plant was finally purchased at. The company's books, when they came into the possession of the city, disclosed that some $60,000 had been used by the company in an effort to carry two elections. How much did the Duluth-Edison Electric company spend to create public sentiment and to persuade city officials during the year prior to the February election in 1912? I do not know how much, but we all know that it was a large amount.

"From the time the city acquired the plant of the gas and water company that business has been entirely out of politics. Favoritism to particular citizens has been abolished, and the work has been conducted on a business basis. The city has not had to pay for advertising, or for anyone to go around to create public sentiment, or for attorneys to fight the city's battles. Besides, it has been a paying investment for the city."

More "Direct Evidence"

The blood-purifying, strength-giving properties of Hood's Sarsaparilla are brought into strong light by the following letter, which describes the cure of Mrs. Bearse, of Portsmouth, N. H. This is another of the thousands in our series of "Direct Evidence."

"45 Coffin Court,
"Portsmouth, N. H., May 12, 1912.
"C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

"The beginning of my trouble was a sore or abscess that gathered in the corner of my left eye. It discharged continuously for a year and eight months and nothing seemed to heal it. I consulted eminent physicians, who said the eruption would never heal without a surgical operation. I was Much Run Down With Impure Blood, and dreaded to think of an operation.

Mrs. Charles Bearse,
Portsmouth, N. H.

"I remembered that four years before I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with benefit, and I decided to take it again for my very poor health. The medicine brightened me up, but my family physician advised me to discontinue it, saying that it would not agree with other troubles with which I was afflicted, so I stopped taking it for some months, when, as the doctor had failed to help me further, I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla again.

"After I had used four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla the abscess had a more healthy appearance and the discharge was less. When I had taken seven bottles the sore had entirely disappeared, leaving only a slight scar. When I told the doctor Hood's Sarsaparilla had cured me he was dumbfounded, and said 'Hood's Sarsaparilla certainly has done wonders for you.' I think my blood was cured of humor, I had better appetite and was in better health in every way. My husband cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. Chas. Bearse.

Do you need a great blood purifier and strength builder? After reading the above you know what to take.

SHOULD GO TO WORK AT ONCE

Commissioners Could Hold Meetings Before April 14, Says Bernard.

Although the commissioners who will be elected April 1 by the voters of Duluth will not assume the reins of government until April 14, they should not wait until that date before tackling the big task which will confront them, declared William L. Bernard, candidate for short term commissioner, at a precinct meeting in the West end last night.

Mr. Bernard asserted that as soon as possible after the election, when the personnel of the commission is known, the commissioners-elect should start holding meetings. Although they would of necessity be unofficial he stated that in keeping with the spirit of the charter they should be open to the public in order that the people might keep in touch with the affairs of the commission from the very start.

Mr. Bernard emphasized that municipal ownership has become the leading issue of the campaign, but pointed out that many other matters vital to the interests of Duluth should not be so overshadowed by it as to be lost to sight. He urged the immediate acquisition of the electric light plant in accordance with the expressed will of the people, the establishment of municipal garbage collection, weekly or bi-monthly night meetings, additional police protection, extension of fire protection in the suburbs, increased fire protection for the heavy property interests along the water front by the purchase of a fire tug, as much reduction in the tax rate as efficiency will allow and the elimination of leaks and waste which developed under the old system.

Discussing the unofficial meetings of the commission prior to April 14, Mr. Bernard said that a great amount of preliminary work could be done, enabling the commission to start officially with a much better understanding of the situation than would otherwise be the case. He stated that there will be considerable business which should receive attention and that this could be gotten in readiness for prompt action by such unofficial meetings.

Socialist Meetings.

At a Socialist meeting last evening on Mesaba avenue E. N. Edes, candidate for the long term, gave a talk on the relation of the schools and the city administration.

"It will," said Edes, "be the duty of the elected commissioners to co-operate with the school board. The Socialist candidates would be recreant to their obligations to serve the great body of the people who compose the working class if they shirked the issue.

"Free education means education for the children of the worst exploited as well as for the children of those who are rich and well to do. Free education means free text books. It means ample facilities to accommodate all the children without housing a part of them in barracks. It means vocational training and continuation schools. It means smaller classes and more teachers, that every child may have the benefit of the teacher's personal interest in place of mechanical instruction. It means larger and adequate playgrounds. It means shoes and stockings and, if need be, clothes for those who are inadequately clad. It means penny lunches, that the brain may not be stifled because the body is starved. It means life, expansion, growth and the fulfillment of the promises that democracy has given to men. It means that America shall fulfill its destiny."

Phillips, Blackwood and Kaplan were the other speakers at the meeting, which was held at 822 Mesaba avenue. Thursday A. Miller will speak in Polish and Morris Kaplan in English at the Polish Independent church, Fifth street and Third avenue west. Blackwood, Phillips and Kaplan will speak at 104 West Second street. Friday two meetings have been arranged for, one at West Duluth Oneota hall and one at Nint havenue east and Ninth street.

Arrangements for the handling of the big crowds that will undoubtedly turn out to the big rally at the armory Sunday afternoon are nearing completion. Victor L. Berger, who is in charge of the campaign in Milwaukee has promised to come if unforeseen developments do not prevent it. The Socialist Finnish band will furnish the music.

Every Dollar You Spend

Might become two dollars in time if you put it at compound interest at the First National Bank.

You may think it takes a long time; that depends on from which end of the period you view it; looking backward, the time it takes for a dollar to double itself does not seem very long.

Nothing is more certain, however, than the fact that when your dollar has become two without any effort on your part, you will harbor no regrets at having saved it.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL BOOM DAIRY LINE

North Dakotans Are Doing Everything to Forward That Industry.

Meetings Being Held to Keep Farmers in Touch With Movement.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dairy industry in North Dakota is to be fostered. Special meetings are to be held over the state and efforts will be made to get those interested in touch with people who have the right kind of cattle.

One of the initial meetings was held here and representatives from the Twin Cities and other towns participated with citizens of this state. H. Rice of the General Creamery company in St. Paul and H. Sandohl, editor of the Dairy Record of Minneapolis, spoke on differing phases of dairying and creamery business. S. F. Crakes of Fargo and Banker Bachelder of Fingal were other speakers. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Northwestern Business Builders' association, an organization formed here in January at the time of the tri-state convention.

MINISTER WILL TAP MANY TREES

Crystal Falls Preacher Upper Peninsula's Chief Maple Sugar Maker.

Crystal Falls, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. William Poyseor, manufacturer of maple syrup, will tap 2,300 trees this spring. He expects his production will approximate 800 gallons. This energetic clergyman, who is a general missionary for the Protestant Episcopal church, is the largest manufacturer of maple syrup in Upper Michigan. He owns sixty-eight acres of wooded land near here and has the tree-tapping privileges on an adjoining tract of about the same area.

New Sap Evaporating Plant.

Mr. Poyseor has recently installed a new sap evaporating plant, built according to his own ideas and protected by patents issued to him by the government. The clergyman has been engaged in the maple syrup business the last seven years. Each spring his output has increased. Last year he made shipments to twelve states, although able to fill but half of the orders received. Several gallons were used at the White House by President Taft and his family.

LADIES' NIGHT AT CLUB BIG SUCCESS

Commercial Club of Cloquet Entertains Successfully for Women.

Cloquet, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ladies' night at the Commercial club Tuesday evening was a success, about 300 being present. A program began at 8, after which there was dancing for two hours, Freeman's orchestra donating their services for the dancing. Attorney Walter L. Case, president of the club, made a short but excellent address, appropriate to the occasion when so many women were guests of the club. He spoke especially on the work that might be accomplished for the good of the city through the women, and urged clubs and organizations where women get together for various objects to bear in mind that the Commercial club would stand back of them in any effort for the betterment of Cloquet. J. R. Medley and Miss Gladys Buck were soloists and their selections both called for encores. L. Van Wagnen, instructor in agriculture in the high school, rendered a violin solo. Mr. Van Wagnen since coming to Cloquet last fall has organized a most successful orchestra of teachers and high school pupils. Misses Alma Johnson and Merita Armstrong gave a piano duet and Mrs. Peter Olesen read "Connor" and also "Mother Is a Chum of Mine."

William Church Is Buried.

William Church, who was found dead in bed Monday morning at his home on the reservation, was buried Wednesday morning from the Church of the Holy Family. The deceased was 70 years old and death was due to heart failure. He leaves two children, Julius Church, with whom he lived, and a daughter, Mrs. Buck.

Indian Village Home Burns.

The home of Frank Houle, Jr., just at the edge of the Indian village, was burned to the ground late Tuesday afternoon, the fire originating in a defective chimney. Part of the household goods were burned. The house was too far from the Northern mill hydrants to allow of getting water from them.

KEEPS THEATER OPEN.

Norway, Mich., Theatrical Man Is Facing Many Prosecutions.

Channing, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Provided all the cases brought against the proprietor of a moving picture house at Norway are tried, the circuit court for Dickinson county will face a busy session at its April term. Ignoring the state law, the theatrical man opens his house each Sunday, and regularly each Monday he is served with notice of a suit for violation of the statute. The cases already number a dozen. The common council of Norway has declined to interefere. The clergymen of the city have petitioned that the license of the theater be revoked, only to see the memorial laid on the table. The people have taken sides in the controversy, and each faction is awaiting the outcome eagerly.

WOMAN LASHES DRUNKS.

Uses Whip to Advantage on St. Anthony, N. D., Hoodlums.

Mandan, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A woman, armed with a whip, restored order among a crowd of drunken men who were creating trouble at St. Anthony. They had been making a spectacle of themselves on the streets, fighting and quarreling. The woman procured a whip and applied it so dexterously she soon had the crowd fleeing. She rounded up four under a high porch and held them as prisoners for a while till they sobered up.

MARQUETTE'S LIGHT PLANT PROFITABLE.

Marquette, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city's light and power commission reports earnings of more than $43,000 net for the fiscal year, ended March 1. The commission recently made effective a reduced classification, with a basic rate for lighting of 5 cents a K. W. hour. Because of a steadily increasing business the rates will be reduced at least $40,000 annually. For a few years to come the discharge of bonds will take care of the surplus earnings, but it is plain that the question of what is to be done with the earnings when the plant is free of debt will have to be met in the not distant future. More than $150,000 has been expended in new construction the last two years and the plant is now one of the most substantial and up-to-date in the country. The electricity is generated from the waterpower of Dead river. Nearly 2,000 residences, 480 business places and the streets and parks are lighted and power is furnished to dozens of establishments. The city waterworks will be electrically operated before the close of the present year.

Fargo to Entertain Nurses.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The professional nurses of the state will hold their second annual convention here April 23 and 24. The Cass County association will be in charge of the reception and entertainment of the big organization and will give the visitors a banquet.

More Experiment Farms.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Pacific railway will double the number of demonstration farms it has operated in North Dakota according to D. E. Willard, development agent of the company. The work has been under the direction of Prof. Thomas Shaw. He will continue to look after it and this year the road has selected R. F. Murray to assist. There will be general cooperation with the North Dakota experiment station, the state demonstration farms, the better farming movement and other interests.

Ishpeming Labor Temple.

Marquette, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marquette county is to have a third labor temple. The Coming Nation Hall company has been organized at Ishpeming with a capitalization of $15,000 and will erect a building in that city on a site already acquired. A $10,000 structure is planned. Marquette and Negaunee each has a labor temple, each owned aand conducted by an association of Finnish Socialists.

Chapters at North Dakota U.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Guy Potter Bennett, president of the University of Vermont, will be in charge of the ceremonies incident to the establishment at the University of North Dakota of the North Dakota Alpha chapter of the Phi Delta Theta, April 17, 18 and 19. Among others, Thomas A. Davis of Goshen, Ind., and Max Murdock of Streator, Ill., and a delegation from the Minnesota university chapter is expected.

Pompadour Haircuts More Expensive.

Negaunee, Mich., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proprietors of the barber shops at Negaunee have raised the price of pompadour haircuts from 25 to 35 cents. This is the only change in the scale. The barbers say pompadours are a nuisance, hence the discrimination.

Bedmidjites Buying Cars.

Bemidji, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With two garages, three automobile sales agencies and three motor repair shops, Bemidji's coming auto season bids fair to be a big one. Six carloads of machines have been ordered for distribution in and around Bemidji by one auto company and several other cars have been ordered. Bemidji's automobile census for the past season was about seventy cars. It is said that more than thirty more will be bought this summer.

Flour Mill for Mott.

Mott, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. Stewart of Morris, Minn., is here for the purpose of commencing preliminary operations looking to the establishment of a flouring mill. A mill with a capacity of 350 barrels daily has been proposed. In addition to the flouring mill it is proposed to maintain an electric lighting plant.

Boy Mangled in Feed Mill.

Rhinelander, Wis., March 27.—Kazimer Trychick, aged 17, of Three Lakes, died yesterday from injuries received when he was caught on a swiftly revolving shaft of a portable feed mill. He was wound around the shaft and badly mangled.

Judgeship Case Appealed.

New Ulm, Minn., March 27.—The attorneys for M. E. Mathews of Marshall in the contest election case against District Judge J. M. Olsen of Sleepy Eye have served a copy of a proposed case on Judge Olsen's attorneys, preparatory to taking an appeal to the supreme court.

Havre, Mont., Banker Freed.

Great Falls, Mont., March 27.—A. L. Herrig of Havre, the banker who was charged by indictment with making false entry in a report of the condition of a national bank of which he was cashier, won his freedom Tuesday when without having to offer any witnesses in his own behalf, the charge being dismissed by the court because of a technical weakness.

Ashland Child Badly Hurt.

Ashland, Wis., March 27.—Mary Van Vlack, aged 7, residing in No. 2 Willmarth block, was probably fatally injured Tuesday by falling over the banister from the third floor and landing on her head on the floor below. She was rendered unconscious by the fall.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials of fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Marie" writes: "I would like a remedy for a pimply, oily skin. I suffer from constipation, headache and indigestion."

Answer: Get from your druggist three grain sulpherb tablets and take according to directions. These tablets are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions for using. I have found them to be the most reliable in such ailments as arise from constipation. They are made of sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines and if taken regularly will cure your constipation and purify the blood, thus causing your skin to become clear. These are fine for children, as they do not sicken.

"Mary"—You can easily cure your little girl of bedwetting by mixing 1 oz. of comp. fluid balmwort; 2 drams tincture rhusaromatic; and 1 dram tincture cubebs. Mix thoroughly and give in water about one hour before each meal, 10 to 15 drops.

Doctor: "My blood, stomach and bowels are badly affected due to a very severe case of catarrh of the head. Can you recommend a cure?"

J. E. S.—You should use the following local treatment: Get two ozs. of antiseptic vilanc powder and make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of the powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and use in the nostrils as far as possible. Also snuff from the palm of the hand through the nostrils the following wash: To one-half teaspoonful of Vilanc powder add a pint of warm water and use two or three times daily. For internal treatment for the blood, stomach and bowels obtain the following ingredients: Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful four times a day: Comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., fluid extract buchu, 1 oz., and comp. syrup sarsaparilla, 4 ozs.

"Sadie" says: "I misplaced the prescription you sent me for dandruff and itching scalp, will you please send it again?"

Answer: There is nothing better for dandruff and itching scalp than plain yellow minyol which is sold in 4 oz. jars at any well-stocked drug store. Use this according to directions and you will soon be cured of all diseases of the hair and scalp.

"Nina R" writes: "Please advise me what to take to overcome extreme thinness. My arms and bust have no development and my face is so thin that it is positively homely, although my features are regular."

Answer: Many ladies would be much more beautiful if they were somewhat fleshier and as increased weight is possible it is the duty of every woman to be always at her best. Begin taking three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, which are obtained in sealed cartons with directions, and continue until your weight is satisfactory. Frequently a two months' treatment adds 15 to 30 pounds, besides adding more color to the cheeks and lips and a sparkle of health to the eyes.

"Mrs. O." writes: "Kindly publish again the prescription for rheumatism which you gave to "Ted" some time ago.

Answer: I shall be very glad to repeat the formula. Get at the drug store the following ingredients and mix yourself, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and at bedtime. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmowrt, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. This is my favorite prescription for rheumatism.

"Charlette" writes: "Some time ago you answered through your columns telling "Marie" how to cure bad cough and cold. Will you kindly repeat the formula?"

Answer: I shall be very glad to repeat the formula, for you. Get from your druggist a 2½ oz. package of essence menthol-kare and mix with honey or home-made sugar syrup and take according to directions given on the bottle. This is a very mild laxative and will surely cure your cold in a few days at most. It is absolutely harmless and very pleasant to take.

"Ted" writes: "I have had chronic appendicitis for some time but I cannot consent to an operation. My stomach is in a bad condition also. Can you help me?"

Answer: The best scientific and satisfactory treatment for you is tablets triopeptine, which you can get at any well-stocked drug store. They are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. I think many cases of appendicitis could be prevented if triopeptine was used regularly.

"Mrs. T." writes: "I have been sick for some time and do not seem to be able to get anything to give me strength. I am nervous and cannot sleep. Could you prescribe a good tonic?"

Answer: The best system and nerve tonic I know of is made by mixing 5 ozs. syrup hypophosphites comp. and 1 oz. tincture cadomene (not cardamom). Mix by shaking well and take a teaspoonful before meals. This is a fine tonic for old and young.

Mrs. De V. asks: "I should like to ask you how one can reduce the weight. I am too large, and last summer suffered on account of excessive fat. Can you advise a remedy, harmless and safe?"

Answer: I have frequently prescribed a liquid remedy, but, owing to its disagreeable taste, I am now prescribing the same formula in a tablet form. It is called 5-grain arbolene tablets and is sold by druggists in sealed tubes with full directions for home use. I advise anyone who is too fleshy to try this excellent tablet. Send $1.00 for Dr. Lewis Baker's Book on Health-Beauty. Adv.

GIRLS! GIRLS! SURELY TRY THIS! DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

All You Need Is a 25 Cent Bottle of "Danderine"—Hair Gets Lustrous, Fluffy and Abundant at Once.

Immediate? Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it; surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

NOW that we are entered in the free for all race in this Northern league affair, it will be extremely interesting to note the effect regular league trimmings will have upon the fans in this section of the country, incidentally dwelling or touching upon the appreciable increase likewise of the attendance.

As you have read, there is to be regular listing of the averages during the coming campaign. Larry Ho, poet, author, philosopher and also the best informed baseball man in this the Northwest, has been wisely chosen by President Barton to manage the statistical department. Thus the fans through the heated stages of the race will be enabled to refer to the figures that come from Larry's calculating pen and know who is doing the heavy clouting, the most thefting of bases and the best pitching.

Viewing the baseball situation over the length and breadth of the league one is impressed with the belief that this coming season is going to be the best in the history of baseball in this section of the country.

We are associated with St. Paul and Minneapolis, and besides this league has gone ahead and done things in a business-like manner. Some of the greatest players in the history of the game have been appointed managers of the several teams, and furthermore there will be eight clubs in the organization.

Naturally the success of the league will depend upon the article of baseball played by the various teams, but with so many capable men mixed in the running of the league and the eight clubs it hardly seems likely that anything but a distinctly attractive brand of pastime will be served for the edification of the true lovers of the greatest all-round sport in the varied repertoire of the season's amusements.

And skipping blithely from the affairs of the league at large to those of the local club, it is quite safe to state that this end of the circuit will be managed more ably than has been the case in the past history of the affairs of the Duluth club.

Taking it all and all, pacing up one side of the subject and down the other, it is a fact, a bonny blithesome one, too, that this should in all truth be one great year for the popular pastime in this section of the long and verdant, and that being the general impression the true lovers of the great old sport are looking ahead to some glad afternoons of diamond sport.

ALTHOLTER, secretary of the National Ski association, is authority for the statement that that organization has enjoyed the most prosperous season in the history of the ski sport in the Northwest. One wonders if the genial secretary is not trying to cause jealousy or kindred cousin envy to leap in the breasts of the members of the local association.

* * *

THERE are some critics disposed to pan Luther McCarty for not fighting more often. To us there does seem little real foundation for this lampooning of the kid heavyweight. Some of the wielders of the publicity mace evidently have not taken into careful consideration the fact that McCarty fought and whipped Carl Morris, Al Kaufman, Jim Flynn and Al Palzer in quick succession. After that strenuous feat it would seem to the average follower of the world of sports that this young stripling, who but recently reached the voting age, is entitled to a short rest.

George Kennedy drops us a line and ingeniously states that he has the greatest wrestler in the world in the person of Le Marin. George would be the poorest manager in the world were he to state otherwise.

* * *

Even Frank Chance, who by some has been considered one of the luckiest men in baseball, has been bothered by the merciless hoodoo that has clung to the Yankees for the past few seasons. Hal Chase, Jack Lelivelt and even Chance himself have been suffering from injuries. Last season the Highlanders were put out of the race before it was fairly started. Now comes the mad mullah in the shape of aches and pains stalking with its clammy presence amid the hopes of the once happy family of Bermuda conditioners.

* * *

The gink who wears the loudest clothes isn't always the best spender.

* * *

Also—get this—the guy with the tough walk who goes home and beats his wife would be easy for the galoot with ordinary courage.

In answer to board of trade Mac, we would say, that it has been our experience that some of these same players are in dire need of an annual and that this event has been postponed until after the start of the training season.

* * *

The first picture of the first White Sox recruit has arrived. Who cares seriously much for the first robin?

* * *

With Perry Werden as an umpire in this league how delightful would the fanning bees be. Bees be sounds like a breakfast food.

* * *

In our humble opinion an excellent way for an intended fighter to develop fast footwork and ducking ability would be to become intimately associated with a militant suffragette. The subject fascinates us.

* * *

If all the men on the other side of the pond are as timid as some of the English fighters that have come to this side of the large open patch of water, it is no wonder that the women folks across the way are raising the very hob.

* * *

If cock robin were alive today we would know perfectly well who to blame for his death—speaking still of suffragettes and a stray brick.

* * *

Johnny Hayes has announced his retirement from the running game. His friends had hoped he would.

* * *

Now that Archer and Murphy have come to an agreement the people of Chicago can settle back and view with poise of mind some of the ordinary events of the world.

For World's Middleweight Championship Match

Willoughby vs. Yokel

AUDITORIUM TOMORROW NIGHT

Seats on sale at Blackwood's Cigar Store. Prices $1.50, $1.00 and 75c.

SEASON'S BIG MATCH.

OLD MIKE YOKEL REACHES DULUTH

World's Middleweight Champion Trained to the Minute for Match With Walter Willoughby.

Mike Yokel reached here early today after a ride half way across the American continent. The athletically tough citizen from the Jackson Hole country looks even tougher than he did upon the occasion of his former visit. He radiates health and confidence. In an interview, he said:

"I expect to win—am in fine shape."

This is one of the longest authentic interviews silent Mike has ever given out. It required coaxing, wheedling and cajolery to extract these few words from the stoic from the Mormon country.

Mike defeated Con Albright at Fort Collins, Colo., Monday evening and immediately after this match, which the desert demon won handily, he left for Duluth.

Yokel looks in the greatest shape of his career. There is good cause for this. Not only has he worked hard for Willoughby, who is regarded by Mike as one of the toughest wrestlers in the country, but the great Salt Lake City man is on the trail of Fred Beell, if the little wrestler of Marshfield will make any reasonable weight concessions.

"While we expect the contest of tomorrow evening to be one of the toughest in Mike's career, we are also of the opinion that Yokel is going to win," said Tom Scanlon today.

"Yokel, in my opinion, is the greatest wrestler in the world, and I have seen them all. I doubt very much whether there has been in all the days of the mat game a man at 158 pounds who was as great as this boy. But, remember this—we are letting Willoughby come in at 162 pounds, and if you don't think several pounds makes all the difference in the world, you are very, very badly mistaken.

"Right before the contest I will say that Yokel is absolutely right. He is as sound as a golden guinea. If he is defeated by Willoughby we will have no excuses to offer, but will hail the Wisconsin star as the greatest wrestler of his weight and inches in the world, as is claimed by his friends."

Willoughby worked for over three hours at the Catholic Athletic club yesterday afternoon. The little Wisconsin athlete played several fast games of handball, worked the pulley weights and wound up the afternoon's labor by going for something like an hour on the mat.

After this siege of work the Mellenman looked as fresh as the proverbial daisy. As in the case of Yokel the former champion middleweight wrestler of the world can have no excuses to offer on the score of his condition, should he go down to defeat.

Martin Johnson is to be the third man in the ring. Neither wrestler offered any objection to the choice upon the part of the club of its official referee. The fireman wrestler is rated as one of the coolest and best judges of grappling in the Northwest and no wrestler has ever lodged any complaint against his ruling in any of the contests wrestled in this city. Willoughby stated yesterday that the Duluth man was perfectly satisfactory to him, and today Yokel also readily agreed to the club's officials.

With the two principals of tomorrow evening's card on the ground, interest in the titular contest has leaped to fever heat. Even if he has allowed Willoughby to come in at 162 Yokel has come mantully to the front and declared that in the event of his losing the contest, there will be no yell from him over retaining the title, and that he will recognize the winner as the legitimate holder of the title.

Because of the great reputation of the two principals, Yokel and Willoughby, among the most famous wrestlers in the world, the match between Carl Hanson and Michaelson of Milltown, Wis., has been somewhat overlooked.

Hanson has been working as never before and the chunky West end Swede is really in the condition of his career. He has taken off innumerable pounds from his mid section and is as hard as nails. While he is meeting one of the real tough boys of the middleweight division in this fellow from the other side of the state line, as Michaelson has met most of the best men of his poundage. This contest promises to show the many friends of "The Terrible Swede" his real class.

MANY PLAYERS SIGNED FOR ST. PAUL NORTHERNS

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—The dyed-in-the-wool baseball booster in these parts will doubtless follow with a great deal of pride the exploits of the men who will comprise the team of the St. Paul Northern league club, for Owner Conrad has gathered contracts of twenty-seven men, and the greater majority of them learned all they know about baseball on Minnesota back lots. With the signing of Mike Kramer, a pitcher, the outfit practically will be complete, although several other additions to the squad may be made.

Makes Appeal to Fandom.

When the Northern league secured a berth in organized baseball, interest in the organization at once was spread over the entire Northwest, and with the announcement came the news that the idea would be to boost, as far as possible, the players who have lived and played during their careers in this territory. This was enough to inspire the aspiring young tossers in the immediate locality of the several cities which will be represented, and that fandom generally will take a greater interest in baseball happenings, when home talent largely is employed, goes without saying.

Training Begins Next Week.

The Northern league players next week will begin training in nearly all of the cities in the circuit, except in the case of one or two clubs, which have planned to carry out the regular details of larger leagues by taking advantage of a training trip.

Those Already Signed.

The St. Paul roster includes many well-known players from amateur and and semi-professional ranks. Those whose contracts have been secured are the following:

Pitchers—William Pfeiffer, New Ulm, Minn.; Andy Berg, St. Paul; Raymond Poole, Lewistown, Mont.; Lefty Lucking, Perham, Minn.; Gregg Crusen, Winnebago City, Minn.; A. Doherty, St. Paul; Arthur Comer, St. Croix Falls, Wis.; John Neidenfeuhr, Shakopee, Minn.

Catchers—W. P. McGarry, St. Paul; Bernard Nelson, Windom, Minn.; Dan Doyle, Prior Lake, Minn.; Paul Geer, St. Paul.

Y. M. C. A. WINNER OF FIELD MEET

Boat Club Team Second and Polish Athletes Do Not Score.

The track team of the Y. M. C. A. won the indoor track and field meet held at the big association gymnasium last evening, the athletes of the boat club being second and the Polish athletic team being unable to register a point. While there was no athlete displaying the all-round running ability of Scotty Brown of last year's Central team, the competition on the whole was very good and the meet was one of the best that has been held under the auspices of the association.

Martin of the Y. M. C. A. won the 100-yard dash in 12 2-5. Conning and Berkleman of the same team and Radford of the boat club covered the distance in 12 3-5, while Olson of the Y. M. C. A. and Walzlak of the Polish Athletic club negotiated the distance in 12 4-5.

The association registered another first in the shot put, McArthur heaving the leaden ball 38 feet 9 inches, Lathrop of the boat club getting second place with a put of 35 feet 6 inches, Wolbin of the same team coming next with 34 feet 9 inches, while Radford of the D. B. C. made a put of 32 feet 9 inches.

Wolbin of the boat club won the high jump with a mark of 5 feet, which is somewhat behind the old record set by Cy Forgette. Radford of the boat club and Martin of the association tied at 4 feet 10 inches, while Spot of the Polish Athletic club cleared the bar at 4 feet 8 inches.

Martin was the winner in the half-mile run, his time being 2.26 2-5. Akerstrom of the same team made the distance in 2.32 and Johnson in 2.32 1-3, while Subject of the Y. M. C. A. covered the distance in 2.33.

The wrestling tournament will be the feature entertainment of this evening, this bringing the activities of the season more or less to a close. Some of the best men in the association have entered for the competition and some of the best matches that have ever been witnessed in the meets staged under the auspices of the association promise to be the result of the matches in the various classes.

One of the features of the meet is the entry of a team of wrestlers from the Polish Athletic club, a new organization that is just making its entry into the local field of sports.

ST. PAUL ROWING MEN ARE BUSY

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—The Minnesota Boat club this season will revive the Friday night regattas, which last year were abandoned, but which in previous seasons served to arouse interest in the affairs of the club and as well kept nonracing members thoroughly alive to all that was going on.

This decision was reached at a recent meeting of the board of governors, when it was announced the entire club would be equally divided and that rival double, pair oared, four-oared, eight-oared crews, as well as single scull races will be held. Commodore Corkran will be in charge of one division, while Capt. Ellerby will be the leader of the other.

The events will be held each Friday night, the first one the latter part of April, to be followed by a informal banquet of somewhat "huge" proportions.

Coach George Van Vliet will leave New York on Monday, with his wife, and immediately will assume responsibility for the men on his arrival. It was expected the new coach would not report until April 10, but he recently informed the local committee of a change in his plans.

WALTER MILLER ENTERS BUSINESS.

Today Walter Miller started work with the Quayle-Larsen firm, the little wrestler taking charge of the sporting goods department of that store. Since becoming a citizen of Duluth Walter has been desirous of entering business and decided to become identified with something that he is more or less familiar with through his experience in general athletics.

The entering of business does not mean that Miller is to forsake the mat. The little wrestler feels that the two best athletic years of his life are ahead of him, and he is negotiating at the present time for several of the biggest matches of his career.

Caponi Bests Oakley.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 27.—Tony Caponi, middleweight boxer of Chicago, had the better of Glenn Oakley in a 10-round bout here last night.

Retire St. Paul Fire Chief.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—Chief J. J. Strapp and three assistant chiefs of the St. Paul fire department were retired at a meeting of the fire commission Tuesday night. The vote was 3 to 2. Capt. Randall J. Niles was appointed successor to the deposed chief.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Duluth Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are weak,
Nature tells you about it.
The urine is nature's index.
Infrequent or too frequent passage,
Other disorders suggest kidney ills.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys.

Duluth people testify to their worth.

Mrs. M. MacGillivray, 1228½ W. Superior St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills lately, as my kidneys have been in good shape. You may continue using my former indorsement. I suffered for over a year from backache and dull pains through my loins. Any exertion made my back give out. I had headaches, couldn't rest well and was bothered by the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills have done away with these troubles, have toned up my system and have made me feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ALL-STAR CARD FOR C. A. C. SHOW

Walter Miller Arranges Fine Athletic Program for Gymnasium Fund.

All details of the athletic program of the Catholic Athletic club have been arranged. From the interest shown in the various events it looks as if a large crowd will be there and that a large sum will be raised for the purchase of additional equipment for the gymnasium.

Walter Willoughby and Walter Miller will wrestle a fifteen-minute exhibition as the headliner of the card. Mike Yokel, one of the best-natured and obliging fellows in the world, offered his services for the good cause, and he will probably go on for a short exhibition with Carl Hanson. All of the stars, and in fact every athlete on the program, are donating their services to the club simply through the courtesies the C. A. C. has extended to local and visiting athletes in the past.

Martin Bugi and Jim Nelson will box four rounds, and Abe O'Neil and Carl Mattson will mix in the 118-pound division. Ted Hempstead and Eddie Berry will appear on the program in the lightweight division, and this should be one of the features of the card.

Little Louie Zorbas will make his first public appearance following the injury he received some two months ago, the little Greek going on with Harde Peterson.

ON THE IRON RANGES

NEW COUNCIL IS IN CHARGE

Newly Chosen Officials of Chisholm Are Now Running Village.

Several Appointments Are Made By the New President of Village.

Chisholm, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old and new councils held a joint meeting last evening in the village hall. Joseph Austin, the retiring mayor, made an effective address and welcomed the new president to the chair. Before going out of office the old council passed a resolution of thanks to the various departments.

The new council, President D. C. Hackett, Trustees J. H. McNiven, William Ritchel and Matt Borlin and Minty Tramontin, recorder, then took their chairs and began the duties of their offices.

Sprinkler and flusher bids, which were left over by the old council, were laid on the table.

To Audit all Books.

The auditor, now checking the village accounts, was authorized to include in his audit every department of the village including the recorder's books, the treasurer's, municipal court and police department's records.

Numerous applications for different positions were read but no action taken. Edward Freeman was appointed village attorney at the same salary as last year.

Recorder Tramontin expressed a desire to retain the services of the present deputy, F. L. Austin, and the council approved the appointment at his present salary.

President Hackett appointed Superintendent of Schools J. P. Vaughn, Miss Nellie Z. Peterson and Willard Bayliss to a three-year term on the library board to succeed themselves, their appointment to expire July, 1915. The council approved the appointment.

Recorder Minty Tramontin is to receive the same salary that has followed the office the past several years, $50 per month.

The recorder was requested to confer with the township board regarding the road to the cemetery, which the sexton reports will be in very bad condition as soon as the immense amount of snow, which we have, begins to thaw.

To Repair Longyear Bridge.

The bridge across Longyear lake will be repaired and the foot walk extended. Village Engineer F. C. Lang will be requested to furnish the data necessary to intelligently permit the council to act.

The council will hold a short session in the near future and agree upon the various appointments which will be disposed of April 2, at which time the council will meet again.

The president will submit his appointments of committees at the next meeting.

DOING WELL IN ITASCA COUNTY

Fred Yost of East Pokegama Lake Country Thriving By Industry.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A more consistent booster for Itasca county as a farming country cannot be found than in Fred Yost, who is farming in the Lake Pokegama country, seven or eight miles from here. He came to this section only a few years ago with practically nothing and struggled along until he was able to buy a team and a couple of cows. He cleared some land and from the first raised all he needed for himself and his stock. Now he has the largest part of his farm cleared, is in good circumstances, considering his start and misfortunes, and is classed as among the best farmers today.

Mr. Yost is developing along dairy lines and he is making a great success of this branch of farming. At present he is milking only four cows, but they deliver the goods.

He gives their record as follows:

Record of His Cows.

No. 1, Daisy; daily average, 35 pounds; tests 4.4 per cent; freshened Jan. 22; age, 12 years.

No. 2, Rosy; daily average, 32 pounds; tests 4 per cent; freshened Jan. 27; age, 12 years.

No. 3, Flossy; daily average, 26 pounds; tests 3.8 per cent; freshened in May, 1912; 6 years old.

No. 4, Bobby; daily average, 28 pounds; tests 4.8 per cent; freshened Jan. 24; 10 years old.

From this [illegible] milk of cow No. 2 is used to feed three calves and the other three cows produced nine pounds during days of the month eighty-nine pounds of butter, which sold at 35 cents per pound on the local market, or $31.15, and seventeen gallons of buttermilk at 15 cents, or $2.55, making a total of $33.70 for the sixteen days.

Mr. Yost raises other market crops and keeps chickens, and he says that he never comes to town without bringing in something to sell. In the winter there is always a good market for wood, and on top of a load of wood he always brings in a few bushels of beets, turnips potatoes or some butter or eggs, or both, making a load which brings in all the way from $6 to $10 or $15.

AWAITING COMING OF MAYOR-ELECT

Something Definite as to Hibbing Changes Soon Expected.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor-elect Victor L. Power is expected home tonight from West Baden, Ind. His return to Hibbing will mean that agitation as to who will get the good jobs under the new administration of the village of Hibbing will be renewed in earnest. Delegations await the mayor-elect in Duluth. They are anxious to talk business to him regarding who are the best men to be appointed to several of the best places in the city's service, notably the job of chief of police.

Before leaving the city for West Baden Mr. Power indicated in an interview that there would be a number of changes at the city hall. He also stated at that time that all the appointments with the exception of two or three had been decided.

Two Important Changes.

The presumption is that two of the most important of these are the chief of policeship and the street commissionership. It is practically certain that S. C. Scott will succeed Robert Stratton as city attorney. For every other job within the gift of the mayor there are from one to a dozen applications. It is claimed that there will be several changes in the police department. For the position of chief of police there are ten applicants. Those in the inner councils of the new administration say, however, that not more than three of them will be seriously considered and it is by no means certain that Chief of Police Wring will be succeeded at all.

START SUITS IN VIRGINIA

Complaints in Two New Actions Filed in the Range City.

Virginia, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Malevich and Nick Slabodnik have started suit against William P. Vietch for $860 for the alleged cutting of timber on plaintiffs' land.

It is alleged that 90,000 feet of timber was cut from land situated on w½ of the nw¼ of section 5, 56-16, owned by plaintiffs.

Start Suit for Rent.

Christian Pederson has brought suit against Joseph L. Polski and his wife, Josephine, for the recovery of money alleged to be due as rent on a building that has been destroyed by fire. The defendants claim that the structure, a boarding house, was so badly damaged by fire that it became untenable.

Representative John A. Healy's attorneys have settled the suit brought against the legislator by J. E. Pulver several years ago for $150 alleged to be due on promissory notes signed by the defendant.

VIRGINIA MINE HAS BEGUN WORK

Pickands-Mather Property at Eveleth Starts the Season's Work.

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A shovel and two train crews have been put to work at the Virginia mine, in the Eveleth district. Supt. Eby is gathering the necessary men and is not finding it an easy task.

The Virginia mine is one of the Pickands-Mather properties and will be a heavy shipper this season.

WILL WIDEN AVENUE.

Hibbing Council Plans to Make First Avenue More Passable.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council decided to widen First avenue from its present narrow limit of sixteen feet, the consent of mining companies owning property along the street needed to make the street wider, having been secured.

The council decided to pay John Rimpela $287.50 for injuries sustained when employed at the electric light plant. Rimpala sued for $5,000 and secured a verdict for the amount given him.

Five bids have been received by the water and light commission for furnishing poles to divert all power and light transmission wires from Third avenue to the alleys, and the contract will be awarded at once.

The poles are to be on the ground by the first of May and at that time it is proposed to take all electric light and power wiring off Third avenue for its entire length and transfer it to the alleys. This will leave the avenue, the city's main business street, free from all poles except those of the electric railway and the posts for the new ornamental lighting system.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A masked ball will be given Friday, April 4 at the Vermilion opera house under the auspices of the S. H. & E. F. choir.

Mrs. N. J. Benson and daughter, Miss Helen, have returned to Duluth and Mr. Benson is spending a few days with them.

G. A. Whitman, banker of Eveleth, was in town Tuesday on business.

A. I. Naslund has accepted a position with the D. & I. R. R. R. at the local station.

Gus Carlson of Duluth is spending a few days in Tower.

MAKI INDICTED; MAY NOT FIGHT

Slayer of Deer River Man May Plead Guilty to Murder Charge.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An indictment has been returned by the grand jury against Herman Maki, who shot John D. McDonald Tuesday at Deer River, for murder in the first degree. Maki was arraigned last night just before the close of the afternoon session and was given until this afternoon to plead. There were some fifteen or twenty witnesses from Deer River aside from the sheriff and other officials examined by the grand jury, and it is said that the state has such a strong case against the accused man there is a likelihood that he will plead guilty.

The time of the court was occupied yesterday by the case of Follet vs. Walsh, in which the plaintiff seeks $900 damages claimed to have been sustained through securing a defective title to lands sold him by Walsh. A. L. Thwing of this city and W. B. Taylor of Deer River are appearing for the plaintiff, and Frank F. Price and Ralph A. Stone are representing the defense

Many Paying Taxes.

The opening of court was the cause of more than usual activity in all the offices of the courthouse since that date. Especially is this true of the office of County Treasurer McMahon, as the many who are here from the outlying portions of the county waited until now to come in and pay their taxes. Clerk of Court Rassmussen also has an additional rush of business, many coming in with their homestead proofs while they and their witnesses are here to get final naturalization papers, while County Auditor Spang, Probate Judge Webster, Surveyor Aldberg and others have had noticeably active days since the opening of court.

EVELETH WOMAN LOSES FINGERS

Picks Cartridge From Hot Stove and It Goes Off in Hand.

Eveleth, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Rosie Verbecha, who resides on Douglas avenue, suffered the loss of two fingers from her right hand yesterday. The injury was caused by the explosion of a rifle cartridge. Her small son had found the cartridge. The bullet had been removed and the child was picking at the powder when his mother attempted to take it away from him.

Threw It on Stove.

He threw it onto the hot stove and the woman picked it up. Just as she did so it exploded. Her hand was so badly lacerated that the surgeon attending found it necessary to amputate two fingers, and it is possible she will lose her entire hand.

BAR CHILDREN FROM "MOVIES"

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. B. S. Adams, chairman of the board of health, has issued an order to the police department ordering that special police officers be stationed at all homes under quarantine for scarlet fever and prohibiting children under 16 years of age from attending moving picture shows or public gatherings of any nature until further advice from the board.

Dr. Adams' order follows the discovery of three new cases. Two are in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindblood of 217 Pine street and the third at 215 Sellers street in the family of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Ryan. All the cases are of a mild nature.

In some of the cases reported today the disease had progressed to the point of desquamation, that stage where the skin scales off and where the danger of contagion is most pronounced. The children afflicted have been freely mingling with other children and the health authorities are quite confident other cases will be developed.

With the order barring children from public gatherings comes one from the board equally emphatic regarding places at present under quarantine, eleven in all, where special policemen will be stationed to prevent people from entering or leaving the houses.

Schools Not Closed.

"The schools of the city will not be closed," said Dr. Adams, "but it is absolutely necessary that the most stringent measures be adopted to enforce quarantine regulations if it is to be checked. The order affecting the attendance at the moving picture theaters and at public gatherings of all kinds will be effective for at least two weeks. Prompt and vigorous action is necessary to check this epidemic. While most of the cases developed here have been mild we have no assurance that the disease may not take the most malignant form in future cases. The co-operation of the public with the health authorities is absolutely necessary at this time to stamp out scarlet fever in Hibbing."

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BEAN GETS POSITION.

Former Hibbing Attorney Chosen Buhl Village Attorney.

Buhl, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thad S. Bean, formerly of Hibbing, was named village attorney of Buhl Tuesday night by a resolution unanimously indorsed by Mayor Doyle and the members of the council. Bean has been a resident of Buhl for about a month.

The new council at its first meeting appointed Bean but did not pass the necessary resolution. Influence was promptly brought to bear to have the council reconsider his appointment. Friends of A. R. Folsom were anxious to have Mr. Folsom, who is also a capable attorney reappointed and there was a good deal of wire pulling to accomplish that end.

The resolution adopted by the council settles the matter of the appointment of the village attorney for the year.

HIBBING ELKS GOING.

Many Members Will Attend Boola at Virginia Tonight.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. J. Ryder, exalted ruler of the local Elks' lodge, has chartered a special car on the interurban railway to Virginia tonight to attend the Elks' boola.

Tonight is Hibbing night at the Virginia Elks' show and the officers of the local lodge expect to get out a big delegation to attend. The Hibbing band will accompany the delegation from here and the officers expect fully seventy-five to make the trip.

CHISHOLM MAN FRACTURES HIS LEG.

Chisholm, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.) — Steve Knitcke, a young Pole, broke his left leg yesterday while walking down Second avenue, according to the report which he made to the village attorney. Kitcke turned the corner to go down a side street when he lost his footing. He will be disabled for several weeks.

To Improve Buhl.

Buhl, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new local village council is going to do things for the town this summer. Extensive repairs are to be made to the water and light plant, a system of garbage collection installed similar to that in Hibbing, the streets are to be sprinkled and a good deal of new sidewalk will be laid in various sections of the city. Buhl is expected to be one of the best towns on the range this summer.

GRAND RAPIDS TO MEET HIBBING TEAM.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The debating teams of the Grand Rapids and Hibbing high schools will debate the question, "Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Own and Control Interstate Railroads," at the auditorium of the Lincoln high school Friday night.

The Hibbing team is composed of Leon Somers, Arthur Carleton and Harold Johnson. It has been coached by the Messrs. Volweiler and Schaefer of the high school faculty. The Hibbing team has been carefully drilled and believes it can win.

Grand Rapids has one of the best teams in the northern section of the state. They have this season twice defeated Coleraine and also Duluth Central high school. When they meet the Hibbing team it will be the fourth time they have debated the question this year.

VIRGINIA TO HEAR DULUTH MINISTER.

Virginia, Minn., March 27—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. George R. Gebauer of Duluth will speak in Virginia in English at the Finnish Unitarian church, corner of Wyoming avenue and Beech street, Sunday evening at 8 on "Progressive Christianity." Arrangements have been made to have Mr. Gebauer come to Virginia to speak at one service in the church here the last Sunday of every month.

TOWER CHURCH ELECTS.

Annual Meeting of St. James Presbyterian Church Held.

Tower, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Rev. J. Mapson, the pastor, presiding and O. W. Akerson acting as secretary, the annual meeting of the St. James Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening the various reports showing the affairs in a flourishing condition.

The annual election was held and resulted as follows: Church secretary, Mrs. Albert Kitto; church treasurer, E. McLaughlin; trustee, one year, N. J. Benson; trustee, two years, Albert Kitto; trustee, three years, O. W. Akerson.

Some remarks were made by the pastor along the line of church activity in which he indicated his desire to make the Tower church a working church.

The matter of organizing a Christian Endeavor society was deferred until next Sunday evening at the close of the church service.

The gathering adjourned to the clubrooms where refreshments were served by the ladies of the church. The rest of the evening was spent in enjoying music and social intercourse. The company broke up and departed for their homes at midnight.

THE KNOW HOW

To Feed Children and Get Good Results.

There are more nervous persons made so by undigested food lying in the stomach than the average individual would suppose.

If food remains undigested in the stomach, it begins to ferment, set up gas and a large portion is thus converted into poison.

That's why imperfectly digested food may, and often does, cause irritation of the nerves and stupor of the mind—brain and nerves are really poisoned.

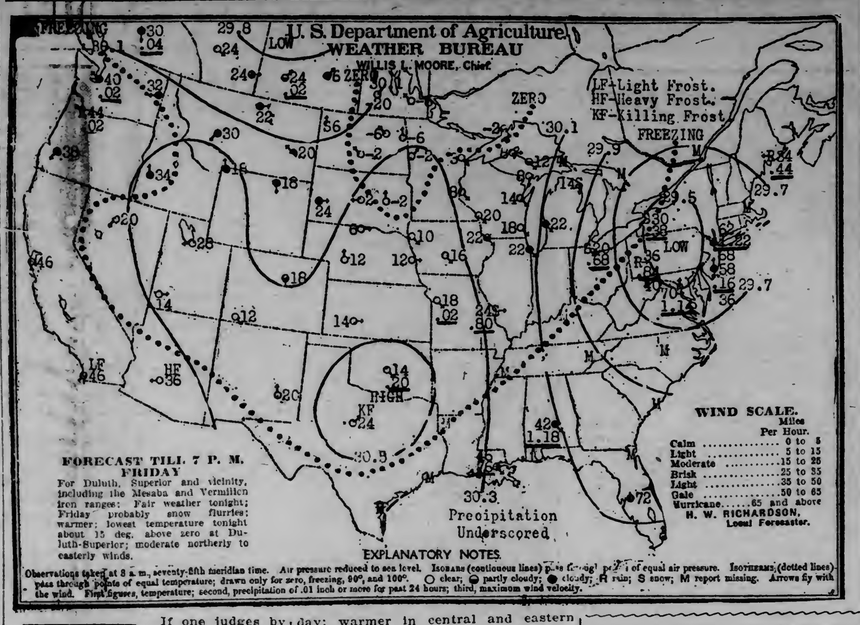
"My daughter had complained for some time of a distressed feeling in the stomach, after eating, which set me thinking that her diet was not right," writes an anxious and intelligent mother.

"She had been fond of cereals, but had never tried Grape-Nuts. From reading the account of this predigested food, it seemed reasonable to try Grape-Nuts for her case.

"The results were really wonderful. The little brain that seemed at times unable to do its work, took on new life and vigor. Every morning, now, before going to school, she eats the crisp little morsels and is now completely and entirely well, she seems to have a new lease on life—no more distress in the stomach, nor headache, but sound and well everyway." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.



New Method of Reducing Fat

Good News From Paris.

A news item from Paris informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure, is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh a pound a day without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results, however, follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous prescription) can be obtained of any druggist or the makers, the Marmola Co., Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., for seventy-five cents the large case, which is a decidedly economical price considering the number of tablets each case contains.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

If one judges by the night and early morning temperatures, Old Man Winter still has a firm grip on Duluth. When the sun approaches the zenith, winter seems to take a nap and spring asserts itself. This morning the mercury was down to 2 deg., but the water is running down the avenues today. Fair and warmer weather is predicted.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:57 and it will set at 6:30 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The eastern disturbance appears to be centered over Eastern Pennsylvania. During the last twenty-four hours light to heavy rain or snow resulted in the eastern Lake region,, Atlantic and Gulf states, and the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys, besides high winds over New York and Pennsylvania. Colder weather prevails in the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys and most of the Southern states, but in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Montana, the Western Dakotas and Wyoming the temperature has risen decidedly in connection with the depression overlying Northwestern Canada. This turn to warmer will reach the Head of the Lakes this afternoon and tonight. Killing frosts occurred last night in North-Central Texas."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 27.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin—Fall tonight; Friday fair and warmer.

Iowa—Fair, warmer in west portion; Friday fair and warmer.

Minnesota and North Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer in central and eastern portions.

Montana—Fair in east, rain or snow in west portion tonight or Friday.

Shippers' forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures of 5 to 2 deg. above zero in Eastern North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

Maccabee Easter Dance.

Tower, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tower tent, No. 7, K. O. T. M. gave their annual Easter dance on Monday night at Vermilion opera house. Kraft's orchestra furnished the music. Although the streets were filled with snow recently fallen, a good sized crowd attended. Supper was served under the able management of Mrs. Napier.

Chisholm Couple Wed.

Chisholm, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The marriage of Nick Radotich to Anna Petrak took place at 11 a. m. yesterday at the Catholic church, Rev. Father Schiffrer officiating. The newly married couple immediately went to the Monroe location where they will make their future home. Mr. Radotich is a miner working at the Monroe mine.

In accordance with the custom of the mother country the couple drove in a carriage through the main streets to the location and the carriage carrying the bride and groom was provided with music furnished by an accordion player seated on the drivers seat.

Drop Gun License Bill.

Hibbing, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Marc Atkinson of the Hibbing Commercial club has received a letter from Senator Boyle in which the senator states that the gun license law recently introduced in the form of a bill in the legislature providing for a license fee of $10 for all persons keeping a rifle or shotgun and denying that privilege to all persons not citizens has been dropped. The measure was popular with a large element among the sportsmen of this selection and had the indorsement of several of the rod and gun clubs. It was bitterly opposed by others, however, who held it was unfair discrimination.

Gilbert Musical Treat.

Gilbert, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert and the surrounding communities are looking forward to one of the finest treats of the season in musical and social circles, the annual musical and social entertainment given by the members of the teaching staff of Independent School District No. 18. The selections are musical gems and the cantata "The Garden of Flowers" has few equals in its standard of composition and pleasing effects. The members of the club contains many excellent solo voices. Miss Elizabeth Humphreys, supervisor of public school music, is the directress and she will have Mrs. W. J. Dowling for her accompanist. Mrs. Dowling is one of the ablest pianists in the Northwest. Miss M. Feyereisen will also give several choice readings on the program. The members of the club are extending invitations to out-of-town guests for the musical program and sociable.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Gus Ferman, one-time "King of the Bowery," and commonly known as "The Terrible Swede," is up against a stiffer proposition than he has ever faced in all the years he has been in and out of the police station.

Gus was bound over to the grand jury this morning on a charge of second degree assault, being accused of splitting open one side of Gus Thompson's head with a beer bottle a week ago while the two were in a St. Croix avenue rooming house. Thompson was so seriously injured that he had to be removed to St. Luke's hospital for medical attention. When he appeared in court today his head was still swathed in bandages.

It appears that Thompson and Ferman chanced to "flop" in the same room of a St. Croix avenue roosting joint, but not in the same bed. If one has ever had occasion to go through any of them this is easily understood, as beds and bunks to accommodate a dozen or more men are jammed into a space which isn't any too big for one or two persons. Duluth has an abundance of foul, insanitary, herding places of that kind, but that is another story.

As it developed at the hearing this morning Ferman and Thompson found themselves in a place of that character. Gus must have just come in from a spasmodic visit to the woods, for he had stowed numerous drinks in the copper-lined receptacle under his belt and was keeping the jag alive by frequent swigs from several bottles of beer which he had carted to the room. In a moment of inexcusable forgetfulness he invited Thompson over to have a drink. But Gus could not have forgotten for long. He must have immediately regretted the invitation so rashly extended. For when Thompson came over to the bunk to help Ferman dispose of his stock of liquid refreshment, he smashed Thompson a terrific blow over the side of the head. He inflicted a nasty wound, cutting a deep gash six inches long. The police were summoned and Thompson was hurried away to receive the attentions of a physician. In the meantime "The Terrible Swede" made his escape. He didn't have to waste and time dressing, that operation being consummated when he put on his hat. But he was picked up on the Bowery about an hour later and sent to headquarters to answer for felonious assault.

Gus has been jugged many times before, sometimes for vagrancy, sometimes for brawling, but most of the time for getting drunk. A year or two ago he drove an inoffensive fisherman from his shack on the shore of the lake, beating him severely, and took possession of his property. The police say that the most terrible thing about "The Terrible Swede" is his looks.

Joe Powers, a sailor who has been boarding in the county jail at the city's expense when he hasn't been spearing drinks and free lunches on the Bowery, again promised to get out of town if given a chance, when he was brought into police court this morning to answer a charge of begging. Taking a long shot that the city might get rid of him the court gave him until 1 o'clock to make himself scarce.

George White, a woodsman, cashed a time check in a Bowery saloon a couple of days ago. George had $80 coming, minus $14 which he had drawn or charged against him. The man behind the bar didn't notice that $14 should have been deducted and handed George $80. George immediately proceeded to celebrate. He let the coin roll like water. When the saloon keeper brought the check to the bank he found that he had handed George $14 too much. He caused the arrest of George, but was unable to make any recovery. George had already shot his wad and was released. The police did not waste any sympathy on the saloon keeper. If the one who cashed the check didn't get the benefit of the woodsman's stake, some of the other engineers of gin mills did.

Peter Zeetas was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by James Gray charging him with the larceny of a bread showcase valued at $9. It is claimed that Gray loaned the case to Zeetas to aid him selling bread in his place of business at 115 West Fourth street, and that Zeetas sold the case. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried next Thursday morning.

Peter Leko admitted in police court this morning that he had smashed Andrew Murphy in the eye, but claimed that it was only after Murphy had spoken insultingly of his wife and addressed a vile remark to himself. The case was set over until this afternoon for disposal.

* * *

Gus Gilbertson, fisherman, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried this afternoon. It is claimed that he administered a beating to Ed Dechene. Dechene was in court this morning and admitted that he had been drunk. He had his head draped in bandages, said to have been made necessary by the punishment inflicted upon him by Gilbertson.

* * *

Peter Johnson Gulland, charged with stealing $70 from Ole Bordal several mornings ago, was bound over to await the action of the grand jury after a preliminary examination in police court yesterday afternoon. The two went to bed together in a Bowery hotel. When Ole woke up both Peter and his money were missing. Peter claimed that he took Ole's coin for safe keeping.

* * *

Mike Pavich was released yesterday afternoon after a preliminary hearing in police court on a charge of stealing $50 from John Oberg. It appeared that witnesses had seen Oberg spending his money after the time he claimed that it had been stolen by Pavich.

* * *

Walter Mattson, charged with knocking down Felix Loss in St. Croix alley and robbing him of $2, was bound over to the grand jury after his examination yesterday. Mattson was arrested while he was in the act of going through the pockets of his victim.

* * *

John Moody, the colored man charged with violating the white slave statutes by enticing a female into a house of ill-fame, was bound over to the grand jury after his hearing in police court yesterday. The police secured possession of a book containing the names of over 200 women and girls. It is claimed that Moody asked women who came to his stand to have their shoes shined to write their names in the book. The police state that he made improper advances to at least the last three girls he asked to enter their names. The names include those of many young women well known in the city, and it is not impossible that some of those whose names appear may be subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury at its next session.

Julius Sedman and Sam Birch both denied that they were fighting on the street when they were arrested last evening. Their cases were set for this afternoon for disposition.

BRIEF INTERVIEWS WITH ZENITH CITY VISITORS

Conditions at Omaha.

Mike Yokel, the world's champion wrestler, is one of the first persons to reach here with any first-hand knowledge of the distress at Omaha. Yokel passed through that city the day before yesterday en route from Salt Lake City to Duluth.

According to the Mormon athlete the conditions have been somewhat exaggerated. Yokel basing this simply on the conditions he saw during his stay of several hours there.

Men are being pressed into service through the medium of martial law, and any man, even a traveler, wandering down the street or standing aimlessly on a corner, might be told to go to work and help relieve conditions in certain parts of the city.

For miles along the line entering Omaha, Yokel said that the passengers could see abandoned houses. The worst havoc, he stated, was not in the business sections of the city, but in the outlying districts and in the suburbs of Omaha.

The Lumber Market.

E. J. Gilloughly of Mellen, Wis., one of the prominent lumber dealers of that city, who is registered at the St. Louis today, stated that the increase in the price of lumber has curtailed the market somewhat, but stated that there is a steady and consistent demand for the average grades of lumber, with present conditions pointing to an increase in the market demands.

Interest in Election.

Charles Jesmore of Eveleth, at the St. Louis, declares the people upon the iron ranges are taking a very keen interest in the outcome of the political race here, the interest of the iron range people being increased by the fact that this is the first commission form contest ever held in the northern part of the state.

Want Tariff Revision.

According to W. B. Whittlesy, a guest of the Spalding, there is going to be a perceptible hesitation upon the part of the bigger interests of the country, pending the settlement of the tariff question.

"There is no doubt of the fact that the majority of the people of the United States are thoroughly and heartily in favor of revision of the tariff," Mr. Whittlesy declared, "but the absorbing question is just how much revision is to be made.

"Business men, I believe, have confidence that the revision will be made along sane lines, and this being the case it should not result in any slackening of the tide of prosperity that the country has experienced during the past few months."

WAS VICTIM OF APPENDICITIS

JOHN HAROLD LAVIN.

The funeral of John Harold Lavin, 20 years old, who died at St. Mary's hospital of appendicitis, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lavin, 831 West Third street, and later from the First Swedish Lutheran church. Rev. Mr. Swan will have charge of the services. Interment will be at London road cemetery. Mr. Lavin was well known in the city, having resided here many years, and will be mourned by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

CALLING FOR PAVING BIDS

Eight Big Street Improvement Contracts Will Be Let.

City Clerk C. S. Palmer is today advertising for bids for eight street improvements which, it is expected, will be completed the coming season. City Engineer Wilson has prepared the specifications and if the contracts are not awarded by the present administration they will be ready for the consideration of the commission when will take charge April 14. Bids are being asked on the following jobs: East First street between First and Sixth avenues; East Fourth street between Sixth and Fourteenth avenues; Seventeenth avenue east between Fourth and Sixth streets; Sixth street between Eighteenth avenue east and Woodland avenue; Twenty-third avenue West from Michigan street to Piedmont avenue; Victoria street between Woodland avenue and Hartley road; Twenty-second avenue east between Fourth and Sixth streets; West Fifth street between Thirty-eighth and Forty-third avenues.

COLLEGE COURSE GIVEN BY MAIL.

The University of Missouri Plans a New Department.

Kansas City Star: A university education at home for all Missourians who may desire to embrace the opportunity. That is the purport of an appropriation bill which has passed both houses of the state legislature and now awaits the governor's signature. And the cost of the education to include all branches of arts and sciences, agriculture, and the teachers' college, will be only that of postage stamps.

That announcement for the opening of a correspondence school at the University of Missouri at Columbia next fall was made by Isador Loeb, dean of the university faculty, at the Hotel Baltimore last night. Dr. Loeb is in Kansas City to address the ways and means committee of the Commercial club today.

"The general appropriations for the university provide for approximately $1,400,000," he said. "Of this amount almost $400,000 is for new buildings and equipment and $25,000 is for the establishment of an extension school.

"The university has conducted an extension branch for several years, sending lecturers to different parts of the state, and opening branch short courses in agriculture in several counties. This has been done out of the maintenance fund, as it will continue to be done.

"The appropriation of the legislature will allow us to open a correspondence department, which will be adequate for the instruction of all persons who apply. The department will have as its primary work that of furnishing courses in the agriculture department. These will be as complete as it is possible to make them. Other courses will be opened in all subjects taught in the arts and sciences and the teachers' colleges."

The general appropriation fund carries $50,000 more for the maintenance of the school than did the appropriations of the last legislature. Of the new building fund $275,000 is for the purchase of a site and the construction of a new library building. The remainder is for the construction of a new biology building, both of which have been needed for years.

MEN! WEAK, NERVOUS OR DISEASED—STRENGTH AND VITALITY RESTORED

COME AND BE CURED

Young and middle-aged men, if you have violated the laws of health or been guilty of early indiscretions or excesses, and conscious of a constant drain upon your system, do not permit your health and strength to be sapped away. Do not permit diseases and habits to break down your constitution. Insanity, nervous prostration and physical suffering are in most cases due to neglect. Awake to your true condition and preserve your manhood and vital powers. If you are weak, gloomy, discouraged, have poor memory, lack ambition, heart palpitation, trembling of the limbs, dizziness, etc., our reconstructive and vitalizing methods will positively make you strong, vigorous and manly. We have cured thousands of weak and diseased men and can cure you. Don't give up in despair because "medical companies" and "free prescriptions" have failed to cure you. Your case deserves the personal attention and professional skill of an experienced and trustworthy specialist. Our original and exclusive methods act specifically in all cases of Weakness, Drains and Nervo-Vital ailments and will establish perfect manhood in most stubborn and seemingly incurable cases. Even cases that were neglected or improperly treated after they had been given up as incurable by some of the most noted physicians, both in this and the old countries. We will build up your physical strength; brighten your mental faculties; restore your powers by promoting increased nervous energy and good circulation. Our methods in other Pelvic disorders are just as satisfactory. Varicose Veins, Hydrocele, Urethral Obstructions, Discharges, Blood Poison, Sores, Ulcers, Prostate Troubles, Painful and Distressing Symptoms that accompany Kidney, Bladder, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Sciatica, Tumors, Stomach Troubles, Prostate Affections, Piles, Pimples, Eczema and Urinary Diseases cured by painless methods. Every man who has the misfortune to be afflicted with any of the above ailments should at once face the seriousness of his malady. LAST MEETING OF COMMITTEE

Commercial Club Branch to Hold Annual Gathering April 3.

Five Directors Will Be Elected Wednesday, April 9.

The annual meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club will be held next Thursday evening, April 3.

The chairman of committees and heads of departments of the club are busy preparing their reports on the year's work. The club has been unusually active during the past year, and the reports will sum up a record of accomplishment that officers of the club say will be most illuminating.

The meeting next week will be the last of the committee which has served during the last year, as a new committee will be appointed by the president after the annual meeting of the club.

The annual meeting of the club proper will be held on the evening of Wednesday, April 9. The election will be held on the same day, five directors to be elected for a term of two years. Those whose terms expire are James A. Ferguson, Bentley P. Neff, W. J. McCabe, James Maney and C. A. Luster. The hold-over directors, elected last year, are R. B. Knox, George A. Sherwood, J. O. Lenning, George A. French and H. R. Armstrong.

Mr. Ferguson is president of the club, Mr. Neff, first vice president; Mr. Knox, second vice president, and W. J. McCabe, treasurer.

JUDGE ENSIGN WILL BE HOST

Will Entertain in Honor of Judges Dibell and Fesler.

Judge J. D. Ensign will be host this evening at a dinner, which will be given in honor of Judge Homer B. Dibell, a member of the St. Louis county district bench, and recently appointed supreme court commissioner, a newly created office. The dinner will also be in honor of Bert Fesler, who has been appointed district judge to succeed Judge Dibell. The guests will be: Judges W. A. Cant, H. A. Dancer, Homer B. Dibell, Bert Fesler, Martin J. Hughes, County Attorney Warren E. Greene, and Attorneys Thomas Wood, John G. Williams of Duluth and Oldenberg of Carlton.

PERRY WERDEN IS CHIEF OF UMPIRES

Barton Completes List By Signing of Minneapolis Veteran.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Barton of the Northern league today completed his umpiring staff by signing Perry Werden, chief of umpires.

Werden's name is a household word wherever baseball is played. The former "king of first basemen" is an experienced umpire, having served one year in the American association, besides officiating in numerous minor and semi-professional leagues.

The staff consists of Perry Werden, Claude Elliott, William J. Carney, Theodore G. Nelson and John Dunleavy. The umpires will meet President Barton in Minneapolis three days before the season opens when various rules will be gone over and final instructions given.

To date no official protests concerning the Northern league schedule has been filed with President Barton and the latter is at a loss to know why the Duluth and Winona club owners are issuing complaints through the press without notifying him.

PRESIDENT BLUME IS NOT SURE OF WEATHER.

President Harry Blume of the local baseball club is negotiating with the Grand Forks and Winnipeg teams with the idea of changing some of the early games of the spring schedule. The head of the Duluth club is dissatisfied with the way the schedule has been arranged, and no one familiar with conditions here blames him in the least. Duluth plays at home during all of May, and should the weather happen to be what some of the early months of the past have been, it will prove disastrous for the coffers of the Duluth association. It is the idea of Mr. Blume to exchange some of the games dated here for May with the two teams to the north.

Floded as Never Before.

Cambridge, Ohio, March 27.—Via long distance telephone to Pittsburg—The Tuscarawas, Walhending and Muskingum rivers flooded as never before and the water in some places five miles wide, Eastern Ohio is flood bound. Great loss of life in Eastern Ohio has not been verified, Zanesville being the only city from which more than one death has been reported.

THOMAS LAWSON'S SON IS BREEDER OF FANCY DOGS

MR. AND MRS. ARNOLD LAWSON.

Arnold Lawson, son of Thomas F. Lawson, and his wife are breeders and collectors of fine dogs and among the most enthusiastic exhibitors at dog shows all over the country. Recently Mr. Lawson bought in England and personally imported some of the finest English bull dogs ever seen in this country. They include Irish Boy, who is shown in this picture. He is a heavy-weight. He won a medal at a Birmingham show just before coming to this country. Champion Centaur, the best champion lightweight in the world, Champion Beaming Blunderbuss, Juanita, Newington Supreme and Kelvington Medora were also in the lot which Mr. Lawson imported.

COMMENCEMENT DAY AT CROOKSTON FARM SCHOOL

CROOKSTON AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL BAND.

Crookston, Minn., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the baccalaureate sermon preached Sunday last by Rev. J. C. Roseland, commencement week of the Crookston school of agriculture opened. Last evening the class day exercises were carried out, with an excellent program, in the auditorium, including the class play, "The Man From Brandon," the class history by Oscar Lee, class prophecy by Orville Harrington, who also gave the class will, and the class song by Albert Erlandson.

This afternoon the commencement day program was given, opening with a fine selection by the school band, and a splendid chorus following the invocation by Rev. S. J. Hedelund of Christ's Episcopal church. The class oration was given by Iver J. Westad, "We'll Teach By Example," and was a very fine effort. Next came a demonstration of seed corn by Walter Lindquist and Richard Nelson. Following a vocal solo by Miss Frances Hovey came a demonstration of salads by Miss Teckla Erlandson, the only girl in the class. The commencement address on "Education For the Times" was an inspiring discourse by Dr. J. S. Young, University of Minnesota, followed by the presentation of diplomas by C. G. Selvig.

1913 Graduates.

Following is a list of the graduates in the class of 1913, twenty in number: Iver J. Westad, class president, Flaming; Richard Nelson, Jonstad; Nels P. Pederson, Flaming; Charles W. Brown, Crookston; Fred C. Lieberg, Haug; John A. Rud, Radium; Walter E. Lindquist, Viking; Teckla Erlandson, Kennedy; Albert Erlandson, Kennedy; Lionel Skibness, Battle Lake; Martin Landby, Swift; Melkar Solberg, Bagley; Orville B. Harrington, Orleans; Oscar M. Lee, Hendrum; Henry E. Mueller, Gary; Fred Frederickson, Pelan; William Thorkelson, Fosston; Syvert Dahl, Bagley; David C. Berg, Fosston, and Herman H. Lee, Erskine.

COMMISSION IS WORKING WELL

Industrial High School Is a Well-Governed Institution.

With the new commission government in force at the Duluth Industrial high school, the institution is fast becoming the model school of Duluth.

Since the commission took hold of the affairs of the school there are now exceptionally few absences marked against the pupils. Such a thing as "skipping class" is also fast disappearing. All this effective work is being done by the members of the commission and S. A. Foster, principal of the school, who is also the chief justice of the supreme court.

The new commission meets for a short period each afternoon and for a regular session every Friday afternoon. On Friday afternoon the weekly reports are secured from every teacher at the school, and wherever a student fails to make the proper excuse for his absence or tardiness, he is immediately called before the commission and caused to explain. Only a written permission by the principal or a letter from a parent will aid in exonerating a pupil from such charges.

"Through our new system," said Mr. Foster this morning, "there are now but half of the absences formerly recorded at the institution. Pupils are afraid to play 'hookey,' as they realize what it may mean. Being brought before a commission and then caused to undergo a severe examination is not at all pleasing. The students now make it a rule to stay away only in case of sickness of some other urgent reason."

The commission has taken many of these smaller duties away from the principal, who also co-operates and meets with them at all times. The system is a splendid one and promises to make the local institution a model for the city.

The members of the commission are: Miss Agnes Keller, mayor; Edwin Pearson, Miss Mabel Melin, Harry Randall, John Davis, Miss Eva Crosby, Miss Vivian Nichols, Charles Nichols and Erland Larson.

MARRIED MEN VS. BACHELORS

Wade's "Kids" Will Meet Veterans in Novel Contest.

Youth and Age will be pitted against each other at the Western Curling rink this evening, when the post-season contest between the married men and bachelors will start. Probably the most interesting game of the evening will be the one between Frank H. Wade, president of the club, and his son, Richard F. Wade.

For the past three years, ever since young Wade has curled, he has played with his father. He was a member of the famous Wade's kids, who took such a prominent part in the various bonspiels during the past two years. And now, in this contest, the son has collected a rink of boys his own age and he proposes to play against his father and three other veterans of the game.

The Wade, Jr., rink will consist of J. Donald Joe McDonald and Russell Kiltin. The Wade, Sr., rink will consist of Sorenson, Fillatrault and Mallory.

The lineup of the other rinks entered in the contest is as follows:

Married Men—	Bachelors.—
Lyons,	Lund,
Brown,	Quinn,
Iltis,	Wilkins,
Scott, skip.	Olson, skip.
Wakeman,	Forbes,
Evered,	Sullivan,
Method,	Daugaard,
Zauft, skip.	Holland, skip.

SAYS MANY BALLOTS WILL BE SPOILED.

That at least 10 per cent of the votes cast at the election next Tuesday will be void is the claim of Thomas Olafson, one of the members of the charter commission.

Mr. Olafson stated this morning that the voters of the city are showing an indifference to the preferential voting plan, and that as a result many of the ballots will go to waste. He bases his claim on the fact that several votes have been voided in every straw ballot taken so far.

"If the citizens would only study the ballot for a few minutes and carefully read the directions," said Mr. Olafson this morning, "then every vote will count. It would be a large loss if 10 per cent of the votes are thrown out next Tuesday."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATION.

The annual St. Patrick's day celebration of the St. James' Catholic church will be held this evening at the Great Eastern hall, 210 Central avenue. Among the features of the evening will be an address by Ray M. Hughes, a play, "A Noble Outcast," by the young people, Irish medleys by Jackson's orchestra and vocal solos by Mrs. Leo Ball and Capt. George Mahon.

CALL FOR IRON WORKERS RESULTS FROM CYCLONE

Five structural iron workers employed at the Island Creek dock left yesterday for Joliet, Ill., in answer to a call for men from that city. The cyclone last Sunday destroyed a large contracting job, while the Heyl-Patterson company of that city has near Omaha, and the call for men has been sent throughout the country. Several men employed on the Northwestern fuel dock at Superior also left for Joliet.

Railway Club Smoker.

The Mesaba Railway club held a smoker last evening at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. Peter Swenson, foreman of the car repair department, gave the principal address of the evening. Some stereopticon slides were shown.

During the evening a program of musical numbers was rendered as follows:

Vocal solo ..... Thomas McCollum.

Duet ..... Morton Kreitter and Mr. McCollum.

Piano solo ..... Mrs. C. B. Gilbert.

Selections ..... Shop Orchestra.

J. W. Kreitter, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Bowling Tournament.

The two-men bowling tournament at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. began last evening and will continue until April 20. Each team will play thirty-six games and prizes will be awarded to the one winning the largest number of games, the one making the highest average, the highest score and the man making the highest individual score.

The personnel of teams in the tournament follows: J. Anderson and R. Barydon, W. H. Schulz and J. Balgaard, H. Greneaud and F. McCabe, S. A. Hill and A. G. Elner, E. Wombacker and A. Asher, C. Green and O. Clement, S. J. Raetz and J. L. Smith, L. H. Averson and L. C. Elbeson, A. P. Hodapp and C. H. Miller, L. Jarvis and S. G. Hart, W. Lemal and W. Rossitter, W. Bishop and A. Gilderman.

Cloquet Masons Here.

A delegation of Masons from Cloquet visited in West Duluth this morning and inspected the local temple for the purpose of obtaining pointers for a structure to be erected by the Cloquet lodge. W. B. Getchell took the party about and showed them the city. They also inspected the downtown temple later in the day.

Car Hits Sleigh.

A heavy delivery sleigh belonging to Mattson & Carlson was struck by a westbound Aerial bridge car at Thirty-eighth avenue west and Oneota street, shortly after 8 o'clock last evening. No one was injured. The fender of the car was slightly bent and the rear of the sleigh damaged as a result of the collision.

West Duluth Briefs.

Rev. J. A. Krantz of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street, returned this noon from Two Harbors, where he conducted mission meetings the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Spurbeck of Proctor have returned from a six weeks' visit in New Orleans and other Western cities.

The mid-week meetings of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, have been postponed on account of the state Sunday school convention.

Mrs. Charles Chilstrand of 131 South Fifty-ninth avenue west entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church at her home this afternoon.

Lionel Fairbanks and George Walsh of St. Paul, delegates to the Sunday school convention, are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyes, 705 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Mrs. Barbara Berger entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the New Duluth Catholic church at her home yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. C. C. Allis of St. Paul has left for her home after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson of New Duluth.

West Duluth lodge, No. 168, I. O. O. F., will entertain at cards this evening at the Odd Fellows' hall, 615 Central avenue, for the members of the Rebekah lodge and their friends.

Mrs. George Smith of 623 Central avenue, who was reported ill at her home, is convalescent.

Mrs. Charles Arliss of St. Paul left yesterday for her home after spending the past week at the home of her brother, Ernest Pearson, 6111 Raleigh street.

LA FOLLETTE'S NAME CHEERED

No Reference to Roosevelt at North Dakota Insurgents' Meet.

Fargo, N. D., March 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Insurgent Republican meeting here this afternoon, R. M. Pollock of Fargo was made presiding officer. Speeches were made by United States Senator Gronna, A. T. Cole, Fargo; Judge Ellsworth, Jamestown; H. Thoresen, Grand Forks; F. E. Packard, Bismarck; E. Elken, Mayville; H. Sorlie, Buston, and J. M. Hanley, Mandan. All were Progressive Republicans except Sorlie, who was a Bull Mooser. Each reference to La Follette was enthusiastically cheered and Roosevelt's name was not mentioned.

All the speakers strongly favored a continuation of the Progressive Republican league and officers will be chosen before adjournment. It was announced that no steps will be taken at this meeting to select candidates for either governor or United States senator.

Has Risen Eleven Feet.

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—The sage of the Ohio river here at 7 o'clock this morning was 33.6 feet, a rise of 11 feet in twenty-four hours. The river is now rising at the rate of about 4 inches an hour. Rain and snow fell generally throughout the Ohio valley last night and early today.

Tacoma high schools are soon to include a preparatory course for nurses.

First of all, a good, clean and efficient business administration.

Municipal ownership of all public utilities.

Will use my best endeavors to at once establish by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant in the city of Duluth, for municipal and commercial purposes. Also to establish municipal docks in the city of Duluth at the earliest possible time.

I stand for strict law enforcement, without fear or favors to anyone, and will use my best endeavors to pass and enforce an ordinance prohibiting the granting of a license to sell intoxicating liquors in the city for a period of one year from the dato of the conviction of any person for the violation of any liquor law or ordinance in force.

I am in favor of the abolishment of the so-called red light district.

I am for further readjustment of taxation.

I am in favor of an eight-hour working day at the current and usual wages.

I am for all that will make Duluth a moral, clean and better city.

I have worked nine years for the city at low wages, but do not regret it because I know more about city affairs now, and believe my experience will be of some value to the city by serving as one of your commissioners.

I ask for your kind support.

CHURCH PEOPLE WORK ALL NIGHT ON WALLS.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, March 27.—Led by clergymen, who called their congregations together and emphasized the urgent need of assistance, and aided by children and men of endangered villages in this section, scores of men worked all night and continued their efforts today to prevent threatened breaks in the banks of the Lewiston reservoir. The walls were holding at noon.

The first relief train entered this city from Toledo last night. Two hundred passengers of the wrecked Pennsylvania train, who have been marooned here, were taken to Urbana during the night.

MUST SPEND LIFE IN PRISON

New Trial for Thomas James Refused By Judge Dibell.

Court Must Under the Law Give Him Life Sentence.

Thomas James, negro, who fatally stabbed Rudolph Miller, white, during a quarrel in a Michigan street saloon last October, and who was convicted by a district court jury last December of the crime of murder in the second degree, has been denied a new trial by Judge Dibell.

James is probably doomed to spend the remainder of his life within the walls of Stillwater penitentiary, for the sentence which must be imposed by the court, under the law, is life imprisonment. James' only hope is a faint one. It is the possibility that the supreme court will reverse the order filed today by Judge Dibell denying the motion for a new trial, provided an appeal is taken to the higher tribunal.

Murder in the second degree carries with it the same penalty as murder in the first degree—that of life imprisonment. The court, which will sentence James, has no option of making the term shorter.

It was on the night of Oct. 21 last that the fatal affair for which James must spend the rest of his life in prison, took place. James met Miller in Axel Matel's saloon, 419 West Michigan street. James was a waiter employed at the Spalding hotel. Miller was known as a saloon "bouncer."

The men engaged in a game of cards known as "high five." During the progress of the game they quarreled. Miller unceremoniously kicked James out of the place. James grew furious and protested to bystanders that he had been robbed. He attempted twice to re-enter the barroom but was thrown out on both occasions.

Burning for revenge, James slipped quickly over to the hotel and returned to the saloon with a large knife concealed on his person. When Miller attempted the third time to keep him from entering the saloon, he drew the knife, slashed Miller across the face and made a deep thrust in his back. Miller sank in a heap and James fled into the night. He ran into the arms of two policemen who brought him back to the saloon.

Threatened Negro.

In the meantime, Miller, too weak to walk, crawled on his hands and knees to the back of the bar, where he pulled open a drawer and pulled a revolver from it. When the policemen appeared a moment later with James in custody, Miller pointed the loaded gun at James and with an oath on his lips threatened to shoot the negro on the spot. An officer knocked the gun from his hands.

Miller was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he died of pneumonia eight days later. James was arrested at the time, charged with first degree assault. Following Miller's death, the charge was changed to that of murder in the first degree. He was indicted on this charge by the November grand jury.

On the trial of the case which was concluded on Dec. 6 last, James pleaded self defense. One of the issues which was made was the introduction of testimony showing that Miller was known to have been of a quarrelsome and troublesome temperament and in police circles as being a bully and a bad character.

James sought a new trial on the ground that the verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree was not warranted by the evidence. The court listened to lengthy arguments on this and other points presented by Warner E. Whipple, attorney for James, and Warren E. Greene, then assistant county attorney. The court after reviewing the evidence, makes the following memorandum:

"The defendant was indicted for the crime of murder in the first degree and was convicted of murder in the second degree. There was submitted to the jury the first and second degrees of murder, manslaughter in the first degree, and the first and second degrees of assault.

"The only claim made on the motion for a new trial is, as I understand it, that the jury was not justified in finding that the assault made by the defendant upon Miller caused his death. I do not understand that it is claimed that the evidence did not justify a verdict of guilty of assault in the first degree, which is the equivalent of murder in the second degree, when death follows.

"The jury was amply justified in finding that there was an intent to kill, or even that there was a premeditated intent to kill.

"The assault was made by Miller on the night of Oct. 21, 1912, with a large knife. There was a hole cut in his windpipe and a stab wound pierced his lung. There were many other wounds, it was a bloody affair, and there was a great loss of blood and a great weakening of the system. Two days later Miller developed pneumonia, which manifested itself in the portion of the lung injured. He died on Oct. 29. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia.

Cause of Death.

"Miller was an alcoholic and an easy subject for pneumonia. It is conceded that pneumonia is a germ disease. It may come at any time without an injury. One in a weakened condition is more susceptible to it and it is more likely to be fatal to such a one. Miller might have been attacked by pneumonia and have succumbed to it at any time. It is possible that he would have died, at the same time he did die, from pneumonia, though he had had no altercation with the defendant and had never seen him. It may be merely a coincidence that the pneumonia, followed by death, came just two days after the stabbing. Usually laymen, and I think physicians, would see a relation of cause and effect rather than a coincidence. The contention of the defendant is that it must have been found, as a matter of law, only a coincidence and a casual relation could not rigidly be found.

"One of the physicians, the one who first attended Miller, was quite confident in his testimony that the stabbing was the cause of death through the intervening pneumonia. The other physician, who attended him later, was disinclined to say that it was, and gave no positive opinion one way or the other. There were many circumstances appealing to the lay mind, and probably to the medical mind, as proof that the stabbing was the cause of death. Indeed it would seem quite the natural thing that pneumonia should follow the wound at the time it did and death result.

"For my part, I am unable to see how a different conclusion could have been honestly and intelligently reached by the jury. They were given every opportunity to find differently. The state was put to the utmost limit of proof both of the commission of the crime at all, and of the fact that the crime resulted in Miller's death.

"I have reviewed the evidence with great care, and with a feeling quite sympathetic with the defendant, and with a ready willingness to grant a new trial, did the circumstances at all permit. With every possible opportunity of finding the defendant guilty at all, or guilty of a crime less than a homicide, the jury upon due consideration found him guilty of murder in the second degree. They could not have been prejudiced against the defendant. They may well enough have been sympathetic for him because of the unfavorable characteristics of Miller which were detailed at length. The court ought not to disturb a verdict so reached."

FORMER DULUTHIAN IN CYCLONE

Writes His Son About Terrific Wind Storm That Devastated City of Omaha.

W. E. King, formerly of Duluth, and now secretary of the Gate City League of Omaha, was in the fearful storm which took toll of so many lives in Omaha this week. His son, Earl King, is here with his grandmother, Mrs. M. King, 111 West Fifth street, with whom he plans to reside in future, and this morning received a letter from his father telling of the devastation caused by the storm there. The letter, in part, follows:

"No doubt, you have heard of the terrible tornado that hit Omaha last Sunday, and probably also you are anxious about me. Well, I'm all right, although about 200 were killed and about 500 injured. I came through without a scratch, so did all in the house, although Crab's was all torn to pieces. Gifford's house was all torn to pieces, although no one was hurt. Street car traffic is entirely demoralized and today we are having the heaviest fall of snow of the season. The auditorium is full of homeless people and the city is being guarded by the state troops.

"Since writing the above they have just taken an infant—so badly mutilated that the sex cannot be determined—from a pile of debris just west of here on Corby street. Many lost their lives in the Diamond theater, where you have been many times. Son, it was awful. No one is allowed to go through the devastated district without a permit from the superintendent of police. I got one, so have seen it all.

"To give you an idea of the storm freaks, Richman's store, just next door to this place, is completely demolished, and in many cases houses are torn from their foundations and are many feet in the opposite direction from the way the storm traveled. The paper reports can't possibly exaggerate the terrible disaster. Many people who took to cellars were simply buried there."

STORIES OF THE CONGO JUNGLE

An English Traveler Told of Sleeping Elephants, Looking Like a Black Mountain, a Gorilla Which Stole a Woman, and a White Hermit.

New York Evening World: From the wilds of the upper Congo there came into New York a few days ago J. St. Clair Hamilton, an Englishman, tanned to an old oak finish. He brought with him a cargo of rare tales of the wild lands through which he has tracked the last year.

"We were traversing a marigold-smelling river, slow and sluggish of current, in Angola," said Mr. Hamilton, "when the attention of my canoe men was attracted by what appeared to be a vast black mountain in the jungle which grew thick and close up to either bank of the river. I decided to investigate and discovered that what had appeared to be a black mountain was a herd of elephants. They all lay upon the ground and it did not take long for me to discover that they had been overcome by the sleeping sickness.

"I thought it might be a good idea to get out before they woke up. So we re-embarked. The sleeping sickness is very common in that country. We passed through whole villages where every one was wrapped in lethargy. When the disease reaches a crisis the well ones carry out the sick to die in the jungle.

Adventure With a Gorilla.

"One day we came upon a small village, in which the natives were in terrible distress. A giant gorilla had been harassing them for days. Its last outrage had been to carry off a woman, one of the wives of the chief.

"The natives of this village were very good to us, giving us goats, chickens and other offerings. I decided we would hunt the gorilla and avenge the friendly chief. Two nights after we arrived there came from the jungle a dull sound, like the beating of a huge tom-tom. The men declared it was the gorilla. I summoned my bearers and the natives and we went out into the jungle.

"Suddenly the drumming noise ceased and before we knew it the foremost of our party had almost stumbled over the immense, hairy beast. The gorilla leaped at the man with a savage roar that reverberated through the forest. He seized the bearer and before I could interfere had buried his teeth in the man's shoulder. I raised my rifle and fired twice at the monster and then with a humanlike cry it relinquished its hold and dashed off. No, we never saw it again nor did the chief ever see his wife any more; but as he had six others perhaps this didn't vex him unduly."

A White Hermit in the Jungle.

"Possibly the most remarkable thing that occurred to me," said Mr. Hamilton, "was the discovery of a white hermit of the jungle. He was an Englishman, but long exposure and his manner of life made him appear almost like a native. He was almost as hairy as a chimpanzee and his locks and beard hung to his waist.

"He took us into a rough hut he had built, outside the village in which he resided as a sort of ruler—imagine my surprise to find that inside it, the poor fellow had pinned up with thorns pictures of Queen Victoria, taken from an English illustrated paper of many years before.

"He had lived the same sort of life forty years and had lost ambition for any other. He happened to become a hermit when his companion (they were both ivory hunters) died of fever. He took us to his comrade's grave, above which he had erected a rude cross. He had a rusty rifle but no ammunition and had not had for many years. He hunted with spears and bow and arrow, like the natives. He would not tell us his name nor anything about himself, so we called him Ben Gunn, after the wild man in Treasure Island, you know."

QUEEN OF POSTCARD LAND

Mlle. Marabath of Vienna Is the Loveliest Model in Europe.

From the Chicago Tribune: "Cast in so slight and exquisite a mold, so mild and gentle, so pure and beautiful, that earth seemed not her element, nor its rough creatures her fit companions."

Daily before a photographer's windows in the Graben, the Austrian Boulevard des Italiens, Vinnese of high and low degree jostle one another to gaze upon the lovely face of Mlle. Marabath, the Postcard Queen of Europe.

Mlle. Marabath has become the favorite choice of Parisian dressmakers and milliners to carry the styles afar from Christmas time her face goes around the world on postcards, and at the season of valentines she thus bears sweet messages from lover to lover.

A Model Since Childhood.

Mlle. Marabath has been posing for photographs ever since she was a little girl. In Vienna it is the custom, just as, indeed, it is elsewhere, for beautiful girls and womtn to have their photographs placed on exhibition by photographers and sold for the income they will bring. Many a woman of fashion has earned pin money in this easy way. And more than one poor girl has thus found her face to be her fortune.

There are innumerable models with whom this young girl competes, but she easily carries off the palm through the delicately intellectual quality of her sweet young face.

In figure she is slender. Her feet are slim, with well arched insteps. Her hair is superb and her even teeth are as white as milk. Her complexion is clear and fresh. She has a pretty trick of archness in her glances and her manners. The delicate tint of her cheek, the deep shadows of her eyes are lustrous with health.

Most Often Among Flowers.

History relates that as long ago as the fifteenth century Vienna was "an enormous garden surrounded by orchards and vineyards.' Tradition says that Holland got its first tulips from Vienna. And one of the pleasantest festivals recorded in story is that of the yearly discovery with pomp and revelry of the first violet of spring in Viennas neighborhood.

So one frequently finds photographs of Mlle. Marabath in bowers of blossoms.

She is equally fascinating in a great variety of poses. Sometimes we find her in fichu and old fashioned bonnet. Frequently she appears in simple Greek dress and calls to mind that classic description of Helen:

Fairer than the evening air,
Clad in the beauty of a thousand stars.

But whatever her pose or her costume, she is the fairest of all postcard models in Europe and the most sought after the world over.

MEN WHO STEAL GIRLS' HAPPINESS

Something About the Girl and the Man Who Poses as a Lover. But Does Not Offer Marriage.

Woman's World: When a girl is interested in a man, and he does not propose marriage after a reasonable time, she should drop him and waste no more time, even if it means heartache and some tears, for they would be bound to come later anyway.

No girl should ever be so unfair to herself as to permit such a situation to arise. Frequently she slips into it insensibly. In circles where the possession of position and money make easy the proper observance of convention, such a situation could scarcely arise. But in these fortunate circumstances a girl is most carefully chaperoned. She often meets her young men friends at dances and dinners and theater parties, but always in the presence of other people.

In such ways rather a strong interest may have grown up between her and a man without his having called very frequently. If a man began to call as often as once a week, it is safe to say that he would feel himself quite in love or at least on the extreme verge of it. Even supposing that he discovered that he was mistaken in his feelings he would find it out in a very short time without having committed himself seriously and without having caused his attentions to the girl to become the subject of general speculation. Of course, there are exceptions to every rule; blindness and indiscretion and selfishness in every set of people under the sun, but in such a circle, social convention is so strong that a girl is very well protected from vampire like attentions which lead to nothing but distress and humiliation.

Girls Who Must Protect Themselves.

In less exclusive circles, convention is laxer. Money and leisure are lacking and the finer amenities of social intercourse between the sexes cannot be observed. The parents of a girl in the ordinary classes of society will see that she observes the laws of morality; her own sence of decency and of religion would alone, as a rule, be sufficient to safeguard her, to say nothing of her respect for public opinion. But allowing for all this, with the social conventions so thoroughly relaxed as they needs must be in her case, there is a very heavy responsibility placed upon the girl herself. Sometimes it proves too heavy and she makes a blunder which, while it detracts nothing from her virtue, does detract heavily from her happiness.

Consider the countless girls, from 16 years old up, who work for their living. Thrown into the world as they are, they are necessarily more aware of the evil side of life than a girl sheltered in the home could possibly be. They can avoid the coarser pitfalls. Yet when a girl says to herself and others, "I can take care of myself," she shows a confidence not always justified by facts. She can indeed take care of herself in the frankest interpretation which the world puts upon that expression, but in more subtle ways she may not be able to take care of herself at all.

"Trying Each Other Out."

Then there is the blindness that comes from affection, and which is just as likely to fall upon the shrewdest girl as upon the most gullible. The tradition of the most exclusive society is that a girl must not see very much of a young man unless she is engaged to him. Some girls who work carry out this convention, but many do not. Any given girl may look about her and see dozens of other girls constantly in the society of young men. "My best friend," any one of them will call the man she sees most of. That serves to tell the world that while the two are deeply interested in each other, they are not engaged, at least openly. They are "trying each other out."

An inexperienced girl may not realize the danger there is in this trying of each other out. She simply sees that other girls accept the exclusive attentions of young men. She may have but one caller and thus have no means of scattering her interests. Insensibly she may let this caller come more and more often and may grow deeply interested in him. Just in this her blindness and weakness may have full play. It is woman's nature to crave understanding and sympathy and affection. But it is her duty not to compromise, not to accept anything but the real thing. A man who really loves a girl should tell her so.

"We have an understanding," a girl may say to her mother who asks about the intentions of an assiduous caller. Perhaps the mother may be satisfied by the explanation and perhaps she may not. An "understanding" is a very vague elastic state, as a rule covering the stage between the state of friendship and the engaged state. It may also cover a man's opportunity to act like a vampire. A girl who has given her love, not exactly unsought, but unasked, may say to herself:

"He must love, for he looks and acts as if he cares; he has made love to me. What if he has never said in so many words, 'I love you?' What if he has never openly proposed marriage? I am sure he is thinking of it. I am sure he doesn't care for anyone but me. Probably he is waiting till we are a little older, or till he has more money. Perhaps he wants to lengthen the time of understandings so as to shorten the time of our engagement."

More Than One Caller.

A girl in this sad state will find plenty of arguments to convince herself that her caller does love her and that he will one day ask her to marry him. Yet these arguments are all worthless. There is no reason why a man in love with a girl should not tell her so. When he pays her marked attention without proposing, he is, as a rule, playing with her. There is no punishment for a man who plays with a woman. If he stole a horse he could be punished, but not if he steals a girl's happiness and months and perhaps years of her time. His unspoken excuse is that she ought to take care of herself. That argument might be used of the owner of the horse, but it is not. A girl is supposed to protect herself.

That being the way the world is made, she must conform to it. This conformity, though it may seem costly at first, will in the long run be well worth while. If a man sees that he may not call on a girl as often as he pleases, it gives him an added respect for her, and is likely to stimulate whatever affection he may have for her. Moreover, if she does not give up her time to one caller only, others will in time come, and she can have a wider field of choice, a better chance to determine the sort of man it would be wisest for her to marry.

A MAJ. BUTT MEDALLION.

Bronze Will Be Placed on Memorial Bridge in Augusta.

New York Herald: Residents of Augusta, Ga., the birthplace of Maj. Archibald W. Butt, who was lost when the Titanic foundered, will perpetuate his memory with a medallion, which will be placed on a conspicuous part of the memorial bridge, recently subscribed for by the citizens.

The work in bronze, by Henry Price, sculptor, of New York shows Maj. Butt in uniform, and it is said to be a faithful likeness of the officer as he appeared when he left Washington on his last mission for Mr. Taft, whom he served as military aid.

Mr. Price wrought the bronze from photographs taken not long before Maj. Butt went abroad, and the completed model was approved by a brother of the dead officer, who came from England to pass upon the work.

Much of Mr. Price's work has been done abroad, and perhaps his best known statue is that to Queen Victoria, in front of the Royal Military academy, Woolwich, Eng.

Mr. Olson has previously been supported and will repeat the same.

Ease of all roads, city and efficient business administration.

Municipal ownership of all public utilities.

Will use my best endeavors to at once establish by the most practical method a municipal electric lighting plant in the city of Duluth, for municipal and commercial purposes. Also to establish municipal docks in the city of Duluth at the earliest possible time.

I stand for strict law enforcement, with favor or favors to anyone, and will use my best endeavors to pass an ordinance prohibiting the granting of a license to sell intoxicating liquors in the city for a period of one year from the date of the conviction of any person for the violation of any liquor law or ordinance in force.

I am in favor of the abolishment of the so-called red light district.

I am for further readjustment of taxation.

I am in favor of an eight-hour working day at the current and usual wages.

I am for all that will make Duluth a greater, clean and better city.

I have worked nine years for the city at low wages, but do not regret it because I know more about city affairs now, and believe my experience will be of some value to the city by seeing to it that one of your commissioners look after your best interests.

Look for your kind support.

CHURCH PEOPLE WORK ALL NIGHT ON WALLS.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, March 27.—Led by evangelists, who called their congregations together and emphasized the urgent need of possessing and applying the power of Pentecost, 1,000 workers in this section, scores of men and women of all ages and conditions, worked all night and continued their efforts today to pave the threatened breaches in the banks of the Scioto and Mad rivers. The walls were holding at noon.

The first relief to the strained city came from Toledo late last night. Two hundred pass-engers on the wrecked Pennsylvania train, who had been interned here, were taken to Urbana during the night.

ONE MAN DROWNED AT LOGANSPORT.

Logansport, Ind., March 27.—In brief dispatches received from Logansport this morning it is stated that one man is known to have been drowned. Five bridges have been destroyed and it is reported a number of others have been abandoned. Many persons are also reported marooned in the upper stories of their homes and are patrolling the streets in boats.

MUST SPEND LIFE IN PRISON

New Trial for Thomas James Refused By Judge Dibell.

Court Must Under the Law Give Him Life Sentence.

Thomas James, negro, who fatally stabbed Rudolph Miller, white, during a quarrel in a Michigan street saloon last October, and who was convicted by a district court jury last December of the crime of murder in the second degree, has been denied a new trial by Judge Dibell.

James is probably doomed to spend the remainder of his life within the walls of Stillwater penitentiary, for the sentence which must be imposed by the court, under the law, is life imprisonment. James' only hope is a final one. It is the possibility that the supreme court will reverse the order filed today by Judge Dibell denying the motion for a new trial, provided an appeal is taken to the higher tribunal.

Murder in the second degree carries with it the same penalty as murder in the first degree—that of life imprisonment. The court, which will sentence James, has no option of making the term shorter.

It was on the night of Oct. 21 last that the fatal affair for which James must spend the rest of his life in prison, took place. James met Miller in Axel Matel's saloon, 119 West Michigan street. James was a waiter employed at the Spalding hotel. Miller was known as a saloon "bouncer."

The men engaged in a game of cards known as "high five." During the progress of the game they quarreled. Miller unceremoniously kicked James out of the place. James grew furious and protested to bystanders that he had been robbed. He attempted twice to reenter the barroom but was thrown out on both occasions.

Burning for revenge, James slipped quickly over to the hotel and returned to the saloon with a large knife concealed on his person. When Miller attempted the third time to keep him from entering the saloon, he drew the knife, slashed Miller across the face and made a deep thrust in his back. Miller sank in a heap and James fled into the night. He ran into the arms of two policemen who brought him back to the saloon.

Threatened Negro.

In the meantime, Miller, too weak to walk, crawled on his hands and knees to the back of the bar, where he pulled open a drawer and pulled a revolver from it. When the policemen appeared a moment later with James in custody, Miller pointed the loaded gun at James and with an oath on his lips threatened to shoot the negro on the spot. An officer knocked the gun from his hands.

Miller was taken to St Luke's hospital, where he died of pneumonia eight days later. James was arrested at the time, charged with first degree assault. Following Miller's death, the charge was changed to that of murder in the first degree. He was indicted on this charge by the November grand jury.

On the trial of the case which was concluded on Dec. 5 last, James pleaded self defense. One of the issues on which he was made the subject of testimony showing that Miller was known to have been of a quarrelsome and troublesome temperament and in police circles as being a bully and a tough character.

James sought a new trial on the ground that the verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree was not warranted by the evidence. The court listened lengthy arguments on this and other points presented by Warner E. Whipple, attorney for James, and Warren E. Greene, their assistant counsel attorney. The court after reviewing the evidence, makes the following memorandum:

"The defendant was indicted for the crime of murder in the first degree and was convicted of murder in the second degree. There was submitted to the jury the first and second degrees of murder, manslaughter in the first degree, and the first and second degrees of assault.

"The only claim made on the motion for a new trial is, as I understand it, that the jury was not justified in finding that the assault made by the defendant upon Miller caused his death. I do not understand that it is claimed that the evidence did not justify a verdict of guilty of assault in the first degree, which is the equivalent of murder in the second degree, when death follows.

"The jury was amply justified in finding that there was an intent to kill, or even that there was a premeditated intent to kill.

"The assault was made by Miller on the night of Oct. 21, 1912, with a large knife. There was a fight in which he received as a scar wound pierced his lung. There were many other wounds, it was a bloody affair, and there was a great loss of blood and a great weakening of the system. Two days later Miller developed pneumonia, which manifested itself in the portion of the lung injured. He died on Oct. 29. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia.

Cause of Death.

"While it was an alcoholic and an easy subject for pneumonia it is conceded that pneumonia is a germ disease. It may come at any time without an injury. One in a weakened condition is more susceptible to it, and it is more likely to be fatal to such a one. Miller might have been attacked by pneumonia and have succumbed to it at any time. It is possible that he would have died, at the same time and place, from pneumonia, though he had had an altercation with the defendant and had never seen him. It may be merely a coincidence that the pneumonia, followed by death, came eight or ten days after the stabbing. Usually laymen, and I think physicians, would see a relation of cause and effect rather than a coincidence. The contention of the defendant is that it must have been found, as a matter of law, only a coincidence and a casual relation could not rightly be found.

"One of the physicians, the one who first attended Miller, was quite confident in his testimony that the stabbing was the cause of death through the intervening pneumonia. The other physician, who attended him later, was disinclined to say that it was, and gave no positive opinion one way or the other. There were many circumstances appealing to the lay mind and probably to the medical mind, as proof that the stabbing was the cause of death. Indeed it would seem quite the natural thing that pneumonia should follow the wound at the time it did and death result.

"For my part, I am unable to see how a different conclusion could have been honestly and intelligently reached by the jury. They were given every opportunity to find differently. The state was put to the utmost limit of proof both of the commission of the crime at all, and of the fact that the crime resulted in Miller's death.

"I have reviewed the evidence with great care, and with a feeling quite sympathetic with the defendant, and with a ready willingness to grant a new trial, did the circumstances at all permit. With every possible opportunity of finding the defendant guilty at all, or guilty of a crime less than a homicide, the jury upon due consideration found him guilty of murder in the second degree. They could not have been prejudiced against the defendant. They may well enough have been sympathetic for him because of the unfavorable characteristics of Miller which were detailed at length. The court ought not to disturb a verdict so reached."

FORMER DULUTHIAN IN CYCLONE

Writes His Son About Terrific Wind Storm That Devastated City of Omaha.

W. E. King, formerly of Duluth, and now secretary of the Gate City League of Omaha, was in the fearful storm which took toll of so many lives in Omaha this week. His son, Earl King, is here with his grandmother, Mrs. M. King, 111 West Fifth street, with whom he plans to reside in future, and this morning received a letter from his father telling of the devastation caused by the storm there. The letter, in part, follows:

"No doubt, you have heard of the terrible tornado that hit Omaha last Sunday, and probably also you are anxious about me. Well, I'm all right, although about 200 were killed and about 500 injured. I came through without a scratch, so did all in the house, although Crab's was all torn to pieces. Gifford's house was all torn to pieces, although no one was hurt. Street car traffic is entirely demoralized and today we are having the heaviest fall of snow of the season. The auditorium is full of homeless people and the city is being guarded by the state troops.

"Since writing the above they have just taken an infant—so badly mutilated that the sex cannot be determined—from a pile of debris just west of here on Corby street. Many lost their lives in the Diamond theater, where you have been many times, Son, it was awful. No one is allowed to go through the devastated district without a permit from the superintendent of police. I got one, so have seen it all.

"To give you an idea of the storm freaks, Richman's store, just next door to this place, is completely demolished, and in many cases houses are torn from their foundations and are many feet in the opposite direction from the way the storm traveled. The paper reports can't possibly exaggerate the terrible disaster. Many people who took to cellars were simply buried there."

STORIES OF THE CONGO JUNGLE

An English Traveler Told of Sleeping Elephants, Looking Like a Black Mountain, a Gorilla Which Stole a Woman, and a White Hermit.

New York Evening World: From the wilds of the upper Congo there came into New York a few days ago J. St. Clair Hamilton, an Englishman, tanned to an old oak finish. He brought with him a cargo of rare tales of the wild lands through which he has tracked the last year.

"We were traversing a marigold-smelling river, slow and sluggish of current, in Angola," said Mr. Hamilton, "when the attention of my canoe men was attracted by what appeared to be a vast black mountain in the jungle which grew thick and close up to either bank of the river. I decided to investigate and discovered that what had appeared to be a black mountain was a herd of elephants. They all lay upon the ground and it did not take long for me to discover that they had been overcome by the sleeping sickness.

"I thought it might be a good idea to get out before they woke up. So we reembarked. The sleeping sickness is very common in that country. We passed through whole villages where every one was wrapped in lethargy. When the disease reaches a crisis the well ones carry out the sick to die in the jungle.

Adventure With a Gorilla.

"One day we came upon a small village, in which the natives were in terrible distress. A giant gorilla had been harassing them for days. Its last outrage had been to carry off a woman, one of the wives of the chief.

"The natives of this village were very good to us, giving us goats, chickens and other offerings. I decided we would hunt the gorilla and avenge the friendly chief. Two nights after we arrived there came from the jungle a dull sound, like the beating of a huge drum-tom. The men declared it was the gorilla. I summoned my hearers and the natives and we went out into the jungle.

"Suddenly the drumming noise ceased and before we knew it the foremost of our party had almost stumbled over the immense, hairy beast. The gorilla leaped at the man with a savage roar that reverberated through the forest. He seized the hearer and before I could interfere had buried his teeth in the man's shoulder. I raised my rifle and fired twice at the monster and then with a humanlike cry it released its hold and dashed off. No. 1 quished its hold and dashed off. No one never saw it again nor did the chief ever see his wife any more; but as he had six others perhaps this didn't vex him unduly."

A White Hermit in the Jungle.

"Possibly the most remarkable thing that occurred to me," said Mr. Hamilton, "was the discovery of a white hermit of the jungle. He was an Englishman, but long exposure and his manner of life made him appear almost like a native. He was almost as hairy as a chimpanzee and his locks and beard hung to his waist.

"He took us into a rough hut he had built outside the village in which he received us as a sort of ruler—imagine my surprise to find that inside it, the poor fellow had pinned up with thorns pictures of Queen Victoria, taken from an English illustrated paper of many years before.

"He had lived the same sort of life forty years and had lost ambition for any other. He happened to become a hermit when his companion, they were both very homesick and of fever. He took us to his comrade's grave, above which he had erected a rude cross. He had a rusty rifle but no ammunition and had not had for many years. He hunted with spears and bow and arrow, like the natives. He would not tell us his name nor anything about himself, so we call'd him Ben Gunn, after the wild man in Treasure Island, you know."

QUEEN OF POSTCARD LAND

From the Chicago Tribune: "Cast in so slight and exquisite a mold, so milk and gentle, so pure and beautiful, that earth seemed not her element, nor its rough creatures her companions."

Daily before a photographer's windows in the Graben, the Austrian boulevard des Italiens, Vinasse of high and low degree jostle one another to gaze upon the lovely face of Mlle. Marabath, the Postcard Queen of Europe.

Mlle. Marabath has become the favorite choice of Parisian dressmakers and milliners to carry the styles afar from Christmas time her face goes around the world on postcards, and at the season of valentines she thus bears sweet messages from lover to lover.

A Model Since Childhood.

Mlle. Marabath has been posing for photographs ever since she was a little girl. In Vienna it is the custom, just as, indeed, it is elsewhere, for beautiful girls and womin to have their photographs placed on exhibition by photographers and sold for the income they will bring. Many a woman of fashion has earned pin money in this easy way. And more than one poor girl has thus found her face to be her fortune.

There are innumerable models with whom this young girl competes, but she easily carries off the palm through the delicately intellectual quality of her sweet young face.

In figure she is slender. Her feet are slim, with well arched insteps. Her hair is superb and her even teeth are as white as milk. Her complexion is clear and fresh. She has a pretty trick of archness in her glances and her manners. The delicate tint of her cheek, the deep shadows of her eyes are lustrous with health.

Most Often Among Flowers.

History relates that as long ago as the fifteenth century Vienna was "an enormous garden surrounded by orchards and vineyards." Tradition says that Holland got its first tulips from Vienna. And one of the pleasantest festivals recorded in story is that of the yearly discovery with pomp and revelry of the first violet of spring in Viennas neighborhood.

So one frequently finds photographs of Mlle. Marabath in bowers of blossoms.

She is equally fascinating in a great variety of poses. Sometimes we find her in fichu and old fashioned bonnet. Frequently she appears in simple Greek dress and calls to mind that classic description of Helen:

Fairer than the evening air,
Clad in the beauty of a thousand stars.

But whatever her pose or her costume, she is the fairest of all postcard models in Europe and the most sought after the world over.

MEN WHO STEAL GIRLS' HAPPINESS

Something About the Girl and the Man Who Poses as a Lover. But Does Not Offer Marriage.

Woman's World: When a girl is interested in a man, and he does not propose marriage after a reasonable time, she should drop him and waste no more time, even if it means heartache and some tears, for they would be bound to come later anyway.

No girl should ever be so unfair to herself as to permit such a situation to arise. Frequently she slips into it insensibly. In circles where the possession of position and money make easy the proper observance of convention, such a situation could scarcely arise. In these fortunate circumstances a girl is most carefully chaperoned. She often meets her young men friends at dances and dinners and theater parties, but always in the presence of other people.

In such ways rather a strong interest may have grown up between her and a man without his having called very frequently. If a man began to call as often as once a week, it is safe to say that he would feel himself quite in love or at least on the extreme verge of it. Even supposing that he discovered that he was mistaken in his feelings he would find it out in a very short time without having committed himself seriously and without having caused his attentions to the girl to become the subject of general speculation. Of course, there are exceptions to every rule; blindness and indiscretion and selfishness in every set of people under the sun, but in such a circle, social convention is so strong that a girl is very well protected from vampire like attentions which lead to nothing but distress and humiliation.

Girls Who Must Protect Themselves.

In less exclusive circles, convention is laxer. Money and leisure are lacking and the finer amenities of social intercourse between the sexes cannot be observed. The parents of a girl in the ordinary classes of society will see that she observes the laws of morality; her own sence of decency and of religion would alone, as a rule, be sufficient to safeguard her, to say nothing of her respect for public opinion. But allowing for all this, with the social conventions so thoroughly relaxed as they needs must be in her case, there is a very heavy responsibility placed upon the girl herself. Sometimes it proves too heavy and she makes a blunder which, while it detracts nothing from her virtue, does detract heavily from her happiness.

Consider the countless girls, from 16 years old up, who work for their living. Thrown into the world as they are, they are necessarily more aware of the evil side of life than a girl sheltered in the home could possibly be. They can avoid the coarser pitfalls. Yet when a girl says to herself and others, "I can take care of myself," she shows a confidence not always justified by facts. She can indeed take care of herself in the frankest interpretation which the world puts upon that expression, but in more subtle ways she may not be able to take care of herself at all.

"Trying Each Other Out."

Then there is the blindness that comes from affection, and which is just as likely to fall upon the shrewdest girl as upon the most gullible. The tradition of the most exclusive society is that a girl must not see very much of a young man unless she is engaged to him. Some girls who work carry out this convention, but many do not. Any given girl may look about her and see dozens of other girls constantly in the society of young men. "My best friend," any one of them will call the man she sees most of. That serves to tell the world that while the two are deeply interested in each other, they are not engaged, at least openly. They are "trying each other out."

An inexperienced girl may not realize the danger there is in this trying of each other out. She simply sees that other girls accept the exclusive attentions of young men. She may have but one caller and thus have no means of scattering her interests. Insensibly she may let this caller come more and more often and may grow deeply interested in him. Just in this her blindness and weakness may have full play. It is woman's nature to crave understanding and sympathy and affection. But it is her duty not to compromise, not to accept anything but the real thing. A man who really loves a girl should tell her so.

"We have an understanding," a girl may say to her mother who asks about the intentions of an assiduous caller. Perhaps the mother may be satisfied by the explanation and perhaps she may not. An "understanding" is a very vague elastic state, as a rule covering the stage between the state of friendship and the engaged state. It may also cover a man's opportunity to act like a vampire. A girl who has given her love, not exactly unsought, but unasked, may say to herself:

"He must love, for he looks and acts as if he cares; he has made love to me. What if he has never said in so many words, 'I love you?' What if he has never openly proposed marriage? I am sure he is thinking of it. I am sure he doesn't care for anyone but me. Probably he is waiting till we are a little older, or till he has more money. Perhaps he wants to lengthen the time of understandings so as to shorten the time of our engagement."

More Than One Caller.

A girl in this sad state will find plenty of arguments to convince herself that her caller does love her and that he will one day ask her to marry him. Yet these arguments are all worthless. There is no reason why a man in love with a girl should not tell her so. When he pays her marked attention without proposing, he is, as a rule, playing with her. There is no punishment for a man who plays with a woman. If he stole a horse he could be punished, but not if he steals a girl's happiness and months and perhaps years of her time. His unspoken excuse is that she ought to take care of herself. That argument might be used of the owner of the horse, but it is not. A girl is supposed to protect herself.

That being the way the world is made, she must conform to it. This conformity, though it may seem costly at first, will in the long run be well worth while. If a man sees that he may not call on a girl as often as he pleases, it gives him an added respect for her, and is likely to stimulate whatever affection he may have for her. Moreover, if she does not give up her time to one caller only, others will in time come, and she can have a wider field of choice, a better chance to determine the sort of man it would be wisest for her to marry.

A MAJ. BUTT MEDALLION.

Bronze Will Be Placed on Memorial Bridge in Augusta.

New York Herald: Residents of Augusta, Ga., the birthplace of Maj. Archibald W. Butt, who was lost when the Titanic foundered, will perpetuate his memory with a medallion, which will be placed on a conspicuous part of the memorial bridge, recently subscribed for by the citizens.

The work in bronze, by Henry Price, sculptor, of New York shows Maj. Butt in uniform, and it is said to be a faithful likeness of the officer as he appeared when he left Washington on his last mission for Mr. Taft, whom he served as military aid.

Mr. Price wrought the bronze from photographs taken not long before Maj. Butt went abroad, and the completed model was approved by a brother of the dead officer, who came from England to pass upon the work.

Much of Mr. Price's work has been done abroad, and perhaps his best known statue is that to Queen Victoria, in front of the Royal Military academy, Woolwich, Eng.

PRESSURE OF WHEAT HEAVY

Slow Demand and Large Offers Cause Quite a Break in Value.

Farmers Allow Their Flaxseed to Go for Sale and Price Drops.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 27.—Wheat worked much lower on the North American markets today. There was a poor demand and the pressure of offers was great. Duluth May wheat closed 1¼c off. Cash wheat closed 1½ to 2c under May. Durum closed ⅞c off, oats ½c off and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed ⅝c off and July ¾c off.

There was a big slump in the price of wheat on all the North American markets this morning. The general bearish feeling was due to the same conditions as those that have been causing the grain elevators at Minneapolis and Duluth to become well-nigh loaded to their capacity, namely, the immense supply of grain in the country, united with a weak general demand. Duluth elevator companies have notified their country connections to cease shipments of grain to the American Head of the Lakes, as far as practicable. There is still a considerable amount of room reserved under contract for the bonded grain from Canada. This grain will probably continue to come for some time yet.

Not only wheat, but other grains were very weak today. The extreme weakness of corn without doubt had much to do with that of wheat, as there is always more or less of a sympathetic connection between these grains on the markets.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 87⅜c, opened today at 87c and at noon today was quoted at 86⅝c asked. There were lower quotations also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat today closed ¼d lower to ¼d higher. The firmer American cables of yesterday and the continued free absorption of arrivals were bullish factors, but these were offset by the forecast of large Argentine shipments and the quiet demand for parcels.

Flaxseed Goes Lower.

Offers of linseed on the Duluth exchange today were more liberal than they have been for a long time. Farmers, who have been holding flaxseed for a long time in the hope of better prices, have become reconciled to existing conditions and have decided that they might as well sell, not wishing to hold their seed over to the time of another harvest. At the same time the demand has continued dull. Minneapolis cash flax at noon today was 2½c under Duluth May. Duluth May flax at noon today was ⅝c off and July was ¾c off. Winnipeg May flax at noon was ⅝c off, at $1.10⅞ asked, being 15⅝c under Duluth May.

MARKET GOSSIP.

G. J. Strang of Alexandria, traveling representative of the Atwood-Larson company, who was on the Duluth grain exchange today, stated that as matters looked now, there would probably be less wheat sown than usual in the Red River valley district and in Northwestern Minnesota and Northeastern North Dakota.

"The farmers did not get nearly all of their usual fall plowing done last year," he said, "and if the spring is late it is almost certain that there will be quite a diminution in the acreage of wheat, because wheat has to be sown comparatively early. In that case there would be larger sowing of oats, flax and barley. A great deal of plowing must be done this spring and the acreage of wheat in that part of the Northwest depends directly on the time of the opening of spring weather.

"I believe there will be a large sowing of barley in that region this spring, not only on account of the probably lessening of the wheat acreage, but also because much of the land is foul. Barley is very good to clean the land of weeds, for barley grows very quickly, and as a rule is ready for cutting before the weeds have a chance to seed. Thus the weeds can be removed without leaving their seeds on the field. For that reason I think the sowing of barley will be large, notwithstanding the great break in price that has occurred during the past year.

"The dairying industry has been increasing to some extent in that part of the country, but not enough to encroach to any considerable extent on the raising of grain.

"The ground is in excellent condition for this year's crops. It was well watered last fall before it froze over.

"In Douglas county, where I am located, the ground was rather dry in the fall. There has not been a great deal of snow. This last snow, however will do a great deal of good. Still there is need of spring rains. In that part of the state, dairying is the great feature. Less attention is given to raising of grains there than there is farther north and west."

Duluth elevator companies are not encouraging the shipment of grain from the country elevators to the Head of the Lakes. For some days the local companies that have elevators in the country have given positive instructions against such shipments. Bonded and domestic grain continues to arrive, and room is made for it whenever practicable, by shifting grain from place to place. Cars of flaxseed, that have been coming to Duluth and have found no buyers, on account of lack of space, are being sent on to Minneapolis. There are not yet many cars of grain collected here, but it is thought there will be if a change in the weather does not open the harbor soon, and allow the free movement of boats to and from the elevators, without the trouble and expense of cutting or breaking the ice.

Chicago cash grain handling concerns reported a very unsatisfactory situation. They asserted that re-sellers were in control of the corn situation in the East with prices ½@2c below those that could be quoted from Chicago. The East was overloaded and railroads could not get final destination for a lot of grain held on demurrage at junction points. The grain had not been sold and present distributing owners were paying demurrage and cutting prices. The oats situation was not so extreme as corn but very bad with no demand.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Predictions of Cessation of Rain in Ohio Valley Sends Wheat Down.

Chicago, March 27.—Predictions of cessation of rain in the Ohio valley flood belt sent wheat down here today. Easier cables from Liverpool and reports from Argentina of prospective large shipments helped bear sentiment. Some of the large houses were free sellers. The market opened a shade to ¼c lower, with May ⅛@¼c to ¼c off at 90¼c to 90¼@90⅜c and declined to 90c.

The market went still lower on a report that the government intended to raise the farm wheat reserve to 183,000,000 bu, 27,000,000 bu more than the March report. The close was weak with May at 89¼c, the low point of the day, and a net loss of 1¼c.

Corn trade was very light. Scattered buying after a comparatively firm start sent the market down. Opening figures were ⅜c lower to ⅜@½c higher. May started unchanged to ⅜@½c up at 53½@53⅝c to 53¾c and eased off to 53⅜@53½c.

Reports of an overstocked condition in the East served further to weaken the market. At the close the market was weak and near the low point of the day with May at 53@53⅛c, a net decline of ⅝c.

Free buying of May oats sent that market down slightly. At the beginning the market was unchanged to ⅛c lower with May at 33⅝@34c, unchanged to ⅛c off. May soon became easy at 33⅜@33¼c.

Provisions started firmer but quiet, the market opening 2½c lower to 10c higher, trade being largely confined to small local transactions. May prices at the start were: Pork, $20.60@20.67½; lard, $11.10; ribs, $11.17½.

Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.01@1.07; No. 3 red, 83@93c; No. 2 hard, 89@92c; No. 3 hard, 87@91c; No. 1 northern, 89@90c; No. 2 northern, 87@89c; No. 3 northern, 84@87c; No. 2 spring, 87@88c; No. 3 spring, 85@86c; No. 4 spring, 78@84c; velvet chaff, 88½@89½c; durum, 90@91c.

Corn—No. 3, 50¼@52c; No. 3 white, 52¼@53c; No. 3 yellow, 50@52½c; No. 4, 49@50c; No. 4 yellow, 49@50c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 34¾@35½c; No. 3 white, 32¼@33c; No. 4 white, 30@31¾c; standard, 34@35c.

No. 2 rye, 60@61c; barley, 45@68c; timothy, $2.50@3.50; clover, $12.00@18.00; pork, $20.50; lard, $11.27½; ribs, $10.87½@11.45.

NOTICE!!
NOTICE!!

Your coal bill was about $80; you paid $30, more or less, for an overcoat. How many days were you laid up with a cold, grippe, or pneumonia? Were you able to get a car home during that pleasant little spring blizzard of a few days ago?

THIS IS SPRING.

When are you going to plant your garden? It's rather tiresome, isn't it, this northern winter and spring weather? Do you know that in the course of ten years you have needlessly spent at least $1,900 that would have been saved if you were living in Southern Florida, with every money-making advantage of the North, the climate thrown in? Would you like to know more about this land of low expenses, the state with the wonderful climate? Are you interested in learning about the money-making possibilities of Southern Florida? As one enthusiast said: "I would not trade my ten-acre tract on the Florida East Coast (they cost only $250, on $10 payments) for the best 80 acres in Northern Minnesota if I had to live there."

Land in the Palm Beach, Lake Worth, fruit and vegetable section is earning from $150 to $1,000 per acre. When you move down there you will meet old friends—200 satisfied buyers from Duluth and vicinity. You should know more about these lands. Write or call for free maps and interesting literature.

NON-PARTISAN COUNTY OFFICE BILL ADOPTED BY OVERWHELMING VOTE

House Passes the Senate Amendment for Non-Partisan Legislators.

Change in Primary Date Will Send Bill Back to Conference.

Mothers' Pension Bill Has Gone to Governor for Signature.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the senate thought it was playing a joke when it sent the non-partisan county office bill over to the house with an amendment including senators and representatives in the legislature among the public officers selected without regard to partisanship, the house has proved that it can take a joke seriously.

For the house yesterday afternoon adopted the non-partisan feature of the bill, including non-partisanship for legislators, by an overwhelming vote, and passed the bill with only one material amendment—that changing the primary date from September to October.

The action of the house in providing that the primary election shall be held on the first Tuesday in October will hardly stand.

The senate, which fixed the primary

FOUND GUILTY BEFORE HEARING

Missouri Judge Admits He Wrote Decision in Advance.

Kansas City, Mo., March 28.—Circuit Judge George A. Guthrie, who recently cited W. R. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, for alleged contempt, testifying yesterday before C. C. Cross, commissioner for the state supreme court, admitted that he had written his decision finding Mr. Nelson guilty in advance of the hearing at which the editor appeared before him. He said he had written the decision the night before, intending to change it if evidence presented to him should influence him to do so.

Mr. Nelson was cited for contempt and sentenced to one day in jail by Judge Guthrie on account of articles in the Star relating to a decision in divorce cases.

Mr. Nelson appealed to the supreme court.

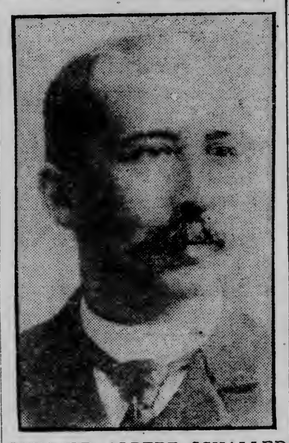
TRAIN SERVICE IMPROVING FAST

Regular Schedules Are in Operation on Most of Chicago-New York Lines.

Chicago, March 28.—There was a marked improvement in train service into the flood zone of Indiana and Ohio today. The Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania system resumed its full train service between Chicago and New York with the exception of its twenty-hour train which has been suspended indefinitely. The through trains are being routed from Chicago to Mansfield, from Mansfield to Akron over the Erie and from Akron to Alliance and thence to Pittsburg. The Pan Handle division of the Pennsylvania operating local trains from Chicago to Royal Center, Ind.

The regular train service between Chicago and New York was continued without interruption today by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Wabash, Grand Trunk and Nickel Plate roads. The Baltimore & Ohio ran local trains as far east as Chicago Junction, Ohio.

The Erie sent trains east to Huntington, Ind., but the Monon was unable to get further than Monon, Ind.



The Big Four and Chesapeake & Ohio made no effort to send out trains and it was announced that it probably would be several days before train service on these lines is resumed.

IS OPPOSED TO REVISION

House Defeats Bill Proposing Convention to Revise State Constitution.

Motion to Reconsider Passage of Non-Partisan Measure Fails.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bill proposing a convention to revise the Constitution was defeated in the house today without debate by the adoption of a recommendation by the committee on elections that it be indefinitely postponed. In the committee, the argument against the bill was that the constitutional convention proposal would be used by opponents to initiative and referendum to defeat that measure.

• • •

The house committee on taxes and tax laws today voted to recommend for indefinite postponement the Bjorge - Franksen - Minette - Peterson - Dunn bill, providing a tonnage tax of 1 cent a ton on iron ore for state purpose in addition to all other taxes, in the form of a tax on the franchise of mining corporations. The authors of the bill will present a minority report, which will come before the house tomorrow.

Refused to Reconsider.

Some of the house members, following yesterday's passage of the bill making legislators and county officers non-partisan, conceived the idea that somebody had "slipped something

OHIO RIVER IS RISING RAPIDLY

People of Evansville Are Warned to Remove Stock to High Levels.

Evansville, Ind., March 28.—The Ohio river today showed a rise of 5.2 feet since last night and United States Weather Forecaster Brand issued a warning saying: "All stock and movable property affected by a 48-foot stage of the river at Evansville should be moved before sundown tonight."

Mayor Heilman is directing the collection of skiffs and motorboats to move people from flooded districts. In addition the city authorities are constructing flood gates to keep the rising waters out of the city. A record-breaking flood stage of the river is feared.

Rising at Wheeling.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 28.—The Ohio river at this point reached 50.8 feet today and was rising two inches an hour. The report from Pittsburg that the Ohio was stationary at that place was most encouraging news to the entire Wheeling district and gave hope that the predicted record-breaking flood would not develop.

Hundreds of persons driven from their homes by the high water walked the streets of this city and surrounding towns during the night unable to secure shelter. There was little actual suffering, however, as the night was not cold.

FIRST BLOW OF JUSTICE FALLS ON ALLEN GANG IN ELECTROCUTION OF TWO

Floyd Allen, Leader, and His Son, Claude, Put to Death.

Sentenced for Shooting Up Carroll County Court Last Year.

Five Persons, Including Justice Massie, Riddled With Bullets.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—Floyd Allen, leader of the outlaw band in Carroll county, was executed in the state penitentiary this afternoon. The aged prisoner, terribly unnerved by the excitement incident to the delay of six hours in carrying out the sentence, went to the chair at 1:20 o'clock. He was pronounced dead at 1:26 p. m.

The prison guards next brought Claude Swanson Allen, son of Floyd, into the death chamber at 1:30 o'clock. He was executed at 1:35.

First Blow at Terrorizers.

The execution of Floyd Allen and his son, Claude Swanson Allen, marks the first blow of justice upon the notorious Allen clansmen whose lawlessness for years held the natives of the Virginia mountains in terror and culminated early last year in the shooting up of the Carroll county court, when five persons lost their lives. The news of the crime sent a thrill of horror throughout the nation, and the shocked Virginia authorities moved expeditiously to bring the criminals to justice.

On the morning of March 14, Floyd Allen stood before the bar of the Carroll county courthouse at Hillsville, to receive sentence for his part in aiding the escape of another mountaineer from the custody of the sheriff. A crowd packed the little courtroom, for the character of the prisoner was well known. Members of the Allen family were known to be in court, and trouble was thought imminent.

The Courthouse Shooting.

The jury having announced a verdict of guilty, Judge Thornton L. Massie sentenced the prisoners to one year at hard labor. With the last word of the sentence, a crash of firearms broke from the spectators' benches. Floyd Allen, the prisoner, with a revolver in his hand, leaped from the prisoner's dock and joined the rush of the gang toward the door.

When the courtroom was cleared the body of Judge Massie, riddled with

WIDOW OF REAR ADMIRAL INDICTED FOR MURDER

MRS. JESSIE EATON.

Plymouth, March 28.—Mrs. Jessie Eaton was indicted yesterday for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral J. G. Eaton. The widow, who is twenty years the junior of the naval officer, was arrested last Thursday. The indictment charges that Mrs. Eaton placed arsenic in a cereal drink which the admiral took with his meals. Evidence has revealed that much of the family life of the Eatons has been unhappy.

CHICAGO'S RELIEF FUND NOW $157,000.

Chicago, March 28.—Chicago's relief fund for the flood victims reached $157,000 today and is being increased hourly by new contributions. The city expects to send the sufferers at least $200,000 in cash.

The United Charities, which have been at work for several days collecting clothing, rushed two carloads to Dayton this morning.

Capt. Frank C. Carland of the government life saving station in Chicago was hurried today to Terre Haute, Ind., to assist in rescue work. His orders came two hours after he had returned from Fort Wayne where he and his men rescued six nurses and sixty-nine children floodbound in the county orphan asylum.

HUNDREDS OF RESCUERS START FOR THE FLOODED SECTION OF COLUMBUS

River Receding Rapidly and Sufferers Will Soon Be Reached.

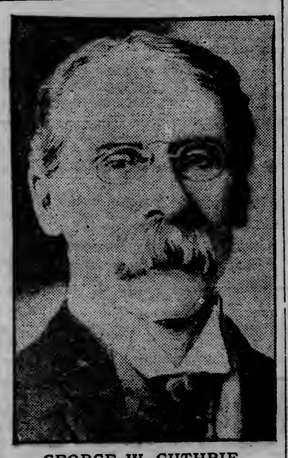
Clothing, Food and Fuel Are Being Taken By Relief Parties.

Will Soon Be Known How Many Lives Have Been Lost.

Columbus, Ohio, March 28.—Some definite idea as to the total number of persons who lost their lives on the West side of Columbus when the Scioto river flood broke through the levee is expected to be gained today. At daybreak this morning, hundreds of rescue and relief parties started for the flooded section with supplies of clothing, food and fuel.

Today dawned crisp and cold, but clear and indications were that it would get much warmer before evening. Flood sufferers suffered greatly last night and this morning from the cold. However, the river is receding rapidly and rescue parties will be able to reach many inundated sections of the West side which were under water yesterday.

West Columbus remains practically under martial law. Militia companies on duty have been ordered to shoot looters on sight. Thousands of curious people and those with friends and relatives in the flooded districts are being kept out of the West side by police and troops. The city relief station at the city hall and the newspapers are maintaining and compiling lists of the dead, rescued as well as lists of the dead. Scores of persons are still unaccounted for and the officials are making desperate efforts to verify reports of persons reported drowned.



In Piqua, where more than 500 persons were reported to have been drowned, less than 20 comprise the to-

THIRTY LIVES ARE LOST AT VENICE, O.

NONE DEAD AT INDIANAPOLIS

Investigation in West Section Fails to Reveal Any Bodies.

Much Suffering Found and Relief Is Promptly Offered.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—Groups of half frozen, half starved refugees are being found in isolated parts of flooded West Indianapolis today, but investigation trips into all possible territories have revealed no bodies so far. After an automobile had removed a barn blocking West Michigan street, rescuers reached the northern portion of West Indianapolis for the first time since Monday and found Captain of Police Coffin with more than twenty suffering persons. The rescue party brought back a hurry-up call for motor trucks that can get through the inundated streets, to bring supplies and remove the people, half an inch of ice on the water having stopped work with canoes and almost shut off boats.

C. C. Hanch, president of the chamber of commerce, is directing the explorations.

TWO DIE OF HURTS; ONE ENDS LIFE

Omaha, Neb., March 28.—Frank Grojean, 41 years old, and Helen Hodges, aged 8 years, died last night of injuries received in Sunday's tornado, and Thomas Barrup, 48 years old, believed to have been crazed by the shock, although not physically hurt, when his daughter's home was blown down over his head, committed suicide today at a local hotel.

Committees from the real estate exchange now are canvassing the devastated district and will report on the damage done each piece of property and the amount of money necessary to repair or rebuild it. These reports will be used as a basis by the restoration committee, which is arranging to provide necessary funds to loan at low rates, or without interest to those needing it for the rebuilding of their homes.

SITUATION IMPROVING EVERY HOUR

Property Losses By Fire Will Not Exceed $1,500,000.

Highest Stage of Flood in Heart of the City Nine Feet.

No Lack of Food and No Epidemic of Sickness.

Dayton, Ohio, March 28—The flood situation in Dayton today is this:

The loss of life in Dayton by flood will be not more than 200 people. This was the number generally estimated here today after government lifesaving crews penetrated every part of the water-bound city. Up to the present, forty-five bodies have been recovered. Twenty of these were in Riverdale and fifteen in West Dayton, five in the business section and five in the South side residence section.

The property loss from fire will not exceed more than $1,500,000.

The damage caused to mercantile houses, factories and residences will run anywhere from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

The water has receded from the business section of the city and from a large portion of the residence portion.

Residents in portions still inundated are being taken to sections not affected by the flood.

There is no lack of food. The telephone systems are being restored.

There is much suffering from cold, but all available fuel has been appropriated and there is prospect of immediate relief.

So far there has been no epidemic of sickness.

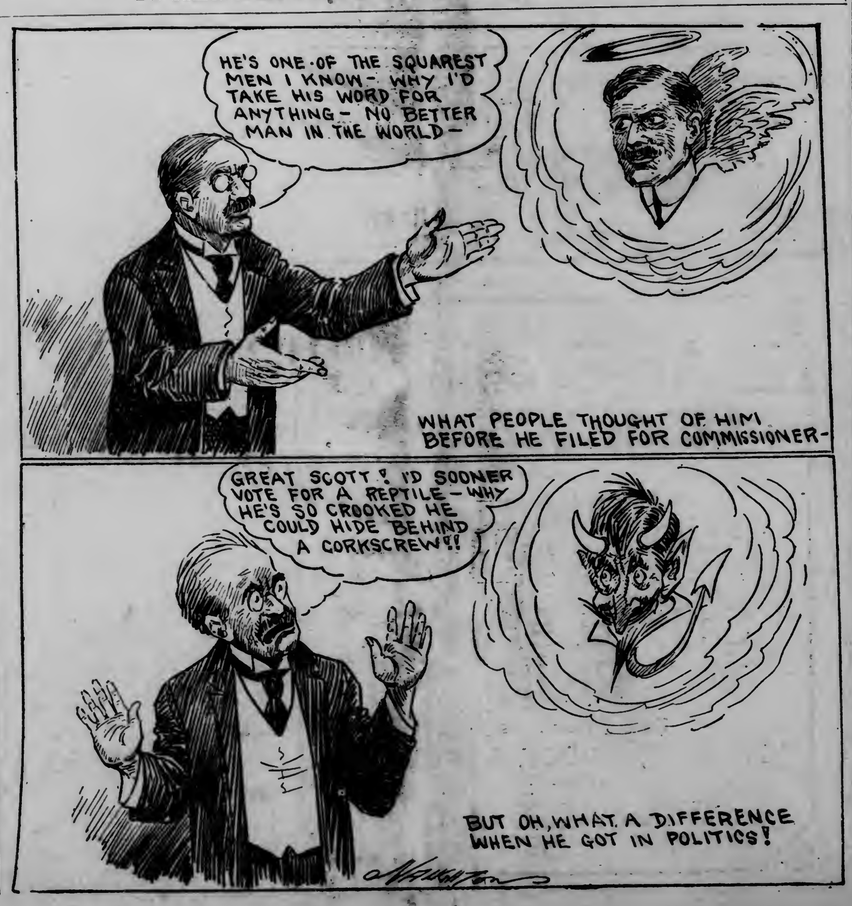
One thousand militiamen arriving today have the city in rigid control, effectively squelching looting, sightseeing that will interfere with rescue work, and all disorder.

Touring the business sections today, officials found the high stage of the flood was nine feet at the corner of Third and Main streets, which is in the very heart of the city. The onrushing water flooded the first floor of every store in the business district. This constitutes the chief financial loss.

The tower of Steele high school was leveled and the Leonard building on Main street was undermined so that it collapsed.

Many Houses Swept Away.

Many houses were swept away in Riverdale, West Dayton, North Dayton and Edgemont.



The following buildings withstood

SOME DELAY IN SPRING SEEDING

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conditions for early spring seeding among the farmers of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana will be a trifle delayed, according to Great Northern and Northern Pacific development officials, who recently returned from trips throughout the respective territories. The delay is the result of the recent heavy snowfall throughout these states.

IT ALL DEPENDS ON THE POINT OF VIEW.

THE HERALD WILL RECEIVE RELIEF FUND CONTRIBUTIONS

For the convenience of those in Duluth who wish to contribute to the relief of the distressed flood sufferers in the stricken city of Dayton, The Herald will receive subscriptions and see that they are promptly forwarded to the proper authorities.

H. S. Wenger has headed the list with a $10 contribution and has mailed a check for that amount to The Herald.

Other contributions received will be promptly acknowledged and dispatched to Governor J. M. Cox, who is president of the Red Cross society for Ohio.

WOULD LICENSE NEWSBOYS

W. L. Bernard Suggests Plan to Keep Boys From Frequenting Saloons.

That an ordinance could be devised which would effectively prevent newsboys from running into saloons and otherwise regulate them is the belief of William L. Bernard, candidate for short term commissioner.

Mr. Bernard would require every newsie in the city to be licensed and to wear on the lapel of his coat where it could be easily seen, a badge plainly numbered. The number would be registered with the proper authorities and any infractions of regulations could be reported by that medium, whereas now it is next to impossible to keep any check on them. If the newsie did not follow the rules laid down in the ordinance he could be penalized by suspension of the license, and if the violations were repeated the license could be revoked. During the period of suspension or if the license were revoked he would be unable to buy any papers through arrangements with the newspapers, which strongly oppose having the newsies in and out of saloons.

Chief Troyer strongly approved such an ordinance when the matter was laid before him by Mr. Bernard. The chief stated that the officials now have no good way of regulating the actions of the boys who sell papers on the streets. He pointed out that if they were licensed and wore numbered badges, the public could report them as quickly as they would a policeman who acts improperly. Chief Troyer explained that in many instances the people do not know the names of patrolmen but that he frequently gets reports of them by means of number. The numbers of all the stars are recorded at the station and if he does not recognize it immediately it is but a question of a minute until he is able to ascertain which patrolman is wearing the star bearing that number.

"The fact that they would be licensed would mean a great deal to them also," said the chief, "and knowing that they might lose their licenses would have a decidedly restraining influence. As it was explained to me by Mr. Bernard the boys would be put to no expense. The city would pay the costs of the badges or any other expense which might be incurred. In any event the expense would be trifling and it would be a great aid to the department.

"Newsboys not only run in and out of saloons, but some of them acquire bad habits through their associations. Men complain that they see them hanging to the coats of drunken men but are unable to point them out. Certain of them remain on the streets until late, sometimes until midnight. They come under the curfew regulations, but it would be much easier to regulate them if they were licensed."

NEW ASSISTANT IS NAMED BY THE COUNTY ATTORNEY

Harry Faber White, a young member of the Duluth bar, has been appointed third assistant county attorney, an office created by a recent act of the legislature. The appointment was announced today by County Attorney Warren E. Greene.

The addition of another assistant will greatly relieve the county attorney and his present staff of the burden caused by the constantly increasing amount of work in the office. Ramsey county's prosecutor has had three assistants for some time and the volume of work there has been less than in St. Louis county, as is shown by a comparison of annual reports.

Mr. White, the appointee, is a native of Cambridge Springs, Pa. While a student in Yale in 1908 he was admitted to practice in Pennsylvania. He graduated from Yale in 1909, after which he took up the practice of law in his home town.

Since coming to Duluth about a year ago, he has been associated with the office of E. P. Towne & Co., attorneys. Mr. White is a son-in-law of Former Assistant Postmaster General Grandfield. He resides with his wife and young son at 1516 East Fourth street.

The third assistant will represent the state at preliminary hearings to be held in municipal and justice courts throughout the county and will be a sort of a utility man in the office. Mr. White will assume his new duties at once.

HARRY FABER WHITE.

CLOSING MEETINGS OF THE CAMPAIGN

Tonight.

P. E. Dowling at 822 Mesaba avenue.

W. I. Prince and others at Jackson school.

Marcus L. Fay and others at Central Hillside Improvement club, Franklin school.

W. E. McEwen at Park Point Mission and Moose hall, 224 West First street.

H. H. Phelps and T. T. Hudson on "Municipal Ownership" at Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Leonidas Merritt at Polish church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Fifth street.

Saturday Night.

Mayoralty free-for-all at Armory on invitation of D. H. Day.

W. E. McEwen at Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street.

P. E. Dowling at Maccabee hall, New Duluth.

Alfred Jaques, Frank Crassweller and Thomas Olafson on "Municipal Ownership" at Dormedy hall, West Duluth.

Marcus L. Fay at the Auditorium.

Monday Night.

P. E. Dowling at Lakeside town hall.

W. I. Prince at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

W. E. McEwen at the Armory.

SOME ACCEPT THE INVITATION

Several Mayoralty Candidates Will Attend the "Free-for-All."

Dr. D. H. Day's free-for-all for mayoralty candidates, to be staged at the Armory tomorrow night, is developing. Several of the candidates for mayor have already announced that they will be present, and it is expected that nearly all will be on hand to present their cause to the voters.

P. E. Dowling will be unable to attend, as he has a meeting scheduled for New Duluth.

W. E. McEwen is billed for the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street, but he will get to the Armory after his talk there.

Marcus L. Fay will speak at the Auditorium as a counter-attraction to the Armory meeting and he will probably not be at the Armory.

W. I. Prince, Bernard Silberatein, M. B. Cullum, W. B. Getchell and Henry Nesbitt have announced no speaking dates for tomorrow night and they will very likely attend the Armory meeting. Morris Kaplan is also expected to be present.

Dr. Day said today that his invitation to the other candidates to speak with him from the Armory platform is issued in all good faith. In order that some of the confusion, which seems to have increased as the campaign advances, may be cleared away. Dr. Day said he is anxious that the candidates accept the invitation, in order that the voters may have an opportunity to see and hear all of them at one time. The time of the meeting will be equally divided between the candidates and no speaker will be allowed to exceed the time limit.

AFFIDAVITS MAY BE PREPARED IN ADVANCE

City Clerk C. S. Palmer reports today that there is a heavy demand for blank forms for the affidavits on which unregistered voters may vote next Tuesday.

Many voters who have not registered are getting the blanks and having them filled out in advance. Each affidavit must be supported by the affidavits of two free-holders of the election district in which the voter lives, and must be acknowledged before a notary public or other officer empowered to take acknowledgements.

There is nothing in the charter to prevent the affidavits being filled out and acknowledged in advance, and much time will be saved for the election judges by those who are preparing to have their affidavits ready when they go to the polls.

Those who do not prepare their affidavits in advance will have to be accompanied to the polls by two freeholders and the acknowledgements will be taken by the election judges.

It is expected that from 1,000 to 1,500 voters will vote on affidavits next Tuesday and unless many have their papers ready when they go to the polls, the delays in some precincts will be serious. The time of the election judges will be taken up with taking acknowledgements and other voters will be delayed.

The city clerk, in addition to furnishing blank affidavits to each precinct, has a supply in his office and he urges unregistered voters to call for blanks and prepare their affidavits in advance.

MUST FILE LIST OF EXPENSES

Candidates Failing to Do So Subject to Contest.

Every candidate must file with the city clerk tomorrow a statement of his expenses, or he will be open to contest if he is elected next Tuesday.

The state law provides that each candidate for office must file a statement of his expenses on the second Saturday after he has first incurred any expenses, on the second Saturday of each calendar month following and on the Saturday before the election.

City Clerk Palmer said today that candidates are calling for blanks and preparing to comply with the law. It is probable that no candidate will take chances on invalidating his election by failure to file his statement tomorrow.

"CATCH" BETS BEING MADE

Mr. Blank "Won't Carry a Ward in the City."

The catch bet is abroad in the city.

There was a man around Superior street this morning offering his friends a bet that Fred Voss or some other prominent candidate "would not carry a ward in the city."

His theory is that there are no wards under the new charter and that a man cannot carry what does not exist.

However, for the purposes of the election, there are wards. For convenience the designation of the election districts as precincts of certain wards has been retained, and the vote will be tabulated with reference to ward and precinct boundaries. If a strict construction is given, the catch bettor may win his bets, but there is room for an argument.

SUIT AGAINST MILL OWNERS

Heirs of Max Donni Bring Action for $7,500 Damages.

Damages in the amount of $7,500 are asked in a lawsuit filed in district court today, which grows out of an accident at the Mullery-McDonald mill on June 9 last, which cost the life of two men, Max Donni and Henry La Crosse.

George St. George, as administrator of the estate of Max Donni, is plaintiff. The claim for wrongful death is asserted on behalf of Elizabeth Donni, aged 42, widow, and two daughters, Mary and Florence.

The two men were engaged in the work of unloading logs from loaded flat cars. A stake gave way and allowed the load to fall on them. Both sustained fatal injuries.

The La Crosse estate brought suit, but the case was settled out of court.

ON FRATERNITIES.

Fight in Wisconsin Moved to Assembly Floor.

Madison, Wis., March 28.—The fight to abolish fraternities in the university was moved to the floor of the assembly today. By a vote of 45 to 33, the Bowe substitute, which forbids secret societies in high schools, was rejected. Thereupon, with the submission of nine amendments to the Anderson bill, it was decided to fight it out on April 9.

Relief for Sufferers.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 28.—Close to $5,000 has been collected by various organizations in Milwaukee for the flood sufferers of Ohio. In addition the Milwaukee Journal is gathering a carload of wearing apparel which, it is said will be shipped this afternoon to the adjutant-general of Ohio at Columbus for distribution.

SAYS COAST IS OVERBUILT

Henry Folz Predicts Reaction for the Western Cities.

"The coast has been overbuilt and overboomed and is having a quiet spell and a slight reaction at the present time," said Henry Folz, former Duluthian and now a resident of Portland, who is in the city for a few days.

Mr. Folz was in business in Duluth for twenty-five years. He retired from active business here three years ago, and left for Portland to make his home there, but he still owns considerable Duluth property, and says he has more interests here than he has in Portland.

"Portland is the best city on the coast at the present time," he said. "The chief trouble with Portland is that too many people are flocking into the city there and neglecting the country. There is some very rich land around Portland, but the new settlers pass it up and flock to the city.

"You hear more hard knocks about Duluth right in Duluth than any place else. Duluth is generally recognized all over the West as a most prosperous, thriving city. You have a few grumblers here, more at this season of the year than any other time. They get a little tired of the long winters, but Duluth averages up well with other cities in regard to climate. We have long spells of chilly, damp days in Portland that are more unpleasant than bright, snappy cold weather. Duluth looks better to me now than it ever did."

CLOQUET EXPERIENCE PARTY IS SUCCESS.

Cloquet, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church gave an experience party Wednesday night in the League room of the church, and a substantial sum was realized, more than was expected. Each member of the organization had earned $1 and the various methods by which the money had been acquired was told in very amusing ways. Some had sewed, others mended, ironed, one woman had baked chicken pies and a farmer's wife had traded feathers for milk cans and then sold the cans.

EIGHT TALK TO VOTERS

Candidates Speak at Meeting in Bethany Lutheran Church.

Cullum Tells How the Liquor Laws Can Be Enforced.

At a meeting at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church last evening some interesting statements were made by candidates for mayor and commissioners.

Dr. M. B. Cullum, former mayor, and a candidate for election to that office, Capt. D. E. Stevens, W. A. Hicken, J. W. Cumming, E. R. Cobb, Carroll Graff, John T. Armstead and Roderick Murchison spoke and told their views of things. The attendance was good.

Former Mayor Cullum said that his orders to Chief Troyer for strict enforcement of the liquor laws had been obeyed to the letter so far as the chief was able to obey, but that he had been blocked by members of the city council who did not want to have the laws obeyed and who placed every available obstacle in the way of the chief. Dr. Cullum said that the laws can be enforced if the council and the police department work together.

"Under the new system," said he, "licenses can be revoked and revocation is a serious thing to the saloonkeeper for he knows well enough that under those conditions he is through business in the city. Much care will be taken by these men for they do not want to commit financial suicide. The more offenders there are the fewer licenses we will have and there will be the advantage of putting out of business the men who insist on defying the law. That is a class which will be well to be rid of. This is a better and more effective measure than that of penalizing the owner of a building where a violation has occurred. So it will be up to the commission. Of course there must be three votes in the commission to make this law effective and you must see to it that at least three sincere and earnest men are elected."

Dr. Cullum said that when he was mayor, Chief Troyer was ordered to drive the denizens of the social evil section out of the residence districts, the business centers and rooming houses, and at no time were they told that they must segregate themselves, but were told that they must get out. He declared also that he ordered that all liquor, dancing and music should be cut out of these resorts, and asserted also that his program for the elimination of the evil was interrupted by being ousted from office. He declared that if elected again he will resume the persistent program for the stamping out of this canker on the body politic.

Capt. Stevens paid his respects to the Stirrup club and declared that he could reveal some interesting facts regarding some of the individuals who make up its membership, but as the club had let him down easy he would refrain.

W. A. Hicken said that the people have been betrayed by their public servants selling out to the corporations and that unless care is taken in the selection of new officials the betrayal will continue.

Watson S. Moore, speaking on behalf of Bert N. Wheeler, took issue with Mr. Cullum on the charge that the council was responsible for the lack of law enforcement. Mr. Moore said that the council had made several efforts toward obtaining better enforcement of the liquor laws, and had clashed with Mr. Cullum when he was mayor.

CULLUM TELLS WHAT HE MEANS BY EFFICIENCY

To the Editor of The Herald:

When measured by the standard of requirements of those interested in some of the special issues, we will have to accept the public estimate of our character and ability. The business end seems to have been somewhat obscured.

An organization of our city that stands for the highest civic ideals, declares that the efficiency and permanence of the commission form will be determined by the character of the representatives. Exactly right they are. What does this efficiency mean to you? I will tell you.

It means the use of honest common sense in the management of your affairs.

It means giving to you the service that you are entitled to have.

It means doing the things that you must have done.

It means spending your money wisely, not wasting it.

It means keeping the taxes down to the lowest possible limit.

It means giving you just your share of public benefits.

It means protecting your health, your liberties and your homes.

It means helping the needy, and those that have missed it in life.

It means moral and material progress.

It means responding to the public's will in all things.

It means all this, which is about all you can ask for, and you have never had it before.

And that is why I proposed the commission form. M. B. CULLUM.

Duluth, March 28.

Hudson Speaks.

T. T. Hudson, chairman of the charter commission, spoke on municipal ownership at the Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street. Mr. Hudson declared that the city is at a crisis in its affairs and that the public good demands the election of men committed to the immediate acquisition of the electric lighting system.

BRAINERD MAN HAS GOOD WORD FOR REPORT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me to say that I have been following the election in your city with considerable interest. I read the report of the "Stirrup Club" in your paper a few days ago. I must confess that I am surprised at the numerous adverse criticisms of the same. It struck me as being eminently fair; it was evidently inspired by the highest motives and was, in my opinion, a masterful production. I personally know a number of the signers, and knowing full well the moral and mental calibre of such men as Frank Crasweller, Watson S. Moore, T. T. Hudson, I. K. Lewis and Elmer F. Blu, I cannot but feel they know whereof they speak before they attached their signatures to the report. I have also read the answers of a number of candidates, whose records were uncomfortably scrutinized by the Stirrup club, and I must confess that the club's criticisms are still unanswered, at least so it appears to me.

I am quite conversant with political conditions in your city and in a number of instances, of which I personally know, the club's statements are unanswerable for the simple reason that they are true. The men who signed that report did a brave, a fearless thing. I cannot find in the report an instance where a man's personal character was in any way assailed. It is perfectly fair that when men become candidates for public office their previous attitude on public questions should be stated so that the people, who act as employers, should know their exact position on these questions.

The Stirrup club has very wisely assumed the same position as did William Jennings Bryan at Baltimore when he refused to support Champ Clark, because of the fact that he was backed by the New York delegation, although he personally preferred Clark at the beginning of the convention. A candidate for public office is usually and justly judged by the personnel of his supporters.

In conclusion I wish to suggest that the report of the Stirrup club will certainly be a means of cutting down the number of candidates in your next election, because when some men know that their records as public men on various questions are going to be closely scrutinized they will wisely not become candidates. I should think the club's report would reflect deserving credit on the men who wrote it. I am, Truly yours, SUBSCRIBER.

Brainerd, Minn., March 27.

Park Point Meeting.

Bert N. Wheeler and C. E. Roe, candidates for short term commissioner, and Harry W. Lanners, candidate for assistant municipal judge, were the speakers at a meeting at the Park Point mission last evening. Mr. Wheeler urged the voters to cast a first, second or third choice vote for every man they think qualified for the commission, in order that undesirables may be kept out. Mr. Roe declared emphatically for the immediate acquisition of the electric lighting system by the city.

Fay Repeats Charges.

Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, repeated in a speech at Woodmen's hall last evening his charge that the electric lighting company, the breweries, the saloons and the other seekers after special privileges have combined to obtain the election of candidates favored by them.

Mr. Fay declared that rigid enforcement of the law is necessary for the future welfare of the city. He said the saloons must be made to observe the law and the red light district must be wiped out for the protection of the young people. He said that so long as the electric lighting system is in private hands, efforts will be made to corrupt city politics.

AMUNDSEN WILL LECTURE HERE

Famous Norwegian Explorer Will Tell His Story in Duluth.

Not since the homecoming of Theodore Roosevelt from his pursuit of big game in the equatorial jungles has the arrival of any one on American shores evoked such a royal welcome as is now being given to Capt. Roald Amundsen, whose modest announcement that he had planted the flag of Norway at the South Pole on Dec. 14, 1911, lifted him at a bound into premier ranks as an explorer.

That the American public has lost none of its interest in polar exploration is made evident by the enthusiasm with which Capt Amundsen is now being received as a lecturer in this country.

Already his original contract to deliver a hundred addresses has been extended to more than double that number, so that he will be obliged to remain in America for at least a year.

At his opening lecture in New York, the great auditorium of Carnegie hall was packed with the thousands who had paid $4 or $5 for the privilege of listening to his marvelous story.

Duluth will be favored with one of his lectures at the Lyceum, April 27, under the auspices of the local Sons of Norway. The committee in charge is composed of J. Thoresen, P. Munkeby, Christ Sundby and L. A. Simonson.

Close Cloquet Short Course.

Cloquet, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—This week closed the special short course in domestic science at the high school under the direction of Miss Hanson, assistant to Miss Clara Clausen, who is at the head of the domestic science department. There were seven students in cooking, and about twenty-five in sewing. The course was free, and a number of married women took advantage of it. There are now nearly 100 girls taking domestic science in the public schools. The special course pupils closed their work with a spread.

$500,000 LOSS

While this sum will scarcely cover my loss from the destruction of my extensive laboratory, offices and all my stock of remedies on hand, the books and vital records of my business were saved, and within forty-eight hours this fire was only an incident in the career of the Munyon Homeopathic Remedy Co.

While the fire was yet burning, my force was at work in a neighboring building, and by working the telephone and telegraph, new bottles, labels and medicines were rushed thru. Surplus stock in the hands of jobbers was recalled, and orders, the heaviest we have had for years, were filled with only one day's delay.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

He gave his name but nobody caught it. He looked as though it might have been Z. Johosophat Beelzebub.

Whatever his name was, he was one indignant man. He was real mad, muchly peeved and in an unmistakable temper, not to express his feelings in an uncharitable manner. He tore into the station as though he were going to sweep it before him and consume the frail humans therein, along with the atmosphere, in the flames of his wrath.

"This is a pretty state of affairs," he shouted, and no one had difficulty in hearing him, although a timid person might have had a tendency to quail. "It's a fine how-de-do when a peaceful man can't walk along the main street without being accosted every third step by some brazen stranger.

"What kind of a bally police force have you got, anyhow, to allow such unlimited effrontery, right in the heart of the city. I've heard of mashers and fresh guys, but this is the first time anybody ever tried to mash me in broad daylight. Not once, but a dozen times. It's the worst state of affairs I ever encountered. If it's going to keep up like this I want protection. I positively will not stand for it. I don't know what there is about me that makes me a mark, but I've been a target as long as I am going to put up with it. It's either that or I've got to get out of town on the next train. And I don't want to do that, because I've got some important business to transact."

The man at the desk was dumbfounded. He didn't know what to make of the roaring bundle of rage which threatened to overwhelm him. He couldn't imagine that Duluth had gone on a rampage and his furthest flights of fancy couldn't divine why any sane being would want to "make a mash" on the person he saw before him. He figured that if anybody wanted his coin the usual procedure of banging him on the head would be more logical than attempting a job in broad daylight.

"Did any of them talk to you?" he questioned. "What did they say or want?"

"They seemed to want to talk to me, but I wouldn't give them a chance. I don't want any blooming stranger to stop me on the street," he thundered.

"Come to think of it, none of them looked so very tough," he conceded. "They had kind of a fixed smile or smirk on their faces and nearly all of them seemed to want to shake hands."

A light began to dawn on the man behind the desk. A grin began to appear and stretched across his face. Then he began to laugh and the laugh developed into a near spasm. His roar quite equaled that of the bellow which came from the man who looked like Z. Jehosophat. When the latter began to turn purple and become choleric again the bluecoat struggled to control himself.

"Why man, don't you know that there's a campaign on in this town?" he managed to sputter. "Those were candidates who tried to talk to you. They wanted to get your vote. They're harmless. They won't try to hurt you, and they don't want your money. Just go ahead and act as though you know them just as well as they want to know you, and you'll run the gauntlet all right, coming out with a whole skin. You might call in passing, 'I'm with you, old man,' and they'll look more friendly than ever. Or if you don't like that you might travel in a taxi or a street car. Then the only time they'll see you will be when you are getting aboard or jumping out."

The explanation didn't seem to fully satisfy Z. Jehosophat and he walked out muttering to himself. However, he appeared mollified and the police do not think that it will be necessary to furnish him with a body guard.

John Goodmanson doesn't fight with his fists but butts with his head. He butted Emil Pearson in Peterson's saloon on the Bowery last evening and butted out two of Emil's teeth and split his lip. As nearly as could be learned, the assault was without provocation, further than that Emil refused to buy him a drink. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning and got a straight sentence of forty days in the county jail.

Lawrence Kochinski and Stans Poskovich engaged in a fight in a downtown saloon last evening. Each gave the other a severe beating, the faces of both of them being badly cut and bruised. Stans beat Lawrence to a policeman and the latter was arrested on a charge of assault. In police court Lawrence pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon.

Ole Olson was convicted in police court yesterday afternoon of having robbed Axel Hurkela of $20 and got a straight jail sentence of sixty days in the county pail. It appeared that both of them got drunk together and went to the Union station to sleep off their jags. Ole woke up first and being broke, helped himself to Axel's roll. Axel hunted up a policeman and part of his money was found tucked away in Ole's cap when he was searched by Detective Toewe and Bradley.

Gus Gilbertson agreed to pay the doctor bill necessitated by his assault upon Ed Duchene and he was given a suspended sentence after being convicted of having been drunk and disorderly in police court yesterday afternoon. Gilbertson closed one of Duchene's eyes when they engaged in a drunken row.

Julius Sidman and Sam Birch were convicted yesterday afternoon of fighting on the street. When it came to determining who was to blame it proved to be about a "horse apiece." No one had been hurt and sentence was suspended in each case.

BRIEF INTERVIEWS WITH ZENITH CITY VISITORS

St. Paul Interested.

Ray Johns, former resident of this city, is here on business. The love of sports is still strong in Ray. Today he expressed the belief that the Northern league team is going to draw stronger in the Saintly City than the people up here believe.

"The fans in St. Paul are deeply interested in the invasion and they are talking a lot of the team that is being signed for St. Paul in the Northern league," said Mr. Johns. "Some of the fans are even so rabid as to think that the Northerns are going to draw as large an attendance as the American association team."

Ray is in the hardware business in the Saintly City and is here selling goods.

Havoc in Omaha.

W. H. Gillen of Lincoln, Neb., a guest of the Spalding, after spending half a day in Omaha is of the opinion that there can be no adequate estimate made of the havoc wrought by the cyclone for weeks to come.

"While one in the city of Omaha might make a rough estimate of the damage wrought by the flood, to me it appeared as if it will require the work of some weeks fully and accurately to find what the floods have cost in dollars," said Mr. Gillen.

"In the outlying districts the storm has caused the greatest amount of damage, and it is the poor house owner who is generally the last to report. There are literally scores of small homes that have been ruined or partially ruined. Until the aggregate loss can be counted it will not be approximated by any wild hazard.

"It might be surprising to know that though the people of Omaha have their share of troubles, they are ready to help the people of Dayton, whom they believe are in a much worse plight. It is like the old saying of trouble breeding sympathy, for the people I talked with in Omaha are certainly showing the proper charitable spirit."

The Lumber Market.

George A. Foster, one of the largest lumber dealers of Mellen, Wis., is registered at the Spalding. According to his statement the lumber situation at the present time is good, with the indications of heavier buying with the advance of the spring season.

JURY MOST GENEROUS

Returned Verdict for $200 More Than Was Sued for.

Court May Be Asked to Set It Aside as Excessive.

Samuel Hoar struck a generous jury when he brought his dispute with Fred C. Harris over a stock deal in district court yesterday. The twelve tried and true brought in a verdict this morning which not only surprised the defendant and court, but the plaintiff himself. It was for about $200 more than he had sued for.

Mr. Hoar as plaintiff, asked damages in the amount of $1,175 from Mr. Harris, the amount claimed to be due as the result of the sale of a block of 120 shares of Lily Iron Mining stock. The plaintiff is president of the company and Mr. Harris is superintendent of the Zenith Furnace company.

The court may be asked to set the verdict aside as excessive.

ENDS LIFE BY CUTTING THROAT

Fred Anderson Commits Suicide in Tie Camp Near Tower.

Fred Anderson, who is believed to have relatives at West Duluth, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a jack-knife at Gust Lee's tie camp near Tower this week.

The police have received a message requesting them to make a search for the relatives. John Anderson, a tie and pulpwood contractor living at West Duluth, is thought to be a brother of the dead man, and he is thought also to have a married sister in West Duluth.

The body is at Tower and it is being held pending a search for the relatives. He had no funds and unless relatives take charge of the body, it will be buried at the expense of the county.

WOMAN AND DAUGHTER ARE BURNED TO DEATH.

Unity, Sask., March 28.—Mrs. John Henderson, an elderly woman, the wife of a farmer living seven miles northeast of here and her daughter, Vinetta, aged about 25, were burned to death early today through the destruction of the farmhouse by fire. The men of the family were at the stable, some distance away, and were unable to reach the house in time to save the women.

PRISONERS NEED FRIENDS

Society Should Lend Helping Hand to Jail and Prison Inmates.

Speakers Tell of Work of Duluth Prisoners' Aid Society.

That society should offer sympathy and aid to the unfortunate prisoner and that the inmates of county jails and state penal institutions should be made to feel that they are not friendless, although they are in custody, was the suggestion brought out by Mrs. A. B. Siewert in her report on the activities of the Duluth Prisoners' Aid society at the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

The meeting was well attended and was successful in every particular. A. B. Siewert presided and among those who gave short talks and addresses were Judge H. A. Dancer of the district court, Judge Alfred Jaques, Attorney Harvey Clapp and Rev. George R. Gebauer.

Mrs. Siewert gave a comprehensive report on the work which she has been carrying on for the society at the county jail. She has been conducting meetings there regularly twice a week. Some of the prisoners are being educated to read and write.

One of the suggestions which she made was to make provision so that classes of instruction might be established, in order that a number might be taught at the same time, instead of having to teach them individually.

Mr. Gebauer made the assertion that crime was the direct result, in a great many cases, of present social conditions. He criticized the law which two years ago permitted two Duluth boys to be sent to state's prison, one for life and the other for thirty years.

Attorney Clapp declared that the members of the local prisoners' aid society need the moral support of every citizen in Duluth. He spoke on "The Relation of the Lawyer to the Criminal." Among other things he said:

"While the lawyer has not such a well-defined relation to the prisoner as might be expected, he is naturally interested in him. It is when this prisoner comes back that the people should help him to better himself, to utilize what he has learned while paying his debt to society."

Judge Dancer spoke on the methods of the board of parole in this state. He said in part:

"The board meets once a month. At this time applications for parole are presented, and the members, of whom there are three, consider many things before granting temporary release. They study the prisoner's behavior while confined, also his spirit and review the facts in the case which led to his sentence.

"After his release state agents are empowered to help him to find employment. The essence of this system is helping the prisoner to work out his own salvation. If the board only had more help, such as is given by this society, its work would be immeasurably improved."

Judge Jaques gave an excellent talk on the business man's attitude. He said that business men should not patronize prisoners but treat them as equals.

Pembina County Fair Dates.

ADOPT NEW RULES IN SUPREME COURT

Radical Change in Procedure to Take Effect April Term.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—With the assertion that the old rules have long since outlived their usefulness, the supreme court yesterday announced a radical change in procedure to take effect at the beginning of the next term, April 1.

The changes are made "to simplify and expedite the passage of cases through the court to a final determination," says the statement and one of the objects has been to prevent delays and reduce the cost to litigants.

Perhaps the most radical innovation is the abolishment of the old rule permitting a continuance of appeals taken less than sixty days before the term opens on the suggestion of the appellant that he cannot conveniently proceed.

Statement of the Court.

The statement issued by the court follows:

Heretofore it has been necessary to entitle a cause to a place on the calendar that a notice of argument be given and a note of issue filed with the clerk. This has been dispensed with. The present legislature has passed a statute providing for the prompt return to all appeals, and all appeals so returned which were taken thirty days before the term will go upon the calendar without notice or request from attorneys. The provision of the rules operates to put all appeals in motion as soon as taken and to require their submission for decision without unnecessary delay.

The old rule permitting a continuance of appeals taken less than sixty days before the term, when noticed for argument by respondent, on the suggestion by appellant that he cannot conveniently proceed, has been changed, and no continuance will hereafter be granted except for cause shown.

The old rules also provided for a reversal as of course on the failure of respondent to appear. This rule was deemed without special merit and has been repealed. No reversals will be ordered in such cases in the future unless the record presents reversible error.

The new statute provides for the transmission to the supreme court of the original records on file with the district court, instead of certified copies, the papers being returned after final determination of the case. This not only relieves litigants of considerable expense, but avoids the necessity of perpetuating three separate records of each appeal, namely, the original in the district court, a certified copy in the office of the clerk of the supreme court, and a printed copy in the office of the state library.

Following out the change of the statute on this subject, the new rules of the court will permit the printing of records in the form of bills of exception, thus obviating and doing away with the present practice of printing the entire record, which often contains much that is wholly immaterial to the questions raised on the appeal.

SOLD HIS COW'S HIDE; COW REFUSED TO DIE.

Dow,, Ill., March 28.—Philip Wiegand and James Hawkins are neighboring farmers and former friends, both living near Dow.

Some weeks ago Wiegand noticed that his cow was indisposed, and believing that she was about to die, he sold the animal's hide to Hawkins for $7.50. Hawkins was to take the animal to his farm and kill it, and Wiegand was to get the carcass to feed to his hogs.

But the cow in her new home began to perk up, so that Hawkins was convinced that she would not die after all. He doctored the animal, with the result that she recovered, and a few days ago gave birth to a calf.

Wiegand immediately appeared and demanded that the cow, with her calf, be returned to him.

"I sold you only her hide," he said to his neighbor. "All the rest belongs to me."

"I bought the skin, and all that's in it goes to me," retorted Hawkins.

Wiegand told Hawkins to take the hide if he wished it, but warned him like Portia, not to shed a drop of blood or to damage the cow's health in removing the pelt. Hawkins replied that these conditions were not maintained in the bond.

To a demand that he return the $7.50 paid him, Wiegand responded that Hawkins broke the bargain by nursing the cow back to health.

Hawkins refused to surrender the cow and calf, which he says he is holding as a security for his investment in the pelt.

UTILITY BILL IS OFFERED

New Measure Believed to Meet Objections to Pending Bills.

To Regulate All Plants Except Those Owned By Municipalities.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committee on general legislation this morning introduced as a committee bill a new public utility regulation measure.

The new bill has been carefully drafted by a sub-committee of which Representative Cleon T. Knapp, chairman of the general legislation committee was chairman, and its drafting followed a study of all the existing public utility laws and the many bills on that subject now pending before the two branches of the legislature.

It is believed by the committee that the new bill meets practically all of the valid objections that have been raised against any of the pending bills.

In general it follows the Wisconsin law, which is a La Follette measure that is said to have worked very well, indeed, though in part it follows the New Jersey law, which is one of the pieces of important constructive legislation that came during President Wilson's term as governor of that state.

The bill creates a state public utility commission of three members, to be appointed by the governor with the approval of the senate, at salaries of $7,000 a year. These salaries and all of the expenses of the commission are to come out of a public utility fund to be derived from a tax on the gross earnings of the public utilities of the state. The public utility corporations are required to report their gross earnings annually and the expenses of the commission are to be pro-rated among them in proportion to the earnings of each. None of the expense will come out of the state treasury.

The commission is to employ necessary engineers and other experts to carry on its work.

Municipal Plants.

The regulation of all public utilities except railroads is placed in the hands of the commission, except those owned by municipalities, which are only required to accept from the commission a uniform plan of accounting and to make annual reports to the commission.

The police powers of the municipalities and their right to order extensions of service, etc., are not interfered with.

If a municipality plans to buy a privately-owned public utility plant the question of the valuation of the plant is to be put up to the commission, which will make an examination and fix the price which is to be paid for the plan. Either the owners or the city may appeal to the courts from this order, but the court's determination is to be final.

The bill does not attempt to validate the existing stock issues of public utility corporations.

Another feature of one of the pending bills which has been criticized is the requirement that appeals from the orders of the commission are to be tried in the district court at the state capitol. The new bill provides that such trials shall be had in the county in which the public utility involved is situated.

The new bill covers telephones, which are the subject of a bill which has passed the house and is now in the senate. The main feature of the house bill, that requiring telephone companies to connect with each other's lines, is incorporated in this measure also, together with the provision in the telephone bill that such connection must be made unless the company directed to make the connection can prove "irreparable injury."

Being a committee bill, the measure goes to general orders, but in all probability it will be taken up shortly as a special order.

House Has Night Session.

The house took up general orders in a night session last evening, and advanced to the calendar a number of bills, including the following:

By Representative Sanborn—Exempting municipalities from liability for accidents caused by snow or ice. Mr. Sanborn said that though many people have an idea that the communities are liable for such injuries, the courts have held that they are not. The bill was recommended to pass by a vote of 42 to 20, after Representative Green's motion for its indefinite postponement had been defeated, 40 to 31.

By Senator Duea—Requiring railroads to sell mileage books of 500 and 1,000 miles, good for the members of the buyer's family and his business associates and salesmen.

By Representative R. C. Dunn—Giving all county officers a four-year term.

The house last night killed the Sundberg bill prohibiting theatrical, moving picture and other entertainments on Sundays. The vote was 46 to 29.

NON-PARTISAN COUNTY OFFICE BILL ADOPTED

date for June, will refuse to concur in this amendment, and a conference committee will be appointed from each body to consider this point.

The matter of non-partisanship, however, was placed beyond the reach of the senate when the house accepted that body's non-partisanship provisions word for word.

The only way in which the plan of making nominations and elections of senators, representatives and county officers non-partisan can be beaten now is for the senate to refuse to repass the bill as amended by the house, which it cannot do without stultifying itself.

But the house did, and while the bill may come a cropper yet somewhere in the road remaining before it becomes a law, the chances are that at the next primary and general election in this state candidates for these offices, as well as for judicial offices, will go on the ballots without party designation.

Important Changes.

The bill makes several other interesting and important changes in the election laws, as follows:

First—When only two candidates file for a non-partisan office, there is to be no primary election for such office, but the two names will go on the ballot at the general election.

Second—The classification feature of the second choice provision of the state-wide primary law is repealed so far as it applies to non-partisan offices.

Third—An entirely new plan is provided for the office of county surveyor, which was picked out for an experiment on the W. W. Dunn plan of abolishing the primaries as well as conventions. For this office anybody may file his affidavit of candidacy, and nominations may also be made by petitions of 50 to 100 voters. And the names of all the candidates will go on the general election ballot—without party designation; the voters to make their choice from the list.

Fourth—It will no longer be possible to put independent candidates in the field by petition for non-partisan offices. In the first city election under the non-partisan city office provisions adopted at the special election, the Socialists in Minneapolis put their candidate for mayor in the field by petition after the other candidates had gone through the primary election fight. This will not be possible under the bill as it now stands.

Fifth—The Progressive or Bull Moose party is legalized in this state.

Non-Partisan Features.

When the bill came before the house elections committee that body, with little debate and scanty consideration, struck out the non-partisan features.

The first thing before the house yesterday afternoon when the bill came up as a special order was the restoration of this feature.

Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis offered an amendment making county officers non-partisan.

Representative G. W. Brown of Glencoe offered an amendment to the amendment including senators and representatives in the non-partisan list.

Representative Nolan came back with an amendment to the amendment adding all state officers to the list of non-partisan places.

Representative Albert Pfaender, the Democratic house leader, said that he favored non-partisan as to legislators and county officers, but he thought the move to include state officers was probably not in good faith.

"Incidentally," he said, "I wish to thank the Republicans of this body for giving the Democrats a chance at getting office."

Representative G. B. Bjornson of Minneota favored the whole program.

"Party has nothing to do with state legislation," he said. "When I first came to this session I heard something of a minority party, but never since have I heard or seen anything to indicated that there was either a Democrat or a Republican in this body. So far as I have observed, they are all citizens of Minnesota, working for its best interests.

"Why should the secretary of state, or the state treasurer, be elected because he is a Republican? Why should the governor, the official, traveling lecturer of the state, be elected because he is a Republican?

"The senate by this bill showed that it is a progressive body. Let's go it one better by including state officers."

The amendment making state officers non-partisan was beaten, however, though there were thirty-four votes for it with seventy-four against.

Representative Brown's proposal to make senators and representatives non-partisan, as provided in the senate bill, was adopted, 71 to 39, and the Nolan amendment covering county officers, as amended by the Brown proposal, was adopted by an overwhelming viva voce vote.

How They Voted.

The vote on the proposal to add legislators to the non-partisan list was as follows:

For non-partisan legislators—Anderson, J., Anderson, W., Barten, Bendixen, Borgen, Bouck, Brown, G. W., Campbell, Carey, Child, Clementson, Coates, Crane, Crawford, Dindorf, Dunn, H. H., Dwyer, Finke, Flowers, Frye, Fuchs, Greene, Hafften, Hanson, Harrison, Healy, Henry, Hogenson, Just, Kimpel, Kneeland, Knopp, Lennon, Lundeen, Lydiard, McGarry, Marschalk, Minnette, Moeller, Morken, Nelson, Nimocks, O'Neill, Palmer, Papke, Peterson, P. A., Pfaender, Pless, Porter, Preston, Prince, Reed, Ribenack, Schwartz, Southwick, Spooner, Stoyen, Sullivan, Thielen, Thornton, Thorson, Vasaly, Virtue, Vollmer, Vosland, Walker, Warner, A. L., Wescott, Westlake, Westman, Wilson—71.

Against non-partisan legislators—Bjorge, Bjornson, Brastelien, Brown, W. W., Burchard, Carlson, Conley, Davis, Dunn, R. C., Elmer, Ferrier, Frankson, Hillman, Holmberg, Johnson, A. C., Johnson, J. T., Kiemer, Knapp, Larson, Leo, Lindberg, McMartin, Nolan, Norton, Ofsthun, Olien, Orr, Peterson, A. B., Peterson, A. J., Putnam, Seebach, Steen, Stone, Sundberg, Warner, C. H., Warner, E., Weld, Williams, Speaker Rines—49.

The primary date was then changed from the third Tuesday in June, as provided by the senate, to the first Tuesday in October, and the bill was passed, 93 to 17. Only these members voted against it: W. W. Brown, Burchard, Carlson, Conley, Davis, R. C. Dunn, Hillman, A. C. Johnson, Larson, Lindberg, Ofsthun, A. B. Peterson A. J. Peterson, Seebach, Steen, Williams, Speaker Rines.

It is very questionable whether the October primary date is practicable. It might be unobjectionable if it is possible to canvass the primary election returns and get the state ballots printed and distributed between the first Tuesday in October and the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, the general election date; but many members doubt if this is possible.

The house committee on elections yesterday afternoon voted to introduce today a committee bill proposing a constitutional amendment changing the method of adopting constitutional amendments so that instead of the present requirement that a majority of those voting at the election may amend the Constitution, it can be changed by a majority of those voting on the proposition.

• • •

Mothers' Pension Bill Passed.

The Campbell mothers' pension bill, regarding which there has been a great deal of controversy, has passed the senate and now goes to the governor for his signature, after which it will be a law.

It provides for county aid for poor mothers of children under 17 years of age, to the amount of $10 per month. The administration of this aid is placed in the hands of the judges of the district court.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the Fosseen senate bill appropriating $112,500 a year for the next two years for building firebreaks and trails—which means roads—through state lands. The money is to be distributed among the counties in proportion to the amount of timbered land in each county.

A similar bill by Representative P. H. McGarry of Walker is now before the house.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the following bills:

By Senator Wels—Providing traveling expenses for judges of the district court when engaged in their official duties.

By Senator Duxbury — Requiring chattel mortgages to be filed with registers of deeds instead of with town, village and city clerks. A similar bill has been defeated in the house.

By Senator Boyle—Providing a probation officer for the range district court.

By Senator Cheadle—Providing that title by adverse possession cannot be acquired except by those who have paid the taxes on the land sought for five succeeding years.

By Senator Cheadle—Allowing aliens to hold up to 5,000 acres of land, the same as citizens.

By Senator Boyle—Allowing the villages of Alice and Hibbing to consolidate.

• • •

Special Orders in Senate.

Three special orders for next week were fixed by the senate yesterday afternoon as follows:

The workingmen's compensation act, made a special order for next Thursday afternoon on motion of Senator A. J. Rockne.

The R. C. Dunn "good roads" bill, made a special order for Wednesday afternoon on motion of Senator Hackney. The bill was reported out of the senate committee on roads and bridges without material amendment, but a fight will be made on the floor of the senate to change the provisions relating to the distribution of state road aid.

The Nolan bill, giving municipalities power to fix rates of public service corporations, made a special order for Tuesday afternoon on motion of Senator Dwinnell of Minneapolis.

The senate passed under suspension of the rules a bill by the senate finance committee giving the board of control the power to decide whether or not state buildings shall be insured. The law now makes insurance mandatory, whether or not the buildings are fireproof.

• • •

Senator Poehler yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill legalizing the practice of "naturopathy" and creating a board of naturopathic examiners. "Naturopathy" is somewhat comprehensively described as any method of healing that does not involve the use of drugs, major surgery or osteopathy. The measure is the old chiropractic bill in a new form.

• • •

A bill by Senator L'Herault of Minneapolis, introduced yesterday afternoon, creates a state athletic commission and legalizing limited boxing contests under strict regulation.

• • •

Senator Handian of St. Paul introduced a bill yesterday afternoon requiring the state livestock sanitary board to inspect meats in all packing houses, canneries and rendering establishments.

• • •

A bill by the insurance committee of the senate, introduced yesterday afternoon, prohibits misrepresentation by insurance agents and provides penalties for those who violate it.

• • •

Senator Cheadle's bill, giving the St. Louis county board control of the amount to be paid the sheriff for boarding prisoners, passed the senate yesterday afternoon; also Senator Boyle's bill increasing the salaries of the district court reporters in St. Louis county to $3,000 a year.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

HERALD BRANCH:— HERMAN OLSON, Manager, 1823 West Superior Street.

BUSY SESSIONS HELD BY DELEGATES TO STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss.

The features of the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association during the sessions yesterday at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, were the addresses by John L. Alexander of Chicago, A. M. Locker of Minneapolis, Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss., Rev. W. W. Lawrence of Duluth, and the annual report of the association made by Mr. Locker, general secretary.

Mr. Alexander spoke on "Organized Sunday School Work," putting special stress on the department for boys and young men. Mr. Alexander is known as the greatest expert on boys in this country and his talk on the "teen age" was well received. The speaker in his address divided the Sunday school into three classes, elementary, secondary and adult. Of these, he said, the secondary can be called the 'teen age and the most important of the three.

Rev. M. S. Rice, D.D., of Duluth, who was scheduled to speak yesterday afternoon, was unable to appear, as he was called yesterday to Kansas, where his father is reported seriously ill. His place was taken by Rev. W. W. Lawrence of the Glen Avon church.

Secretary's Report.

Mr. Locker read the following report for the year during the afternoon session yesterday:

"The fifty-fourth milestone of the Minnesota Sunday School association has been passed. Our year's work is now history.

"There has been a steady growth all over the state along all lines of

A. M. LOCKER
Of Minneapolis.

Sunday school work. There seems to be a desire among most Sunday school workers for better things.

"Every county in Minnesota is now organized and held a county convention last year. This is the first time in the history of our association when this has been accomplished.

"Mrs. Jean E. Hobart and the general secretary have done most of the field work. Alfred Day of Syracuse, N. Y., made a two months' tour of the southern part of our state and attended twenty-nine county conventions.

"We are conservative in our statement when we say that more and better Sunday school work has been done the past year in Minnesota than ever before in the history of our association.

"At the annual meeting of the board of directors, Jan. 7, the following goal for 1913-14 was unanimously adopted:

"1. Fifty per cent of the counties blue ribbon.

"2. 250,000 enrolled in Sunday school.

"3. 10,000 accessions to the churches.

"4. 3,000 new teacher training students.

"5. 700 organized adult Bible classes with an enrollment of 15,000.

"6. 700 teen age classes organized with an enrollment of 7,000.

"7. 4,000 subscribers to the Herald.

"8. $10,000 to maintain and increase the work of the state association.

"The state convention at Duluth will be asked to indorse the action of the board. We believe it can be accomplished. It is a goal worthy the efforts of every Christian man and woman in Minnesota."

Rev. James M. Gray of Chicago, who was scheduled to speak yesterday afternoon, was unable to arrive here on time. In a telegram received late in the afternoon he stated he will arrive some time today and that he will speak both at the afteronon and evening sessions.

Evening Session.

Last evening Dr. R. W. Bowden of

REV. JOSEPH NICHOLSON
Of Brainerd.

REV. G. P. SHERIDAN
Of Brainerd.

Duluth, vice president, presided. The session opened with a song service by the union chorus, after which Scripture was read by Rev. W. C. Hodgson of Crookston. The principal addresses were given by Mr. Alexander and Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss.

This morning the association school of methods was continued and held in the same churches as yesterday. The same supervisors were in charge, although separate programs were prepared for each division, as follows:

Headache?—It's Your Liver

Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic Is Needed.

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute for Calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels, will never have headache.

There is no necesstiy, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never gripe or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards, calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

Try them for a week. Take one on retiring nightly.

"Every little Olive Tablets has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box.

OLD TIMERS WILL POSE BEFORE LANDMARK.

The Young Old-Timers of the West end will pose for a photograph Sunday afternoon in front of the small wooden buildings at the corner of Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

These buildings are to be torn down next month, and as they are the landmarks of the West end, the members of the club are anxious to have a photograph taken in front of them before they are razed. A short farewell address will be delivered during the afternoon by one of the members.

The Duluth Brewing company is to erect a four-story building on this corner during the present year.

Odd Song Service.

Probably the oddest song service ever held in Duluth will be a feature of the program arranged by the Scandinavian Salvation army for the evening of April 10 in the local headquarters.

Capt. Marinus Fristrup, head of the local corps, who is in charge of the program, announced yesterday afternoon that it will be called a lifeboat service. The stage of the hall is to be arranged as a lifeboat, with twelve oarsmen. There will also be a lighthouse, waves and a sky.

The members of the crew will sing a program of solos, duets and chorus numbers during the evening, led by the captain of the crew, who will be portrayed by Capt. Fristrup. Only religious songs and those referring to life saving and the saving of souls will be sung.

West End Briefs.

A daughter was born yesterday to Dr. and Mrs. L. Q. Greeley, 317 North Twenty-third avenue west.

Miss Edith Nelson of 128 North Nineteenth avenue west returned yesterday from a short visit with relatives at Coleraine.

Russell Dice returned yesterday to the University of Minnesota, after spending the Easter holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dice, 2704 West Fourth street.

James M. Boardman of Winona, Minn., was a business visitor in the West end yesterday.

Walter Mason of Lakeland is a guest of West end relatives this week.

Miss Edith Brackett of Baraboo, Wis., is visiting with West end relatives for several days.

The Confirmation Society of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, met in the church parlors this afternoon.

WOMAN PREFERS NORWAY.

So Grand Forks Husband Is Given Divorce Decree.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Proving to Judge Colley that Mrs. Asbjorn Lieberg preferred life in Norway to living here with her better half, her husband succeeded in getting a divorce in district court here yesterday. They were married in Minneapolis in June, 1910, and Asbjorn testified that soon afterwards she returned to Norway and refused to come back, although he sent her transportation.

The board of county commissioners refused to give Chris Alsberg the custody of his four minor children who now are being cared for at the county poor farm.

Alsberg was divorced from his wife several years. The children were at that time given to the wife, but according to the petition filed by the husband yesterday, she abandoned them recently, and she also has remarried.

Woman Dies Aged 103.

Pipestone, Minn., March 28.—Pipestone county's oldest resident, Mrs. William A. Minnehan, died here Wednesday at the home of her son, John Minnehan. She was over 103 years old. She was a native of Ireland and came to America in 1863. She had been a resident of Pipestone county since 1887, and was the oldest person in the county.

LET RESINOL HEAL YOUR SKIN TROUBLES

Thousands of Sufferers Have Found Skin Health at Last.

Have you suffered for weeks, months, or even years with eczema or some other itching, burning, unsightly eruption, that makes daytime a misery and night a torment? Have you tried treatment after treatment in vain, and, perhaps, given up in despair? Thousands whose skins are now clear have gone through this same pitiful experience. At last they tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. The soothing, healing, antiseptic Resinol medication stopped the itching instantly and soon all trace of the disease was gone.

Why don't you profit by their experience and let Resinol stop your skin trouble, too? Resinol is a physician's prescription which has been used by other doctors for eighteen years in the treatment of all sorts of skin humors, sores, boils, wounds, and piles. You can use Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap freely with the perfect assurance that it contains nothing that could injure the tenderest skin. For liberal free samples write to Dept. 13-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Resinol is sold by every druggist in the United States.

PROBLEM OF SOCIAL EVIL

McEwen Says Kicking Vice Into Another's Backyard Is Not Solution.

Would Give Woman Who Falls Chance to Redeem Herself.

The solution of the problem of the social evil requires something more than kicking the vice into some other city's back yard, declared William E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, at Dormedy hall, West Duluth, last evening.

"Vice has been commercialized for 4,000 years and men of all ages have grappled with the problem, yet it is still with us," said Mr. McEwen. "I confess that I do not know the best method of dealing with it and I do not believe any man can truthfully say that he knows and can use an infallible remedy.

"I do know that if living conditions were made better, if the men and women who are compelled to work were to receive wages sufficient to keep themselves and their families comfortably, the social evil would be lessened."

Mr. McEwen cited a case which came to his attention while he was commissioner of labor. The girl was the daughter of a section-hand on a railroad in Southern Minnesota. The father's wages were so low that the girl, unemployed, was a burden on him. She went to the city, not to help the family, but to pay her own way and relieve her father of that burden. She obtained employment at a small wage, but it was sufficient so that by living with another girl she was enabled to make both ends meet. She and the other girl, away from the restraints of home, went out much with young men. The girl partook of the gilded pleasures of the city, and when she came to the attention of Mr. McEwen, she was in a home for wayward girls.

"That girl wasn't driven to sin by the lack of a living wage on her part, but by the lack of a living wage for her father," he said. "If she had not been compelled to leave her Southern Minnesota home to relieve the burden on her father, she would have lived decently, would have married decently and would have been an honorable woman. It was the opportunity forced upon her that sent her on the downward path."

Must Give Woman Chance.

"Segregation is class legislation, but what will we do with these women after we close up the district?" asked Mr. McEwen. "Take them into our homes? I think that we should attempt to wipe the social evil out of existence, and I pledge myself to assist in this work. But I shall at all times keep in mind the fact that we can not do this by kicking the vice into some other backyard.

"We must give a woman the same chance that we give a man. When a man who has been down and out squares his shoulders and announces to his friends that he is going to 'come back and make good,' we slap him on the shoulder, utter a few encouraging words, and if we see that he really means it, we help him all we can.

"It's different with the women, however. Once they stray from the right path we turn the cold shoulder to them and try to keep them down. If they make one misstep, we place them without the pale of human forgiveness. This should not be. They should be accorded the same chance as the erring man."

Mr. McEwen declared that the municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant is the principal issue in this campaign, as the men who are with the people on municipal ownership will be with the people on other subjects. He declared that the under-valuation of vacant outlying lands is placing an unfair burden on improved property, keeping the vacant lands out of the market and holding back the growth of the city. He said the extension policy of the Duluth Street Railway company is a real detriment to the city. He urged on his audience the election of commissioners who will work always for the public good and will represent all the people and not any clique or faction or interest.

CHILDREN SIT UP

Until Bed Time Waiting for Father Who Is Downtown Having a Big Feast.

Last evening about 7:30 the father of twin boys decided to give them a jolly surprise. He started down town to buy them something. The children were very fond of sweets, so he decided to buy some. On the way home he thought he would taste them; one taste was not enough. He kept on tasting and tasting until they were all gone. By this time he was near home, so he had to return and get more. When he reached home the children were in bed but in the morning when they awoke, sitting on the dresser before them were two pounds of Bonnie Butter Bites, that wholesome confectionery made by the Duluth branch of the National Candy company. They forgave father.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Read the Following Article That Appeared in The Herald February 27th, 1911

"OLD" COUNCIL WILL HOLD ITS LAST SESSION

In the retirement of Aldermen Moore and Getchell from the council that body is losing two of its oldest and most valuable members. Both of them have been active in all movements for the benefit of the city all the terms they have represented the First and Eighth wards. They have not bound their interests by the limits of their constituencies, but have constantly governed their actions and influences by considerations of what would be for the welfare of Duluth. They have been instrumental in securing most favorable terms with two large railroads which have come into the city, the granting of whose franchises is probably the most important legislation which has been passed by the council since they first took their seats.

Alderman Moore has been the recognized leader of the so-called "law enforcement" element, and Alderman Getchell has been put in the same classification, although he has not been as radical as Alderman Moore. It has been as the "watch dog" of the city treasury that Alderman Getchell has shone. Since he has been one of the city fathers he has made it a particular point to closely scrutinize all matters relative to the finances of the city, and has been the means of saving many dollars for the city.

PEOPLE MUST BE CAREFUL

Good City Government Only Issue in Campaign, Says Day.

Best Results Possible Only By Election of the Best Men.

The obtaining of good city government by the election of men who will represent all the people is the only issue in the coming election, said Dr. D. H. Day, candidate for mayor, at the Maccabee hall in New Duluth last evening.

In opening his meeting, Dr. Day explained the preferential system of voting and urged the candidates to vote their first, second and other choices in order that no man wholly undesirable might slip into office.

"Unless you choose the right sort of men you can never expect the best results," said Dr. Day. "I believe, however, that under the new form of government many of the old wasteful, extravagant methods will be greatly improved on, even though you elect men of a smaller caliber than you ought to have; but to get the best results, you must elect the best men, those who will produce results.

"But you must be careful, indeed, to select men who have shown by their past lives and actions that they are interested in the welfare of the whole people, and not bound by promise, or under obligation to some special interest or big public utility corporation. Such men can never give you a good city government.

"Suppose you were a stockholder in a big corporation, and your general manager and assistants were receiving personal benefits, either money or other things of value from a rival corporation, would you expect your company to prosper? Would you expect the best services from those men?

Government Run for the People.

"The last year has been a good example of what you can expect from a city government that is run, not in the interest of the whole people, but in the interest of the electric lighting company and the breweries.

"How do you like it? Do you consider it good city government? Do you want a continuation of the same conditions, or do you want to see your city run in the interest of all the people for the benefit of all the people, in a businesslike, economical and decent manner?

"Over a year ago the people decided to own their electric light plant. That question was an issue then, but the people decided it. The issue now becomes the selection of men who will carry out the will of the people as expressed at that time.

"For, unless such men are selected, they will ignore the wishes of the people, and if they ignore the wishes of the people in one thing, they will ignore the wishes of the people in respect to other matters.

"There is no use in telling me that this is not so. I have made too deep a study of this subject to be deceived for a moment by the promises made by men I know are not sincere, for I know the history of such cases too well."

CHURCH IS CROWDED.

Revival Meetings at First Christian Church Well Attended.

Despite the present political agitation, and other great meetings in progress, the meetings at the First Christian church are attracting crowded houses. Evangelist Whiston's theme last night was "The Good Samaritan and Others." He said in part:

"The sinner has no legal claim on God for eternal life. If he had one, he has lost it, through sin. God owes you absolutely nothing, and if you are saved, it is because of unmerited love and grace.

"The sinner is saved by will. Christ is the legal testator of a legal will. On the day of Pentecost, Peter, representing the heirs and executors of Christ's legal will, make known the legal conditions of salvation. All men will be saved who conform to these legal requirements. Those who refuse are lost. The saved are the whosoever will, the unsaved are the whosoever won't. Salvation is not a question of moral goodness but of conformity to Christ's will. 'Not every one that prayeth unto me Lord, but he that doeth the will of my father.' To be a Christian is to do the things required for admission to God's kingdom, and then to live according to the laws of His kingdom. This may not be according to the theory and opinion of man, but it is good sense, good logic and good Scripture."

Tonight the evangelist gives his great lecture-sermon on popular amusements, with the title, "Life's Drama in Three Acts." This will also be at the First Christian church, Twelfth avenue east and Fourth street.

OSBORNE WILL BE TRIED AGAIN

Jury Unable to Agree After Twenty-Two Hours' Deliberation.

William Osborne, West Duluth man charged with having had immoral relations with a 14-year-old orphan girl who had been placed in his home for adoption, will be obliged to stand trial a second time.

The jury in Judge Cant's room yesterday disagreed and was discharged, after having been out twenty-two hours. It is understood that the vote stood 7 to 5, favoring acquittal.

Osborne's second trial will probably be held at the May term of court. In the meantime he will be held a prisoner at the county jail.

The case of the state against Albert Hall, waiter, charged with having taken liberties with a 16-year-old girl, went to the jury this morning. Owing to the nature of the testimony, the court room was cleared of spectators as in the Osborne case.

YOU SHOULD ENJOY YOUR MEALS

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

If your stomach can not digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? The answer is in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach?

You Can Eat With the Appetite of a Lusty Youngster, if You Help Your Stomach.

Science nowadays can digest food without having it enter the stomach at all. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

ALREADY PLANNING TO "SWAT THE FLY"

Dr. Edward W. Fahey, president of the city board of health, is planning a war on flies, to begin with the opening of the spring season. Cleaning the city and doing away with all such places as are favorable for the breeding of flies will constitute the main feature of the plan of campaign. Dr. Fahey expects to enlist the school children among the recruits who are to battle against the little disease-breeding and disease-spreading pest.

CITY GIVES AWAY DOGS WEDNESDAY

Can Be Had Upon Payment of City License Tax.

Spokane, Wash., March 28.—For the first time in the history of the city pound the Humane society has decided upon a free dog day when canines will be distributed to individuals, who will pay the taxes on unredeemed animals.

The first kennel of dogs was distributed Wednesday afternoon. The distributions will be made weekly until after the crusade against tabless dogs is completed and all dogs are licensed.

It is estimated by the directors of the Humane society that hundreds of dogs have been executed annually which would have found good homes in the city had the public known that they were to be executed.

"Wednesday afternoons we will give the public an opportunity to select the unredeemed dogs from a kennel containing more than a dozen canines," said Humane Officer Thomas Heddle. "These are strays, but are good dogs for general purposes. Formerly the dogs have been destroyed by the society at a cost of nearly 40 cents each. The individual selecting the dog must agree to take out a license."

Among the dogs which will be given away next Wednesday are two high class fox terriers which were taken from J. W. Jones, who was arrested after he refused to take out licenses for five dogs. Mr. Jones will be given a hearing before Justice George Stocker this afternoon on the charge of harboring unlicensed animals.

DULUTHIAN HONORED BY PHOTOGRAPHERS

W. R. Hallam of Duluth was elected fourth vice president of the National Photographic Dealers' association at the first annual convention held this week in Powers' hotel, Rochester, N. Y. Hallam's selection to this position was made without a dissenting voice. Mr. Hallam, who is a well known photographic dealer in Duluth, succeeded H. S. Smith of Boston, Mass., who retired after giving three years of valuable time and service to the organization. Charles H. Huesgen of New York was re-elected unanimously president of the photographers while E. H. Goodheart of Atlanta, Ga., was re-eelected first vice president. Next year's convention will be held in Chicago while chances favor San Francisco for the 1915 annual meeting.

STATE YEOMEN TO MEET AT JAMESTOWN.

Jamestown, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual convention of the North Dakota state conclave of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will be held here April 1, and there will be an attendance of about 300 delegates, representative of 236 local lodges in the state.

The meeting will be called to order by State Foreman W. M. Spaulding of Grand Forks. There will be an address of welcome by Judge John Knauf of Jamestown, with a response by J. F. Fraine of Grafton. Then will follow the regular reports of officers, and appointment of committees. The afternoon will be given over to the regular business, and in the evening there will be a banquet.

MINOT HAS HOT COMMISSION ELECTION.

Minot, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The three-cornered race for the three positions on the city commission is making the campaign an especially active one. There are three complete tickets in the field, the last being nominated by the Socialists. That party is strong here and at one time had Arthur Le Sueur, a member, as head of the commission.

JAMESTOWN CONSIDERS ANTI-HATPIN LAW.

Jamestown, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of their experiences with the long hatpins worn in ladies' hats the members of the city council are considering the passage of an anti-hatpin ordinance for the protection of the people. The ordinance requires either that the pins be abbreviated or muzzled.

North Dakota Barbers' Exams.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Applicants for licenses as barbers can stand examinations in Fargo April 7 and 8 when the state board meets here for that purpose. Dates will be fixed for other meetings over the state for examining applicants.

FEELING SAID TO BE BITTER

West Virginia Faces Prospect of Another Year of War.

Calling of State-Wide Coal Miners' Strike Is Possible.

Charleston, W. Va., March 28.—Will West Virginia be the scene of another year of industrial warfare?

This is the question raised by the threat that the international organization of the United Mine workers contemplates declaring a state-wide coal strike, beginning on April 1, for an increase in wages and recognition of the union.

It was about two weeks before April 1 a year ago when some of the miners under contract with the coal companies went out without warning as a threat to induce the coal operators to sign the scale proposed by the miners in another section of the Kanawha district.

With that move the industrial war began. Failing to agree on a scale on Paint Creek, where the union had been recognized, disorder soon followed. Some time later, the local police forces being unable to cope with the situation and the sheriff being without authority to furnish deputy sheriffs at the county's expense, coal companies requested the appointment of deputy sheriffs at their expense.

This force being insufficient to cope with the situation, the companies entered into a contract with a detective agency to furnish what were known as Baldwin detectives. Some of these men were not even residents of the state; many of them are alleged to have borne a bad reputation.

Watching the Strikers.

Their employment to watch the strikers, and the company's demand that the miners either return to work or vacate the houses so that they could be used by persons who desired to work, aligned two forces that engaged in many clashes.

That a state of warfare existed is shown by the capture by the militia, from the miners of more than 3,000 rifles and great quantities of ammunition. From the coal companies were also taken machine guns and ammunition and rifles. It has always been conceded that the military authorities never were able to find more than a portion of the firearms furnished the strikers to wage war on the mine guards, coal operators and their operations.

After the troops had been withdrawn trouble began anew. In the meantime the miners had demanded of Governor Glasscock that he remove the Baldwin mine guards. This the governor demanded of the coal operators before he withdrew the troops. Several of them were sent to the penitentiary, as were many miners. In all the first military commission found verdicts against eighty-four persons and all except a few received jail or penitentiary sentences.

A second time the militia was sent to the field and withdrawn, and sent back for the third time. All this time the miners maintained several camps, many living in tents supplied by the United Mine Workers' organization through their international headquarters, and being furnished with food. Offers to send them to nearby union mines where they could secure employment at union wages were rejected, although free transportation was offered the miners and their families.

Bitter Speeches Made.

During the summer and fall bitter speeches urging the miners to stand their grounds, to stand by their guns, and to fight until the coal properties became the property of the miners as well as the operators—that the minerals of the earth belonged to all the people and not to a few—were made by Mother Jones, the noted agitator; John W. Brown and Charles H. Boswell, Socialist leaders.

Some of these speeches were made in the capitol yard, from the steps of the capitol, public squares and other places, besides at scores of places throughout the mining district. Hundreds of miners began to believe they would soon become heirs to valuable coal properties.

These miners, many of them reared in the mountains, have accepted these declarations as a right they have been deprived of, and have shouldered the high-powered rifle to gain what they have been informed is theirs, and of which they are being deprived.

Leading operators have repeatedly stated that if the West Virginia miners would organize as an independent organization of the international organization of miners they would treat with them and would gladly do so.

The fate of the nearly 100 men facing trial before the military commission for all manner of crimes, including murder, attempt to dynamite trains carrying the sheriff and deputy sheriffs, troops of state militia, assaults and a general conspiracy to incite riots and cause an insurrection, remains to be seen.

Courts have been appealed to to prevent the military commission trying the defendants, but the courts have held the governor had the right to appoint a military commission and that it had the right to try persons and impose sentences, though the civil courts were open. The state's highest court hold the governor's actions under martial law were not reviewable by any court.

ON BALKAN CHESSBOARD

French Editor's Views of the European Political Game.

Russia, France and England Favor the Balkan Federation.

In the April Century Andre Tardieu, a French expert in diplomatic affairs, explains in an article called "A Bird's-Eye View of European Politics," how it is that the powers balance each other. The Triple Alliance, he says, consisting of Germany, Austria and Italy, offsets the Triple Entente, consisting of France, Russia and England; and he relates that Prince von Bulow once said to him: "Triple Alliance and Triple Entente are the pillars of European equilibrium." He explains the differing attitudes of the powers regarding the Balkan allies and Turkey as follows:

The views of the powers at the beginning of the (Balkan)-crisis might have been classified as follows—

1. For the maintenance of European peace: Unanimity;
2. For the maintenance of Turkey in her former state: Germany;
3. For the creation of a strong Balkan federation: Russia, France, England;
4. Against such creation: Austria, Germany, and, as a subsidiary, Italy;
5. For the maintenance of the Turks at Constantinople: Unanimity.

But such views had necessarily to be influenced by the onward course of events. How far and in what form?

Until the year 1912 it was Europe that played the principal part in Eastern affairs. Since 1912 Europe has lost her direction in them. She may still make her voice heard, but it is no longer she that leads the game. This is the capital change, and it can not be brought too much to light.

Acted For Themselves.

The Balkan states, after their twenty years' experience, understood that, if they trusted to the great powers to secure the triumph of their claims, either the triumph would be incomplete or they would have to pay too dear for it; and they resolved to act by themselves. They put an end to their old divisions, allied themselves, declared war, and won the victory. And now they are carrying on the negotiations. All this they have done alone without allowing any one to meddle in their affairs.

In politics nothing carries so much weight with it as success. So the Balkan states have obtained results which henceforth will impose themselves on the great powers, willynilly. These results are:

1. The all but complete disappearance of Turkey from Europe;
2. The territorial extension of the four allied Balkan states.

On the other hand, nothing is so imprudent as to try to force too far an already handsome success and to compromise what one has gained by wishing for more. So the Balkan states have spontaneously taken into account the wishes of certain great powers, particularly of Austria, which has backed her wishes with a heavy armament, and they have left outside their capture:

1. Constantinople;
2. Albania.

Such were the conditions of peace formulated by their plenipotentiaries in London, Dec. 20, 1912.

Has Air of a Compromise.

The solution thus outlined has the air of a compromise, in which the powers have not obtained all they wish, but in which each obtains some satisfaction.

Here are the checkmates:

1. For Germany: the disappearance of Turkey from Europe;
2. For Austria: a notable aggrandizement of Slav states and the closing of the road to Saloniki;
3. For Russia, though less marked than the preceding: the limitation imposed on Balkan conquests by the Triple Alliance.

And here are the successes:

1. Russo-Franco-English: the constitution of a powerful Balkan federation in the place of Turkey in Europe;
2. Austro-Italo-German: the territorial closing of the Adriatic to Servia and the creation of Albanian autonomy.

The great results, therefore, are to the profit of the Triple Entente (England, France and Russia), though the Triple Alliance (Germany, Austria and Italy) has succeeded in limiting them. An understanding on such a basis has been preferred to the risk of a European war.

TRY IT! SAGE TEA DARKENS GRAY HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

Druggist Says When Mixed With Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching, and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur"; it surely helps folks appear years younger. Max Wirth.

COULDN'T STAY AWAY ANY LONGER

J. L. Travers Afraid He Was "Missing Something" in Duluth.

"She's the hottest old election I ever saw in Duluth," said J. L. Travers, who arrived in Duluth yesterday from his home at Wahkon, Minn.

For years Mr. Travers was a prominent figure in Democratic circles in Duluth. He was looked upon as the Warwick of the downtown wards.

"I couldn't resist it," said Mr. Travers. "I just had to run up from Wahkon and see how things were going here. Of course, I am not taking any active part in it like I used to, but was reading so much about it in The Herald that I was afraid I was missing something; so I shed my mackinaw and took the train for Duluth just to see what was going on. I never saw a prettier scramble in all the time I was in politics here."

Mr. Travers is now engaged in the logging business at Wahkon, supplying the railroads with ties, posts and all other kinds of forest products that are needed.

PENSIONS FOR THE MOTHERS

New York, March 28.—Judge Franklin C. Hoyt, sometimes of the children's court, holds environment responsible for much of the wrongdoing of youngsters.

"I believe," he says, "that many of the children who are brought to this court as incorrigible have become so not through any fault of their own, nor through the forced neglect, forced irregularity of life and lack of system in the home. The father leaves the house in the morning for work; so, often, does the mother. They are employed in sweatshops, in factories, or in some sort of labor where the hours are long. The littlest children are left to the older ones to look after. Returning to the home at night, the parents are fatigued. Meals are thrown out of kilter, bedtime is a jagged affair. And during the day the child has been subject to many bad influences. These conditions in homes are filling the institutions with incorrigible children and are doing a great deal to break up the family.

"Willfully negligent parents ought to be dealt with more severely than the child. Unfortunately it is impossible for us to punish these as they deserve.

"Then there are the parents who struggle to keep the family together, but can not. Such cases fill one with pity, and there is nothing to be done but send the children to protectories. I believe in a pension for such mothers. The state is paying $2.50 a week for each child sent to a protectory. If this money were given to the worthy mother there would not be so many incorrigible children from families where the only trouble is poverty."

DANGER OF CATARRH

Unless Properly Treated With HYOMEI, the Disease Becomes Serious.

Catarrhal troubles are far more dangerous than they seem at first thought.

If you have catarrh, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane and weakened tissues which afford an ideal lodgment and culture medium for disease germs, especially those of consumption.

You could get cured as quickly as possible before any dangerous germs that you may breathe lodge on the diseased tissue and work destruction in the throat and lungs.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by the direct method, breathing HYOMEI. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not drug and derange the stomach, but is breathed in through the HYOMEI inhaler, directly following and destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled, and healing and vitalizing the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs so as to render catarrh and all other germ infections no longer possible.

The unusual way in which HYOMEI is sold by druggists is the best evidence of confidence in the treatment and should dispel all doubts as to its curative properties. They are authorized to refund the purchase price to anyone whom HYOMEI fails to benefit so you do not risk a cent in testing its healing virtues. A complete outfit costs but $1.00. Extra bottles of liquid if later needed, 50 cents.

Sold by Boyce Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

EVERYBODY IS NOW ON GUARD

Chicago, March 28.—Charging she has been deserted by her husband, whose present fortune was made possible by her savings while a servant, Mrs. Emma W. Anderson, has enlisted the aid of 4,000 persons, including judges, politicians and city officials in Illinois and Nevada, and plain citizens to prevent her becoming the victim of a Reno divorce.

In Reno, or some other Nevada city, Henry C. Anderson is believed by her to be waiting for April 1 to come, by which time he will have acquired a legal residence in the state. Then, Mrs. Anderson fears, he will attempt to get a divorce on grounds a Chicago judge would deem insufficient. In the meantime the wife lives here, almost penniless. The profits from her husband's business, she says, are sent him every week.

The fight to prevent Anderson from getting a quiet divorce is engineered by Charles G. Hutchinson, Mrs. Anderson's attorney. Every lawyer in Nevada, every court official and the members of the Order of the Eastern Star, of which Anderson and his wife are members, has been asked to aid the wife.

If the suit is filed, Mrs. Anderson wants to know about it. Her lodge has offered to defray her expenses to Nevada to fight the suit. Her greatest fear is that Anderson will obtain a quiet divorce and marry again.

Anderson and Emma Gustafson, now Mrs. Anderson, were playmates together. Sweethearts for many years, they did not marry because he had no money. Miss Gustafson took a place as a servant and placed her savings at his disposal. Twice he went into business ventures with this aid, but failed. Finally, fifteen years ago, they were married.

Mrs. Anderson continued working, and, on the third attempt, Anderson struck it rich. Starting with a shop in a basement where he repaired elevators, Anderson rapidly branched out until now he owns a six-story building.

"The success did not spoil them," said Mr. Hutchinson, "at least not until a year ago. Then Anderson started suit for divorce. The case came up before Judge Burke, but the charges of cruelty failed and he dismissed his own suit.

"It is hard to get trace of these Nevada divorces, but Mrs. Anderson has written to every lawyer in Nevada, to every judge and clerk of court, as well as to the different chapters affiliated with her lodge. All have been asked to notify her if Anderson starts suit against her."

FIGHT BY WHALE AND SWORDFISH

Battle Royal Is Witnessed Off the Banks of Newfoundland.

Philadelphia, March 28.—When the Hamburg-American line steamship Pallanza came into her dock the other day after a stormy voyage of nineteen days, her passengers, officers and crew were still talking about a battle to the death between a swordfish and a whale when the liner was nearing the banks of Newfoundland.

A vivid description of the encounter was given by Capt. Fendt, who said it was one of the most thrilling marine spectacles he had ever witnessed.

"We were just about to go below for dinner on March 12," said Capt. Fendt, "when my attention was called to a commotion in the water about a half mile away on the starboard side. I looked around just in time to see the back of a whale disappear in the water.

'At first I thought he was only playing.

'He reappeared soon after, and this time it was plain that something was the matter with the big fellow. I never saw a whale in such a hurry to get out of the water or shake himself the way this one did when he was in the air.

"We saw something else, too, but at first could hardly make out what it was. There was a big swordfish hanging to the whale like grim death.

"This fish's sword, which was probably 3½ feet long, was driven to the nose into the thick of the great whale's body and was apparently reaching a tender spot, for the big one seemed half-crazed with pain and wild to shake off his little tormentor.

"No doubt he would have been glad to let go if he could, but he couldn't. Once he had driven it into the whale he had no way of backing out, and probably it would have taken a horse to haul it out, judging from the terrible blow with which they drive their swords through the oak planking of a wooden vessel.

"Anyway, he didn't leave go, at least as long as we watched him, and they both probably went down together."

ORDINANCE IS ADVERTISER

Duluth's Housing Regulations Attract Attention From Other Points.

Survey Commends Zenith City for Safeguarding Health of People.

Duluth's new housing ordinance still continues to be a wonderful advertiser for the Zenith City.

In the current issue of Survey, a New York weekly devoted to philanthropic subjects and allied topics, a special article appears under the caption, "Duluth Sets Good Housing Standards.'

The housing ordinance which was adopted last fall has been the subject of magazine comment on other occasions.

The Survey says:

"The national awakening to the importance of wholesome housing for the people of our cities has begun to show in constructive legislation. In half a dozen of our cities, official commissions and citizens' committees are drafting laws ordinances designed to set a standard which will assure that their homes in the future will be at least well lighted and well ventilated, provided with water and sanitary toilet facilities and reasonably well safeguarded against the fire hazard. Among these half dozen, Duluth has been the first to actually enact its proposals into law, following the example of Columbus, which a short time ago celebrated the close of the first year of successful enforcement of its housing code.

"The Duluth code, like that of Columbus, followed an investigation of local housing conditions which showed that Duluth, like every other city which has let things go, houses some of its people in dark inttrior rooms and dark, damp basements; that it has room overcrowding and lot overcrowding; and that its toilet facilities were in many instances not conducive either to decency or to health.

"The first result of these discoveries was the appointment by the common council on the recommendation of the mayor, of a housing committee. This committee at once set about the task of drafting an ordinance, based, like the Columbus code, upon the model law. A draft of this ordinance was submitted to the National Housing association for comment, it was made the subject of several public hearings in Duluth and finally passed by a vote of 9 to 6.

"At the hearings a considerable amount of opposition developed, some of it due to the fear of the speculators that their profits would be curtailed; some to an honest misunderstanding of the scope of the ordinance and its effect upon real estate investments. The hearings convinced most of the second class of objectors that the proposed legislation would not interfere with legitimate building and that proper regulation in other cities had encouraged rather than discouraged the erection of houses.

"Hereafter in Duluth both tenement houses and single family dwellings must have enough open space on their lots to light and ventilate every room, rooms must be large enough for habitation and must have windows opening to the outer air, the height of wooden tenement houses will be limited and other safeguards provided against fire. Every new tenement house must have within each apartment a proper sink with running water and a water closet located either in a bathroom or in a separate compartment. Every dwelling house, when water main and sewer are accessible, must also have running water and a water closet within the house.

"For existing houses the regulations, of course, are not so strict as for new buildings; but for them also the standards have been raised in the interests of decency and health. So Duluth takes its place among the cities of America that are intelligently safeguarding the people's homes."

FISHERMEN TO BE HEARD

Joint Committee of Minnesota and Wisconsin Legislators to Hold Meeting.

Uniform Regulations on Fishing in Boundary Waters to Be Recommended.

Fishermen of Duluth and St. Louis county will be heard at a public hearing to be conducted by the joint committee of the Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures, for the purpose of making unform and reciprocal fishing laws on all boundary waters between the states, tomorrow at the courthouse.

John A. Healy of Hibbing, representative from the Forty-ninth district, who is secretary of the committee, has made arrangements with County Auditor Odin Halden for the use of the county commissioners' room. The hearing will start at 10 a. m.

The committee will consist of six members from each legislature, and the hearing which will be conducted will relate to fishing on Lake Superior only. It is expected that a large number of north shore fishermen will be present to give their ideas.

The laws in the two states differ in many material points, and it is the desire of the joint committee to make them uniform. A single set of regulations relating to the size of nets and meshes to be used is one of the things which the committee expects to work out. A closed season on herring during the spawning season in the fall is one of the things suggested.

Senator George P. Skogmo of River Falls, Wis., is chairman, and Representative Healy of Hibbing, secretary of the committee. The other members are: Minnesota—Senator Manley L. Fosseen, Minneapolis; Senator George C. Carpenter, Buffalo; Senator L. O. Cooke, Lake City; Representatives Thomas Kneeland, Minneapolis, and Frank Minette, Sauk Center. Wisconsin—Senator L. G. Kellogg, Ripon; Senator Robert Glenn, Beloit; Assemblymen J. A. Chinnock, Hudson; Henry Laycock, Eau Claire, and E. Kneen, Bangor. Last week the committee had hearings at La Crosse and Madison.

The members of the joint committee will be taken by automobile tomorrow afternoon to the United States fish hatchery at Lester river, and tomorrow evening they will be entertained at a dinner at the Commercial club by the club and local sportsmen.

New Vanities and Coin Holders 25c to 50c Each

Dainty little trifles to be sure, but so stylish and really quite convenient — you'd not expect such attractive novelties for so little.

A Return to the Rich Handsome Brocades of Colonial Times

They are being shown in soft Crepes, Charmeuse and Satins. Elegant fabrics that make most handsome gowns or waists and are sure to drape gracefully. You will admire the beautiful patterns which we show them in, and you will also appreciate the unusual colorings in which we have selected them. Most of them are in 40-inch to 44-inch widths. Prices ranging from $2.50 to $7.00 per yard.

Foulards Will Again Hold a Prominent Place in Spring Gowns

They are ever satisfactory cloths. Their soft draping qualities make them most desirable for this season's styles and will be a strong factor in their use.

Many of the styles we are showing this season come in 44-inch widths which, as you know, is most advantageous for making up present style gowns.

We are also featuring the standard 23-inch widths. A pronounced feature in Foulards this year is the extended use of floral patterns. The colorings, too, are out of the general run. Prices in the 23-inch run from 85c to $1.00 a yard, in the 44-inch size, $2.00 a yard.

Many Tub Silks Are to Be Worn This Spring and Summer

You will appreciate the unusual amount of style that has been put into these fabrics. Dainty little hair-lines combined with satin stripes, Pekin stripes, neat little pencil stripes with conventional figures printed on them, etc. They are most practical for waists and dresses. 32-inch and 36-inch widths.

They are much heavier and have a quality look about them that Tub Silks heretofore have not had.

We are looking for a big season in them. Prices ranging from $1.00 to $1.75 per yard.

A Good Dress Form Would Help You Very Much

We sell the famous Hall-Borchert — the Anderman —and the "Pneu" matic Forms at factory prices.

A Boy Ought to Wear the Best Wearing Shoes He Can Find

That is only another way of saying he should wear "American Boy Shoes," for they are made of tan or black Elk leather with heavy Goodyear welt soles, and they are made as strongly as good workmen and extra strong findings can make them, but they are not only strong, they are really dressy looking.

Variously priced at $2.50 to $4.50 the pair according to size and style.

Misses' and Children's Shoes That Are "Better"

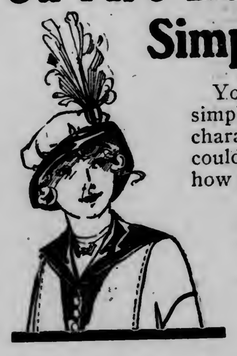
We have found two makers who are willing to use extra care in making Children's Shoes to suit our exacting requirements, and our exacting requirements are simply our ideas of what you really want and should have in children's shoes. They must wear well, they must be comfortable for growing feet and they should be good looking.

You know that most makers slight either one or the other of these three features and you will be glad to learn that we offer dress shoes and school shoes, dull black, tan and patent leather, in a large assortment of different styles and sizes at prices ranging from $1.50 to $3.00 the pair. They are all made on natural lasts which will take care of growing feet.

You Who Naturally Have Large Hips May Now Have the Straight Lines

The fashion lines of today are easily possible if you are properly corseted.

Our corset experts will take pains that you secure exactly the right model for your figure.



NEW W. B. MODELS

Two new models are here in W. B. corsets of exceptional style — they have little improvements that mark them as superior to other corsets.

Come in and talk to our corset experts — they'll gladly show the special features of such corsets as appeal to your particular requirements.

Prices range $2 and $3.50 for these new W. B. models—and there are others at $1.00 to $5.00.

You Are Delighted With the Charming Simplicity of Our Hats

You've seen an artist genius draw a few simple lines and create a sketch that has character and charm—but the untalented could not produce such an effect no matter how many lines they draw.

There's a parallel in millinery. It takes genius to give the style, elegance and distinction you see even in our most simple hats.

Our milliners are talented artists in their work. They understand how to create style and tone along with simplicity—they do not overload. In consequence our hats are moderate in price—as well as refined and uncommon. They seem made for your refined taste. Welcome to see them tomorrow.

Your Gloves Give the Final Touch of Elegance

And that's why we're so particular to stock only the gloves that are of proven merit and certain style.

The famous Fownes and the Aristocratic Alexander Kid Gloves are here in the wanted shades at $1.50, $2 and $3.50 pair.

And then there are chamois skin gloves—and doeskin gloves which not only wear — but wash in the truest sense of the word. Prices, $1.50 and $2.

Our Dollar Gloves Are Marvels of Value

They are more than dollar gloves in quality and service—and their looks appeal to you.

SUSPECTED THIEF IS UNDER ARREST.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Wagener will send a man tonight to Lafayette, La., where it is said that Sam Melzer, alias Sam Nelshofsky, is under arrest, charged with the theft of diamonds valued at $4,000 and $357 in cash here. The theft was committed in the store of James A. McCarthy in May, 1812.

Melzer came to St. Paul from the East shortly before the robbery and had been McCarthy's clerk.

PASSENGERS HELPED IN SHOVELING SNOW.

Byron Hinckley, who returned today from Cusson, Wis., was snowbound half a day when the train on which he left the city was caught in a snowstorm last week. Mr. Hinckley said that most of the passengers, men and women, turned out with the train crew to help shovel the train out. On board were sixty members of "The Modern Eve" company, most of them women, and he states that all of them did their share of the work. "Hink" declares that his arms and back are still sore and stiff from the unusual exertions.

LOGGER DISAPPEARS.

Said to Have Defrauded Many People Around Gemmell.

Gemmell, Minn., March 28.—Will Ross, a logging contractor who has been operating in this section, is said to have disappeared and left a lot of people in the hole financially. It is reported that Ross sold logs to three different parties and defrauded a lot of lumberjacks out of their money. Report has it that he got away with as much as $25,000 and so far as known his whereabouts is a mystery. The alleged act of Ross has caused a sensation and the results are felt in business circles here and at Mizpah.

LOHR WILL MANAGE GRAND FORKS TEAM.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Grand Forks baseball club held a meeting last evening, electing Frank Lohr as business manager for the coming year. He already is in charge of the work, and has been signing the players for the team this year, over which Sam Foster will work as captain.

The Grand Forks club is in splendid financial condition this year. The reports for the last season's operations were very satisfactory.

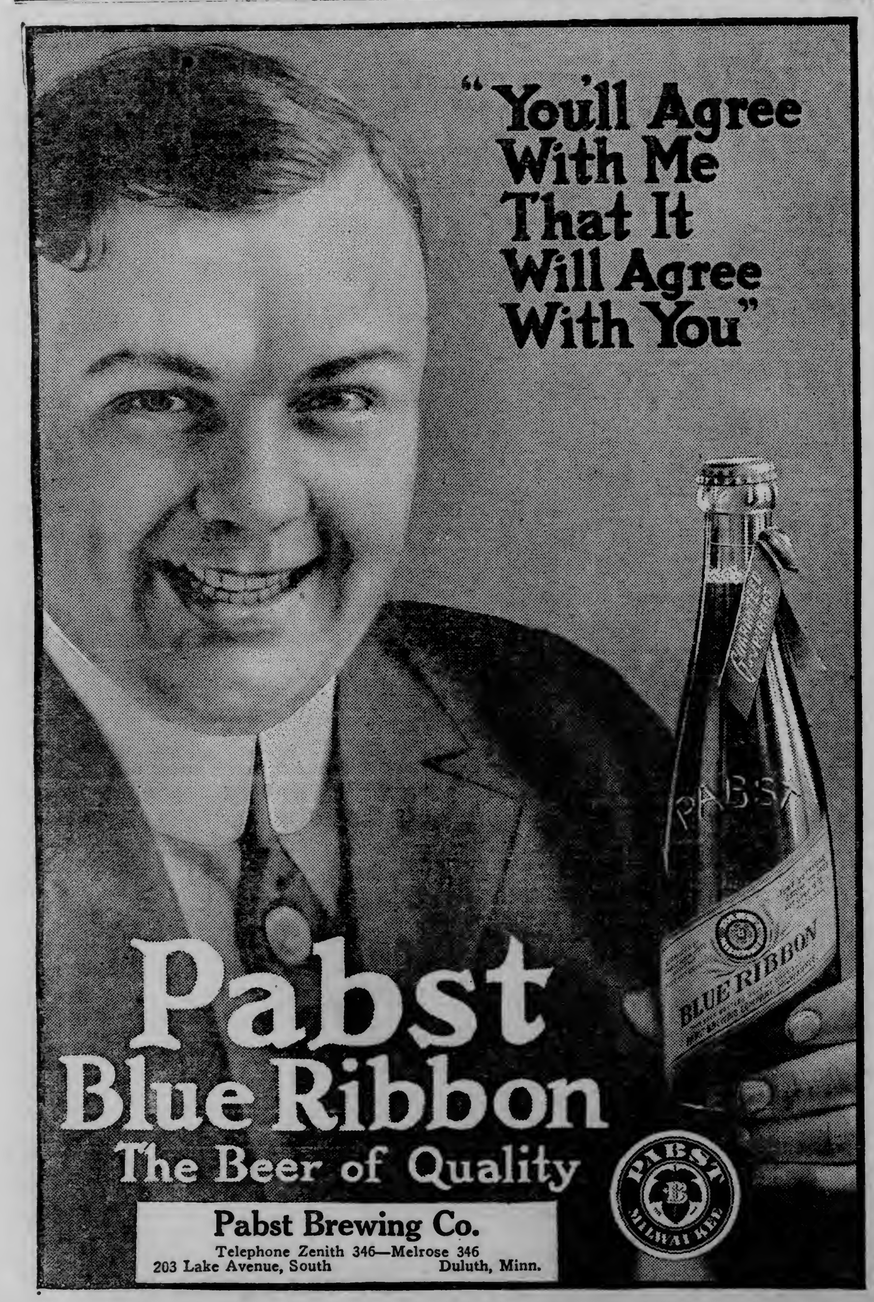
PSYCHOLOGIST FOR POLAR EXPEDITION

Iowa Man Will Be One of Scientists With Stefansson.

Iowa City, Iowa, March 28.—The state university of Iowa will furnish the first psychologist for a polar expedition. Luther E. Widen, M. A., who until recently has been studying here for his doctor's degree, will be one of the party of scientists that will accompany V. Stefansson on his Arctic expedition the coming summer.

Mr. Widen will make the trip for the purpose of studying the psychology of the Esquimaux and wild Indian tribes of the polar regions. He will make a special study of the white Esquimaux discovered by Stefansson. His first studies will be among the civilized Esquimaux tribes and the Indians.

Mr. Widen says that at present there is no satisfactory study dealing with primitive peoples that is complete and comprehensive, and he believes he has a great opportunity to contribute something of value to science as a result of the expedition.



Those explorers who have made observations among the Arctic peoples say the Esquimaux are very intelligent along certain lines and very slow in other things. Their reasoning ability seems very low in comparison with that of other races. The blond Esquimaux cannot count above six, but he is a very skilful trapper and has a highly developed time sense.

As a result of his studies Mr. Widen expects to be able to gain some valuable ideas as to methods of training and education of the uncivilized tribes. In his graduate work at the Iowa institution he has been studying especially along the lines of development of children, under the supervision of Dean Carl Emil Seashore.

The Stefansson expedition will start from Esquimault, B. S., the latter part of May or first part of June in the steam whaler Karluck, which is being fitted out now at San Francisco. The expenses of the expedition will be borne by the Canadian government. The party will spend three years in exploration.

The party will contain representatives of practically every race, Scandinavians predominating. Stefansson is an Icelander; Dr. R. M. Anderson, second in command, is a Norwegian, and Widen is of Swedish parentage. Others are English, French, Canadian, German and American.

KILL GRAFT IN CHARITY

Preying Upon Good People in the Name of Religion.

New Method of Putting the Undeserving Out of Business.

Chicago, March 28.—Chicago is the first city to put into operation a courageous and systematic plan for eliminating the pious grafter from the community—the man or woman who maintains an alleged mission or home or other charity, which, whether intentionally or not, exists chiefly for the support of the persons behind it.

This sort of graft is a crying scandal to every large city. It is known by all church and charitable workers. Yet so long as operations are kept within the limits of very lax civil laws it has been difficult to deal with them.

Not all of these money-raising organizations are sheer and intentional frauds, although some are. A certain proportion are merely unfit. They are the well-meant efforts of incompetent and untrained persons to do good. They are commendable only for their impulse. They have no system and there is no attempt to keep the carrying charges in anything like a proportionate ratio to the output. The problem which has confronted the religious community and the allied philanthropic workers is how to protect the public without seeming to attack religion or charity.

How the Graft Works.

Few givers ever investigate. Probably a factor in much giving is the desire to get rid of the canvasser with as little inconvenience as possible. To prey upon good people in the name of religion is probably the easiest and most widely worked graft in the world. A notable example is that of what is called the Christmas dinner graft, with public appeals for money on the street corners. There could in the nature of the case be no auditing of accounts, although criminal trials have developed that in at least one of these organizations 100 per cent of the day's collection was paid to the collectors, and out of the remainder the administrative expenses had to come. Naturally only a few pennies out of every dollar given got beneath the belts of the poor in the form of food.

Another similar fraud is the maintenance of rescue missions and homes. It is easy to get a few well-meaning clergymen to lend their names, without the slightest investigation, to a project that professes to be pious. Thus authenticated, the managers are free to sail all seas in search of funds. No books are kept and no financial reports are made.

These petty schemes are not all of the pious graft that exists in the land. There are certain national societies, whom it would be impious to call by the crass name of grafters, who have an expense budget out of all proportion to the work done. Many of these have outlived their usefulness and are simply subsisting on the income from fat endowments. They have unintentionally and imperceptibly come to their present condition by the passage of time. The Federal Council of Churches promised to deal with these, but it has not yet been able to do so.

Not an Easy Task.

That the task of restricting public beneficences to really deserving causes is no slight one may be seen from the simple statement that a committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce spent two years on the task and has just issued its report of the investigation which it made. Under the direction of the association of commerce a committee of experts, which had the assistance of an advisory council of thirty-six specialists in social and religious work, has been making a fearless investigation of nearly 300 alleged philanthropic agencies which solicit public support.

The result of the investigation is "Chicago's first handbook for the guidance of citizens desiring standardization in the business management of privately supported charities." Two hundred and ninety-one organizations sought the approval of the committee. Of this number only 155 were able to pass muster, and of this latter number fifty-one had their accounts audited by a certified accountant for the first time. This simple statement throws a flood of light on the conditions existing in Chicago, and doubtless, duplicated in other cities.

Publicity and Purse Strings.

Since the issuance of this list and the dissemination of the fact of its existence, it has become essential for any society or institution that hopes to live by public support to obtain this recognition. In some cases the committee intimates that it means to suppress certain organizations by legal means. This will be necessary only in extreme cases. Not to be on the association of commerce list of approved agencies is equivalent to being tabooed by every sensible giver.

Now all new movements and organizations that make a public appeal for money must have their plans approved by this representative committee of experts which stands between the hungry hands of the genuine and bogus helpers of mankind and the easy purse strings of the people.

The committee included within its survey the various independent religious organizations. It exempted those which were under direct ecclesiastical control, but the publicity already secured will cause the denominational authorities to give stricter attention to the efficiency of the agencies which they support.

The co-operative council of missions of Chicago has co-operated actively in the work of investigation and tabulation.

Will Save Thousands.

It is within the field of religious organization that the greatest bitterness is shown by agencies which failed to secure recognition. The committee takes the firm ground that a well-meant activity is no substitute for an efficient, well-administered and necessary institution or organization. The amount saved to the churches will total thousands of dollars every year.

The committee has named six standards which it counts indispensable to every organization. These are as follows:

Responsible local management, with at least four administrative meetings a year; a work commensurate in value with the money expended; a disposition to co-operate with other charitable institutions; a field not already occupied; satisfactory methods of raising funds, and an annual auditing of accounts by public accountants.

Encouraged by Chicago's example and experience, it is likely that the Federated Charities and the interchurch federations of other cities will adopt the same plan. We have come to the day of efficiency in religion. Any church board, any benevolent institution, any philanthropic agency, no matter how venerable, that is not able to stand the full and rigid scrutiny of trained investigators would better begin to set its house in order.

WITH A HUSBAND

Miss Shedd Is to Obtain Her Father's $3,000,000 Estate.

Boston, Mass., March 28.—Wedding bells will soon be ringing for Miss Mary Belle Shedd of Lowell, who will thus take the first step in an effort to win a legacy of $3,000,000.

Under the terms of the strangest will ever filed in a New England court Miss Shedd will lose $3,000,000 unless she marries and bears children. As soon as this became known the young woman was deluged with marriage proposals, but the daughter of the late wealthy perfume manufacturer made her choice some time ago.

Freeman B. Shedd died in Florida, leaving $3,000,000, a widow and daughter. It was understood the daughter would inherit her father's property, but the will was found to provide as stated. By its terms Mrs. Shedd and her daughter are provided for in life. They will have the income of the money, but cannot obtain the principal unless Mary Belle Shedd weds. In case she leaves no children at the time of her death the money will be divided among the Berry school of Rome, Ga.; the Northfield seminary, the city of Lowell and the Lowell general hospital.

Miss Shedd is also sole executrix of this strange will which takes the disposition of her father's immense estate out of her hands unless she becomes a mother.

CIVIC CENTER FOR DENVER.

A Boston Expert Is Helping the City With Its Plans.

Denver News: With the recent arrival in Denver of Frederick Law Olmsted, famous Boston landscape architect and civic beauty expert, employed by the city to lay out and arrange the civic center and the mountain park system, preliminary work on the two big projects was placed actively under way. The next two weeks will witness the completion of working plans for the civic center and a general outline and plan for the mountain park system.

Olmsted brought with him a number of sketches and plans, showing tentative groupings of municipal and county buildings about the civic center site, corresponding in a general way to the plan proposed last fall by the mayor. These plans show not only the building arrangement, but the general topographical outline and ornamentation scheme. Olmsted will go thoroughly over the ground before leaving, consult with officials and make such changes and alterations as he may deem necessary.

Before he departs he will have data for a complete set of plans, which will be prepared later by experts in his Boston studio.

The mountain park system also will engage his attention during his visit, and he will go over the proposed route, revising and adding to the preliminary sketches and plans which have been prepared by his assistant, George Gibbs, Jr., who has been in Denver throughout the winter, working on the project.

About half a million passengers pass the Mansion house, London, daily.

About 100 street accidents a day occur in the whole of Great Britain.

THAT SECOND CHOICE VOTE.

In some of the discussions among citizens relative to the number of second choice votes that can be cast, the question has arisen whether one may mark a second choice for more than one man for any given office. The charter is plain on this point, for it says:

"VOTE ONLY ONE FIRST CHOICE AND ONLY ONE SECOND CHOICE FOR ANY ONE OFFICE."

That is, vote one first choice for mayor, one second choice for mayor, and as many additional choices as you wish.

Vote two first choices for long term commissioners, two second choices for long term commissioners, and as many additional choices for long term commissioners as you wish.

Vote two first choices for short term commissioners, two second choices for short term commissioners, and as many additional choices as you wish.

Also, the charter says:

"Do not vote for more than one choice for one person, as only one choice will count for any candidate."

Do not get confused over the new ballot form. Use your common sense and you will readily see how it should be marked. It would be absurd to vote for more men as first choice candidates than there are offices to be filled. So don't do it. It would be equally absurd to claim to have more second choices for office than there are offices to be filled. So don't try to specify more than that number of second choices.

It is equally clear that a man may have as many "additional choices" as he wants to. That is plain common sense. And the charter allows you to use common sense. Before you go to vote, get hold of a sample ballot and look it over. It really isn't as hard to understand as some folks would have you believe. Use your common sense. That's all.

It will be a great disappointment to the people as a whole if the warmth of the campaign fails to melt away at least a portion of the snowbanks.

HUNTING FOR WORRY.

The St. Paul Dispatch, which has shown a most pessimistic disposition about nearly everything connected with the Wilson administration, has found something more to worry about. It expresses "fear" that President Wilson and the Democratic leaders are going to forget principle and yield to expediency by bringing up the tariff schedules for action one at a time instead of lumping them all in one bill and acting on them in that form.

The Dispatch is going a long ways out of its way to find something to feel distress over. When the Republican party was in power at Washington and after the rank and file of that party had begun to realize the extent of the disaster that had been brought on the organization by its failure to keep faith with the people, a cry went up from all over the country for a new revision of the tariff, to be made schedule by schedule. That idea was approved on all hands, and its good features were emphasized again and again.

Chief among these was the fact that by enacting the tariff laws one at a time the president would be in a position to veto one schedule if it conflicted with his conception of justice, without being thereby compelled to reject others that he deemed worthy of his approval. Had that system been followed by the Republicans in inflicting the Payne-Aldrich tariff on the nation, President Taft never would have felt compelled to sign the bill as a whole, as "the best that could be obtained."

Another important advantage of schedule-by-schedule revision is that it will reduce logrolling to a minimum, since every schedule will be brought before congress on its own merits, and there will be less opportunity, if skullduggery of any kind is attempted, to pass a vicious schedule while the attention of the members and of the country is being directed to some other feature of the bill that is not so greatly in need of attention.

It is possible that, in view of the work already done toward drafting the schedules for the proposed tariff, it will be possible to present a completed bill to congress. Certainly there is more reason for expecting justice in such a bill now than there was when the Payne-Aldrich abortion was turned out. But if President Wilson and the Democratic leaders prefer that the revision be made on a schedule-by-schedule basis, the Dispatch should be the last paper in the country to complain, unless it is seeking, by stirring up opposition to the schedule-by-schedule plan, to lay the ropes with which to drag President Wilson into a hole.

A warm time is waiting for the disclosure of the identity of the man who put the "G!" in spring.

MAKING THE JEST EARNEST.

It becomes apparent that the Minnesota house is some joker itself.

The senate, prompted by opponents of the county officers non-partisan bill, amended the original measure so as to include legislators in the list of officers to be elected on a non-partisan basis, and sent the bill to the house with that amendment added. The house passed the bill as it came from the senate, making only one change in it. That change is in the date of the primary elections. And now the measure goes back to the senate, with the non-partisan legislature attachment still in place.

What will the senate do with it? Having once passed the bill with the non-partisan legislature provision included, and included by the initiative of the senate, will that body now stultify itself by rejecting its own proposal after it has been adopted by the house? Unless it does so there is every probability that Minnesota will be the first state in the Union to break away from the old practice of partisanship in its legislature.

That wouldn't be such a bad thing, either. There is no sound reason why the legislature should be composed on party lines. It no longer determines who are to be the state's senators at Washington, and there is no other business that comes before the legislature that demands settlement along party lines. State issues are not in the least bound up with national party issues, and state bodies chosen according to national party affiliations are only hampered by that fact.

The thing that the senators started as a joke has developed into a serious and sensible proposition.

The United States found itself face to face with a crisis in the case of Dred Scott, and Mexico is trying the crisis business under the direction of the dread Huerta.

LEWIS AND SHERMAN.

Nothing more encouraging to the advocates of direct votes on all officers has occurred in many months than the selection of J. Ham Lewis and Lawrence Y. Sherman as the United States senators from Illinois. It is more than a compromise by opposing forces in the state legislature—it is a victory for the people of the state over party organization.

At the primary election these two men were favored for the senatorships, by the vote of the people of the state. But there is nothing in the Illinois law providing for compulsory compliance with the voters' will on the part of the legislators, and when the legislature met, the party rivalry in that body quickly developed a deadlock on the senatorial situation.

There was little change in the situation from the day the deadlock first became apparent to the time of the final vote. It was a battle of oldtime party prejudice, at first, and later it developed into a strife between all party prejudice as such and the more progressive principle of popular government. And in the end the popular government forces won, and the people of Illinois, for the first time in history, are to be represented in the national senate by men of their own choosing.

That such a thing could happen in any state would have been doubted a decade ago. That it could happen in Illinois has seemed impossible even in the last few weeks. But it has happened, and Illinois is to be congratulated. To Governor Dunne is given the bulk of the credit for the outcome of the legislative strife. But neither Governor Dunne nor any other man in the same position could have brought it about were it not for the fact that the people are waking up to the seriousness and intimacy of the questions of government, and that they are waking up to such purpose that even the old-style, hidebound party politicians are being forced to understand the fact.

It is this that makes the Illinois case and its outcome important and significant. And the significance of the thing cannot well be overestimated.

"There's nothing platonic about a man's love for himself," but it's just as dangerous as if there were.

FOR THE FLOOD SUFFERERS.

Today the world will begin to learn the exact truth about the conditions in the flooded sections of the Central West. Heretofore there has been much of guesswork and uncertainty as to the extent of the damage done by the water and fire. With the recession of the floods, which had already begun yesterday, the extent of the damage and suffering will begin to be learned more accurately, and with this knowldge will come realization of the extent and imperativeness of help from outside.

Duluth people have been deeply stirred by the catastrophes in Ohio and neighboring states, and expressions have been heard on all sides of willingness and eagerness to help alleviate the sufferings of those who have been victims of the disaster. Those who wish to help in this work can send their contributions either by check or in cash, to The Herald, and they will be forwarded to Governor Cox, president of the Red Cross in Ohio, for use as the society sees it is most needed.

The beef ex-trust men say the removal of the tariff on meat wouldn't have the slightest effect on prices. But it's not noticeable that they are willing to have that tariff removed.

AS TO COLLEGE FRATERNITIES.

Some probably well-meaning but sadly misguided members of the Wisconsin legislature are seeking to secure the enactment of a law in that state prohibiting the existence of Greek letter societies among the students in the state university.

Their action is a serious mistake. Prominent and experienced educators in all parts of the country have studied the fraternity question at first hand, and have pronounced those organizations a distinct benefit, both to their members and to the institution.

Taken in even its worst aspect, the fraternity must be regarded as no more than a clique, and cliques will form wherever half a dozen or more human beings are gathered together. What is the difference whether the clique be known by Greek letter designations or by some other name?

But the college fraternity, at least as far as the national organizations are concerned, is more than a clique, in that it exercises a certain authority over its members which the clique cannot exercise. And this authority is invariably on the side of good scholarship and good conduct. That there are instances in which it is not enforced is no more and no less true of college fraternities than of other bodies of men. But that fact is a long way from being a reasonable excuse for attacking the fraternity system.

Furthermore, it must be recognized that the fraternities furnish homes for their members instead of compelling the young men to live in unrestricted boarding houses, and that they teach thought for others and regard for the rights of others as one of the first principles of manhood. And it is not going too far to assert that in most of the few instances in which fraternity chapters have been found to be contrary to the best interests of universities, the fault has lain as much or more with the governing forces of the institutions than with the Greek letter organizations and their members.

The fraternities are a good thing in a college. As Jacob G. Schurman of Cornell once wrote, "the only pity is that there are not more of them." The legislators should be in better business than trying to do away with something that is worth while just because they fail to realize that fact, or have been prejudiced against the frats.

Instead of forcing it onto China, England might try the experiment of bringing that $50,000,000 worth of opium home and feeding it to the militant women.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE NEW BALLOTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In spite of the fact that our Duluth papers have repeatedly explained the new system of voting, and that candidates and others have held countless public meetings telling about it, there are still hundreds of voters in Duluth who do not understand it, and who are going to be disenfranchised next Tuesday. I would like to suggest that one last effort be made to instruct all those who do not already know how to vote. WEST ENDER.

Duluth, March 28.

The Herald will publish a complete explanation of the ballot in its edition Monday evening, and those voters who do not already understand how to mark the new ballots will have an opportunity to study this explanation and prepare for voting on Tuesday.—The Editor.

When the Kaiser Was a Boy.

London Chronicle: Queen Alexandra's wedding in March, 1863, was the first ceremonial function attended by the German emperor. He was then a small boy of 5 and of a fidgety disposition, so his uncles, the dukes of Edinburgh and Connaught, were told off to sit next to him and keep him in order. The service was long, and presently he began to shuffle his feet. A warning nudge admonished him, whereupon, according to Bishop Wilberforce, "the infant prince knelt down and bit his two uncles in the calves of their legs, not playfully, but in such deadly earnest, that they had much ado not to cry aloud with pain."

Noah Had Brushes.

London Telegram: Among the many trades that lay claim to great antiquity is that of the brushmakers. At the fifth annual dinner of the British Brush Manufacturers' Association, recently, it was pointed out that Noah's Ark was pitched within and without, and that therefore the patriarch must have had brushes to do the work.

Of What Color Are Your Eyes?

From the New York World.

Are your eyes green? If they are not you cannot claim the indorsement of the great classic writers. Of course, this does not mean grass green, but the grayish green so often found in the most expressive eyes. It was Dante who described Beatrice's eyes as emeralds, and in English literature Frances Collins writes:

"And let those sea-green eyes divine
Pour their love-madness into mine."

While Swinburne describes the finest eyes:

"O fervid eyelids, letting through
Those eyes the greenest of things blue,
The bluest of things gray."

Shakespeare did indeed speak of the "green-eyed monster," but he is the great exception.

The eye has always been considered the most expressive feature in the human countenance, so it is natural that every fledgling poet hastens to pen an ode to the eyes of some fair maid. Called the "windows of the heart," their expressiveness has been emphasized rather more than the color. Some writers claim that the color of the eye is an indication of character. "Dark blue eyes are most common in persons of delicate, refined or effeminate nature; light blue, and, much more, gray eyes, in the hardy and active; greenish eyes have generally the same meaning as gray; hazels are the usual indication of a masculine, vigorous and profound mind."

Many modern poets pay full tribute to blue eyes, Shelley comparing them to "deep blue, boundless heaven."

In Spain they have a proverb: "Blue eyes say, 'Love me or I die;' black eyes say, 'Love me or I kill thee.'"

Gray eyes have their admirers, too. Shakespeare speaks of "Your eyes as gray as glass and right amiable." Black eyes are interpreted both good and evil, and the Mohammedan heaven is filled with "Virgins with chaste mien and large black eyes." But that the black-eyed girl is deceitful will be held a libel by every dark-eyed maiden. The suggestion possibly comes from one of the old folk rhymes:

"Gray-eyed greedy,
Brown-eyed needy.
Black-eyed never likin',
Till it shame all its kin."

Proverbs are never more than half true.

The setting of the eye has much to do with its beauty and the appreciation of beholders. Long, sweeping lashes are an added beauty, and the eyebrow has always been studied in connection with character.

Some hold that it is a good thing to have meeting eyebrows, as such a person will never have trouble. The Greeks admired those eyebrows which almost met, and Tennyson ascribes to Oenone "the charms of meeting brows."

In Asia the women aid Nature by artificial means, joining the eyebrows by black pigment when they do not grow together.

It is generally agreed that a woman's eyebrows should be delicately and nicely pencilled, but fandy plays strange freaks as to color. In Central Africa women stain them with indigo, and Georgian damsels blacken theirs. Japanese ladies, when married, remove their eyebrows altogether, so that their husbands may have no cause for jealousy.

That the eyebrow should be beautifully arched is agreed by poets and painters alike, even if it be not for the cause assigned by Herder, who says that it is the rainbow of peace, because, when "straightened by a frown, it portends a storm."

Odd Stunts at Omaha

Omaha World-Herald: Some of the stories of freak incidents discovered in the wake of a tornado are unbelievable, but after locating some of the miraculous deeds of Sunday's wind anything at all is possible.

The story about the handkerchief that was blown from the pocket of a dress coat during a tornado in Iowa many years ago, and a brick lodged in the pocket in its place, seems incredible, but how's this one:

At the home of Peter H. Dillon, a policeman, living at 3419 Hamilton street, only a few of the storm windows were broken and the back porch was damaged slightly.

A window on the second floor of the house, over the front porch, was closed at the time of the storm. The wind took out the upper sash of the storm window, but left the glass of the inside window intact. And on the floor inside the closed window was the glass from the storm window!

At the home of Mrs. R. A. Willis, 1816 North Twenty-eighth street, the only damage was done to a small portion of the roof.

However, the outer edge of a connecting door between the kitchen and dining room of the house—the part to which the knob is attached—was torn from its fastenings and hurled through the wall into an adjoining room! What was responsible for this cannot be explained.

Out on Thirtieth street, in the path of the storm, in the midst of a group of trees, nearly all of which had been uprooted or broken off short at the base, was one tree that appeared to be at least twenty or thirty years old. Yet it had been bent over into the street as if it had been a sapling. The wood was not splintered at any point—the tree had been bent as if it had been a piece of lead pipe.

One of the injured men who was taken to the General hospital, lost the first finger of his right hand as a result of the storm. The fingers had been cut from the tip to the second joint as neatly as if a surgeon had used a knife on it. The man doesn't know how the accident happened or what struck him.

There were two all-steel cars, owned by the Missouri Pacific railroad, standing on a siding on the Belt Line in the path of the wind. Yesterday morning there were two small pieces of timber driven entirely through the side of one of the cars. It would have been impossible to have drilled holes through the steel and fit the wood in more snugly.

In the Bemis park district, where the damage was terrific, there was one handsome big house, the front porch of which was supported by four massive columns of imitation marble. The wind ripped the four columns away clean, but left the roof of the porch intact! Mechanics could not have constructed that porch roof without the support of the four columns, yet it stands now as solid as if chiseled from stone.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Here's hope and encouragement for the hosts of young persons whose teachers frankly regarded them as boneheads of the first magnitude.

None of the teachers of Joseph P. Tumulty, the highly intelligent and efficient young secretary to the president, thought he would ever get any farther along than driving a coal wagon, or possibly operating a street car. Most of them have now taken out membership in the "I-Knew-When-Club," and knew all along that he had it in him—only they didn't. Frankly, Mr. Tumulty was a long way from being a bright particular star in the schoolroom. He couldn't make any headway at mathematics at all, invariably misplacing his decimal points, and with no idea whatever about getting the answer to a hare and hound problem or determining how many days it would take seven men to perform a piece of work that eleven men could do in four days and a half. And he was no better in other branches of study. His teachers felt that they were taking no great chances when they predicted for him a mighty drabhued career.

But Tumulty sat around his father's little grocery nights and listened to the political talk of men who gathered about the stove and oussed the bosses. He didn' learn much that helped in school, but he got a first-rate working knowledge of human nature and caught the point of view of the proletariat. When he got around to it, he studied law and built up a practice that amounted to about $9,000 a year. Today he rides in an automobile with the United States coat-of-arms on it and confers with the great men of nations. When he gets through with his present job he probably will go out and make about a million dollars.

All of which, to our way of thinking, comprises a right merry little joke on his teachers.

Secretary Tumulty has a kindly feeling toward his fellow humans, with an especial regard for the under dog. The humblest caller at the White House can reach the sercetary's ear almost as easily as a senator can. Too frequently a secretary acts as a sort of "manager" of his chief, as if the latter were a race horse or a prima donna, and becomes so engrossed in his task that he is harder to reach than the chief himself.

Tumulty explains his attitude in this way: "We have been talking a lot lately about restoring the government to the people. Some fellow comes along, let us say, who is not elegantly garbed, and has business with the executive branch of the government. If I'm too busy with senators and people of influence to see him, he goes back home thinking it's the same old story—a government for the rich. My job, as I see it, is to carry to the public the spirit of the president. If I can convey the idea of a generous government, that is the idea he carries back home with him. It means considerable work, of course, but I intend to do it as long as—well, as long as my feet hold out."

John Van Antwerp McMurray, head of one of the divisions of the state department, was stationed for a time in St. Petersburg. It happened that the diplomatic set in the Russian capital just then was made up largely of people who packed a lot of personal dignity about with them. But there was none who took himself so seriously as a certain man who represented a little Graustark-like country, or province, marked on the map in pica type and about half the size of the state of Delaware. His dignity was so colossal that there was constant danger of it falling over on him like the wall of a condemned building. One of his notions was that a diplomat who boarded a street car had committed an unpardonable sin, just as if he had worn golf clothes for a horseback ride.

McMurray, on the other hand, did not carry any superfluous weight in the form of dignity, and conducted himself just as if he had been sent to St. Petersburg after a plumbing contract. When he wished to go any place he got on the street car and went. The Graustark man heard about McMurray riding on the undignified public cars, but would not believe it. He told McMurray of the awful rumor that had come to him about street car riding. McMurray kidded him with the remark that one shouldn't believe every preposterous story one heard.

A few days later McMurray came upon the man limping along the street with his trousers torn. The man admitted that he had boarded a street car, just for the weird experience of the thing, but had seen somebody that he knew. And he jumped off while the car was going, rather than take a cance on lifelong disgrace.

There is no eighteen-story-and-tower dignity about James Bryce, the British ambassador. When Bryce has occasion to go to the Wite House, he takes a street car or walks—doesn't bother with an automobile. He has been known to ride up to the executive office on a bicycle.

Senator Kern was born in a little town called Alta, out near Kokomo, Ind. He was reminded of the place in an odd way recently by a stranger out in Chicago. The stranger seemed to know Kern, though the latter couldn't recall ever having seen him before.

"Senator, the man remarked, boastfully, after walking up to him in the hotel lobby. "I just want you to know that I have had more drinks this afternoon than there are people in the little town of Alta you came from."

Who Takes the World Rightly?

Each day the world is born anew,
For him who takes it rightly;
Not fresher that which Adam knew,
Not sweeter that whose moonlit dew
Entranced Arcadia nightly.

Rightly? That's simply: 'tis to see
Some substance casts these shadows
Which we call Life and History,
That aimless seem to chase and flee
Like wind gleams over meadows.

Simply? That's nobly: 'tis to know
That God may still be met with,
Nor groweth old, nor doth bestow
These senses fine, this brain aglow,
To grovel and forget with.

—James Russell Lowell.

A Mayor Who Does Things.

"Uncle Jake" Longfellow, the mayor of Bonner Springs, who believes that if you see a thing which needs fixing the best way is to "go and fix it," has been renominated for mayor of that city.

The nomination of Mr. Longfellow is said by the political leaders in the city of Bonner Springs to mean that he will be re-elected without opposition as all factions were represented in the city convention.

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Worth Considering.

Northfield News: The proposition to appoint a commission of level-headed, high grade business men to suggest a plan of reorganization of the state departments is entirely worth considering. In conducting the business of the state, business methods should not continue to be entirely disregarded.

Times Do Change.

Mahnomen Pioneer: "Initiative and referendum," the advocacy of which twenty years ago made a crazy Populist of a man, and branded him as visionary, mentally unsound, has been adopted by both branches of the legislature, both Republican, and will doubtless receive the sanction of a Republican governor. What would Ignatius Donnelly and "Doc" Fish say could they but come back?

Public Demand Governs.

Owatonna Journal-Pdess: The fact of the case is that the legislature is made up of men just like ourselves, and like ourselves in the mass they are conservative until convinced. Consequently the legislature never adopts anything new to change the established order of things until there is a public demand for the same that cannot be overlooked. That is the reason why the legislature adopts one progressive measure and turns right around and rejects another even less radical. In the case of the first measure the public demand for it has grown and made itself felt; in the case of the other the public has not become particularly interested as yet.

Slow Gait.

Aurora News: It is evident that some few of the members have been working patiently and with honest endeavor for the public good, but it looks to a man up a tree as if the state legislature had a bent spoke or some other affliction to give it an ungainly and awfully slow gait.

Sees Trouble Ahead.

St. Peter Free Press: Although nearly 2,000 bills have thus far been introduced by the various members of the legislature, less than 100 of them meet with the approval of both houses. The final result will be a repetition of former sessions, with every member clamoring to get through his own pet measure and ready to compromise on most anything floating to gain this end. It would seem that the leaders of both houses should get together, drop their petty bickerings, pick out a dozen or two really meritorious bills, pass them and then adjourn. It would certainly meet with the hearty approval of their constituents at home.

Constitutional Convention.

Fergus Falls Free Press: At every session of the legislature all sorts of bills are passed submitting to the people amendments to the state Constitution, most of which are right and ought to be adopted, but are generally lost in the shuffle. It would seem that the simplest, cheapest and best way to fix up the state Constitution is to call a constitutional convention for the purpose of preparing a new Constitution in the light of our present needs. The Constitution we now have was adopted over fifty years ago, and has been amended from time to time until it has become pretty much of a patchwork. The people of Ohio gave their state Constitution a thorough overhauling last summer by means of a constitutional convention and those who have studied the new Constitution pronounce it a model document.

Cost of Government.

Hutchinson Leader: The cost of running the Minnesota state government has doubled in ten years. The state tax rate is the highest ever known. It is high time something was done to find out where we are at financially. It is proposed in the legislature to create a commission to find out the cause of this tremendous increase in the public expenditures and to propose a revision of the affairs of the state government which will result in efficiency and a reduction in cost at the same time. The government of the state is at present a mass or patchwork of boards commissions and other officials, overlapping and interlacing in their functions and authority—expensive, cumbersome and inefficient. By all means create the reorganization commission and put on it the biggest and best men in the state.

Droll Bits From Ireland.

From Seumas MacManus' Irish Folk Stories: "Why didn't you go to the assistance of the defendant in the fight?" asked the judge of the policeman.

"Shure and I would have done so that only I didn't know which of thim was going to be the defindant!"

"How are things with you, Mrs. Woman?"

"Dear, I'm as busy as any being in this world."

"Aye, how's that?"

"Faith and ivery time I'm at laysure, I have something to do!"

Two old cronies meet after many years.

"'Tis a long time since I seen ye last, isn't it?"

"Indade, yes. I am married since."

"You don't mane it!"

"I do, indade, and I've got a fine healthy boy that the neighbors say is the very picture of me."

"Man alive, niver mind what they say. What's the harm so long as the child is healthy!"

"Out of work agin, Pat? I thought old Milligan gave you a job."

"He did, indade, but I'll be kilt before I'll starve to death for the sake of kapeing alive!"

Birds' Appetites.

Harper's Weekly: Birds, in proportion to their weight, probably eat more than any other living thing. It is a mystery to naturalists how the ring dove flies after its accustomed meal. One dove was found with 600 peas in its crop; another, in captivity, was known to eat 180 beechnuts at a time, and a third devoured 60 acorns. The robin often eats two and one-half times its weight in twenty-four hours, while a barnyard hen with chicks has been observed to resume eating 475 times in the course of a day. The diet of a certain species of hawk comprises about 2,000 mice in the course of a month, besides other food. In the mouth of a young heron were found three trout, each weighing three-quarters of a pound. Another was found with seven small trout in its mouth, a mouse and a thrush, evidently on its way to its nest. The growing bird seems to have an appetite equal to that of the adult.

Bad Weather.

London Chronicle: Bilious gloom shrouded Fleet street, and had affected the usually amiable conductor, who glared at the unoriginal person remarking "Miserable day!" as he swung himself on to the bus. "You may call it a day," he responded bitterly. "I should call it an interval between two bloomin' nights."

Why the Earth Grows Dryer.

Philadelphia Record: When water is decomposed by radium or by ultraviolet rays it produces hydrogen and peroxide of hydrogen, and it does not form oxygen. Electrolytic decomposition forms oxygen. A German investigator bases a new theory relating to the drying of the earth on the fact that one form of decomposition produces oxygen, while the other form does not. Part of the water vapor emitted by the seas is decomposed by the ultraviolet rays of the sun; the hydrogen formed rises toward the high atmospheric strata, and all the water does not return to the surface. Therefore, the quantity of water on the face of the globe is always diminishing, and the earth is incessantly, if gradually, drying.

To cite one example: On the north side of the Alps there is a continual falling off in the depth of the lakes, and a gradual formation of swamps. Two hundred and fifty years ago there were 149 lakes in the canton of Zurich; today there are 76. The destruction of the forests and the cultivation of the land partially explain this, but the loss of hydrogen is an important factor. The hydrogen accumulated in the higher atmosphere is diffused in interstellar space.

The White House.

Washington Post: James Hoban, an Irish architect, designed the White House and was paid $500.

Corner stone laid by Washington, Oct. 13, 1792.

Work of construction began immediately after corner stone laying.

Building practically completed in October, 1800.

First occupied by President Adams in winter of 1800.

Partly destroyed by fire by British, 1814.

Cost of building at time, $333,207.

Restored and reopened Jan. 1, 1818, at a cost of $300,000.

Rebuilt by James Hoban, original designer.

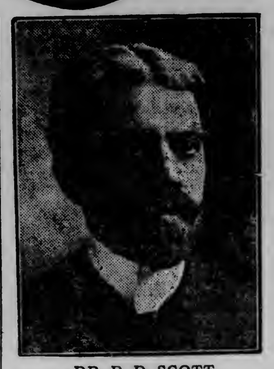
HEALTH & HAPPINESS
By Dr. R. D. Scott.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and when a stamped addressed envelope is enclosed.

Dr. Scott will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases, and requests for such service cannot be answered.

Address all communications to "Health and Happiness" department.

Housing Evils.



There has been considerable agitation in recent times in regard to housing reform, and even this column has contained short articles on the subject on two or three occasions, but no doubt few of my readers have realized that their own city had already many housing evils, and these were growing apace with the growth of the city.

It is such an impersonal matter to hear of the housing problems of Chicago, New York and Boston, that the majority will only congratulate themselves on living in a city not suffering from such congestion, and, with a feeling of pity for the poor in a great city, let the matter drop.

In writing on this subject recently I said that housing reform in any city should receive attention before the 50,000 mark in population was reached, but if this had been passed, the time was now; for there are many cities having populations less than 20,000 which have an army of foreign-born workers, and housing conditions are often even worse than those found in the slum districts of Chicago and New York. The children of these workers are to be our future American citizens, and it is the responsibility of both city and state governments to see that they have the opportunity of developing into citizens both physically and mentally efficient. The housing problem is mainly hygienic, and only secondarily aesthetic; and, as it is comparatively easy to interest both money and influence in any scheme to beautify the city, we may consider the hygienic point of view as the only one requiring special attention.

Charles R. Hall, sanitary inspector of the Chicago board of health, read an excellent paper before the national housing conference, when it met in Philadelphia last December, in which he pointed out very clearly the responsibility or boards of health in the matter of housing the citizens, or seeing that housing conditions nearly approached what they should be.

Among other things he said: "The most common reason for neglect by officials or citizens in any community, of housing reform measures, is their lack of apprehension that bad housing exists in that community. No health officer, however, is well advised in 1912, who does not know that it has now been demonstrated that every city or town of sufficient size to have organized health control is already infected, to a greater or less degree, with the deadly virus of the slum. Whether this community be an industrial city, a traffic center, a college town, or a river village, he has only to look for housing evils to find them, and the duty of every health officer is to discover the bad housing in his city or town, this being an obligation which cannot be separated from other official responsibilities."

According to Lovejoy, bad housing consists of houses that are (a) poorly lighted; (b) poorly ventilated; (c) damp; (d) imperfectly drained; (e) exposed to undue fire peril; (f) in bad repair; (g) vermin infected; (h) disease infected; (i) with uncleanly surroundings; (j) with insufficient water supply; (k) without toilet accommodations adequate for comfort, cleanliness and privacy; (l) with defective plumbing; (m) with overcrowded rooms or basement tenements; and, he says such houses are dangerous to both moral and physical health, promoting industrial inefficiency, drunkenness, dependence, poverty, disease, death, juvenile delinquency, vice, crime, and race degeneration.

This is a long and black impeachment against bad housing, but it is not overestimated; on the other hand it may be put too mildly. Prevention is always easier and better than cure, and, to prevent the establishment of congested districts and the building of insanitary tenements and shacks, is much easier than cleaning them out after establishment. This is why every city should have a housing committee working in harmony withthe health officers, just as early as it is able to have an organized health department, and every health department should have an inspector who is thoroughly alive to his responsibility, as well as a chief who can command the respect and attention of the municipal authorities. All these things, however, require an awakened public sentiment, and it is the housing committee which must be looked to to create this sentiment and keep it alive among the citizens at all times.

Questions and Answers.

Enlarged Heart.

R. D. writes: Is a dilated heart dangerous, as long as the heart is sound otherwise?

What can be done for it aside from drugs?

REPLY.

Simple dilation of the heart, according to Osler and other authorities, never occurs, it being always associated with hypertrophy; and this latter condition is not dangerous so long as the valves are not disturbed. It is, however, rare to find an enlarged heart of long standing without some valvular leakage. But as long as the enlargement of the heart muscle fully compensates for this leakage, there is little danger in the condition, except some sudden strain on the vascular system which may at any time break compensation, occurrs; then serious results are likely to follow.

The hygienic treatment is to live a regular life, avoid much excitement and sudden or prolonged muscular effort. In case of broken compensation you should put yourself in the care of a good physician and follow his instructions implicitly. The underlying cause of the hypertrophy and dilation should be searched for, and the treatment must be largely addressed to this cause.

The common causes, outside of lesion, are overtraining, Bright's disease and exophalmic goitre, and the prognosis in each of these conditions is considerably different.

MEAT PRICES ARE SOARING

Vegetables and Fruits Are Plentiful and Cost Is Reasonable.

Scarcely Any Live or Fresh Dressed Poultry Can Be Purchased.

Seldom have the price of meats of any kind been higher than at the present time. Beef is higher than it ever was before. The scarcity of livestock in all parts of the country is the reason given by the big packers and their representatives for this state of affairs.

The price of beef is even higher than it was a week ago. The wholesale price of beef at Duluth now ranges between 10 and 13½ cents. A week ago it was 9½ to 13½ cents. A year ago the price was 7 to 11 cents a pound.

Practically the only poultry on the market at Duluth now is the frozen stored stock. Some of the wholesalers declare that they have not been able to get any live or fresh dressed poultry at all during the past week, though they have communicated with dealers at Sioux City, Omaha and Beatrice, Neb. Fresh dressed spring chickens are now quoted at 19 cents a pound, against 18½ cents a week ago and 17 and 18 cents a year ago.

There is a considerable variation in the local wholesale prices of eggs. One prominent local dealer today quoted the fresh eggs at 21 and 22 cents a dozen at wholesale, this being 1 cent up from the price he gave a week ago. He said the price had gone up on account of the great scarcity of fresh eggs in the city during the past few days. This seemed to be owing mainly to the recent snow storms, which prevented farmers from doing their usual hauling of eggs over the country roads to the shipping points. Another large handler, however, gave 19 cents as the price, the same price he had a week ago. A year ago the price of fresh eggs at wholesale was 20 cents a dozen. Spring was much earlier last year and the weather was much milder and more favorable to the production of eggs.

• • •

Cheese during the past week has worked a little lower. Cheese factories are starting up in all parts of the country as they usually do at this season. Twin cheese during the past week has dropped 1 cent to 16 cents a pound at wholesale. This cheese a year ago was 20 cents a pound.

• • •

Butter continues to be very high. The wholesale price of the best creamery butter at Duluth is now 36 to 37 cents a pound, being 1 cent up from the price of a week ago. A year ago the price was 32 cents a pound.

Stored potatoes are still selling for 45 cents a bushel at wholesale. A year ago the price was $1.15.

Cabbages have gone up a little in price, the best now ruling at $1.50 a 100-pound crate. The supplies on hand are running low as they almost invariably do at this time of the year. A few orders of Texas and Louisiana cabbages have been shipped into Duluth, but this movement is not general as the old cabbages, grown in Minnesota last fall, do just as well as the fresh cabbages from the South, and the Southern cabbages cost twice as much. It is not likely that the Southern cabbages will be shipped into Duluth in any considerable quantities as long as any of the stored home-grown heads are still to be had. Cabbages, like potatoes, are very much cheaper than they were a year ago, when the wholesale price at Duluth was $4 a crate.

Some of the stored root vegetables have been working a little higher. Parsnips and carrots, which a week ago were selling at wholesale at $1.50, are now bringing $1.75. The supplies of such vegetables are running somewhat low.

Hubbard squashes have entirely disappeared and will not again be on the market until next fall. The same is true of honey in the comb.

Fresh vegetables from the Southern states and from the hot-houses are becoming more abundant and cheaper with the opening of the spring season. Leaf lettuce, which a week ago ruled at $1.25 a bushel, now sells for $1.15. Rhubarb in five-pound bundles now sells at 50 cents against 70 cents a week ago.

• • •

Florida strawberries are no more to be had, but strawberries from Louisiana have come to take their place. These berries during the past week have dropped from $4.50 to $3 for a case of twenty-four pints. After about a week the berries will be coming in full carload lots. The price is about average for this season of the year. Wholesalers say that the weather in this part of the country has been too cold to permit of a brisk demand for fruits, but a sudden warm spell would cause the sales of fruits to pick up very quickly.

Bananas still rule at 4 cents a pound wholesale, but it is expected that increased consumption will put up the price as soon as the cold weather is gone.

Grape fruit is higher than it was a week ago. A box that a week ago brought $4 now rules at $4.50. There has been a very brisk demand for grape fruit during the latter part of the winter by reason of the heavy damage to the orange crop of California by frosts last January. Florida, however, fortunately has had an abundance of grape fruit to supply the market. But the grape fruit season is now drawing to a close.

FRISCO MAN MADE REAL WORLD TOUR

Visited About Every Land and Traveled 150,000 Miles.

San Francisco, Cal., March 28.—"One must acknowledge the superior wisdom of the colonization policy exemplified by the United States in the Philippines and in Panama," says Adolph Mack, retired San Francisco business man and formerly president of the city electric company, upon his return after a world tour of 150,000 miles. Since June, 1911, he has covered a distance equivalent to six times the circumference of the earth, has traversed all the important countries of both hemispheres and has penetrated to many remote points on two sides of the equator.

"The 128,000 square miles in the Philippines are rich in their commercial and industrial possibilities, and under American government the islands offer attractive advantages to investments," he continued. "The Americans have made a splendid city of Manila, and American influence is to be given the credit for astounding advances throughout the islands—in sanitation, in schools and in teaching the people how to live and work intelligently. I was led to believe from what I saw that the people are happy and contented, and not eager, as they once were, for independence."

Exceptional avenues for the expenditure of genius and enterprise are offered in China and South America, according to Mack.

"I was impressed by the opportunities in China," he said. "In South America a question invariably addressed to an American is: 'Why don't you Americans put your money in here?' I was told that the total of English investments in South America is $4,500,000,000, of which $150,000,000 is invested in Argentina. The Germans have $100,000,000 invested in Brazil to $25,000,000 by Americans."

BURGLARS ABSOLVED; RATS THE PURLOINERS.

Venice, Cal., March 28.—The "Marble Halls" dream of the "Bohemian Girl" has been put to shame by a wonderful gem-studded habitation unearthed here. The glittering palace is about the size of a man's fist and its discovery raised the mist from a mystery that had mystified the Venice police since last summer.

Mrs. Randolph Sillsbury of Edmonton, Alta., occupied a cottage here, and one day she reported the theft of gems worth more than $1,000. She said she had left her treasures on the dresser the night before. When she arose in the morning they were gone.

There was no evidence of a burglary and the police were inclined to the belief of an "inside job." This theory was scouted by the Sillsburys, who asserted the servants were above suspicion.

Workmen tearing down a woodshed in the rear of the house occupied by the Sillsburys found a rats' nest lined with the list furnished by Mrs. Sillsbury.

Clears Skin of Worst Eruptions

Remarkable Action of a Remedy That Drives Every Speck of Poison From Body.

There is a strange, mysterious power in a remarkable blood medicine that finds its way through the circulation by what is known as Divine selection. The remedy is Swift's Sure Specific, or S. S. S.

Science cannot explain just why certain elements in the blood feed the bones, others nourish the hair roots, and so on. And it is this same mysterious action of S. S. S. that attacks all diseased spots, drives away all germs, heals all sores and supplants the activity of disease germs with the powerful healing action of leucocytes. Remarkable testimonials have been written that prove beyond question there is no blood disease but what can be cured by S. S. S. And in all those cases that were treated with mercury, iodides, arsenic, copper and other minerals with no permanent effect, the most astonishing recoveries have been made by S. S. S.

There is not a blood taint of any nature that can remain in a system fortified by this most wonderful remedy, for it is absolutely pure and contains only those elements that the blood naturally assimilates, and which the tissues gratefully accept. It agrees with the most delicate stomach, even in those cases where the use of strong drugs has so weakened the digestive system that medicine cannot be given. Get a $1.00 bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store and thus be assured of a complete cure of any eruptive blood disease. If your case is peculiar and you desire special advice write to The Swift Specific Co., Medical Dept., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

BOY PLAYS MEAN PRANK ON SISTER

Takes Clothes When She Is Having Steam Bath in Cave.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 28.—A small boy's practical joke on his older sister almost resulted disastrously for Miss Avanelle Worrall, a prominent society young woman of Phoenix, Ariz., at Arrowhead Springs.

In the afternoon Miss Worrall had decided to be the first person to bathe in the natural steam caves, located in an unfrequented spot in the mountains about a mile from Arrowhead hotel.

The young woman told no one of her plans, but started for the caves. Arriving, she stepped inside the second cave and removed her clothing, which she placed on a large stone outside and then began to indulge in the pleasure of a natural steam bath.

While thus engaged her young brother, Paul, put in an appearance and gathered up the garments and carried them back to her room at the hotel.

Nothing was thought of the non-appearance of the young woman at dinner, but when she failed to show up later in the evening searching parties were organized and a systematic search made of the mountain trails.

While the search was in progress Miss Worrall's mother asked her son if he had seen anything of his sister, and he reluctantly admitted that he had seen her at the steam caves.

A search party was immediately despatched to the caves, where the young woman was found on the verge of hysterics, badly frightened and almost suffocated from steam.

Miss Worrall was immediately bundled into blankets and rushed to the hotel, where she was placed under the care of a physician.

Sweetens Your Stomach, Clears Your Head and Thoroughly Cleanses Your Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Foul Gases and Clogged-Up Waste.

All those days when you feel miserable, headachy, bilious and dull are due to torpid liver and sluggish bowels. The days when your stomach is sour and full of gas, when you have indigestion; the nights when your nerves twitch and you are restless and can't sleep could be avoided with a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Isn't it foolish to be distressed when there is such a pleasant way to overcome it?

Give your inactive liver and ten yards of waste-clogged bowels a thorough cleansing this time. Put an end to constipation.

Take a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs to-night, sure, and just see for yourself by morning, how gently but thoroughly all the sour bile, undigested fermenting food and clogged up waste matter is moved on and out of your system—no nausea—no griping—no weakness.

You simply can't have your liver inactive and your thirty feet of bowels constipated with sour, decaying waste matter and feel well. The need of a laxative is a natural need, but with delicious Syrup of Figs you are not drugging yourself. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it can not injure.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with scorn, any of the so-called Fig Syrup imitations. They are meant to deceive you. Look on the label. The genuine, old reliable, bears the name, California Fig Syrup Company.

WILL 100 YEARS OLD IS JUST OPERATIVE.

Waterloo, Iowa, March 28.—Walter Newburn, a teamster here, soon will receive a modest fortune, a bequest under one of the strangest wills ever recorded.

In the last century James Newburn, a recluse, died at Harrisburg, Pa. He stipulated that his property be left in trust for 100 years, at the end of which it should be distributed among his heirs.

That period expires in a few days and the Waterloo man will share generously in an estate which has grown to be $120,000.

Your Herald ad. should be in evidence when the man with a job to offer looks at the "wants."

DANCER RAISING HOGS.

Jeanne Calducci, Now Mrs. Higginson, Farming for Profit.

Lincoln, Mass., March 28.—Alexander H. Higginson, millionaire clubman, fox hunter and owner of fox hounds, with his beautiful wife, formerly Jeanne Calducci, a famous stage dancer, but now an exponent of the simple outdoor life, is raising sheep and hogs as a business proposition on his country estate here. This couple, who have been the cynosure of all eyes at horse and dog shows for many years, and recognized leaders in the sport of fox hunting, have virtually forsaken these pastimes and forgotten society functions. They are devoting themselves now to proving that sheep and hogs can be raised in this state for market and breeding purposes as a profitable business.

Healthy Baby Is Precious Blessing

To Make It Healthy and Keep It Healthy Use a Reliable Baby Laxative.

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap.

But as we cannot all have perfect working bowels we must do the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to become healthy. This can be done by the use of a laxative-tonic very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect and genuinely harmless. Very little of it is required and its frequent use does not cause it to lose its effect, as is the case with so many other remedies.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among them reliable people like Mrs. M. Johnson, 752 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. She is the mother of little Dorothy Johnson who was always in delicate health until her mother gave her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Johnson says: "I never saw such rapid improvement in the health of anyone. Syrup Pepsin is a wonderful remedy and I shall never be without it again." Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age. The users of Syrup Pepsin have learned to avoid cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and other harsh remedies for they do but temporary good and are a shock to any delicate system.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

OLD SWINDLE IS CHARGED

David Bartlett Arrested for Using the Mails to Defraud.

David Bartlett, charged with using the mails to further a swindle on which many Northwest people are alleged to have been "stung," waived examination when arraigned before the United States commissioner yesterday afternoon and was held to await the action of the next Federal grand jury.

Bartlett is said to have used an old mining scheme and decoy letters to land "suckers," and is claimed to have been angling for Duluthians when he was apprehended by the local police at the request of the Federal authorities.

The proposition is simple, appealing directly to the desire of gullible people to get something for nothing, a bait which catches easy marks the world over. The "sucker" gets a letter which he believes is intended for somebody else. He reads it. The writer conveys the information that he has struck rich iron ore in big quantities on some land in Michigan, supposed to be barren. He says that it can be bought for a song if the deal is closed before the owner gets wise to the hidden fortunes of his acres.

The person who gets the letter figures that he has accidentally come into possession of information which will make his fortune. He hastens to buy the land. He pays a big price for it. The man who writes the letter being the man who gathers the wool when the sheep comes around for the shearing.

Bartlett is claimed to have worked the scheme with much success, furthered by forged certificates bearing the name of Prof. L. S. Austin of the Michigan School of Mines at Houghton, and showing the high assay value of the ore, which were enclosed in each letter.

Big Eau Claire Realty Deal.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 28.—A. J. Marsh and Mrs. Cordelia Truax, executors of the estate of the late Peter Truax, have sold the four-story Truax building, corner South Barstow street and Grand avenue, west to Joseph C. and Byron W. Culver and associates. The consideration was not given out, but it is large enough to make this one of the largest deals in business property that has been made.

bullets, was found lying over his desk; Commonwealth Attorney William M. Foster and Sheriff L. F. Webb lay dead on the floor; Augustus Fowler, a juror, and Elizabeth Ayres, a spectator, were bleeding from wounds which proved fatal the next day; and Dexter Goad, clerk of the court, lay shot through the neck. Goad was one of the principal witnesses for the state at the conviction of the prisoners.

Over 200 Shots Fired.

When the courtroom was examined later it was found that more than 200 shots had been fired. Twenty-seven shots took effect upon those killed or wounded.

An army of detectives and newspaper correspondents soon was scouring the muddy roads of the mountains in search for the prisoners. Floyd Allen, the cause of the shooting, who had been wounded by Sheriff Webb in the courtroom was taken the day of the crime, together with his son, Victor Allen, and his nephew, Bird Marion.

Sidna Edwards, a nephew of the Allen brothers, was captured in a hut in the mountains, March 22. Edwards, who is lame, had eaten nothing for several days and was very weak when found.

Claude Swanson Allen, another son of Floyd Allen, walked up to a posse in the mountains and surrendered himself on March 28. The next day Friel Allen, youngest member of the gang was taken at his father's home.

Floyd First Sentenced.

Floyd Allen, charged specifically with the killing of Commonwealth Attorney Foster, was found guilty of first degree murder on May 17, and sentenced to death. Claude Allen, his son, was tried on a charge of killing Judge Massie, and convicted of murder in the second degree. The jury recommended a sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary. The state demanded a new trial and a verdict of guilty in the first degree was returned on July 27, and he was sentenced to death.

Friel Allen pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and on Aug. 14 was sentenced to eighteen years in prison.

Three days later Sidna Edwards pleaded guilty to a like charge and was given a sentence of fifteen years.

Victor Allen was acquitted of a charge of having participated in the murders.

Sidna Allen, brother of Floyd Allen and recognized leader of the clan, and his nephew, Wesley Edwards, eluded pursuit for many weeks, and eventually escaped out of the Virginia mountains and made their way West. They were captured at Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 14, as the result of a love affair of young Edwards. A letter from him was lost by Maude Iroler of Mount Airy, N. C., and detectives followed its information and captured the two men.

ESTIMATES OF LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY WERE EXAGGERATED

the flood, furnishing shelter to about 7,000 people who were marooned in them from Tuesday until Thursday:

Conover building, Kuhn's building, the Arcade, two Cappel buildings, Calahan Bank building, Schwind building, Commercial building, Mendenhall building, Rice-Kunler building, Reibold building and United Brethren Publishing company's building.

Fire Loss Limited.

The fire loss is positively limited to the destruction of the Dayton Gas Light & Coke company's plant, the row of two and three-story buildings on both sides of Third street from Jefferson street to St. Clair avenue, the Troy-Pearl laundry plant and two apartment house fires on the West side.

None of the public buildings were destroyed. Among the latter were the Dayton club, Victoria, National and Colonial theaters, city hall, courthouse, Beckel, Phillips, Algonquin and Atlas hotels, Masonic temple, postoffice, Y. M. C. A. and all churches.

A daring robbery was thwarted today when the police arrested a man who was escaping from the city with a satchel containing $50,000 in diamonds and jewelry which he had stolen from downtown jewelry stores.

Bank Building Untouched.

The Fourth National bank building, which was reported several times to have been on fire, was untouched by the flames, although a building immediately adjoining was burned.

The newspaper offices, the News and Herald and Journal buildings, are safe, but are not issuing papers.

Money is of no use in Dayton at present. Every facility is free to everyone without cost.

Refugees not living in Dayton are leaving the city by the hundreds on foot.

Fatalities Less.

Chief of Police Allaback today told the Associated Press correspondents that reports he had received indicated the number of fatalities to be far less than early conditions indicated. As nearly as can be ascertained about 100 persons were drowned in Riverdale, the first section of the city flooded by the breaking of the levee. The rushing waters overturned several houses there and rolled them over and over with their occupants inside.

In this vicinity several boats laden with refugees overturned, both refugees and their would-be rescuers losing their lives. In West Dayton there was considerable loss of life, but the latest figures are relatively small as compared to the first estimates. In East Dayton, Dayton View and Oakwood the loss of life, Chief Allaback said, was small. In North Dayton, which the topography of the land made more dangerous than at any other point, relief parties penetrated today and found that while there would be a large number of fatalities, the number of drowned was not likely to be relatively much greater than in Riverdale, the other section that boro the chief brunt of the flood.

Refugees Orderly.

North Dayton's population consists largely of foreign people. The first rescue party took out many of these. The refugees conducted themselves in orderly fashion and aided their rescuers in every conceivable way.

Persons situated in the business section appear to have escaped except in a very few cases.

Identification of the dead and compilations of the number of fatalities are in the hands of the militia under charge of Adjt.-Gen. Wood, but his work will hardly get under way before tomorrow.

The log cabin, 115 years old, the first house built in Dayton withstood the flood, although it is situated on the south bank of the Miami right in the path of the torrential waters.

Clearing Up Begins.

West Dayton, Ohio, March 28.—Backed up by the militia and hundreds of special deputies, the citizen committee in charge of the relief work in the various sections of the flooded city have a tight hold on the situation today.

The work of clearing up the chaotic conditions brought on by the flood is progressing with marvelous speed and rapidity. President C. B. Smith of the chamber of commerce expressed the prevailing sentiment today when he said:

"We do not want the world to think that Dayton is unable to recover from the effects of the disaster. We are going to show it that we are capable of coping with the situation with entire efficiency."

Sun Shines Brilliantly.

Today began with great promise. A brilliant sun tempered keenness of the frosty air. The flood subsided perceptibly. Flood victims, who had been penned in the downtown sections of the city were able to make their way to the suburbs by the thousands. On Main street in the heart of Dayton it was possible to pick a dry path over the pavement.

Co-operating with the citizens' committee appointed by President Smith the militia began early to make arrangements to handle the situation in the downtown district. A survey of this territory, officials said, would lead to the stationing of a sufficient patrol to bar every one except those engaged in the work of rescue.

Militia men and deputies were given instructions to shoot offenders against the prearranged plan of relief work.

"Shoot at the legs first, then shoot to kill," was the way in which the soldiers were instructed.

Boats Out Early.

A score of motorboats and the life saving boats were in the flooded district early today and by tonight it was hoped relief would be extended to all flood victims that were still alive. No effort was being made to take out any bodies, the first care being to provide help for the living.

The boats began to return early from the nearer sections, each depositing its load of from 15 to 20 survivors. Most of the people rescued were so weak from deprivation and suffering as to be scarcely able to move. At 8 o'clock several hundred had been brought to the Cash register hospital on stretchers from the South side of the river.

The food situation was much brighter today. The trucks sent from the Cash Register company, manned by men with military orders, to confiscate potatoes and food from the farmers brought back a good supply of vegetables and several relief trains reached the city with supplies. The rescue work also had taken on a semblance of system and all the streets from which the flood had receded were patrolled by militia. People also were urged to get back to their houses whenever possible.

"Beware of Thieves."

"Beware of thieves and burglars," said an official bulletin given wide circulation. "Don't leave your houses without protection. It was thieves who scared you about the reservoir and natural gas explosion. The natural gas has been turned off and there is no danger of explosions."

Sixty Catholic sisters at the Academy of the Sisters of Notre Dame and eighteen persons for whom they had provided refuge were found by the Louisville life saving crew today to have been entirely without food or water since Tuesday. There were several cases of illness and their sufferings have been intense. The life savers left a supply of bread and water and planned to take further help.

The Louisville men also took relief to several hundred families in the low districts in the vicinity of Ludlow and Franklin streets. Here the water had reached the roofs of all two story buildings. Only a few of the most desperate cases were brought out, the first move being to leave bread and water in as many places as possible. There had been little hope there would be survivors in this district and the fact that there proved to be but few deaths brought hope that the death loss would be lower than was expected. After returning for supplies the lifesavers started for North Dayton.

tal number of dead, according to advices today.

In Chillicothe, where the number of drowned were reported to be in the neighborhood of 500, the dead will not exceed 25.

See Gleam of Hope.

Zanesville, Ohio, March 28.—(By long distance telephone to Pittsburg)—Zanesville's 30,000 inhabitants, 10,000 of whom are homeless, today saw the first gleam of hope since the flood in the Muskingum river swept through the city three days ago. The river had commenced to recede, reinforcements for the national guard on duty in the streets were entering the suburbs, provisions had arrived to a point within four miles from the city and there were indications that the bitter cold of the last twenty-four hours was passing.

Electric light and water companies are still out of commission and will be for days. One small gas line is serving the city with a fitful supply of fuel and there is little if any coal available. Provisions are scarce, many families in the flooded sections being entirely without food.

Communication between the city and the section known as Putnam, where it is believed the loss of life will be found to be greatest, is still cut off.

John Schrieber returned yesterday from a month's visit in Pittsburg, Pa., and Washington, D. C.

BIG RESERVOIRS STILL HOLDING

Troops Are on Duty at the Grand and Lewiston.

Columbus, Ohio, March 28.—Governor Cox received information last night that both the Grand reservoir at Celina, and the Lewiston reservoir are still holding, and reported out of danger. Troops are on duty at both places.

Caused Excitement.

Vanwert, Ohio, March 28.—Eastern Indiana and Western Ohio were excited yesterday over a groundless rumor that the Grand reservoir had broken its banks at St. Mary's, Ohio, threatening devastation of the valley of the St. Mary's river and much damage to Fort Wayne, Ind.

The rumors was denied at St. Mary's but not until hurried calls for boats and assistance had been sent out.

The wind blowing east over the 17,500 acres of water in the Grand reservoir tossed spray over the St. Mary's embankment, and gave rise to the report of a break.

The Cincinnati & Northern and the Hamilton & Cincinnati run along the west side of the reservoir to Celina and would be in the paths of the waters, should they escape the dam.

No trains are running along the twenty-three miles of track south from Vanwert to Celina, Ohio. Part of the roadbed of the Cincinnati & Northern is washed out and the bridge over St. Mary's river at Rockford, Ohio, is out of commission.

Th Cincinnati & Northern officials hope to repair the road by Saturday. The millions of gallons of water in the reservoir, should a break occur on the east embankment, would flood the St. Mary's river and sweep northward through Fort Wayne. Should the south or west banks give way, a wall of water would descend the valley of the Miami and again engulf Dayton.

IS OPPOSED TO REVISION

over," and this morning Representative C. H. Warner moved to reconsider the passage of the bill. His motion failed, 63 to 47, after a short debate.

Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis charged that the bill was in the interests of the liquor side of the temperance question, and that agents of the liquor interests had lobbied for it.

Representative Frankson wanted the bill reconsidered and referred to committee to have the non-partisan feature stricken out.

Representative Bjornson favored reconsideration so non-partisanship could be extended to state officers. He said he hoped this would be done so Minnesota, would have a progressive law of its own, and not borrowed from Wisconsin or Oregon. Representative H. H. Dunn said it was absurd to talk as though the house didn't know what it was doing when it passed the bill, and no compliment to its intelligence. This settles the matter so far as the house is concerned.

IRON LAND OPTION.

It Involves Quarter Section Two Miles West of Fort Ripley.

Little Falls, Minn., March 28.—An option has been filed here giving Joseph Weinberg and J. J. Robinson the right to purchase from Sam Tedford, within a year, for $2,000, a quarter section of land in Clough town, about two miles west of Fort Ripley.

The land in question is the southwest one-quarter of section, 12, township 131, range 30, and the option was given for the consideration of $1.

If the land is purchased Mr. Tedford is to be paid 15 cents a ton for all merchantable ore mined. The first year royalties are to be paid on not less than 5,000 tons, the second year on not less than 10,000 tons, the third year on not less than 20,000 tons and the fourth and each succeeding year not less than 30,000 tons.

TEARING DOWN RUINS OF CLOQUET BUILDING.

Cloquet, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emil Proulx has purchased the ruins of the Masonic building which was recently burned and the lot, and F. L. Rosy as a Girl

Summit, N. C.—In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Church, the notary public, says: "My wife had been ailing for nearly 12 years, from female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her side and back. We tried physicians for years, without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl." Cardui, as a tonic for women, has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is the ideal tonic for young and old. Try it. At druggists.

ABOUT TAPPING IN DROPSY

Nearly everybody knows that when the dropsy comes so fast in Bright's Disease that the patient has to be tapped, that the case is hopeless so far as the old treatment is concerned. We never heard of a case recovering that required tapping until Fulton's Renal Compound was evolved. Under the Renal Compound recoveries are frequently reported even in this supposed hopeless stage. We recite two cases:

F. H. Chandler of Clay, New York, was a very serious case. As high as four quarts of water were drawn at a tapping. He was put on Fulton's Renal Compound and a year thereafter had resumed employment.

Another—Patient six years old, the son of A. C. Dean of Oakland, Cal., was tapped eight times; even had to be tapped after being put on Fulton's Renal Compound, but the tapping grew further apart and he made a recovery and was going to school at last advices.

What do these things mean if Bright's Disease is not curable? If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

Ask for pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease or write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

OLD SWINDLE IS CHARGED

David Bartlett Arrested for Using the Mails to Defraud.

David Bartlett, charged with using the mails to further a swindle on which many Northwest people are alleged to have been "stung," waived examination when arraigned before the United States commissioner yesterday afternoon and was held to await the action of the next Federal grand jury.

Bartlett is said to have used an old mining scheme and decoy letters to land "suckers," and is claimed to have been angling for Duluthians when he was apprehended by the local police at the request of the Federal authorities.

The proposition is simple, appealing directly to the desire of gullible people to get something for nothing, a bait which catches easy marks the world over. The "sucker" gets a letter which he believes is intended for somebody else. He reads it. The writer conveys the information that he has struck rich iron ore in big quantities on some land in Michigan, supposed to be barren. He says that it can be bought for a song if the deal is closed before the owner gets wise to the hidden fortunes of his acres.

The person who gets the letter figures that he has accidentally come into possession of information which will make his fortune. He hastens to buy the land. He pays a big price for it, the man who writes the letter being the man who gathers the wool when the sheep comes around for the shearing.

Bartlett is claimed to have worked the scheme with much success, furthered by forged certificates bearing the name of Prof. L. S. Austin of the Michigan School of Mines at Houghton, and showing the high assay value of the ore, which were enclosed in each letter.

Big Eau Claire Realty Deal.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 28.—A. J. Marsh and Mrs. Cordelia Truax, executors of the estate of the late Peter Truax, have sold the four-story Truax building, corner South Barstow street and Grand avenue west to Joseph C. and Byron W. Culver and associates. The consideration was not given out, but it is large enough to make this one of the largest deals in business property that has been made.

FIRST BLOW OF JUSTICE FALLS ON ALLEN GANG

bullets, was found lying over his desk; Commonwealth Attorney William M. Foster and Sheriff L. F. Webb lay dead on the floor; Augustus Fowler, a juror, and Elizabeth Ayres, a spectator, were bleeding from wounds which proved fatal the next day; and Dexter Goad, clerk of the court, lay shot through the neck. Goad was one of the principal witnesses for the state at the conviction of the prisoners.

Over 200 Shots Fired.

When the courtroom was examined later it was found that more than 200 shots had been fired. Twenty-seven shots took effect upon those killed or wounded.

An army of detectives and newspaper correspondents soon was scouring the muddy roads of the mountains in search for the prisoners. Floyd Allen, the cause of the shooting, who had been wounded by Sheriff Webb in the courtroom was taken the day of the crime, together with his son, Victor Allen, and his nephew, Bird Marion.

Sidna Edwards, a nephew of the Allen brothers, was captured in a hut in the mountains, March 22. Edwards, who is lame, had eaten nothing for several days and was very weak when found.

Claude Swanson Allen, another son of Floyd Allen, walked up to a posse in the mountains and surrendered himself on March 28. The next day Friel Allen, youngest member of the gang was taken at his father's home.

Floyd First Sentenced.

Floyd Allen, charged specifically with the killing of Commonwealth Attorney Foster, was found guilty of first degree murder on May 17, and sentenced to death. Claude Allen, his son, was tried on a charge of killing Judge Massie, and convicted of murder in the second degree. The jury recommended a sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary. The state demanded a new trial and a verdict of guilty in the first degree was returned on July 27, and he was sentenced to death.

Friel Allen pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and on Aug. 14 was sentenced to eighteen years in prison.

Three days later Sidna Edwards pleaded guilty to a like charge and was given a sentence of fifteen years. Victor Allen was acquitted of a charge of having participated in the murders.

Sidna Allen, brother of Floyd Allen and recognized leader of the clan, and his nephew, Westley Edwards, eluded pursuit for many weeks, and eventually escaped out of the Virginia mountains and made their way West. They were captured at Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 14, as the result of a love affair of young Edwards. A letter from him was lost by Maude Iroler of Mount Airy, N. C., and detectives followed its information and captured the two men.

ESTIMATES OF LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY WERE EXAGGERATED

the flood, furnishing shelter to about 7,000 people who were marooned in them from Tuesday until Thursday:

Conover building, Kuhn's building, the Arcade, two Cappel buildings, Calahan Bank building, Schwind building, Commercial building, Mendenhall building, Rice-Kunler building, Reibold building and United Brethren Publishing company's building.

Fire Loss Limited.

The fire loss is positively limited to the destruction of the Dayton Gas Light & Coke company's plant, the row of two and three-story buildings on both sides of Third street from Jefferson street to St. Clair avenue, the Troy-Beard laundry plant and two apartment house fires on the West side.

None of the public buildings were destroyed. Among the latter were the Dayton club, Victoria, National and Colonial theaters, city hall, courthouse, Beckel, Phillips, Algonquin and Atlas hotels, Masonic temple, postoffice, Y. M. C. A. and all churches.

A daring robbery was thwarted today when the police arrested a man who was escaping from the city with a satchel containing $50,000 in diamonds and jewelry which he had stolen from down-town jewelry stores.

Bank Building Untouched.

The Fourth National bank building, which was reported several times to have been on fire, was untouched by the flames, although a building immediately adjoining was burned.

The newspaper offices, the News and Herald and Journal buildings, are safe, but are not issuing papers.

Money is of no use in Dayton at present. Every facility is free to everyone without cost.

Refugees not living in Dayton are leaving the city by the hundreds on foot.

Fatalities Less.

Chief of Police Allaback today told the Associated Press correspondents that reports he had received indicated the number of fatalities to be far less than early conditions indicated. As nearly as can be ascertained about 100 persons were drowned in Riverdale, the first section of the city flooded by the breaking of the levee. The rushing waters overturned several houses there and rolled them over and over with their occupants inside.

In this vicinity several boats laden with refugees overturned, both refugees and their would-be rescuers losing their lives. In West Dayton there was considerable loss of life, but the latest figures are relatively small as compared to the first estimates. In East Dayton, Dayton View and Oakwood the loss of life, Chief Allaback said, was small. In North Dayton, which the topography of the land made more dangerous than at any other point, relief parties penetrated today and found that while there would be a large number of fatalities, the number of drowned was not likely to be relatively much greater than in Riverdale, the other section that boro the chief brunt of the flood.

Refugees Orderly.

North Dayton's population consists largely of foreign people. The first rescue party took off many of these. The refugees conducted themselves in orderly fashion and aided their rescuers in every conceivable way.

Persons situated in the business section appear to have escaped except in a very few cases.

Identification of the dead and compilations of the number of fatalities are in the hands of the militia under charge of Adjt.-Gen. Wood, but his work will hardly get under way before tomorrow.

The log cabin, 115 years old, the first house built in Dayton withstood the flood, although it is situated on the south bank of the Miami right in the path of the torrential waters.

Clearing Up Begins.

West Dayton, Ohio, March 28.—Backed up by the militia and hundreds of special deputies, the citizen committee in charge of the relief work in the various sections of the flooded city have a tight hold on the situation today.

The work of clearing up the chaotic conditions brought on by the flood is progressing with marvelous speed and rapidity. President C. B. Smith of the chamber of commerce expressed the prevailing sentiment today when he said:

"We do not want the world to think that Dayton is unable to recover from the effects of the disaster. We are going to show it that we are capable of coping with the situation with entire efficiency."

Sun Shines Brilliantly.

Today began with great promise. A brilliant sun tempered keenness of the frosty air. The flood subsided perceptibly. Flood victims, who had been penned in the downtown sections of the city were able to make their way to the suburbs by the thousands. On Main street in the heart of Dayton it was possible to pick a dry path over the pavement.

Co-operating with the citizens' committee appointed by President Smith the militia began early to make arrangements to handle the situation in the downtown district. A survey of this territory, officials said, would lead to the stationing of a sufficient patrol to bar every one except those engaged in the work of rescue.

Militia men and deputies were given instructions to shoot offenders against the prearranged plan of relief work.

"Shoot at the legs first, then shoot to kill," was the way in which the soldiers were instructed.

Boats Out Early.

A score of motorboats and the life saving boats were in the flooded district early today and by tonight it was hoped relief would be extended to all flood victims that were still alive. No effort was being made to take out any bodies, the first care being to provide help for the living.

The boats began to return early from the nearer sections, each depositing its load of from 15 to 20 survivors. Most of the people rescued were so weak from deprivation and suffering as to be scarcely able to move. At 8 o'clock several hundred had been brought to the Cash register hospital on stretchers from the South side of the river.

The food situation was much brighter today. The trucks sent from the Cash Register company, manned by men with military orders to confiscate potatoes and food from the farmers brought back a good supply of vegetables and several relief trains reached the city with supplies. The rescue work also had taken on a semblance of system and all the streets from which the flood had receded were patrolled by militia. People also were urged to get back to their houses whenever possible.

"Beware of Thieves."

"Beware of thieves and burglars," said an official bulletin given wide circulation. "Don't leave your houses without protection. It was thieves who scared you about the reservoir and natural gas explosion. The natural gas has been turned off and there is no danger of explosions."

Sixty Catholic sisters at the Academy of the Sisters of Notre Dame and eighteen persons for whom they had provided refuge were found by the Louisville life saving crew today to have been entirely without food or water since Tuesday. There were several cases of illness and their sufferings have been intense. The life savers left a supply of bread and water and planned to take further help.

The Louisville men also took relief to several hundred families in the low districts in the vicinity of Ludlow and Franklin streets. Here the water had reached the roofs of all two story buildings. Only a few of the most desperate cases were brought out, the first move being to leave bread and water in as many places as possible. There had been little hope there would be survivors in this district and the fact that there proved to be but few deaths brought hope that the death loss would be lower than was expected. After returning for supplies the lifesavers started for North Dayton.

tal number of dead, according to advices today.

In Chillicothe, where the number of drowned were reported to be in the neighborhood of 500, the dead will not exceed 25.

See Gleam of Hope.

Zanesville, Ohio, March 28.—(By long distance telephone to Pittsburg)—Zanesville's 30,000 inhabitants, 10,000 of whom are homeless, today saw the first gleam of hope since the flood in the Muskingum river swept through the city three days ago. The river had commenced to recede, reinforcements for the national guard on duty in the streets were entering the suburbs, provisions had arrived to a point within four miles from the city and there were indications that the bitter cold of the last twenty-four hours was passing.

Electric light and water companies are still out of commission and will be for days. One small gas line is serving the city with a fitful supply of fuel and there is little if any coal available. Provisions are scarce, many families in the flooded sections being entirely without food.

Communication between the city and the section known as Putnam, where it is believed the loss of life will be found to be greatest, is still cut off.

John Schricher returned yesterday from a month's visit in Pittsburg, Pa., and Washington, D. C.

BIG RESERVOIRS STILL HOLDING

Troops Are on Duty at the Grand and Lewiston.

Columbus, Ohio, March 28.—Governor Cox received information last night that both the Grand reservoir at Celina, and the Lewiston reservoir are still holding, and reported out of danger. Troops are on duty at both places.

Caused Excitement.

Vanwert, Ohio, March 28.—Eastern Indiana and Western Ohio were excited yesterday over a groundless rumor that the Grand reservoir had broken its banks at St. Mary's, Ohio, threatening devastation of the valley of the St. Mary's river and much damage to Fort Wayne, Ind.

The rumors was denied at St. Mary's but not until hurried calls for boats and assistance had been sent out.

The wind blowing east over the 17,500 acres of water in the Grand reservoir tossed spray over the St. Mary's embankment, and gave rise to the report of a break.

The Cincinnati & Northern and the Hamilton & Cincinnati run along the west side of the reservoir to Celina and would be in the paths of the waters, should they escape the dam.

No trains are running along the twenty-three miles of track south from Vanwert to Celina, Ohio. Part of the roadbed of the Cincinnati & Northern is washed out and the bridge over St. Mary's river at Rockford, Ohio, is out of commission.

Th Cincinnati & Northern officials hope to repair the road by Saturday. The millions of gallons of water in the reservoir, should a break occur on the east embankment, would flood the St. Mary's river and sweep northward through Fort Wayne. Should the south or west banks give way, a wall of water would descend the valley of the Miami and again engulf Dayton.

IS OPPOSED TO REVISION

over," and this morning Representative C. H. Warner moved to reconsider the passage of the bill. His motion failed, 63 to 47, after a short debate.

Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis charged that the bill was in the interests of the liquor side of the temperance question, and that agents of the liquor interests had lobbied for it.

Representative Frankson wanted the bill reconsidered and referred to committee to have the non-partisan feature stricken out.

Representative Bjornson favored reconsideration so non-partisanship could be extended to state officers. He said he hoped this would be done so Minnesota, would have a progressive law of its own, and not borrowed from Wisconsin or Oregon. Representative H. H. Inman said it was absurd to talk as though the house didn't know what it was doing when it passed the bill, and no compliment to its intelligence. This settles the matter so far as the house is concerned.

To Check Trachoma.

Representative D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls introduced a joint resolution, asking congress to authorize the United States surgeon general to take steps to check trachoma and tuberculosis among the Red Lake reservation Indians.

• • •

The house grain investigating committee will go to Minneapolis tomorrow to inspect the books of commission men, an agreement having been reached settling the dispute as to whether James A. Manahan, the committee's attorney, is to have access to the books also. The names of customers are to be withheld, and Manahan promises not to give trade secrets away to rivals. The committee will finish its work next week.

• • •

Terminal Bill Favored.

The senate railroad committee this morning voted to recommend for passage Senator Cheadle's bill requiring railroads owning terminals and water front facilities to allow other railroads to use them.

• • •

The house education committee introduced a resolution directing the state normal school board to discontinue the enrollment of students taking high school courses at the normal schools.

• • •

The house drainage committee introduced a bill appropriating $35,000 to provide an outlet for State Ditch No. 92 in Koochiching county.

The bill allowing Beltrami county $10,000 for expenses in conducting the Dumas trial was favorably reported by the house claims committee, with the amount cut to $4,000.

• • •

Bills Advanced.

The house in committee of the whole advanced the following bills to the calendar:

Representative Orr — Appropriating $500,000 for a building for the supreme court, the law library and the state historical society collections.

Representative G. W. Brown—Providing for the sterilization of defectives and habitual criminals.

Representative Sundberg—Prohibiting boys under 18 from frequenting bowling alleys and pool halls.

Representative Moeller—Permitting six-round regulated boxing contests.

Representative R. C. Dunn—Constitutional amendment authorizing the state to trade its bonds for county road bonds to encourage road work.

• • •

The Minnesota members of the joint commission to revise the laws relating to fishing in boundary waters left this afternoon for Duluth, where they and the Wisconsin members will have a public hearing at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

IRON LAND OPTION.

It Involves Quarter Section Two Miles West of Fort Ripley.

Little Falls, Minn., March 28.—An option has been filed here giving Joseph Weinberg and J. J. Robinson the right to purchase from Sam Tedford, within a year, for $2,000, a quarter section of land in Clough town, about two miles west of Fort Ripley.

The land in question is the southwest one-quarter of section, 12, township 131, range 30, and the option was given for the consideration of $1.

If the land is purchased Mr. Tedford is to be paid 15 cents a ton for all merchantable ore mined. The first year royalties are to be paid on not less than 5,000 tons, the second year on not less than 10,000 tons, the third year on not less than 20,000 tons and the fourth and each succeeding year not less than 30,000 tons.

TEARING DOWN RUINS OF CLOQUET BUILDING.

Cloquet, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emil Proulx has purchased the ruins of the Masonic building which was recently burned and the lot, and F. L. Redfield has a crew of men at work clearing away the debris in preparation for a new one-story building which Mr. Redfield will erect. The old building was occupied by the Wilander grocery store under the management of Fritz Freeman, and Mr. Freeman will move into the new building as soon as it is completed. Mr. Freeman is a nephew of the late Claus Wilander, who was in business in this city for many years.

Pioneer Aitkin County Woman.

Aitkin, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Andrew Wester, a pioneer resident of Aitkin county, who died at her home near Hanging Kettle lake, was held a few days ago, interment being made at Diamond Lake cemetery, beside the body of her husband, who died last year. Mrs. Wester was 71 years old, and a native of Sweden. She is survived by five children, Gust E., Charles L., Frank and David, all of Aitkin, and one daughter, Mrs. Ida Haakenson of Parkland, Wash.

Reilly in Jail Pending Rehearing.

Langdon, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because three of his bondsmen withdrew from the $5,000 bond under which he was enjoying freedom, Dr. J. J. Reilly was arrested at Larimore and will be held in jail here till the determination of the motion for the rehearing, which has been made before the supreme court.

Bismarck, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state board of school and university lands held a meeting here Wednesday to value considerable land owned by the state and which is sought by the Northern Pacific as right-of-way for the new line which will be constructed from Edgeley to the Missouri river.

Rosy as a Girl

Summit, N. C.—In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Church, the notary public, says: "My wife had been ailing for nearly 12 years, from female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her side and back. We tried physicians for years, without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl." Cardui, as a tonic for women, has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is the ideal tonic for young and old. Try it. At druggists.

ABOUT TAPPING IN DROPSY

Nearly everybody knows that when the dropsy comes so fast in Bright's Disease that the patient has to be tapped, that the case is hopeless so far as the old treatment is concerned. We never heard of a case recovering that required tapping until Fulton's Renal Compound was evolved. Under the Renal Compound recoveries are frequently reported even in this supposed hopeless stage. We recite two cases:

F. H. Chandler of Clay, New York, was a very serious case. As high as four quarts of water were drawn at a tapping. He was put on Fulton's Renal Compound and a year thereafter had resumed employment.

Another—Patient six years old, the son of A. C. Dean of Oakland, Cal., was tapped eight times; even had to be tapped after being put on Fulton's Renal Compound, but the tapping grew further apart and he made a recovery and was going to school at last advices.

What do these things mean if Bright's Disease is not curable? If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

Ask for pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease or write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

SAME FACTS IN ALL CASES

But the Verdicts of the Juries Have Differed Greatly.

Suits to Recover Fire Losses Show Uncertainties of Jury System.

The uncertainty of juries, so proverbial among attorneys, has a striking illustration in the series of "fire cases" which have been dragging along in district court for nearly two years.

The cases are those in which settlers, living on the Knox and Adriatic locations and at White Iron Lake and in the vicinity of Embarrass are suing the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company for damages.

The cases grew out of what were believed to be three separate fires, one on the Knox location, one at Hinsdale hill near White Iron Lake and the other in the vicinity of Embarrass during the dry summer of 1910.

In all of the cases, it is claimed that the railroad company was responsible for the fires and that the most probable cause for the conflagration was a spark from passing locomotives or live coals dumped on the right-of-way.

There were thirty cases for damages growing out of the fire which swept the Knox location during June, 1910. Five of them were tried and the remainder of them settled out of court by the railroad company. In the five suits for damages growing out of the fire at Embarrass settlements were also reached out of court. The White Iron Lake cases, forty-five in number, are marked for trial.

Six or seven of the latter series have been tried. Although practically the same evidence is adduced at the trials and the same witnesses have testified, juries have brought in contradictory verdicts.

In some instances, juries have found for the defendant railroad company and have declined to make any award of damages to the plaintiff. In other cases, quite substantial recoveries have been had. In one of the cases tried this term, the jury was divided and disagreed after spending a night considering the case.

Attorneys on either side of the case admit that the cases could be bunched and tried before one jury, but they are unwilling to risk the chance of how that particular jury might decide the issues.

During the early part of the litigation, most of the cases in all three districts were in the hands of Attorney Joseph De La Motte, as far as the plaintiffs were concerned. The aggregate damages asked was about $250,000. Settlements however, were effected for considerably less than the amount sued for.

Mr. De La Motte has withdrawn from all of the cases. He recently turned the remaining thirty-six cases he had over to Attorney J. W. Reynolds. Mrs. I. C. Buell, woman attorney, has nine cases to try.

The railroad company is represented by Baldwin & Baldwin.

COMPLETE MAP OF PARK SYSTEM

Henry Cleveland Has Made Valuable Addition to City Records.

Henry Cleveland, secretary of the park board, has finished the most complete map of the park system which the city has in its possession. It is thirty-six feet long and is arranged on rollers so that any part of it may readily be examined by the turning of a crank fixed to one side. All the divisions of the city from Lakeside to the further end of West Duluth are shown, with the park properties indicated in colors. The map is one which will be frequently consulted and will prove a very valuable addition to the files of the city.

GRAVEL PIT IS INEXHAUSTIBLE

Every Storm Fills Up Holes on Lake Shore at Lester Park.

The park board has an apparently inexhaustible gravel pit. It is located on the lake shore near Lester park.

Secretary Henry Cleveland of the park board has sold hundreds of loads of gravel from the pit, and still it is as full of gravel as ever.

"The teamsters haul it away, leave a hole, and the next northeaster which blows up fills the excavation again with the finest kind of gravel," said Mr. Cleveland this morning. "In the last year we have derived a revenue of $200 from gravel washed in from the lake."

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—May Robson in "A Night Out."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—"The Love Pirate."

Amusement Notes.

If one can, imagine a splendid old lady making amorous approaches to a deaconized professor in order to test his affection for her scoldy, widowed daughter, doing it so charmingly, so real, and fetchingly as to win his attentions, and to her daughter's utter astonishment, a promise of marriage, thereby providing his infidelity and then when she has, to the hilarious delight of her audience, achieved her purpose, calls to her daughter when she has been listening to it all.

Or if you can, picture to yourself this same dear understanding old lady, in the tiny wee hours of early morning, half plunging, pulling, and twisting herself over the rail of a second story porch-veranda and falling into a chair nearly exhausted from her night out, then you may have some idea of May Robson in her newest character role of Granmum in the farcical comedy "A Night Out," which she will play at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow, and the gleeful merriment it will afford to the large audience which will gather to welcome this talented comedienne.

May Robson will be seen in the role of "Granmum" in "A Night Out." She not only rejuvenates her daughter, but has the same effect upon everyone in her audiences. It is to laugh and there is not a laugh missed by anyone. She is a sweet scream, and as charming as her gown of lavender and old lace. There is not a single problem in the whole play, just one luxurious, long laugh, with just a spice of quaint, old-fashioned feeling thrown in here and there.

"One might think that this sketch I am playing was written after the investigation of the Illinois senate committee into the causes of vice," said Miss Jessie Busley last evening in her dressing room at the Orpheum where she is appearing as the headliner this week.

Miss Busley, who is recognized as one of the leading American actresses of the present day, has for her vaudeville tour a sketch by Rupert Hughes, called "Miss 318." It tells a little incident of department store life in a big city, in which Miss Busley appears as a rather slangy "diamond in the rough" young woman clerk.

"The sketch anticipated all the agitation in Chicago about higher wages for women," continued Miss Busley. "It was originally written by Mr. Hughes as a Christmas story to show the horrors of the Christmas shopping rush for the working girl. Later he adapted it for vaudeville purposes.

"Do you know that I believe vaudeville is the most hopeful factor in modern amusements? Nowadays an actress may do a most artistic piece of work; the production may be a gem of beauty; the play a masterpiece, and the audiences in New York at least are critical and lukewarm. Some rough and ready musical show with a flock of chorus girls will come in and overshadow the best play in popularity. In vaudeville there seems to be a constant and growing demand for better material both in the line of music and sketches. The standard of intelligence is being raised, and I hope that in the very near future vaudeville will reach our most intelligent and cultured people as well as those who seek merely amusement. I hope to remain in vaudeville until I am ready to retire from the stage."

A lively new tabloid musical comedy opened at the Empress last evening and will continue for the remainder of the week with a daily matinee and two performances nightly.

The name of the new "tab" is "The Love Pirate." It is a good collection of girls and music, with plenty of clean comedy thrown in for good measure. The plot is negligible and serves but as an excuse to introduce the various dance numbers by the chorus, the catchy songs, and the comedy of the principals. William C. Cushman as Luke Livelong is the principal comedian, and he manages to extract a generous measure of laughter from his role. He is ably assisted by Eddie Raye as Dr. Schemer. Miss Helen Brandon makes a very fetching Polly Pert, and she and Mr. Raye have an attractive specialty which was one of the hits of the performance. They sang "Row, Row, Row" in a novel and attractive manner, and Miss Brandon's "Baby Boy" song also scored heavily with the large audience which greeted the opening performances.

There are many good ensemble numbers. "That Colored Society Rag," by Polly and the chorus, was given an enthusiastic reception, and the baseball song in which a game of baseball is played by the company, made another hit. Among the other good numbers were "When I Waltz With You" and "My Harem."

The company boasts of a good looking and a hard working chorus. The costumes are new and bright, and the show moves at a lively gait throughout. It proved just as popular yesterday as "The Winning Widow" did during the first part of the week, and will probably continue to draw large crowds to the Empress until the closing performance Saturday night.

Speechless For Thanks

Mena, Ark.—"I find Cardui to be all you represent," writes Mrs. H. B. York, of this city. "I suffered from womanly ailments, for nearly two years, before I tried Cardui. I have been so relieved since taking it. I can not say enough in its praise. It has done me a world of good, and I recommend Cardui to all women." Cardui is over 50 years old, and the demand is greater today than ever. Cardui is the standard, tonic medicine, for women of every age. Would you like to be well and strong? Then take Cardui. Its record shows that it will help you. Begin today. Why wait?

Should Be Known By Every Man Who Drinks

Every drinking man will be glad to know there is a place in Superior for the treatment of periodical and habitual drinkers, where they may go, and in three days' time have their appetite or desire for liquor killed. Think of having all craving for alcohol removed in three days and without the use of dangerous hypodermic injections or injurious drugs. The Neal Institute, at the corner of Belknap and West Seventh street, has an unbroken record of successes, having treated hundreds of men and women who had become alcoholic wrecks, restoring them to perfect mental and physical condition. A little booklet, "The Neal Way," will give you full information. Send for it today. Address Neal Institute, corner Belknap and West Seventh street, Superior, Wis.; St. Paul Institute, 676 Dayton avenue; Minneapolis Institute, 403 South Seventh street.

Railroads

N. P. IMPROVEMENTS.

Company Will Spend Much on Its Jamestown Division.

Jamestown, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Pacific will have a busy time on this division next summer. The local yards, which were so badly crowded with grain shipments last fall from the main line and three branches, will be enlarged at least 25 per cent. The 90-pound steel rails between here and Mandan are to be replaced with 100-pound; 70-pound rails are to be laid on the branch between here and Oakes, and at least a dozen work trains will be operated out of here all summer. Work is to be started early next month.

RAILROAD SERVICE IN THE FLOODED DISTRICT.

S. J. Bigelow, local agent for the New York Central lines, received a dispatch this morning notifying him that the Michigan Central & Lake Shore line is operating east from Chicago and all Chicago junctions to Buffalo and adjacent territoy. The Lake Erie & Western and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie are operating into Pittsburg. The Big Four is temporarily out of busines. These temporary conditions arise because of the Ohio flood.

Railroad Officials Here.

M. H. McLeod, general manager of the Canadian Northern, and J. R. Cameron, assistant general manager of the road, were in the city for a few minutes last night. They were simply "en route." Mr. McLeod left for Chicago and Mr. Cameron returned to Winnipeg.

GETTING READY TO BUILD N. P. EXTENSION.

Edgeley, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—All of the right-of-way except a few pieces in which it was necessary to bring condemnation suits, has been secured between Edgeley and the Missouri river for the extension of the Fargo and Southwestern branch of the Northern Pacific to the Cannonball river to connect with the Northern Pacific branch from Mandan to Mott. Several hundred cars of steel rails and other materials have arrived here, and a loading machine from Fargo has been sent to handle the steel.

McGovern Invites Donations.

Madison, Wis., March 28.—Governor McGovern has issued a proclamation inviting the people of Wisconsin to contribute money and supplies for the flood sufferers of Ohio and Indiana and making a special demand for cash.

Farmers in New South Wales frequently plow by night with traction engines provided with powerful headlights.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

The woman with tender skin dreads February and March because they are likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and wind have a strong tendency to make her freckle.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the recent discovery of a new prescription, othine—double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep the skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine should remove them. Get an ounce from Boyce Drug Store and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.

Woman's Realm

A symphony of extraordinary qualities, a "Jimmy Valentine" sketch, a French prima donna, the Dance of the Midgets, Anthony and Cleopatra, classical dances and musical numbers, are to be features of the program arranged for the students' frolic of the Matinee Musicale, which will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the parlors of the Endion M. E. church under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Lachmund and Mrs. Stephen Jones.

The two or three who have managed to get by the double guarded doors to see rehearsals go into fits of laughter whenever the affair is mentioned, but they have maintained a strict silence and the affair will be a big surprise to the student members and their guests. The associate and active members of the club have been especially invited to attend the frolic, a small admission being charged to all but the students themselves, who will be admitted upon presentation of their membership cards.

After the program refreshments will be served.

Among those who will take part on the program will be Miss Marjorie Morrow, director of the symphony, with Miss May Bradbury at the piano and the following musicians: Misses Carolyn Marshall, Margaret McKindley, Marie Christenson, Virginia Harrison and Perle Reynolds. Miss Mary Whitcomb and Miss Alta Hallock have a particular stunt; Miss Marguerite McDonald and Miss Loretta O'Gorman will appear in a number and assisting will be Miss Mary McGonagle and Miss Margaret Clark.

Other stunts will be given by members of the club, assisted by Piper Norman McLean and his little daughter, Miss Kathryn, who will give Scotch numbers, and Prof. Leo, who will put on some fancy dances.

APRIL FOOL PARTY.

Membership Privilege Entertainment at Y. W. C. A.

Posters announcing the April Fool entertainment which will be given at the Young Women's Christian association next Tuesday evening have been placed about the building and are attracting much attention. The entertainment is to be one of the membership privilege series of entertainments and most of the features of the program are being kept a secret. Mrs. Stephen H. Jones is directing the arrangement of the program which alone guarantees its interest and April 1 being election day arrangements will be made to receive what returns will be ready during that evening.

This membership entertainment as usual will be free to all members of the association upon presentation of their ticket and a small charge will be made for others who accompany them.

There will be fancy dancing under the direction of Prof. Leo and musical numbers and other "stunts." Punch will be served after the program in the lobby, some of the girls who live at the house assisting at the serving.

Woollen-Greenfield.

Miss Hattie Woollen and Frank Greenfield, both of Two Harbors, were married last evening at the parsonage of the First Christian church here. They were attended by only a few relatives and friends. Miss Rosie Niggler of Two Harbors was bridesmaid and Ben Woollen, a brother of the bride, was best man. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield left for Milwaukee, where they will spend a few weeks before returning to Two Harbors, where they will make their home. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Woollen of Two Harbors, and has resided there for many years. The groom is employed in the train service of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad as conductor.

WIFE OF FAMOUS FRENCH AUTHOR NOW GATHERING MATERIAL IN JAPAN

MME. DE TESSAN.

This is Mme. Francis de Tessan, the dainty little wife of Francis de Tessan, the French author and editor who is noted abroad for his work on contemporary life in the West. Mme. de Tessan recently sailed with her husband from San Francisco for Japan, where he will write a series of impressions of Japanese life for the Paris Matin. Mme. de Tessan is herself a painter of portraits and is also a very clever amateur actress. The de Tessans have been spending some time in America gathering material for a book on American life. Mr. de Tessan is a direct descendant of Admiral de la Perouse, the first Frenchman to land on the Pacific coast.

Luncheon.

Mrs. O. A. Oredson of 2310 West Third street entertained informally at luncheon today at her home in compliment to Mrs. C. C. McCarthy of Grand Rapids, Minn., who is a guest in the city this week.

Bridge Club.

Mrs. Robert Taylor of Fifty-first avenue east will entertain the members of the Noituca Bridge club tomorrow afternoon.

Pottery and Coverlets.

Pottery and hand-woven coverlets were subjects of talks of the utmost interest given yesterday by Miss Jessie M. Thomson and Mrs. A. B. Hilton at the open meeting of the Twentieth Century club. Mrs. Hilton reviewed Eliza Calvert Hall's book on the subject of hand-woven coverlets with charming interpretation and Miss Thomson spoke on the various kinds of potters, exhibiting specimens of rare value.

Mrs. E. Frank Barker spoke on personal reminiscences of Eliza Calvert Hall, or Mrs. Lyda Obenchain, as she is known in private life, giving illuminating points on that author's life.

The meeting was well attended and the hearers were enthusiastic over the program.

Surprise Party.

Miss Edith Elmquist was pleasantly surprised last evening by a number of friends, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. Games, music and fancy dancing were the amusements of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Elmquist and Mrs. William Gronlof chaperoning. Those present were:

President's Day.

President's day will be observed by members of the Saturday club tomorrow afternoon at the library clubroom, the regular meeting commencing at 3 o'clock. Rev. George R. Gebauer will talk on Walt Whitman and Mrs. Neil B. Morrison, soprano, and Mrs. R. W. Bowden, violinist, will give solos, accompanied by Miss Florence Williams. Following the program tea will be served by the social committee consisting of Mrs. L. E. Paddack, Mrs. M. Kelley, Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst, Mrs. W. G. La Rue, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle and Mrs. R. D. Denfeld. Whenever there is a fifth Saturday in any month the meeting is turned into a social affair.

EASTER BALL.

Temple Assembly Members Host at Pretty Party.

Soft and brilliant colorings in the gowns worn by the girls and women helped form a pretty color scheme for the Easter ball of the Temple assembly held last evening at the Masonic temple. La Brosse's orchestra played a delightful program of the latest music for about 200 dancers. The committee in charge consisted of C. R. Pattinson, F. R. Laybourn, G. H. Winchester, J. H. Trux, P. T. Holtate and F. R. Levins.

Among the dancers were:

PUBLIC BATHS IN WINNIPEG.

Consul General John E. Jones, Winnipeg, Can., in the Consular Reports: Winnipeg has added to its list of municipal ownership a public bath, and has expended during the past year $60,000 for building and maintenance.

For some years the importance of providing a municipal bath has been apparent, because of the treacherous undercurrents of the rivers where the children of the city have been wont to bathe. Accordingly a large bathhouse was erected on the Red river, on the corner of Pritchard avenue and Charles street, at an expense of about $47,000. t cost approximately $10,000 to maintain the baths during the year which ended Dec. 31, 1912, and the revenue from fees of various kinds amounted to about $5,500.

The baths were opened on May 7, 1912, and during the four months of its operation 61,201 paid for admittance and 509 boy scouts and cadets were admitted free. Of this number 34,505 were men, 5,452 women, 17,795 boys and 3,449 girls. The city charges a fee of 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children under 15 years of age. For this fee each person is admitted, supplied with a bathing suit, towel and a piece of soap. Before entering the bath each person is required to take a shower bath and be examined before entering the plunge.

The season closed with a carnival, at which various prizes were awarded for excellence in various feats. The success of the public bath has been so marked that the authorities are contemplating building another to supply the needs of another section of the city.

BARON A PHOTOGRAPHER; WIFE A SKILLED FENCER

BARON AND BARONESS DE MEYER.

The baron and baroness de Meyer have departed for Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II of the North German Lloyd line. The baron is one of the most skilled photographers in Europe and has taken hundreds of photographs of royal persons. This year he brought to America some photographs of the wives of the sultan of Turkey. He is the only man ever permitted to make these pictures. The baroness is one of the most skillful women fencers in the world. Last year she was defeated by Mrs. W. H. Dewar of Philadelphia. The baroness insisted, however, that she had been defeated by her own lack of knowledge of the American fencing rules. An effort to arrange another meeting between these two ladies was unsuccessful, although both professed a willingness to meet the other. Neither however, would issue a challenge.

PLANTS WARMED BY FOOD.

Memphis Commercial Appeal: It appears that plants, like animals, are warmed by food, and a German botanist has found that even tropical plants are made more resistant to cold by introducing nutrients into the plant cells. Various substances have different degrees of effect. The sugars give greatest resistance to cold, with glycerine next in protective action, and after them come the alcohols and acetone.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Are Telephones Breeders of the Habit of Deception?

Is the use of the telephone conducive to the habit of telling "white lies," making unnecessary excuses and practicing deception? I think it is, from personal observation and, I might add, introspection of the workings of my own mind, when there is something distasteful to be said to someone whom I know. It is easy to invent an excuse and then fly to the telephone and deliver it with a glibness that astonishes you at first, but, after a series of repetitions, comes to be accepted as quite the natural and proper thing to do when circumstances or inclination suggest. If the excuse strains the truth a little, it doesn't matter, in time, so long as it is plausible and kindly.

Of course, the average person's brain has always been fertile ground for excuses; the "white lie" has flourished as the green bay tree, and folks did not hesitate to stoop to petty deceptions of all kinds, long before the telephone became the common agent which it is today. But there were more of us who refrained from giving expression to small matters that were not exactly so, standing in the clear gaze of acquaintances, than do today, with the telephone in our homes or conveniently at hand on every corner. It is easier to say things over the telephone than when one is talking face to face with another.

Before the telephone came into general use, people made more of an effort to keep their engagements. When failure to keep an appointment meant writing an apology or making one in person, folks were not so ready with the glib excuse. Somehow it wasn't so easy to set down anything but the truth in writing, or to utter anything less under the calm gaze of a friend. But the telephone, being a handy instrument of communication, lends itself to one's moods, and before they have passed one has excused oneself from this or that on some false plea, perhaps, and felt only relief, when one surely should feel some sense of shame.

Aside from the fact that this petty habit of treating the truth lightly is bad for ourselves, the inconvenience often caused others should be taken into account. The eleventh hour warning that one cannot attend a dinner or party or keep a business appointment often creates no end of trouble for those on the other end of the line. Surely, we should all try to avoid falling into this common practice of using the telephone to evade duties and obligations and common courtesy, every time we feel like being excused.

International Securities Co. Case Will Be Tried on Merits.

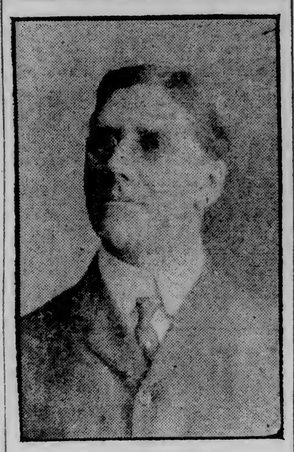
Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The application of the attorney general of North Dakota for the appointment of a temporary receiver of the International Securities Company of America was denied by Judge C. M. Cooley last night. He made an order, however, enjoining the general manager, E. Sandlic, from making use of any of the notes of stockholders held by the company, and the suit to dissolve the company will come on regularly for trial on its merits at the June term of court.

Deny Firm Is Insolvent.

The officials of the company filed affidavits yesterday denying the charges of insolvency made by the state. The suit was based on the report of the state bank examiner to the effect that irregular methods had been adopted in handling the company's business.

TEACH CLOQUET BOYS FARM WORK

Ten-Acre Farm Expected Soon to Be Self Supporting.



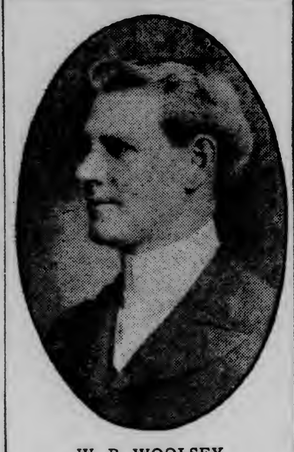
Cloquet, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is estimated that the operation of the ten-acre school farm here this year will cost about $800. There will be some returns on the investment, but the farm is not expected to return a profit or even pay expenses, as it is a purely educational venture, teaching agriculture in a practical and attractive manner.

Last year considerable work was hired, but it is intended this summer to have all the work done by the school boys, if possible, and it is proposed either to purchase a team which will be sold again at the close of the season, or buy a gasoline tractor, the initial expense of which would be considerable, but which would pay in the long run. A comfortable shack will be built on the farm and the barn that was there when the land was purchased will be repaired for an implement house.

Boys Detailed as Watchmen.

Boys will be detailed as watchmen at night, as a watchman was found necessary last year, considerble produce living been stolen. A high school credit will be given for a certain amount of work and it is proposed to offer wages to those working more than necessary for the credit. This offsets the work in the mills which is an attraction to boys each summer. Among the younger children much the same plan as last year will be followed, except that the plot allowed each one will be smaller and more children will be accommodated. The children will walk to and from the farm, as it is thought the expense of hauling them back and forth unnecessary, as those having sufficient stamina to stay by the work all summer would not be deterred from going to the farm by the walk. A public-spirited citizen has offered $45 to be used as prize money for the children, which will likely be an incentive to keep competition.

GRAND FORKS CLUB'S SECRETARY BUSY MAN



F. L. GOODMAN.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. L. Goodman, president of the Grand Forks Commercial club, is also president of the Grand Forks Agricultural society which will join with the North Dakota State Fair association in staging the annual fair here in July.

Recently Mr. Goodman was appointed by Governor Burke as a member of the board of regents of the state university. He will assume duties under that appointment next week.

NORTH DAKOTA'S NEW INSPECTOR OF HOTELS

W. B. WOOLSEY.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. Woolsey of Grand Forks, appointed by Governor Hanna to be hotel inspector of North Dakota, has been a traveling salesman in the Northwest for thirty years, twenty of which were spent as a resident of Minneapolis. He was a charter member of the Minneapolis council, U. C. T.

Mr. Woolsey is very well known throughout the Northwest by reason of his long term of service on the road. For the position of hotel inspector he had the almost unanimous indorsement of the travelers of North Dakota.

MONTANA BOASTS OF ANIMAL FREAK

Part Dog and Sheep, Possessing Many Traits of Both Animals.

Helena, Mont., March 28.—There is on display in the window of a local store a freak of nature which is attracting much attention. It is a half sheep and half dog and eats hay and devours meat, raw bones and nibbles corn. It has the nose of its buck father and the eyes of its canine mother. Its claws were made to rend and tear, but the legs are long, awkward and dangling and were only intended for ambling where grass grows green. Its spinal column is an inheritance from its father. Its mother gave it its bark. Its hide is that of a sheep, thin like parchment. Instead of having fur, it has fiecce, thick, long and greasy to the touch, a staple that might have come from the finest Cotswold save for the color—splotches of glossless black and muddy white.

Hybrid Known as Pupla.

The pupla, a name given the hybrid, it being neither lamb nor pup, is 11 months old and was whelped by a Scotch collie on a ranch in the Dawson county bad lands. The pupla thrived; it ate meat greedily and was fond of hay. The men made much of it and it was the ranch pet. It knew the men and wagged its long, thick sheep's tail when they played with it. It stands about a foot high, but its legs are its chief possessions. The body is thin and long. The pupla is neither pretty nor graceful. It is a poor, misshapen, disproportioned beast. The most striking misfit is the legs and the body. Nature never intended the two to go together.

KAHN'S TRIAL IS ON.

St. Paul Man Accused of Murdering Turkish Wrestler.

Minnewaukan, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Sibell Kahn of St. Paul on the charge of murdering Abdulla Hassan, a wrestler, is in full swing. Dr. H. B. Warren of Leeds was the first witness.

The prosecuting attorney in opening the case said that it would be the effort of the state to show that Hassan had been deliberately murdered by Kahn as a result of differences over money matters. Dr. Warren's testimony related to the nature of the wound, showing that the fatal bullet had struck Hassan in the head.

As yet the state has been unable to secure interpreters to take the evidence of two Persian witnesses and of the defendant who is an Afghan. The trial probably will not be completed until Monday or Tuesday.

RESCUED FROM FLOOD.

Grand Forks Man's Brother Saved During Ohio Water Horror.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Elliston, formerly a resident of Ohio, has received from his brother, James Elliston, a description of the manner in which he escaped death in the flood in Ohio. Elliston was caught in his home, on the river south of Dayton, and when the building was whirled from its foundation down the stream, he was in the second story.

For three miles he rode in the house, being rescued by boatmen just a quarter of a mile above a bridge where the house was dashed to pieces.

SCRIBES' ANNUAL OUTING

Bemidji Preparing to Give Press Association Lot of Fun.

Bemidji, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for making the annual outing of the Northering Minnesota Editorial association the biggest and most successful affair in the history of that organization were given further impetus this week when "Doc" Rutledge of Minneapolis, formerly of this city and secretary of the association since its organization, came here and met the officers of the Commercial club.

President A. P. White and Secretary H. C. Baer of the Commercial club assured Mr. Rutledge of their full cooperation, and plans for the three-day summer outing, including a smoker Friday evening, fishing and automobile trips and a banquet Saturday night.

Judge C. W. Stanton of this city, formerly proprietor of the Appleton and International Falls presses, will preside at the banquet. Judge Stanton was formerly president of the association.

FUNDS BEING RAISED.

St. Paul Is Contributing Towards Ohio Flood Sufferers.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—As the result of the appeal by Governor Eberhart, head of the Red Cross for Minnesota, to an appeal made by a local newspaper, several thousand dollars have been collected for relief of flood sufferers in Ohio and Indiana. The board of directors of the local Association of Commerce adopted a resolution asking the state legislature to appropriate $25,000 for the aid of homeless.

A musical comedy company now in Minneapolis, which is to show here next week, will give an open air benefit in front of the city hall here next Monday afternoon. Mayor Keller also is to speak. A collection is to be taken up by the members of the chorus.

MINISTERS' MEETING.

Methodists of Grand Forks District Discuss Church's Social Obligations.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Methodist pastors of the Grand Forks district are holding their annual meeting here, concluding this evening, with Dr. Allen Hoben of the University of Chicago, who delivers the Haziett foundation lectures, as the principal speaker.

"Social Obligations of the Church" is the topic which is demanding the special interest of the pastors. The discussion of that subject was opened with a paper by Rev. C. E. Stinson of Grafton, who contended that the small churches were, in a marked measure, fulfilling their obligation toward their special communities. He deplored the conditions sometimes existing when misunderstandings and friction arises between denominations in small towns.

DEFENSE BEING HEARD.

State Closes Its Case Against Former Ironwood Banker.

Bessemer, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The defense is now offering testimony in the trial of M. A. Fitzsimmons, former Ironwood banker, who is being tried on a charge of alleged embezzlement of moneys belonging to Fritz Karste, owner of the bank, and the course it proposes to pursue has been revealed in the circuit court. The state examined about twenty witnesses, the most important one being the bookkeeper, Charles F. Thompson. The defense has spent its first day in reading depositions from Sheboygan, Wis., where Karste also had a bank.

DONALDSON DONATES $1,000 TO SUFFERERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—L. S. Donaldson, head of a department store here, who is on board an Atlantic liner homeward bound from Europe, sent a wireless message from mid-ocean to J. S. Mitchell, treasurer of his company, to send $1,000 to the relief fund of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers.

Mr. Mitchell dispatched a draft for the amount yesterday afternoon.

BIG STEARNS COUNTY DITCH PLANS DRAWN.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 28.—County Surveyor S. S. Chute has completed plans and specifications for county ditch No. 32, the biggest drainage proposition ever attempted in Stearns county.

The ditch covers 23.6 miles and runs through the town of Lake George, Getty, Raymond and North Fork. The estimated cost is $26,600. The ditch will reclaim 5,000 acres of swamp land.

The Herald Sporting Gossip Is Reliable

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

AT LAST we have arrived at the day when the great Mike Yokel, the pride of Salt Lake City, and Walter Willoughby, the hope of Mellen, Wis., are to come together to decide once for all the question of supremacy between these two great wrestlers. All of the others have been eliminated in the fierce rush for the goal of the middleweight championship. The winner of tonight's contest will remain supreme for the time being at least.

It is a strange fact that during the wrestling years of the past these two great athletes have never met. It is a fact even more passing strange that these two men never looked upon each other until last evening.

When they throw off their robes and stand facing each other, listening to the instructions of the referee, there will be deep curiosity in the close scrutiny of this famous pair. Yokel will probably cast a shrewd and calculating eye on the lean and lithe form of the Mellen man, figuring the speed and sinewy strength of his adversary; while Willoughby will most likely be forcibly struck with the compact and wonderfully knit frame of the mighty Mike.

This contest promises to be a battle of brain and brawn. Both of the famous athletes know every trick of the game; each has been duly impressed with the prowess of the other. Willoughby, one would believe, will depend upon his speed and deep knowledge of the art of grappling to overcome the marvellous strength of the man from Utah, and Mike will probably be warily watching for the first part of the journey at least for some trick or speedy move that might put him in a bal position.

To the writer both of the men have expressed the utmost confidence in the ability to win. Neither one underestimates his opponent. It might be stated that the Duluth public as a whole has a fancy for the chances of Yokel, and this, perhaps, because the fans here have seen an exhibition of the really wonderful ability of the Mormon and have never seen Willoughby in action.

TOM SHARKEY once wrestled under the promotion of Tom Scanlon at Cleveland. The box office gayly galloped some $34 ahead of the ticket count. When it came to the settlement Tom Scanlon informed Tom Sharkey of this and settled on the basis of the iron men in the drawer. Sharkey couldn't get the run of the thing through his head for some time. He vaguely wondered if someone was giving him something for nothing, an occurrence that he had never encountered in his somewhat tempestuous career. When the marine finally got the idea, he informed his friends in New York that the only honest man he had ever done business with lived in Cleveland and was an Irishman. Sharkey announcing this last with a great show of pride.

WHITE SOX TO ASSEMBLE AT TOLEDO APRIL 7

Official Call Sent to Members of Duluth Baseball Team.

Darby Has Large Squad Ready for Preliminary Training Season.

The call has been sent out to the members of the Duluth baseball team.

April 7 at Toledo, Ohio, is the message that has been sent to the contract signers.

On that date the candidates for what promises to be the best team that has ever represented this city will start the work of preparation for one of the best seasons that the great old sport has enjoyed in these parts.

Sam Menelee, Elmer Miller and McGraw will leave from here. "Dusty" Rhodes will leave from Macon, Ill., while the remainder of the athletes will be picked up from their various ports of call.

With the start of the training season of the Duluth team the fans will begin to yearn for the opening of the baseball period. Remembrances of the past will come back, and it is quite safe to state that greater interest will be taken in the opening of the season than ever before in the history of the game here.

It is probable that some of the pitchers of the White Sox will report before April 7. Darby is in Cleveland at the present time, and he has informed President Harry Blume that he will likely take some of his younger flingers over to the American association town and get them started on the job of warming up their soupbones before the other members of the squad arrive.

According to the letter sent to President Blume, Darby has some thirty odd men in the squad that he is lining up for preliminary work at the Mudhen's park. The Orator believes that this is the best crowd of players that he has ever signed. From the first workout stage at Toledo the team will hit the road, though it is probable that the weeding process will be started before the first games on the road are played.

A. J. Hershey, financial man with the team, will leave in a few days and will travel with the squad from the first game until the crowd hits here. Hershey is some dyed-in-the-wool fan and one of the best boosters the game has ever had around these parts.

MIKE YOKEL, STOIC, WATCHES WILLOUGHBY

For the first time in his life Mike Yokel last evening looked upon Walter Willoughby. With hand shading eyes from the glare of the lights, the postmaster of the Jackson Hole country sat immovable, like a philosopher wrapped in thought, watching every move of Willoughby as he went through the exhibition work with Walter Miller.

One wonders what the opinion of Yokel is today regarding the man he is going to meet this evening. Truly Mike was consumed with curiosity or awe; cautiously he peeped around the corner of the locker room and took one long, earnest look at Willoughby as he stood like Adam under the shower. Slowly the postmaster turned to fatherly Tom Scanlon, the seer and philosophical, and drawled out in his halting speech:

"Some man, Tom, believe me, some man."

To the fans who journeyed to the pastiming of the Catholic Athletic club last evening the wrestling of Willoughby proved a revelation. He moves on the wrestling pad like that old master Joe Gans pantherized around the resined canvas of the ring. It is safe to say that there was not a fan who left the Catholic club but who vaguely speculated whether Yokel is going to defeat the Mellen marvel.

Lithe and wonderfully fast, to those who have seen both Yokel and Willoughby in action it appears as if the battle between the two is going to be one that will go down in the history of the sport in this city.

Special Train From Mellen.

Late yesterday Willoughby received a wire from his townsmen. The message was signed by a committee of Mellenites. The little piece of yellow paper contained the promise of the backing of his own people, and then informed Walter that a special train has been hired to bring the fans up from Mellen and the little towns around about.

George E. Foster, one of the large lumbermen of the section of which Mellen is the center, hired the train when he ascertained that it would be awkward for some of the good people of that section to make direct connections with the roads running here.

On the coach of the Mellenites will be strung the large and flaring banner:

"We've come to Duluth to watch Willoughby put the yoke on Yokel."

Yokel took limbering up work yesterday afternoon. On the handball courts of the Catholic Athletic club the demon wrestler played four fast games of handball. Mike isn't the most skillful handball player in the world, but when he hits the ball it sure does go.

Both Men on Edge.

Both men are on edge for the contest. Yokel defeated Turner Monday evening, and as he had prepared carefully and thoroughly for the contest, he is right now in tip-top form.

Those who have watched the preparation of Willoughby since he has been here during all of the present week can have no doubt over the splendid shape of the Wisconsinite.

In all the fast work with Miller last evening Willoughby did not even take a deep breath. His bellows are working like the mechanism of an $80 watch.

Neither man has expressed his plan of battle. To one familiar with athletics it would seem that the bear-like wrestler from far-away Salt Lake City would go in and make a roughing, bulling contest of it. Willoughby has the footwork of a finished boxer, and it is believed that he will depend upon his remarkable agility and make Yokel "miss," as they say of the boxers.

No matter who wins, the winner will fully realize that he has been in a battle.

RECEPTION FOR COACH VLIET

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—Capt. Thomas Ellerbe and Commodore Cockran of the Minnesota Boat club have issued a call for the oarsmen and club members to attend a meeting at the club house tonight, when plans will be laid and tentative arrangements made for the reception on next Wednesday of Coach George Van Vliet, who is expected to reach St. Paul on that date.

Incidentally tonight's gathering will be in the nature of a boosters' session, as it is expected forty applicants for the several crews will be on hand, and speeches will be made incident to an occasion of general jollification.

In Last General Meeting.

There will be the last general meeting of the organization before the active outdoor work begins under the charge of the new coach. Of course an informal assemblage will be held following the trainer's arrival, when it is expected he will outline the methods he intends to pursue and incidentally he will tell the "boys" how he expects to accomplish results and what they must do to win top honor in the great Northwest International regatta, which will be held over the local course in July.

Much Interest Among Oarsmen.

According to the prognosticators, the coming big event has stirred up unusual interest in the club, and they predict a greater representation will be accorded the several crews than has been out in the past few seasons. It is too early now even to suggest what the personnel of the crews will be, as alterations doubtless will be in store once Van Vliet gets his peepers on the oarsmen. However, the report is that the men have taken to indoor practice like ducks to water, and are impatiently awaiting the day when they may take up active operations over the familiar course.

Nothing has been heard of the invitation extended to the Detroit Boat club to send a crew to the Northwest regatta, but it is understood the Michiganders will send a representation.

WILLARD AFTER A NEW PILOT

Kansas Heavyweight May Shake Charley Cutler for a New Manager.

Chicago, March 28.—Jess Willard, Kansas heavyweight, dissatisfied over his long idleness, and piqued over the criticism being handed him because of his refusal to fight Gunboat Smith on two different occasions, is reported on the coast negotiating for a new manager to take the place of Charley Cutler. He is also said to be flickering with Tom McCarey for a 20-round bout.

Willard was thought to be resting up at his home in Kansas, but according to a tip received here yesterday he is secretly arranging for a new business manager, one who is upon all of the inside ropes of the pugilistic game and is acquainted with the promoters. Tom Jones is thought to be the man wanted by Willard to look after his business for it was known several weeks ago that the giant heavy was in favor of Cutler accepting a small sum from Jones for the verbal agreement he has with Willard to look after his dealings.

Jack Curley's all-star boxing tour which suspended business a few weeks ago because of lack of theatrical dates, will resume business next week with a few more stars added. According to present plans Eddie McGoorty and Packey McFarland will join the troupe. Others will be Luther McCarty, Johnny Coulon and probably Charley White, who will take Johnny Kilbane's place. The first stop will be at Sioux City.

INTERMEDIATES WIN THE TITLE

The Intermediates of the curling club won the junior championship of the city last evening by the score of 5 to 4, defeating the Nationals in one of the most exciting and one of the best played contests of the league year.

Blais made a goal for the Nationals and Harris tied the count by shooting a net for the Intermediates. Wood followed with another goal. Blais and Harris repeated in a few minutes and the spectators in the stand yelled their approval of the fast and clever play. Poissant and Chamberlain scored goals and the old game was tied up.

In the extra period no score was made and then five minutes was added to the time. Asher Taylor put over the winning goal and the championship of the little league was won after one of the most strenuous games and one of the most strenuous seasons in the history of hockey hereabouts.

DULUTH RINKS BEAT SUPERIOR

Last evening at Superior the Duluth Curling club's rinks defeated the five opposing rinks of the Superior Curling club, the count standing 55 to 46.

Harris defeated Gates by the score of 12 to 8, Jones defeated Tipton by the count of 11 to 10, Ron Smith beat Stephenson by the score of 12 to 6, McCrea was defeated by A. K. Smith by the score of 8 to 6, and McMullen and Chadwick tied at the count of 14 all.

A return game between the same five rinks will be played on the ice of the local club tomorrow evening. Brooms and stones will be furnished the visiting players.

This will in all probability be one of the last curling games of the present season and it is expected that there will be a large gallery out.

NO SPRING SHOOTING.

Geese Hunters in North Dakota Must Wait Till Fall.

Bismarck, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be no hunting of geese in North Dakota this year, the spring hunting season being abolished, and the bill making such provision carried an emergency clause. There has been some misunderstanding with reference to the passage of the law, sportsmen being uncertain as to the situation.

The new open seasons fixed by law follow: Chickens, Sept. 7 to Oct. 1; ducks and geese, all varieties, Sept. 7 to Dec. 15; deer, closed till Nov. 10, 1916.

CLEVELAND STAR TRAINING HARD

JOHNNY KILBANE.

The featherweight champion has started training for his fight with Johnny Dundee, on the coast.

SPORT OUTLOOK IS VERY GOOD

New York, March 28.—Between the eruption of two big leagues, countless minors and the impending onrush of Gunboat Smith and Luther McCarty, the present spring crop in Sportville's garden is sure to be a record breaker. The oldest fanatic can tap the memory vault in his dome of thought incessantly without recalling such an abundance of interest as that now manifested in the two major league campaigns. There has been nothing like it since the national pastime was first launched many fleeting eons ago.

In the National league the death grapple for a flag between Pittsburg and New York with the titanic tussle between Johnny Evers and Joe Tinker at the head of Cubs and Reds, means a big boom to the old predestined order of things. The battle between Pittsburg and New York is sure to be hisslash finish. The clash between Evers and Tinker is sure to be savage and fought to the end.

Hot Fight in American.

The American league fight, now drawing on, is even more interesting. Here there are three flag contenders in Boston, Philadelphia and Washington all facing a driving start and well fixed at every turn. Beyond this the highest-priced manager in baseball, a pennant winner in four years out of seven, starts handling a tail-end club, Frank Chance and the New York Americans. Discarded by the club he made famous, fandom is pulling for Chance to make good. Chance has put his troopers through a hard trial spin in Bermuda and is pointing them home finely conditioned and ready for the best they have. To finish better than sixth will be little short of a miracle.

Prize Ring Activities.

Sportville's interest will be fairly well divided between the great pennant year ahead and impending battles in the prize ring, where the heavyweight field is again attracting attention. Gunboat Smith's quick victory over Bombardier Wells, the English champ, has jammed the Californian up against McCarty, and these two must soon meet in the white-hope elimination that leaves only Jess Willard to be counted in.

None is a finished boxer, but all three have shown an abiding joy in mixing it at close range, where the hardest wallop and the toughest jawbone gets the decision. This type of fight is generally popular, for it means action, and there should be sufficient action, even though raw and unskilled, when any two of the three bump together with a running start.

McCarty Looks Best.

And of the three, McCarty still looks to have the edge, as he is only 21 and has been coming forward at every fight. Having enough to beat Kaufman, Flynn and Palzer within two months, and enjoying a fight as the average citizen enjoys a meal, he is not to be treated too lightly. But both McCarty and Willard must not permit their jawbones to take too many liberties with 90-mule power kick employed by a certain Dr. Gunboat Smith.

SHOW IS PLANNED.

Lakeside Athletic Club Will Put on an Exhibition at Auditorium.

The Lakeside Athletic club will hold a meeting Monday evening to arrange plans for the big tournament next month. The plan is to raise money for the building funds. Outside stars will compete with local talent. Gold medals will be given the winners, boxing and wrestling to be featured. All bouts will be strictly amateur. A. L. Ryberg will receive all applications for this tournament. Entries must be made seven days before the tournament.

DATE DECIDED FOR A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIP.

New York, March 28.—The Amateur Athletic union championship committee yesterday announced that the national gymnastic championships would be held at the West Side Young Men's Christian association gymnasium, New York city, on Saturday evening, April 19. The chairman of the championship committee has already received applications for entry blanks from Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Buffalo and Albany as well as many of the prominent colleges, and it is expected that it will be the most representative gymnastic championship meeting ever held by the governing body. The events to be contested are: Flying rings, Indian club swinging, rope climb, side horse, parallel bars, long horse, horizontal bars, tumbling and the all-around championship.

Entries will close with James E. Sullivan, chairman of the championship committee, 21 Warren street, New York city, on April 12.

LUTHER M'CARTY FOUGHT FLYNN BECAUSE OF HATE

Pueblo Fireman Insulted the White Champion When the Latter Was Working in O'Connell's Gymnasium.

If the champions don't take something before long, something to remove the graveyard pall that has overshadowed their distinguished movements for some little time, the florists will be surprised at the increase in their business. For have you noticed how dead they've been—the leading citizens of all classes?

Coulon has been ill and trouping a trifle; McCarty's lot in Woodlawn has been given a new coat of grass seed; Kilbane's time was taken up at home; Ritchie has been about the quietest proposition within the recollection of any fight fan.

Kilbane is the only one who has shown signs of animation, and these didn't come until Thursday, when he left for the coast to train for Dundee. Coulon snapped a line or two the other day that he would fight Williams when he recovered from his indisposition, so that may be taken in the nature of an assurance that his existence has not been seriously threatened, despite contrary appearances.

Ritchie hasn't given the least indication of spring freshness. In fact, he is the most funereal one of the lot. For fear McCarty won't raise a rumble within the seasonal limit, a story about him that Billy McCarney vouches for as heretofore unpublished is hereby unveiled.

McCarty knew he was going to whip Jim Flynn. He fought Flynn, it will be remembered, last December before Palzer was brought on for the slaughter. It was a battle for vindication and revenge. Three years before, when McCarty was dubbing around O'Connell's gym in Chicago, Flynn insulted Luther. Flynn was training for some fight in the vicinity and boxed every afternoon with men of all sizes. Most boxers know what Flynn is—the most cruel, merciless, disagreeable fellow in the ring, with the toughest line of talk that ever a fighter carried. Flynn battered his gratis training partners terribly, treating big and small in the same manner. His disposition grated on McCarty, but Lute didn't know much about the game and as Flynn's reputation as a real fighter was well known he said nothing.

One afternoon, however, he asked Flynn for the opportunity to box with him.

"Can I put on the gloves with you for a round or two?" he pleaded in his most touching voice.

Flynn sized him up from feet to head, grunted and then sneered: "Gwan, get away from me. You big bums make me tired with your 'can I put on the gloves with you?' Trot along to your own pasture."

Billy McCarney says McCarty never forgot or forgave Flynn for that speech. After he had won his first fight in Springfield, Mo., Luther repeatedly urged McCarney to match him with Flynn.

"There is one fellow that I can lick and lick proper, if I ever get the chance," he would remark.

Well, Flynn and McCarty got into the square at Vernon last December. As Pueblo Jim took his seat in his corner and gazed at the crowd, McCarty from the opposite corner sized him up. Staring over, and shaking his head slowly up and down, as one does in a retrospective mood, McCarty mumbled half to himself and half to McCarney:

"I wonder if he remembers me. I wonder if he knows he's fighting the 'big bum' he met in Chicago. I was a nobody then. Today I am favorite in the betting. I am going to take some of the toughness out of him now. Watch me murder him."

He did, almost.

CATHOLIC CLUB STAGES A FINE ATHLETIC SHOW

One of the cleanest and most enjoyable athletic entertainments that has been staged in Duluth for some time was put on in the commodious gymnasium of the Catholic Athletic club last evening before a good sized audience. The program fairly bristled with good features and at times the enthusiasm of the spectators gave vociferous and compelling evidence of their enjoyment of the program.

Given under the direction of Walter Miller, the show netted a tidy little sum for the purchase of added equipment for the large gymnasium. So successful was the whole program that those behind the plan are seriously thinking of repeating the experiment sometime in the future.

Arthur L. Ryberg in the role of referee and general announcer introduced little Louie Zorbas and "Doc" Chamberlain as the first performers of the evening. Little Louie, fully recovered from his game leg, hurt in an altercation with the backstairs, and filled with his accustomed pep, gave Doc one merry time during the fifteen minutes the boys were on the mat.

While Louie contented himself with going along in a nice way, he gave several indications of his strength and speed.

After the watch holder had signified the passing of the fifteen minutes, Jimmy Brady, attired in angelic white and a radiant smile, came on with Sed Hemstead and boxed like a phantom for three interesting rounds.

Prof. James contented himself with pistoning his snaky left into the countenance of Mons. Hemstead, while the latter gentleman, try as he did, seldom found the elusive Brady. Once Ted handed a right on the map of the harp and the crowd yelled in wild and unrestrained glee.

Our old friend, the "Albany Terror," who has been hiding his light under a basket for the past few months, went on with Petrof, the vest pocket edition of Hercules.

The terror still retains his primitive emotions. He slams and bangs with utmost earnestness and had the crowd on its feet after the first two minutes of the going. Albany was not in the best of condition, owing to the fact that he has not been working anywhere but in a butcher shop for some time, but this bout was one of the real hits of the evening.

Abe O'Neil, whose name is deceiving, not to say misleading, and Knockout Brown, Jr., a stocky lad who persists in holding his right arm foremost, went three rounds, one of the features of which was the rythmic work of the jaws of Kayo, Jr., who had a large amount of chewing gum under perfect control.

But the bout that got the crowd was that between Issy Azine and Heuneberry. This little Issy is a mauler from the heels to the head of his short and compact anatomy. He looks at the feet, a la Mike Gibbons, and thinks seriously of the head of his opponent.

Issy surely landed some swings that had lots of good will behind 'em. Occasionally he rocked the coco of his opponent, and at all times he carried the battle to him. Little Azine is a miniature Ad Wolgast and he simply dotes upon getting in close and fanning away at the head of his adversary.

She was some bout and the crowd let loose its many-throated approval.

Our own Walter Miller—for he's our own now—and Mellen's Walter Willoughby, went fifteen minutes in the prettiest wrestling exhibition that has ever been staged in this city. Speed, science and a master's knowledge of every move in the wrestling game were displayed by the two adepts at the art of grappling as the thing came as near art as any athletic pastime could possibly be.

Walter Miller plainly indicated that his long rest and careful preparation have placed him in better condition than he has been in during the present season, while Willoughby plainly proved that he is a past master of the game.

The program was an unqualified success and little Miller and the boys of the club who worked with him are to be congratulated upon the initial effort.

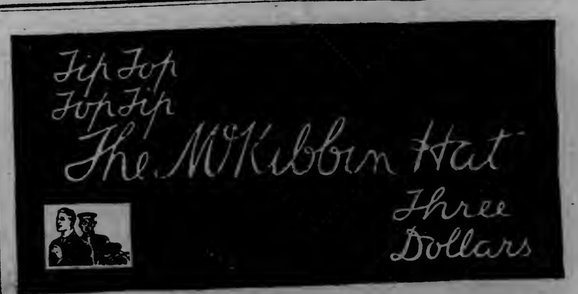
SPORTING GOSSIP

Asks Divorce.

Chicago, March 28.—Thomas M. Chivington, president of the American association, is being sued for divorce by his wife, Mrs. Rosalie Chivington, in the circuit court here. Desertion and infidelity are charged.

Ordemann Wins Easily.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—Henry Ordemann last night defeated Chris Pearson in two straight falls. The first was accomplished in twenty-three minutes and the second in seven minutes.



Bunny Kuehn Signs.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Frank Lohr of the Grand Forks baseball team has received the contract of "Bunny" Kuehn, who will try for an outfield position on the Grand Forks team this season.

Kuehn was a member of the pennant winning Duluth team in the See-Eye league last season, having to give way when Miller returned from the big league. Kuehn is full of pep and cut a big swath with the Duluth aggregation.

MAN CRIES HIMSELF TO DEATH IN JAIL.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 28.—Charles Nichols of Pasadena, 25, cried himself to death in the county jail here. His body was found in his cell today. Nichols was arrested yesterday on a charge of having failed to provide for his family. He began crying when he learned he had no friends able to provide bonds for him, and that he would have to remain in jail until his trial. He cried all night and until early this morning when his sobs ceased. A jailer investigated and found his dead body.

ON THE IRON RANGES

BRAKEMAN IS KILLED

Young Italian Falls Under Cars at Bennett Mine Near Keewatin.

Train Passes Over Him, Mangling Body Almost Beyond Recognition.

Hibbing, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Disobedience of the rules of the contracting firm for which he was working for the safety of its employes cost Carmine Faldute, 19 years old, his life at the Bennett mine near Keewatin yesterday, when he was run over by four loaded dump cars and an engine and instantly killed. His body was mangled almost beyond recognition. Faldute was employed as a brakeman for Butler Bros., who have the contract for stripping the Bennett mine.

Riding on Head Car.

He was riding the head car of a string of four loaded dump cars being pushed up on the dump, contrary to orders, when he lost his balance and fell beneath the wheels. The train was going at a high rate of speed and could not be controlled until it had completely passed over his body. The body was brought to Hibbing this morning to be prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning from the church of the Blessed Sacrament, Father Pollak officiating.

Faldute recently came from Italy, and had no relatives in America except an uncle living in Hibbing.

BRASS FOUNDRY FOR VIRGINIA

Mill City Concern to Establish New Industry in Range City.

Virginia, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minneapolis parties connected with the National Manufacturing & Supply company of that city and who have a large business already on the range propose to establish a brass foundry in Virginia and also maintain a general supply house. H. F. Hodge of the company has spent several days here and obtained the co-operation of local men in obtaining a site.

Probably buildings now used for other purposes can be obtained for the works. The foundry and supply house would give employment to thirty men, all of whom would be experienced and would come here from elsewhere. The company manufactures and carries a large line of such goods as are used by plumbers and steam and water pipe fitters. Large quantities of the goods produced are used by the mining companies.

THE "FULL CREW" BILL.

Opposition of Virginia Commercial Club Is Attacked.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Commercial club of Virginia, Minn., has gone on record as opposing the "full crew" bill now before the legislature of the state of Minnesota.

Well, this stand by that body is not to be wondered at. If they were to favor it, they would be speaking in favor of labor, and will you pray tell me of an instance where commercial clubs have stood for the rights of labor. No, they don't stand for the man doing the work of the world that really counts for the betterment of mankind as a whole. They stand for the "business" man. Where would the business man be were it not for the laborer? The better the laborer is paid, the more the business man gets, because it is a well-known fact that when labor gets a raise, the business man increases his business in the same proportion.

A sample of business tactics of Virginia business men and public servants was recently demonstrated. Representatives of a telephone company demonstrated their 'phones, showing the people how they could compete with the present telephone company and lower the cost of service greatly. After they had spent a great deal of time and money, they applied for a franchise, and the city fathers refused to grant them a franchise. Now, would any man call this a progressive body of law makers? It is a shame that such men would so betray the trust of the people who put them into office.

I trust that the law makers will disregard the wailing of those laggards of ancient days, who are afraid to move for fear of the results of the move. They belong to the days when the cry went up by that class, "Let well-enough alone."

Messrs. Boyle, Healy and Knapp had better pay heed to the class of men who are paying out thousands of dollars each year in furthering the safety of the traveling public, and not let the almighty dollar stand between safety for both the railroad employes and the traveling public. If they forget, it may be that we union men will not forget them when they solicit our support at the next election.

I trust this will be plain enough to make the people understand that it is not solely to get an additional man to work that we are endeavoring to get this law enacted, but it is for an additional safeguard for the traveling public and railroad employes.

The railroad fatalities increased the last year. The report of the interstate commerce commission for the year ending June 30 shows that 10,585 persons were killed and 169,538 injured during the year, an increase of 189 killed and 19,379 injured over the previous year. Do you not think it is time for every patriotic citizen to cry out against such things, and demand greater safety on railroads, regardless of cost?

MAKI TO FIGHT MURDER CHARGE

More Indictments Are Returned By Itasca County Grand Jury.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Maki, indicted for the murder of John McDonald at Deer River, has decided to fight the charge, judging by his action yesterday afternoon when arraigned before Judge Stanton to plead to the indictment. He pleaded not guilty. He is without funds and the county will provide him with counsel. It is expected his trial will be taken up next week.

Some More Indictments.

The grand jury returned indictments yesterday afternoon against the following:

Steve Parlica, charged with stabbing Iyo Neyjon in a saloon at Bovey on Sunday, Feb. 2.

Ed Marlino, larceny, charged with stealing a trunkful of goods from the home of William Smith at Deer River March 4.

George Smith, Deer River, larceny. Smith is charged with robbing Game Warden T. J. Storey of Duluth in a stopping place near Deer River.

The Jessie lake country is pretty well represented on the jury this term of court, the following being in attendance: E. G. Phifer, D. C. McDougall, Ellis Coombs, J. F. Sundloff, Louis Morin and John Lundeen.

LEASES WABANA LODGE.

Former Hill City Man to Maintain a Summer Resort.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. C. Parker, recently of Cohasset and Hill City, has leased the Wabana lodge, formerly conducted by Dave Cochran at Wabana lake, for an indefinite period, and will conduct it in the future. Mr. Parker states that he is prepared to give the best of accommodations at reasonable rates, and that he will pay particular attention to the business. He says that he expects to run a clean place, and will allow no rowdyism or any other kind of disorderly conduct. He is getting numerous new boats, both power and row boats, teams, and other new material. He proposes to advertise the place this year for the future trade, and he hopes to bring many substantial people into this section to spend their summers. Wabana is fourteen and one-third miles from Grand Rapids, and there is a good road all the way.

GIVE OPERETTA.

Grand Rapids High School Cast Presents "Sylvia" Creditably.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The operetta "Sylvia" was very creditably presented in the high school auditorium by the local high school last evening under the direction of Miss Vogel, with Miss Telda Roecker as accompanist. There was a large audience and all the participants acquitted themselves admirably, Wayne Gilbert as Prince Tobbytum, baritone, winning repeated encomiums. The cast follows:

Sir Bertram de Lacey (tenor), Robert Gilbert; Prince Tobbytum (baritone), Wayne Gilbert; William (bass), John Benton; Robin, Rellis Wright; Sylvia (soprano), Mabel Thompson; Betty (alto), Vona Claus; Polly, Molly and Dolly, farmers' daughters, Mildred Shipman, Evangeline Peterson and Beulah Nesbitt; Arabella and Araminta, court ladies, Bertha Durand and Margaret O'Connell.

VIRGINIA CARD PARTY.

Mrs. F. C. Whiting Entertains Large Number of People.

Virginia, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. F. C. Whiting was hostess at a card party on Wednesday evening at which nearly fifty people were present, including many from out of town. Bridge and flinch were played at eight tables and an elegant lunch was served.

The table decorations were Easter lillies.

Among the guests from out of town were Mrs. Emmett of St. Paul, Mrs. Trumbull, Mrs. Al. G. Flournoy, who is from Washington, Mrs. Edward Parmalee and Mrs. Fred Parmalee of Iron Mountain, Mich.

The flinch prize was won by Mrs. Edward Parmalee and the bridge prize by Mrs. E. F. Johnson.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Atkins, for several years local agent for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, left yesterday on a 60-day leave of absence. During his absence he will probably visit points as far west as Phoenix, Ariz. Jacob Schmid is agent in Mr. Atkins' absence.

Daniel Haley of Duluth was here Wednesday on business connected with the Trout Lake Lumber company.

Anton Erickson will move his stock of liquor and cigars to the room in the Vermilion hotel generally used as a bar.

N. J. Benson returned Wednesday evening from a few days' sojourn at Duluth.

CHISHOLM WILL REOPEN SCHOOLS

Embargo Against Children Being at Large Has Been Revoked.

Chisholm, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The scarlet fever epidemic is believed to be subsiding and conditions have improved to such an extent that Dr. Schmidt, health officer, has revoked the order preventing children from leaving their homes and going about the streets.

No new cases of the malady have developed in many days and except for a few straggling cases none is expected. Every family suffering from the fever is of course, under quarantine, but so effective are the applications of germ destroying chemicals that little danger, if not all, is eliminated.

Prof. Vaughan, head of the schools, also announces that the schools which were closed because of the epidemic will be reopened next Monday and there is great joy on all sides.

Bar Quarantined Pupils.

No pupil coming from a family that has been under quarantine will be received at the schools at present as there is always danger of contamination until sufficient time has elapsed to preclude any possibility of a repetition of the epidemic.

Since being closed the school buildings, desks, floors and all materials used by the scholars and teachers have been fumigated and washed with an antiseptic solution until all chances of contagion have been removed.

While the schools were closed Prof. Vaughan visited St. Cloud, Winona and Madison, Wis., seeking proficient teachers. At Duluth Prof. Vaughan secured the services of Miss Tressa Beatty, a graduate nurse of ability.

Miss Beatrice Smithson of New London, who has been engaged to take the fourth grade at the Lincoln school, is also a young lady of ability, having a reputation second to none as a high class teacher.

Miss Ida Thompson of Owen, Wis., has been engaged to take charge of the third and fourth grades of the Meyers school. Miss Thompson is an highly accomplished young lady and has been chosen for her ability to impart knowledge to her charges.

RABIES SCARE NEAR HIBBING

Dogs in Morton and Leetonia Locations Are Ordered Muzzled.

Hibbing, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The health department has ordered an investigation of reported cases of rabies among dogs at the Leetonia and Morton locations. The The head of an animal killed yesterday has been ordered sent to the state university by Dr. Adams, chairman of the health board, for examination. Police officers report that dogs at the locations have been acting strangely for some time.

Child Severely Bitten.

A child at the Morton was severely bitten by an animal about two weeks ago that was afterward shot. All dogs at both locations have been ordered muzzled and any exhibiting symptoms of developing the disease will be promptly dispatched. The Oliver police killed a number of dogs at both locations yesterday.

VIRGINIA SENDS $150.

Liberal Citizens Raise and Wire Money to Ohio Sufferers.

Virginia, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia has contributed $150 to the destitute in the flooded districts of Ohio. Mayor M. A. Murphy wired Governor Cox yesterday afternoon to draw on the city for that amount. The mayor's action was prompted by a conclusion arrived at by the directors of the Virginia Commercial club at a special meeting called by F. E. Lister, president. The directors were of unanimous opinion that Virginia should send by wire $150. The people of this city are mindful of the fact that on two occasions when fire devastated the town in 1893 and again in 1900 that prompt relief in the way of food and shelter came as fast as trains could carry them from the outside.

Seeks Range Location.

Chisholm, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. C. Rugg, who is connected with a Minneapolis business college, was here this week. He is looking for a location for a branch of the college.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—that is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too. If you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◔ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

Spring seems to have a firmer grip on the situation today, and inroads are being made on the snow heaps. If this keeps up, the lamb will certainly have charge of the close of March. More fair, mild weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow. Beautiful spring weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:55 and it will set at 6:31 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Further rains fell over the Ohio valley and Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours. The rains over Ohio were light. The river gage at Louisville this morning registered 38.4 feet, 10.4 feet above the danger line. Much colder weather prevails in the above mentioned districts. Throughout the West and Northwest the temperature has risen decidedly. The disturbance overlying Alberta has increased in intensity. During the last twenty-four hours rains resulted in Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Conditions favor moderate temperature in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, March 28.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled weather with probably rain or snow tonight or Saturday; rising temperature.

Wisconsin and Iowa—Cloudy tonight and Saturday; rising temperature.

Minnesota and North Dakota—Cloudy with probably local rains or snows tonight or Saturday; warmer tonight.

South Dakota—Overcast tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight.

Montana—local rains or snows tonight or Saturday.

HIBBING MASONS TO IMPROVE HOME

Plans on Foot for Making Lodge Building One of Best.

Hibbing, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mesaba Lodge No. 255, A. F. & A. M., is having plans drawn for additions and improvements to its present property at the corner of Third avenue and Mahoning street which are estimated to cost about $10,000, and when completed, will give that section of the city one of the finest business blocks and lodge halls on the Mesaba range. Bray & Nystrom, Duluth architects, are preparing the plans.

Preliminary sketches were submitted to the lodge building committee yesterday, and it is expected the completed plans will be ready in a short time. The building will be extended back from its present rear to the alley between Third and Fourth avenues. The front will be entirely remodeled and a copper cornice will be put in all around. On the ground floor there will be a storeroom 32 by 125 feet, while on the second floor will be located the lodgerooms, a banquet hall and kitchen, with convenient anterooms and everything necessary to make one of the neatest lodge homes in this section.

The work will be done during the coming summer. There are a number of applications already for the first floor from different business concerns. It will be one of the best lighted and most convenient in town.

TOURNAMENT TO BE NEXT AUGUST

Iron Range Firemen's Association to Have Meet at Gilbert.

Gilbert, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dance given Monday evening by the Schley and Gilbert fire departments for the benefit of the tournament funds was well attended and a social success. The date of the tournament has been set for Aug. 18, 19 and 20.

Several of the outside teams have already entered and much interest is being taken in the tournament which promises to be the best and biggest amateur tournament ever pulled off on the range. The names of the new organization is the Iron Range Firemen's association. The fact that Gilbert is now on the Mesaba electric road is a factor which argues much for the success of the affair.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Is Celebrated By a Venerable Two Harbors Couple.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first known fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration ever held in this city took place here last evening when about 100 relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sven Benson enjoyed a grand celebration of their golden wedding which was held at the Norwegian Lutheran church. The old couple were honored with many gifts from their numerous friends, the principal gift was a purse of gold. The presentation was made by Rev. K. P. Carlson, pastor of the church. Mr. Benson responded to the presentation speech in a very able manner. Mr. and Mrs. Benson are old residents of this city and very highly respected by all who know them. Mr. and Mrs. Benson are the parents of five children, only one of whom was able to attend the anniversary, all the others residing so far away that it was impossible for them to attend. The daughter who attended was Mrs. Laura Aajesen, from Polk county, Wis.

FIRST AID CLASS GIVEN POINTERS

Republic Iron & Steel Men at Gilbert Posted on Their Work.

Gilbert, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First Aid society of the Republic Iron & Steel company's employes at Gilbert met Wednesday afternoon with Drs. More and Strathern in attendance. The work consists of lectures on the physiology and structure of the body and the relationship of the various parts. The effects of fractures, burns cuts and the various accidents which are likely to occur and is illustrated with charts and photographs and X-ray pictures.

The class is divided into groups who practice the various dressings and first aid practices, with one of the group as a subject. This work is being carried on with interest and the men are becoming proficient. In many cases the results of the first aid work will determine the success of the treatment of the injury so that his instruction will be productive of much good. The Oliver Mining company employes also meet regularly once a week and receive instruction from Dr. Connor.

The work which may be called general welfare work now being carried on by the Republic Iron & Steel company is divided into three classes. First aid, mine rescue work and prevention of accidents.

Squads in Various Mines.

The mine rescue work has been carried on for some time. The are squads in the various mines, who are drilled regularly in the use of the Draiger helmet and pulmotor. The latter is a device for promoting artificial respiration and has been the means of saving many lives. It is useful in drowning accidents, electric shock and gas asphyxiation. The prevention of accidents consists in the use of safety appliances wherever practicable in order to prevent accidents occurring. Also a regular system of inspection is maintained to see if improvements can be made in safety appliances, to see if the safety regulations are enforced and to bring to mind constantly the fact that carelessness and neglect will not remain undetected.

Gray Hair Made Dark

If You Want to Darken It, This Sample Formula Will Do It Nicely.

There are few people in this world who are satisfied with gray hair—when it appears in their own dark locks. Most of us want to get rid of it, and this simple recipe, which can be readily made up at home, is about the surest, most satisfying means that could possibly be employed to change the gray locks to a soft, nice, glossy brown. To 7 ozs. of water add one small box of Barbo Compound, one oz. of bay rum and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can supply the ingredients at little cost and you can do your own mixing. Apply it to the gray hair or beard once a week until the desired dark shade is obtained, then once every two weeks will be sufficient. It is equally as meritorious for removing dandruff and other ills of the scalp and for promoting the growth of the hair. You will be highly pleased when you see how admirably this simple mixture will eradicate the traces of age in your hair and how free it is from the objectionable features of the ordinary dyes, stains, etc.

VIRGINIAN HAS VERY CLOSE CALL.

Virginia, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Dave Larsen of the Bijou theater narrowly escaped serious injury and possibly death Wednesday afternoon when several huge icicles fell from the roof of the building.

Mr. Larsen was engaged in throwing in some wood in the back entrance of the theater building, when he noticed some enormous masses of ice hanging from the coping just over his head, and he had barely stepped out of the way when the whole mass fell.

The weight of the frozen mass that came down is probably something over half a ton, and had the manager been caught beneath its jagged edges, death might have been the result.

INJURED CONDUCTOR GETTING ON NICELY.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conductor Ratford of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway, who was injured in a head-on collision on that road last week, and who was brought to the Two Harbors hospital for medical care, is getting along very nicely and expects to be discharged from the hospital in a few days.

John Hawkins, a lumberjack who was picked up here a few days ago, on Tuesday was adjudged insane by judge of probate. The demented man was taken to Fergus Falls on Tuesday night by Sheriff Nelson.

Sent Home By Friends.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Gustifson left the city on Tuesday for Sweden where he expects to make his future home with relatives. Gustifson has been employed in the local shops, but owing to his health he was forced to resign his position about a year ago. His return to his old home in the old country was made possible by his many friends, who raised a purse for him to pay his passage and expenses.

Two Harbors K. P. Smoker.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Knights of Pythias held an open house and smoker after regular meeting last night at which about fifty members and friends attended. A short musical entertainment was had after which cards were played and a general good time was enjoyed. Luncheon was served about 11 o'clock. The lodge will give a dance on the evening of April 11. Invitations are already out for the affair.

One pill after each meal will quickly build up the health run down by worry, overwork or any unusual drain on the system. One box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contains two weeks' treatment.

You need exactly this tonic treatment when you are debilitated, easily tired, have weak back, lack appetite and are unable to sleep.

Take one pill after each meal and soon a better appetite, new energy and refreshing sleep will show that your system is being toned up, that you are being restored to health.

The booklet, "Building Up the Blood," is free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at all druggists for 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, or direct by mail, postpaid, by the

Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BIG SEASON'S CUT.

Colvin & Robb Have About Completed Their Work for Winter.

Biwabik, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colvin & Robb Lumber company has about completed its season's cut and has had a very successful winter. It has shipped from its two camps, one located west of this city and one at Summit, to its sawmill at Fairbank's station on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, about twenty-five cars of logs per day. The Colvin & Robb Lumber company is one of the few companies using a steam log hauler, which is capable of doing the work of twelve teams. During the winter it has had employed at its camps more than 100 men.

Duluth Man Lectures.

Hibbing, Minn., March 28.—"The Popes and Science" was the subject of an interesting lecture by Fred Wolfe of Duluth before Hibbing council, Knights of Columbus, at K. C. hall in McGorrick institute last evening.

Lumberjack Breaks Arm.

Coleraine, Minn., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Griffin, who is employed in Henry Volke's camp on Reilly lake, has been brought to a local hospital to be treated for a broken arm, sustained when a tree fell on him.

MILL CITY POLICE ARREST SUSPECT.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—A man, declared by the police to be Dr. J. A. Guthrie, known to the police from the Atlantic to the Pacific as one of the cleverest forgers in the country, was arrested here yesterday by local detectives. He is held in jail awaiting the arrival of the chief of police of Fort Madison, Iowa, where it is claimed Guthrie is wanted on charges of conducting a fraudulent advertising scheme and passing forged checks to the amount of more than $3,000. The police say that Guthrie has served prison sentences in Missouri, Arkansas and Iowa.

Jewish Farmers in North Dakota.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Statistics on file with the North Dakota Development league here show that there are now 7,500 Jewish families on farms in the United States, having a total of 37,000 Jews engaged in agriculture. North Dakota stands fourth in Jewish farmers, there being several colonies of them in the western part of the state.

BACKACHE A WARNING ALL SHOULD HEED

It Is One of the First Signs of Kidney Troubles, If Neglected, Serious Diseases Follow.

No one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly and keep the blood pure. When they become clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with diseagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired, and feel all worn-out; puffy swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for the prompt cure of all such troubles than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

SUES SALOON PROPRIETORS

Wife Assaulted By Intoxicated Husband Wants $1,260 Damages.

Says She Warned Defendants Not to Sell Husband Liquor.

Following in the footsteps of the Rensaa case, an action recently tried in district court in which a jury established a saloonkeeper's liability to wives and widows of their patrons, comes another case in which a Cloquet saloon partnership is held to account for selling liquor to a blacklisted husband who, it is claimed, obtained liquor, got drunk and came home and assaulted his wife. It is on trial today before Judge Ensign and a jury.

The case is one in which John Johnson and William Waters, doing business as Johnson & Co., Cloquet saloonkeepers, are made defendants and Virginia Vaillancourt is plaintiff. Mrs. Vaillancourt states in her complaint that on Nov. 28, 1911, she served notice on the saloonkeeper plaintiffs not to sell intoxicating liquors to her husband, Eli Vaillancourt, who she says was an habitual drunkard.

Not heeding the notice, she claims that on Nov. 16, last, Eli came home and thrashed her. She claims that he previously acquired a "fighting jag" of good proportions at the Johnson dispensary. She asks $1,000 for the beating and $260 for loss of support during the time that Eli was recovering from the effects of the squirrel stuff.

In their answer, Johnson Bros. assert that if Mrs. Vaillancourt suffered any damages from her husband's habits it was because she had knowingly and voluntarily encouraged them and had consented to them. They deny any liability.

Mrs. Vaillancourt in reply denies that she ever consented to her husband's demonstrations last November. Her attorneys are McCoy & Hanson.

FRANKLIN SCHOOL TONIGHT!

A talk on the issues of the campaign. EVERYBODY WELCOME—COME. Regular meeting of Hillside Improvement Club.

NEW THEATER FOR DULUTH

Handsome New Structure Is Planned for First Street Corner.

Odeum and Lyric Theaters Will Also Be Combined.

There will soon be a new theater in Duluth. It will be a theater de luxe in the way of moving pictures, and its constructor and owner will be Thomas Furniss, who now owns and manages the Odeum and the Lyric theaters on West Superior street near First avenue west.

Mr. Furniss has elaborate plans and has in view what will be, undoubtedly, the largest moving picture house in the Northwest. It will be thoroughly fireproof, and while he is not ready to give out the details, he admits that the project is in the way of being consummated. The building will be 60 feet wide and 97 feet deep from wall to wall and, Mr. Furniss claims, will be the best moving picture house in not only Minnesota but the entire Northwest. The stage will be arranged so that when it seems necessary it can be converted into a theater to play vaudeville, burlesque or regular dramatic attractions. But that will require developments.

The property which will be occupied by the new theater is that at the southeast corner of Second avenue west and First street, on part of which Kendall's barn used to be. Mr. Furniss has taken a long lease on this property and is about to form a corporation for the purpose of building on this property and also consolidating the Lyric and Odeum theaters into one house.

His interests are large in the theatrical line, and as he said this morning, he has his forces organized to the degree that he feels safe in extending his business. In a week or two he will be ready to give particulars about the project.

APPEAL FOR CLOTHING MADE

Associated Charities Has Many Demands It Cannot Meet.

The Associated Charities has issued an appeal for children's clothing.

Owing to the continued winter weather, the supply which the organization has had on hand, has become exhausted and it has been unable to meet the demands which have come in recently from all quarters.

All kinds and varieties of children's clothing are acceptable.

This week, according to Secretary Dinwiddie, a rather pitiful appeal reached the office from a family of twelve children, the oldest 17. It was reported that most of the youngsters were in rags. The case was given special attention.

Those having clothing to give away would be doing a charitable act by calling the Associated Charities, Grand 2444, at the courthouse.

ONE FLASH OF WILD RAGE

May Result in a Life Sentence for Peter Perelli.

Prisoner Did Not Intend to Seriously Injure Michael Lenovitch.

Losing control of his temper in a momentary fit of rage will probably result in making Peter Perelli spend the balance of his life behind prison bars.

Because Michael Lenovitch, another inmate of the poor farm, called him "Macaroni," he struck him over the head. Perelli didn't dream for an instant that he would seriously injure Lenovitch. But the blow inflicted in a wild minute of anger fractured the skull and Lenovitch died within the hour. It was Perelli's misfortune to find a dangerous weapon in the shape of a cuspidor during the instant that his anger lasted.

Perelli is 67 years old and at headquarters yesterday he told Capt. Fiskett, a countryman, that he had never been arrested before in his life. He came to this country about twelve years ago and as far as known his only living relative in the world is a son in Italy. The aged man, now awaiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of murder in the first degree, has worked from place to place in many states. He finally made his way to Minnesota and the iron ranges. Becoming a sufferer from chronic asthma he was sent to the poor farm from a range town, arriving there the last time Jan. 9 of this year. He had been at the institution several times before, but remained for but a few weeks.

Lenovitch, the dead man, was about 50 years old. He claimed to be younger, but his appearance did not bear out his statements. He could neither read nor write any language and had no knowledge of the year in which he was born. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford, where an inquest is being conducted this afternoon under the direction of Coroner McComb.

The killing took place in a corridor of the poor farm near the reading room Wednesday afternoon. Lenovitch and a number of other men were sitting on benches in the corridor. Perelli was working in the engine room. As he passed through the corridor Lenovitch called him "Macaroni." He grabbed up the cuspidor but set it down without throwing it. When he returned it is claimed that Lenovitch again called him by his nickname. Flying into a rage he grabbed the heavy iron spittoon and struck Lenovitch on the head with it. Lenovitch collapsed and sank to the floor. He was immediately picked up. That he was fatally injured was not believed, but he passed away in an hour. Perelli quietly submitted to arrest. He was confined in the insane ward until the arrival of Patrolman Peter Barber, who removed him to police headquarters. In police court yesterday Perelli admitted that he had struck the blow which caused Lenovitch's death. He waived examination and was bound over to await the action of the next grand jury.

$1,000 LICENSE FEE.

Expected to Be In Force in Newberry, Mich.

Newberry, Mich., March 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—One thousand dollars is the sum that local saloon keepers will be required to pay for their red cards this spring if an ordinance to be introduced at the next meeting of the village council is enacted. Last May when the number of saloons was reduced in accordance with the Warner-Cramton law, it was expected that the price of the licenses would be increased, but the council was advised it was without authority. Village Trustee Beurmann recently took up the matter with the attorney general and was informed the council has power to raise the license fee to any reasonable amount and Mr. Beurmann will accordingly father a resolution to raise the price to $1,000. The bill is expected to pass.

U. C. T. NOTICE

Superior

Bayfield Delegation.

A party of citizens from Bayfield arrived in Superior this morning and were the guests of local business men at a banquet at the Commercial club this noon. This afternoon ways and means were to be discussed on the building of the proposed highway from Superior to Ashland.

Leaves for Convention.

W. E. Maddock, superintendent of schools, left yesterday for Milwaukee, where he will attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Suptrintendents and Principals' association. Carl Beck, a social center head, is scheduled to address the convention tomorrow afternoon.

Leave It to Voters.

The following question will be put before the voters of the city at the election next Tuesday, just to see the popularity of the Linley bill now before the state legislature: "Do you favor a law giving the right to take over and operate the street railway immediately?" The bill now pending would give all municipalities this right.

Indoor Meet.

Over 100 boys of the Blaine school participated in an indoor field meet in the school gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Several interesting events were run off. A girls' meet will be held Monday afternoon.

Miss Schnittger Winner.

Miss Gretchen Schnittger last evening won first prize in the girls' declamatory contest at the Nelson-Dewey high school. Miss Schnittger will also represent the school in the annual division contest to be held here on April 11.

Oratorical Contest.

Six boys will participate in the annual oratorical contest to be held this evening at the Superior high school. The winner will represent the school at the western division contest to be held next month at Hayward.

QUESTIONED AS TO CORRESPONDENCE

The Government Wants to Know What Is Meant in Letters.

Chicago, March 28.—Albert C. Frost, who with four others is on trial before Federal Judge Landis, charged with defrauding the government out of Alaskan coal lands valued at $10,000,000, was questioned today concerning correspondence between himself and the other defendants regarding the claims. In one letter, dated March, 1905, Henry C. Osborne, who fled to Canada, after he was indicted, wrote to Mr. Frost that he believed it wise that a number of coal claims be secured by interests friendly to the railroad.

"If we are certain of our claims we need not be worried," wrote Mr. Osborne. "Mr. Pollard should see to it that some coal claims are located, and I think that this can be done without making any noise about it."

"What do you imagine Mr. Osborne meant by saying this might be done without making any noise about it?" asked Attorney Fink, representing Frost.

"My understanding was that he meant we might do it without O. G. Laberee's hearing of our movement. He was in opposition to us, and we did not want him to know what we were doing."

"You didn't mean, then, that you were going to take out claims so that the government should not know about it?"

"By no means. The government would have to be the first to know about it."

Other letters were then introduced and the witness was questioned as to their meaning. Special Assistant Attorney General E. D. Townsend objected to this line of examination by the defense, saying that the contents of the letters spoke for themselves. This objection, however, was overruled by Judge Landis, and the reading of the letters continued.

SAYS POVERTY IS UNNECESSARY

Paul H. Castle, a member of the Socialist Lyceum and formerly in the ministry, lectured before a large audience last evening before the Finnish Working People's college at Smithville.

He said in part: "The basis of industrial unrest is economic slavery, better known as the labor qustion, or the confliot between capital and labor. Th old notion of some capitalists that the interests of investor and working man are identical is untrue. They are not identical, they are unequal. The present social system must be judged by its fruits. There is abundant production but only a few get the wealth. The reault is an industrial crisis, bankruptcy and panics, poverty and crime. There is no need of poverty.

"The primary incentive of the capitalist system is profit for the few instead of service for the many. The result is exploitation. Real government should not be an oligarchy of wealth but an industrial democracy. The privileged classes who constantly live off the labor of the working class are a menace to the race and must be eliminated. The evil fruits that the system have produced have long since determined its fate, and the axe of Socialism is laid at the base of the corrupt tree of capitalism and it will be hewn down and cast into the fire. Again we judge the system because it is not equitable—it is wasteful, burning up human lives and producing its annual harvest of woe and misery. Those who do the most get the least. Less than 1 per cent of the people control 70 per cent of the wealth. Economists have agreed that $900 a year is necessary to properly clothe, feed and educate a family. Yet, on an average, only $600 is received. If the working classes must produce the world's wealth, why should they not own some of it? The standpatter, however, still insists that the working class are well paid. Eighty cents out of every dollar is paid by the working class to the employers.

"It will do little good to bust the trusts. The next day after they are 'busted' they seem to have all their old power, and continue the same tactics as before. Electing good men to office seems a plausible answer for the difficulty; but it has been proven that a bad system corrupts good men. It would corrupt angels if they administered it. Philanthrophy is only a temporary expedient. Providing Christmas dinners and the like is only a temporary expedient. Socialism promises good dinners every day, including Christmas for all workers."

Mr. Castle was a former minister, but gave up the profession, because the church, as he said, has no social program. During his professional career he preached in St. Louis and Butte. He was a candidate for congress in Illinois several years ago.

Mr. Castle was a guest yesterday of Prof. Sirola, president of the college.

FIRE SUBDUED BY VOLUNTEERS

Workmen Form Brigade and Save Smithville Man's Home.

A volunteer fire brigade of workmen on their way to the steel plant early this morning saved the residence of Christ Mortenson at Smithville.

The fire at the home on Ninety-third avenue broke out about 5:30 o'clock this morning, and shortly after Department No. 8 at West Duluth was notified. The house is about four miles from West Duluth, and the local department had great difficulty in getting out, on account of the bad roads. By the time the firemen arrived, the volunteer brigade had almost completely subdued the flames.

The workmen were on their way to the steel plant when they discovered the fire. They immediately formed a brigade and lined up alongside of the house. Pail after pail of water was passed from one man to another until the fire was put out.

The fire started from an overheated stove pipe and was confined mostly to the upper floor and attic. The loss is estimated at $200, and was caused mostly by the water.

Easter Cantata.

The Asbury quartet of the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, will present the Easter cantata, "Redeemer and King," at the church Sunday evening. The members of the quartet are: Miss Eva McLyman, soprano; Miss Daisy McLyman, alto; Ray Abbott, tenor; and Byron Brooks, bass. Miss Maude Gilbert is accompanist.

The following program of selections will be rendered during the evening:
Quartet—"The Light Is Come"
Duet for soprano and contralto—"The Lord Shall Comfort Zion"
Soprano solo—"How Beautiful Upon the Mountains"
Baritone and soprano solos and quartet—"And There Were Shepherds"
Duet for soprano and contralto—"The Song of the Angels"
Baritone solo—"O Thou Who By a Star Didst Guide"
Quartet—"Sing, O Ye Heavens"
Tenor solo—"Seek Ye the Lord"
Soprano solo and quartet—"Hail, Redeemer and King"

Want Road Completed.

The completion of the Getchell road will be taken up at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening. Owing to the election next Tuesday very little business will be taken up by the club during the evening. It is probable that the meeting will be adjourned early in the evening.

Candidates Speak.

J. C. Wesenberg, John Hogan and A. M. Belfany, candidates for commissioner, spoke last evening to the members of Fram lodge No. 5, Sons of Norway, at the Commercial clubrooms, 315 Central avenue. L. A. Simonson gave a short talk in which he explained the preferential voting plan. Following the addresses the members of the lodge enjoyed a smoker.

MARRIED MEN BETTER CURLERS

Win Annual Contest—Wade Senior Wallops His Son.

Married men are better curlers than bachelors, if the contest at the Western Curling club last evening may be taken as a test.

Three games were played between rinks composed of married men and bachelors, and the former won a complete victory. The total was 31 to 25. One of the interesting games of the evening was between Frank H. Wade and his son, Richard F. Wade, the former finally winning out by the score to 10 to 8, although the younger curler several times threatened his veteran father.

The scores follow:

Married Men—		Bachelors—
Wade, Sr.	10	Wade, Jr.	8
Zauft	9	Sullivan	7
Brown	12	Quinn	10
Total	31	Total	25

The contest last evening closed the season for the local club and from now on only practice games will be played. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held a week from Tuesday evening, when plans will also be made for the tenth annual banquet and dance to be held at the Dormedy hall late in April.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ENTERTAINMENT.

The annual St. Patrick's day entertainment of the St. Clement's Catholic church was held last evening at the Great Eastern hall, 210 Central avenue. The large hall was packed, not a single seat remaining after the entertainment started. The features of the program were a four-act comedy, "A Noble Outcast," an address by Ray M. Hughes and vocal solos by Mrs. Leo Ball and Capt. George Mahon.

Sixty Grade Teachers in Marquette Ask for Salary Raise.

Marquette, Mich., March 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board of Marquette is facing a critical situation, brought about by a demand from sixty grade teachers of the public schools for a raise of 30 per cent in salary. These instructors are now drawing from $45 to $67.50 a month. Averaging the wages at $60 a month, the request for higher remuneration amounts to approximately $10,000 a year. The teachers maintain that the high cost of living has forced them to ask financial consideration from the board.

NEW GROCERY OPENS DOORS FOR BUSINESS SATURDAY MORNING

Formal Opening of John E. Lundmark and Chas. Franson's "DULUTH CASH SUPPLY COMPANY" at 316-318 East Superior Street Occurs Tomorrow.

John E. Lundmark and Charles Franson are again in the grocery business. After being out of that line for something less than a year, these two well-known grocerymen get back into the harness and will hold the formal opening of their new store, "THE DULUTH CASH SUPPLY CO.," at 316 and 318 East Superior Street, tomorrow, Saturday, March 29. Messrs. Lundmark and Franson have been in the grocery business for 22 years, most of that time at their former location at Tenth avenue east and Second street, which they sold last spring, to engage in the real estate business.

"Yes, we are back in the harness again," said Mr. Franson to The Herald. "Real estate is all right, and we made some good deals and have some excellent holdings left, but we are both primarily grocerymen. We know that business best, having been in it for nearly a quarter of a century; and we shall put into practice the knowledge we gained during our long experience to make this the best and most reasonable place in Duluth to buy good groceries. In the first place, we shall have a complete line of the best groceries and canned goods—the brands that have stood the test and made friends by their high uniform qualities. Then our location here affords facilities and conveniences for handling goods with less labor and expense than any other grocery store in Duluth. We are not only handy to the housewife coming down town shopping, but central for deliveries to all parts of the city and to the various depots for range and other out-of-town shipments. Then, too, we can handle our incoming goods in car lots, having a switch at our back door, and we are out of the high rent district of downtown stores. All these things, with our superior arrangements for packing and handling orders, will enable us to sell on a much closer margin, all of which tends to decrease the cost of living to our customers.

"We shall make daily deliveries to all parts of the city and will sell at wholesale in case and dozen lots, and in order further to cut down the overhead cost of doing business, will sell on a strictly cash basis. We do this because we find that a vast majority of people prefer to pay cash and thus practically discount their own grocery bills.

"Tomorrow we shall hold open house to all our former friends and customers. Souvenirs and samples will be given to those who attend, while they last. We will start regular daily deliveries to all parts of the city Monday, March 31. A feature of our system will include a new auto delivery truck, thus enabling us to reach Woodland, Lakeside, Duluth Heights, West end and West Duluth every day.

"We cordially invite everybody to visit our new store and become familiar with the methods which will be employed here to reduce the high cost of living."

GROCERIES AT WHOLESALE

THE OLD WAY:
Manufacturers sell to jobbers, jobbers sell to retailers, and retailers sell to consumers.

THE NEW WAY:
Manufacturers sell to Barthe-Martin Company, who sell direct to consumers.

We eliminate the retailer. The retailer's cost of doing business runs from 20 to 30 per cent, in other words we are saving you 20 to 30 per cent on all groceries you buy from us.

WHEAT PRICE HAS REBOUND

Reaction Partly Wipes Out Slump of the Previous Session.

Demand for Flaxseed Is Still Dull and Price Goes Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 28.—Wheat worked higher on the markets of North America today, in spite of the generally dull demand, as there was some reactionary feeling after the big slump of yesterday. Duluth May wheat closed ½c higher. Cash wheat closed 1½ to 2c under May. Durum closed ½c higher, oats ¼c up and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed ½c off and July ⅜c off.

Wheat worked higher on the markets of North America today, although the general situation was bearish. The upturn seemed simply to be due to a reactionary feeling, on account of the big slump that took place yesterday. Primary receipts were still away ahead of those of a year ago, although elevator companies in most parts of the country are not encouraging the country holders of wheat to ship it to the markets, because the demand is so slack, and elevator room is not abundant in any of the big markets, while in some of them it is scarcely to be had at any price. The rise that took place this morning was not nearly large enough to offset the slump that occurred yesterday.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 86⅛c asked, opened today at the same figure bid, and at noon was quoted at 86⅜c asked. There were also higher quotations at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Liverpool and most of the other European markets closed higher today.

Flax Goes Lower.

There was a new slump in flaxseed today. Offers were liberal on the Duluth market and the demand was very slack. The crushers were not at all eager to buy, a sliseed oil sales have been very slow. The cash price at Minneapolis at noon today was 2c under the Duluth May price. Duluth May seed at noon today was ¾c off and July ½c off. Winnipeg May seed at noon today was ⅝c off at $1.10½, being 15¼c under Duluth May.

Foreign closing cables: Liverpool—Wheat, unchanged to ⅛d higher; corn, ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower. Paris—Wheat, March, 8c higher; May and June, 1¾c higher; flour, 15c to 2¼c higher. Berlin—Wheat, unchanged. Budapest—Wheat, ¼c higher. Antwerp—Wheat, ⅝c lower.

It is likely that the Duluth Board of Trade will be closed on Tuesday on account of the city election. A petition for this close was circulated among the members today and a vote will probably be taken tomorrow. The Chicago Board of Trade will be closed on the same day.

The Modern Miller says: The general conditions of winter wheat were not impaired by storms. There will be a loss of acreage in Indiana and Ohio as a result of floods in low lands. The wind storm didn't materially affect wheat. Reports generally indicate a good stand. Seeding of oats is likely to be a little late. Little plowing has been done for corn."

The Itasca Elevator company is having ice cut on the Superior side of the bay to bring the freighter, Wallace, under the spouts of the elevator to receive grain. The Wallace will hold about 250,000 bu. The Itasca elevator has lately been relieved to some extent by considerable all-rail shipments of grain to the East.

• • •

The Consolidated Elevator company is planning on cutting ice to bring the freighter, John Dunn, Jr., under its elevator spouts on the Duluth side of the bay. This boat will hold about 350,000 bu of grain.

• • •

Several boats have been chartered to receive grain from various elevators as soon as the ice is sufficiently melted to permit these boats to be brought to the elevators, without the expense of cutting the ice. To move boats any great distance by cutting the ice under present conditions is very expensive, the ice being 3 to 4 feet thick.

• • •

The ore interests have a vast quantity of ore to transport over the Lakes as soon as navigation opens. If the opening of navigation should be quite late, the grain interests may be seriously handicapped in getting enough boats to give the elevators the needed relief.

• • •

E. F. Benson of the Minneapolis grain commission house of Benson-Newhouse-Stabeck company was a guest on the Duluth grain exchange today. Mr. Benson said the elevator companies of Minneapolis were still able to increase their storage of grain as they possessed many old wooden elevators, which, though not by any means modern, could be put to good use for the relief of the newer ones. He said grain kept coming into Minneapolis faster than it was consumed and shipped away, and the stocks on hand kept growing larger. Still the receipts were diminishing, and there had been quite a noticeable falling off in the last ten days. Farmers were not sending their grain to the market in very large quantities, because they were dissatisfied with prevailing prices. Most of the farmers were well enough off so that they could afford to hold their grain, and the receipts for that reason were falling off, though there were still large quantities of grain through the country. He thought many of the farmers would hold much of their grain into the new crop year.

The Chicago Paint Oil and Drug Review says:

"In linseed oil there is no change that can be reported, although there was a slight tendency to weakness in prices. The flaxseed market at Duluth last week continued fairly strong, there only being a slight fluctuation within ⅛c a pound either way. Only the customary business is being done according to the season of the year, and but little interest appears to be shown in present conditions. Whatever interest is shown is entirely toward the future.

"The market closed with a fairly strong undertone on Monday of this week with raw oil at 42c in Chicago.

"The linseed cake market continues to be in a very bad state and but little business is being done. The cake market ranges from $21 to $22 in Minneapolis, according to circumstances, with meal at about $25 at the same point. It is unlikely conditions will improve for some time."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Lightness of Offerings and Firmness of Cables Sends Wheat Up.

Chicago, March 28.—Lightness of offerings of wheat and firmness of cables today sent the wheat market up. The opening was ⅜c to ½@⅝c higher. May, which started with a rush of ⅝c to ½ at 89¾@89¾c, advanced to 90c. Advices that there is big demand for wheat in all European countries helped strengthen the market.

The market became very dull in the last half of the session, both sides apparently being unwilling to take the initiative after May had touched 90¼c. For the first time in months there were periods of ten minutes without a trade. The close was quiet at a net gain of ⅝c for May, which finished at 89⅞c.

Delayed farm work, bad roads and crippled transportation facilities lifted corn. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 53@53⅛c to 53⅜c and rose to 53⅝c.

In sympathy with wheat, corn became very dull. The market closed heavy with May at 52⅞@53c, a net loss of ⅛c.

Fair commisson house buying carried oats up a little. May, which started unchanged to a shade higher at 33⅛c to 33⅛@33⅜c, seemed inclined to hold within that range.

Purchases of May pork by shorts was a feature of the provision market, which opened unchanged to 5c higher. Figures at the beginning for May options were: Pork, $20.60; lard, $11.10 to $11.12½, and ribs, $11.27½.

MINING STOCKS ARE BULLISH

Although the telegraph service with the East was still very poor today and very few quotations of the Eastern stock markets were received, enough news is enough to show very conclusively that the session was a very bullish one on the stock exchanges of all kinds of mining stocks participated in the general upward trend. The general stock market of New York was very strong at the close. Amalgamated closed at an advance or nearly $1.50. There were also good gains in Calumet & Arizona, North Butte and Butte & Superior. The feature of the Duluth curb market today was again the strength and activity of Red Warrior, which was due to recent favorable reports from the mining property and the support of certain new interests that have taken hold of the stock. The close was made at 90 cents bid.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The market is somewhat better in tone. The bulk of clearance, however, is made up of retail orders for general purpose farm horses and mares, for shipment to Minnesota, Dakota and Montana points. Today's receipts were the heaviest this month, including 150 head of extra quality draft horses and drafty mares. Shipments were made to Bowman, N.
